NOT JUST AS GOOD

Did you ever inquire at a store for certain articles and get for a reply "We have something just as good"? Did it ever occur to you that "Something just as good" is something the dealer has been able to buy much cheaper than the articles you inquire for? This is true in drugs, fabrics, groceries, hardware, and in fact every line, including silver-plated ware. If you inquire for 1847 Rogers Bros.' Knives, Forks or Spoons, don't accept any bogus Rogers' stamp because your dealer tells you it's just as good.

1847 ROGERS BROS. TRADE MARK

The above trade mark has been stamped on every article of the original and genuine Rogers Bros.' goods for over 50 years. Get this and you get the best that is made.

THE FRANKS MURDER.

Mrs. Office Saw a Stranger Lurking Around Evening Preceding Murder.

Niagara Falls, Sept. 30.—Coroner McGarry resumed the inquest touching the death of Mrs. Franks of Chippewa yesterday and the Crown was represented by T. D. Cowper of Welland. Drs. McGarry and Gray submitted a report of the autopsy, which described, in detail, the wounds which caused the unfortunate woman's death. The doctors also testified that there were evidences of a criminal assault.

Other witnesses were examined but the only new light thrown upon the tragedy was in the evidence of Mrs. James Office, who swore she saw a stranger lurking around the house of Mrs. Franks on the evening preceding the murder. She described the man, and said he left two other men some distance down the stone road, which leads to Drummondville. On the night of the murder she heard three distinct bangs from the direction of Mrs. Franks' house.

Constable Lymburger corroborates the statement of Mrs. Office, as far as the stranger is concerned, for he saw the man on the street and told him to leave the town, because he did not like his appearance and demeanor.

Mrs. Office lives about 400 feet east of the house in which Mrs. Franks was murdered.

At the afternoon session of the inquest Crown Attorney Cowper asked to have the inquest adjourned until Tuesday, Oct. 7, which was granted.

A WELLAND MERCHANT.

He Says he is now Feeling Better Than he has for Many Years.

An Open Letter in Which a Prominent Citizen Gives a Strong Recommendation for Dodd's Kidney Pills, a Remedy Which He Says Restored Him to Good Health.

Welland, Ont., Sept. 29.—(Special.) Mr. J. J. Yokom, grocer and provision merchant of this place, has given for publication, an open letter as follows:

"For a year or more I had been ailing with Kidney Trouble in all of its worst forms. I had a very depressed feeing in my head and little or no appetite, a constant feeling of langour, and I became greatly reduced in weight.

"At times I was entirely incapacitated.

"I have spent considerable money in medicines of different kinds but did not get any good results. I also doctored with a physician of vast experience, but got no benefit.

"At last I became discouraged and hopeless of ever being well again. One day by luck I heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and began to use them.

"From the first they seemed to suit my case exactly, and when I had taken five boxes my old trouble had entirely disappeared, and I was feeling better than I had in many years.

"I am now in splendid health and able to stand great exertion, in fact my general health is better than it has been in a long time.

"Since my recovery I have told many others of Dodd's Kidney Pills and how they cured me to stay cured Many of them say it seems impossible and yet they know it is true."

(Signed.) J. J. YOKOM.

Mr. Yokom has been a resident of Welland for years and is known to every man, woman, and child in the town. He was born in the neighbouring township of Crowland, within three miles of his present home, and is known as a man of Christian principles who would not make a statement that would in any way be misleading.

Eczema Easily Cured.

Merrill's System Tonic has cured many cases of blood and skin diseases such as eczema, scrofula, pimples and syphilitic sores, than all other remedies combined. Besides being a most powerful blood purifier it is an excellent tonic and cures by assisting nature to throw off the disease. A fifty cent bottle lasts three weeks. Sold at Ormond and Walsh's.

Kaiser Pardons a Duellist.

Berlin, Sept. 30.—Emperor William has pardoned Lieut. Thieme, who was sentenced to 27 months' imprisonment in a fortress for killing a student named Helf, in a pistol duel, at Jena, in January. The news has been received at Jena with dissatisfaction. The student clubs there protested against forcing Helf to fight one of the best shots in the army.

An Odd Happening.

Iron Mountain, Mich., Sept. 30. — Joseph Koch, a St. Paul Railway fireman, was instantly killed while in the cab near Pemine by a stray bullet piercing his heart. It is supposed the shot was fired by a hunter using a long distance rifle. The body was taken to Green Bay. Koch was 24 years old.

Wiped Out Population.

Manila, Sept. 30.—Cholera threatens to depopulate the Island of Samar. The populations of many of the towns have been heavily reduced through death and the flight of panic-stricken people.

New Picture Moulding.

This is a good time to think of picture framing. We are prepared to show a rare collection of new types of mouldings for pictures. Dainty patterns in golden oak, wax brown, oak and gilt, silver and oak, bone black, etc. Effects to match the furnishings of of your rooms. We give special attention at this season of the year to picture framing, and have the up-to-date facilities for doing perfect matching, etc. A. H. Stratton & Co.

Seats are Going Fast.

Anthony Hope's latest romance, "Rupert of Hentzau," the success of which has far eclipsed that of any other of Mr. Hope's stories, will be seen in the opera house on Thursday night next. Mr. Harry Leighton, who was seen in the same play last season is winning fresh praise this season. This is one of the strongest companies that has ever been seen here and comes very highly recommended. The plan opened on Monday and will soon be completely filled. The price of admission is very low considering this high class attraction. Plan at Ormond and Walsh's drug store.

Musical Recital by Mlle. Deerey, pianist, and Mr. Gilbert Harkie, violinist, assisted by Mrs. A. G. Parker, of Belleville, in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Peterborough, on Tuesday evening, October 7th, at 8 p.m. Admission 25c. m-w-s LATE MRS. PATERSON.

Her Remains Were Laid to Rest on Sunday Last.

The remains of Mrs. Helen Paterson, widow of Walter Paterson, of the Town of Peterborough, tanner who died at Chicago, Ill., at the residence of her son-in-law, Rev. H. Grundy, on Friday, Sept. 26, inst., were laid to rest in the family plot in the Little Lake Cemetery, on Sunday, Sept. 28th. Mr. Grundy accompanied the remains to this town. The Rev. Mr. Campbell, of Lakefield, conducted the funeral services. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Peter Connal, Geo. M. Roger, Alfred Johnson, Samuel Curtis, Benjamin Matthews and Alexander Gillespie.

The deceased, Mrs. Helen Paterson, came to this country in the year 1834 from Glasgow, Scotland, with her mother, Marion Petrie, her elder sister, now Mrs. Pennington Alexander, Sr., of No. 277 Reid street, and her brother, Mr. James Petrie, farmer, of Otonabee, both of whom survive her. The father, John Petrie, arrived here three years before to prepare a home. The ocean passage from Glasgow to Montreal occupied seven weeks, and the journey from Montreal to Peterborough, two weeks. From Cobourg to Rice Lake they travelled in ox cart, and from Rice Lake to Peterborough by small steamer on the Otonabee River. Mr. Petrie and family were among the earliest settlers of the Township of Dummer. The deceased was the second wife of Mr. Walter Paterson, who predeceased her fourteen years. They were married at Peterborough in the year 1853 by the Rev. John M. Roger, Presbyterian minister. The only surviving child of such marriage is Mrs. Marion Grundy, Mrs. Paterson was a consistent Christian and church member from her early womanhood, and passed away at the ripe old age of 84 years and ten months, respected not only by a large circle of relatives and friends, but by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. The funeral was from the residence of her nephew, Mr. Pennington Alexander, electrician, 277 Reid street, town.

For all the men in town—Y.M.C.A. Social To-night, from 8 to 10 o'clock. Special Features.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—The fall fair at Keene takes place to-morrow.

—There will be a special meeting of St. John's Girl's Guild to-night at 8 o'clock.

—Our citizens wouldn't mind the Pennsylvania coal strike if they could strike coal in Peterborough.

—You are invited to call at the new Crystal Block Barber Shop, where you will find a fine assortment of cigars, pipes, tobaccos, cigarettes, etc. W. Morgan, barber. dtf

The success of Miss Ellen Francis, the palmist, at the National Hotel, is phenomenal. Don't neglect to have one of her wonderful readings. All her patrons are delighted. 2d

—A pair of spectacles were lost on Sunday morning between St. Andrew's church and McDonel street by way of Reid street. Will the finder kindly leave the same at this office.

—The Director of Mines in Ontario T. W. Gibson, Toronto, recommends the use of peat in the place of coal. The supply is practically inexhaustible. The product of the Beaverton mine, says the Kingston Whig, sells at $3.75 per ton, and a ton of peat is equal to a cord of wood for heating purposes.

—Rupert of Hentzau, the dramatization of Anthony Hope's great novel of that name, to be presented in the opera house on Thursday night, comes well recommended. The very advertisements in their character suggest a capable company, the same that presented the play in New York, and at the Grand, Toronto. The seats are selling rapidly.

—The stringency of the fuel situation makes dealers stiff. Last night a professional man, whose cheque is good for the price of a small farm, reached home late in the evening to find a wood yard delivery man camped upon his load refusing to deliver his precious half cord ($3.75) till it was paid for. There being no money in the house, the man with the "duet" was waited for.

ASSESSORS WORK IS COMPLETED.

Population of the Town Given as 11,067.

COMPARISON OF FIGURES.

The Amount of Taxable Property and Taxable Income has Apparently Increased During the Year.

The assessors have handed in their rolls giving the assessment of the various wards of the town for the year 1902, and a comparison of the figures with those of last year shows that there has been an increase in population of 470. This is 167 less than the population as given by the Dominion census enumerators in 1901.

The total value of real and personal property and taxable income has apparently increased $66,735.

The number of births is 136 as compared with 124 of last year. The deaths recorded were last year, 61; this year, 8 less, 53.

THE LIFT LOCK.

The Steel Work has not yet Been Commenced—Messrs. Corry & Laverdure.

Messrs. Corry & Laverdure have completed their work on the local section of the Trent Canal, and are now engaged in disposing of their immense plant, which was used in the construction of the lift lock, etc. The plant of Messrs. Corry & Laverdure was a very large one, consisting of all kinds of machinery and appliances used in construction work.

There is considerable water in the canal down as far as the lift lock. It is water that has leaked through the stop gate at the Norwood road, and also surface water; it is being drawn out of the canal by means of a syphon, which runs incessantly, of course.

It is not known exactly when the Dominion Bridge Company will commence their contract of placing the steel work in position. None of it has yet arrived.

SGT. MURPHY BACK.

He and Dr. Blanchard Have Arrived at Halifax—Will be Heartily Welcomed.

Mrs. Michael Murphy, of town, has received a telegram from her husband Sgt. Michael Murphy, who has just arrived at Halifax. He is accompanied by Dr. Blanchard, who was also on service in South Africa. Both gentlemen, it will be remembered, have been on sick leave for some time, Sgt. Murphy having undergone a critical surgical operation on his skull. Both soldiers are heroes of the Hart's River engagement and it is the intention of the local volunteers to tender the boys a royal reception. Further word is expected from Murphy as to the exact time that he and Blanchard will arrive in Peterborough and the regiment will very likely be called out to meet them. Murphy's many friends will be very much pleased to know that he has recovered from his recent illness.

NOW $15.

The Price of Coal Took Another Jump To-day.

Coal has at last reached $15.00 a ton in Peterborough. The McClellan Coal Company, which is the only local firm that has any coal to offer, this morning advanced the price to that figure, in view of the fact that they had been offered even a higher price than this f. o. b. at Peterborough, by Toronto coal merchants.

Soft coal is quoted at $8 a ton in Toronto, and the price in Peterborough will be about that figure. It looks indeed as if a coal famine were close at hand.

PETERBOROUGH'S NATURAL ADVANTAGES

Chiefly Influenced the Site of the American Cereal Company.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—We notice in your issue of Saturday, September, 27th, a statement made by Mr. D. W. Dumble at the meeting of the Peterborough Board of Trade—"That we were induced to locate here through the influence of one man."

Please permit us to state that Mr. Dumble is incorrect in making a statement of this kind, privately or publicly, and evidently speaks without full knowledge, or, in fact, any knowledge whatever of the matter, and in correcting this misstatement permit us to assure you and the public that our company came here because of the natural advantages of Peterborough, which are the geographical location, railways, the water power, and the Trent Valley Canal, which we were assured would shortly be completed, and which, when finished and in operation, will in our opinion, secure to Peterborough all the industries that your city can comfortably take care of.

We are, yours very respectfully,
THE AMERICAN CEREAL COMPANY,
Robert Stuart.

Reception and Presentation on His Departure From Arthur.

A despatch from Arthur, to the Toronto Mail and Empire, says; "A reception and presentation was given here on Thursday evening to Dr. C. B. Coughlin, the occasion being that of his departure for his new home in Peterborough. The presentation took place in the town hall, which was well filled. Among those present were the reeve and the council, the representative [illegible] men, ministers and members of the legal and medical professions of the town. Mr. Tottan, M.P., and Mr. John Gowan, M.P., were also present. Dr. Coughlin twice contested the riding of East Wellington in the Conservative interests against the Hon. J. M. Gibson.

OTONABEE.

Departing Pupils of Section No. 1 Remembered.

On Thursday afternoon the pupils of S.S. No. 1, Otonabee, presented their school mates, George, Jenny and Lizzie West, with a pair of gold cuff links and collar buttons, and gold brooches, respectively, on the occasion of their removing to Oregon with their father, Mr. David West, who has sold his farm in Otonabee.

Miss Maggie Dickson read the following address and Christy Plunkett, Bessie Shearer and Bella Wood made the presentations;

Millers, Sept. 25, 1902.

Dear School Mates,—As you are about to leave us we leave that this, your last day at school in Otonabee, should not be allowed to pass without expressing our regret at your departure. We trust that when you have reached your western home that you will often be reminded of the pleasant associations and hours spent together at S. S. No. 1, Otonabee.

We therefore ask you to accept these gifts with our warmest wishes for your future happiness and prosperity.

A MAN'S VALUE.

Rev. W. S. Armitage at the Men's Meeting on Sunday.

The essentials and worth of an all round Christian man were strongly presented by Rev. W. L. Armitage, Rector of All Saint's, at the Men's Meeting at the Y.M.C.A. on Sunday.

The value of salt was used to illustrate the subject based on the Scripture, "Ye are the salt of the Earth." Salt had two chemical parts, so a Christian man had faith and works. The speaker drew a very sharp contrast between morality and spirituality. The world needed more men like Martyn and Finney. The Christian man was in the world to preserve it—so Christian character could be shown in the shop, on the football field and everywhere.

In closing the speaker pointed out the absolute worthlessness of salt—that had lost its power. So with the Christian who had lost his.

The attendance was large and prior to the address Mr. C. A. Johnston sang "The Lord is My Shepherd." Mr. Geo. Schneider presided at the piano.

Mr. R. J. Colville, a former secretary of the Association, and now Railway Secretary at Toronto, will speak next Sunday.

LT.-COL. GREENWOOD WRITES

An Interesting Letter From a Former Peterborough Citizen.

He Tells of the Condition of the Country in an Epistle to Capt Hayes.

Capt. L. M. Hayes has received a very interesting letter from Lieut. Col. H. S. Greenwood, formerly Commanding Officer of the 3rd Dragoons, and now on the engineering service of the British Government in South Africa. After treating on some personal matters he dilates upon the condition of affairs in South Africa. Extracts from his letter, which was of course not written for publication, may, however, prove interesting to the many friends in Peterborough of Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. Greenwood. The Colonel says:—

"The country is recovering very slowly. The Boers are going out to their farms and camping alongside their burned houses, but in most cases they have no farming utensils to cultivate with, consequently they are eating up the seed thay took out to plant. I must say that the Boer though a modern fighter is not a modern agriculturist. This country is going to be like the Province of Quebec—always looking for some concession from the Government. The Boer is not at all modest about asking. But I must give the Boer credit for what he once learns he does well. Some of our best workmen are Dutchmen, while the Colonial (South African) is shiftless with a cheeky independant air, which when suppressed bobs up again. There are very few poor Dutch farmers, as nearly all farms consist of from 500 to 12,000 acres of land, any of which will sell for not less than £1 per acre, while the farms with gold on them bring £50,000 and £100,000. These are the people who have £3,000,000 set aside by Government to rebuild their houses and help restock. The Dutchman says he got nearly everything he asked for in the peace settlement, and I do not believe he is far wrong. It was a surprise to find there were 20,000 men in the field when they sued for peace. Do you know that they are coming in still, on Friday five armed Boers surrendered at Pretoria. The past two years and a half has been a great experience for me, and I have seen more than I had in my whole life before, having come in contact with all classes. My great regret at not having got into the service is completely blotted out.

"Now, old man, I must congratulate you on your promotion, and am sure you deserved it long ago. I am set aside on the shelf in connection with 3rd P. W. D., so do not interfere with anybody. I saw young Rogers of the 3rd here in Johannesburg. We saw quite a little of Murphy in No. 13 General Hospital. He seemed a good fellow and a credit to the 57th. My wife used to visit the hospital once a week, and supply the Canadians with little comforts from the Red Cross funds.

"I was sorry that Bradburn did not run up to Johannesburg before leaving South Africa. I would like to have seen him, and sent some messages back. The Boer prisoners from St. Helena, Ceylon and Colombo are returning and it is quite interesting to study their faces as they pass through on the trains. I have a pretty busy time and work seems to increase every day. The correspondence amounts to 70 and 80 letters per day, one day (a record) 150. [illegible] to dictate all of them. I simply make a few notes for my confidential clerk, but I sign them all after reading them."

MRS. CROSSLEY'S CASE.

Court of Appeal Will not Interfere With Judgement.

Before Osler, Maclennan, Moss, Garrow, JJ.A.

Rex vs. Crossley.—Judgment (C.) on appeal by prisoner from order of Falconbridge, C.J., in Chambers, dismissing an application for her discharge from custody under a conviction by the Police Magistrate for the Town of Peterborough, for being the keeper of a house of ill-fame or bawdy house, in that town, and superseding the writ of habeas corpus on which the prisoner was brought up. She was sentenced to three months imprisonment at hard labour and to pay a fine of $75. The learned Chief Justice amended the conviction by reducing the fine to $50. The prisoner contended inter alia that the conviction disclosed no offence known to the law. The court is of the opinion, for reasons which will be given in writing later, that the appeal should be dismissed. The order amending the conviction will not be interfered with. D. O'Connell, Peterborough, for the prisoner. Frank Ford for the Crown

HELP FOR NEW LISKARD.

The Park Street Baptist Sunday School Held an Open Meeting.

The Park street Baptist Sunday Sunday school and Ladies' Home and Foreign Mission Circle, held an open meeting on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 28th.

After the opening exercises, Grace Evans gave a recitation, "A Little 'Missionary;" Miss Bertha Mowry gave a reading entitled "What was Said in the Cellar." Mrs. Bunton, who has recently returned from New Liskeard, in New Ontario, read extracts from a letter written by Mrs. Peer, the missionary's wife, and also told from her own experience some of the difficulties of that new country, and the need of more helpers to carry the gospel to settlers there.

Mr. T. G. Gillespie read a letter giving an account of the work done by Mr. Peer, one of the first missionaries in the Temiscaming District.

A collection was taken, amounting to $7.32, to be sent to the New Liskeard Baptist church, New Ontario.

The change of seasons affects pianos as well as everything else. Mr. Geo. Gumpricht, practical piano maker and tuner, with twenty-eight years experience, attends to all orders left at Mr. H. S. Macdonald's drug store.

For the Boys' Rooms.

Mr. Jas. Stubbs has been greeted with crowded houses everywhere he has gone with his new moving picture machine and phonograph. He is giving an entertainment in the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Friday evening, Oct. 3rd. Proceeds in aid of furnishing the boys' rooms. Tickets, 25c and 15c.

Out of the Ordinary.

It will be noticed that the Peterborough Bookstore announces an unique "Red Ticket Sale," commencing Wednesday morning, September 24th. This unusual event will furnish a good chance to secure special values in wall papers, window blinds, curtain poles, picture framing, etc. Every line offered will be designated by a red tag on which the regular and reduced prices will be plainly marked. This departure from "old traditions" ought to meet with the endorsement of buyers, as they will be able to see at a glance the actual saving in prices.

Headache.

Pain across the forehead or at back of head is dangerous. It slowly but surely weakens the intellectual powers, impairs the vitality and will. Headache is sometimes from the eyes but more frequently is caused by a disordered condition of the stomach and digestive organs.

Do not suffer. The pain can be cured by the harmless remedy

Abbey's Effervescent Salt

It never loses its effect. Cures by driving out the poison, and does not simply deaden the pain as do so many preparations containing narcotics.

Abbey's in the morning will make you well and keep you well.

MR. BOWSER'S LATEST

HE TAKES UP THE STUDY OF ENTOMOLOGY FOR A CHANGE.

It Was Very Interesting at First, but While Hunting For Grasshoppers the Amateur Entomologist Had a Narrow Escape.

[Copyright, 1902, by C. B. Lewis.]

MR. BOWSER was half an hour late in reaching home the other evening, and Mrs. Bowser was wondering whether the police or kidnapers had got hold of him when he turned up with a bland expression of countenance and explained:

"I had a call from Professor Girdlestone just as I was ready to leave the office and was therefore detained for a few minutes."

"How much did he want to borrow?" innocently asked Mrs. Bowser.

"Borrow? Borrow? Who said he wanted to borrow?"

"No one, but I thought he might have heard of you and dropped in to ask a loan."

"What sort of talk is this?" demanded Mr. Bowser as he flushed up and grew belligerent. "Do you mean that Professor Girdlestone might have heard of me as a soft snap?"

THE HOPPER ROSE OUT OF THE BOX.

"But you do lend money, don't you?"

"Never! Never in this living world! I never loaned a red cent to any human being in all my life, and you know it."

"I thought you told me of about fifty different parties who had deadbeat you."

"Never! I never told you of one. No man has ever deadbeat me. The idea that a man like Professor Girdlestone cannot call on me without wanting to work me for a loan! I don't like such innuendoes, and I want no more of them."

"I don't remember to have ever heard of Professor Girdlestone," quietly remarked Mrs. Bowser after a minute or two.

"Oh, you don't! Well, he is on earth just the same, and he happens to rank as one of the greatest entomologists of the age. I may further inform you that he called to see me professionally."

"About entomology?"

"Yes, about entomology. He wanted my assistance in a certain matter, and I promised to aid him all I could. You may not regard it as an honor to be professionally associated with the foremost man of his profession, but I do. I only wish I was so situated that I could drop everything else and take up the study of entomology. It is one of the most interesting things on earth."

Mrs. Bowser realized that Mr. Bowser had been "worked" again, but at to what direction and to what extent she must wait for his explanation. It was not long in coming. After walking up and down for three or four minutes he stopped and took a paper box from his pocket and said:

"I have here a grasshopper. I presume you have seen such an insect?"

"Yes."

"A question has arisen among entomologists in regard to his habits. Some contend that he sleeps during the hours of darkness; others that he requires no sleep at all. I am to observe him for two or three nights and report. Isn't he a fine specimen of his class? He is awake now, of course, but later on, when the house gets still, he may seek slumber. Let us study him for a moment as he is. Can you fathom nature's object in making his hind legs so long?"

Mrs. Bowser had no need to answer the question. Those hind legs gave a kick and the hopper rose out of the box and landed half way across the room, but hardly had he struck the floor when the cat leaped off the lounge and snapped him up.

"By thunder," shouted Mr. Bowser, as soon as he could get his breath. "By thunder and Saturn and Mars and the great hornspoon, but I'll have her life for that!"

He didn't get it, though. With the dead hopper in her mouth the cat made three circles of the room and then went out of an open window into the back yard, and the study of entomology was knocked into a cocked hat for the time being.

"But you can easily get another," suggested Mrs. Bowser in a consoling way.

"I shall get another, of course," replied Mr. Bowser, "and it is needless to add that a painful death awaits that cat tomorrow morning. She shall die by inches. I presume I shall have to walk a mile or so to find another hopper, but at the same time I may solve the question of whether he sleeps or not. There should be plenty of them in the suburbs."

"But you won't be so foolish as to go hunting grasshoppers at night," she protested.

"Certainly I will. I have promised to observe the insect and report, and I propose to do it. If I'm not back by 10 o'clock, you can go to bed. I may have opportunity to study the hopper on his native heath, and if so it would be much better."

Mrs. Bowser argued and protested, but without avail. Mr. Bowser felt that the scientific world awaited his decision, and he clapped on his hat and started off. The cat saw him depart and meowed mournfully, but conscience had been aroused too late. Mr. Bowser had walked fully a mile before he reached an expanse of vacant real estate on which he might hope to find grasshoppers resting after their hopful toil of the day. He turned aside and got down on his knees to search about, and he had been at work for ten minutes without making a discovery when a man came across the unfenced field with a club in his hand and called out:

"Now, then, what in blazes are you doing here?"

"I'm looking for grasshoppers," replied Mr. Bowser as he rose up.

"What? What's that? Say, you old bloke, don't try to guy me! I'm on to you bigger'n a house. You have buried stolen property here and are trying to find it."

"My dear sir I"—

"Get out!"

"I want to say"—

But the man rushed at him with uplifted club, and Mr. Bowser had to put his best foot foremost to get away. He covered half a mile of highway before he stopped, and he had sat down to get his breath when two men and a dog came along. The men might have passed him, but the dog spotted him at once and rushed upon him with such violence that he was knocked over. His yells brought the men to him, and one of them piled on to him at once and shouted to his companions.

THE MAN RUSHED AT HIM WITH UPLIFTED CLUB.

"Grab hold of his foot, Jim! We've got the thief who has been stealing our chickens! Lie still, you old skulk, or I'll knock the top of your head off!"

Mr. Bowser started in to explain, but he had only got as far as to give his name and address when the man gave him a wallop and cried out:

"You old liar, but don't think to deceive us! Where are your partners in this chicken busin ss?"

A second explanation was attempted. This one included Professor Girdlestone and grasshoppers, but the assailants shouted their disbelief and rage and thumped Mr. Bowser on twenty-seven different portions of his anatomy. How he got to his feet, how he fought for his life, how he fled and fell over obstructions, but finally left even the dog behind, are matters that must be suppressed until Mr. Bowser is at rest and some other brain has solved the grasshopper question. He reached home at midnight. He was a human wreck. Mrs. Bowser and the cat were waiting his arrival, and they stood before him as he opened the door.

"About grasshoppers?" queried Mrs. Bowser after a long look at him.

He uttered no word in reply.

"Do they sleep at night, or do they remain awake to run folks all over the country and tear the clothes off their back?"

Mr. Bowser looked from her to the cat and back, scratched his head in a dazed way and then slowly climbed the stairs and disappeared.

Spells of Weakness and Dizziness

The Accompaniments of Nervous Exhaustion and Weak Heart Action.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

To many people peculiar spells of dizziness and weakness are a source of almost daily annoyance and distress. Some see flashes of light before them, and become blind and dazzled; others experience severe attacks of headache. The cause is exhaustion of the nervous system and deficiency in the quantity or quality of the blood. In all such cases Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the most certain, as well as the most thorough cure obtainable.

Mrs. Symons, 42 St. Clair street, Belleville, Ont., states: — "Some weeks ago I began a course of treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and found it a very satisfactory medicine. I was formerly troubled with nervous exhaustion and a weak, fluttering heart. Whenever my heart bothered me I would have spells of weakness and dizziness, which were very distressing. By means of weakness and dizziness, which were very distressing. By means of this treatment my nerves have become strong and healthy, and the action of my heart seems to be regular. I can recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as an excellent medicine."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto. 10

SIGHTS OF OLD PANAMA.

City Once as Beautiful as Any Depicted in Storied Romance.

Following the English style, dinner is a full dress and ceremonious affair. After dinner comes the promenade along the esplanade, a charming walk around the old battery overlooking the prison, says the Catholic World. Our way borders the sea; behind us lies the city, with its Moorish towers, its red tiled roofs; back of it rises Mount Ancon; to our left is the little Indian hamlet of La Boca, at the mouth of the Rio Grande, and the green hills of the Andes in the distance; along the horizon oceanward stretches the bay. What words can describe it? A study in color as the rays of the setting sun turn to crimson, green and gold its islands; the stately palmetto trees that fringe its banks, the white beach and far away the ancient towers of San Anastasius, sole landmark of the once beautiful city of old Panama.

The story of this beautiful city, old Panama, reads like one of the romances from the "Arabian Nights" that so delighted our childhood. Its houses of aromatic wood, hung with costly tapestries, adorned with paintings and sculptures that a king might envy; its 800 magnificent churches, with their services of silver and gold, their frescoes of pearls and precious stones; its pleasure gardens; its broad driveways, chief of which was the king's highway, over which the royal horses bore the treasures to Puerto Bello and the ships ready to sail with them to Spain. Into the midst of this Asiatic splendor came Morgan and his buccaneers, and this struggle, one of the most memorable on our continent, the first of white against white, led to the destruction of the flower of Spanish chivalry and the capture of Panama. So pass the glories of the world!

Pat's Trouble.

Pat had come over to America with the expectation of finding money lying around loose, only waiting for some one to pick it up. Of course this was long ago. Pat had soon become disillusionized and was always glad to get hold of odd jobs which would net him a little something to help him keep body and soul together. Finally, becoming tired of the struggle, he decided to end it all and was very industriously tying a rope around his waist when his landlord happened in on him. After watching him curiously for a few minutes he asked:

"What's up, I'at? What are you trying to do?"

"Troyin' to choke meself, av coorse," was Pat's answer.

"Choke yourself? You can't do it that way. You'll have to put the rope around your neck."

"Sure an' I thried thot, but I couldn't breathe."

On Sure Ground.

A well known artist overheard a countryman and his wife ridiculing his picture, which represented a farm scene. He was so indignant that he at last interposed with the remark:

"That painting is valued at £100. Allow me to ask if you are familiar with works of art?"

"Not very familiar with art," replied the farmer, "but I know something about nature, young man. When you make a cow that gets up from the ground by putting her fore feet first, you do something that nature never did."

A Deep Thrust.

"How did they settle it?"

"Easily. It was twins."

A VALUABLE TIP.

How Mr. Norris Gets His Clothes Mended.

"It is strange that I can't get my wife to mend my clothes," remarked Mr. Bridle in a tone of disgust. "I asked her to sew a button on this vest this morning and she hasn't touched it."

"You asked her?" said Mr. Norris, with a slight shrug of his shoulders.

"Yes; what else should I do?"

"You haven't been married very long, so perhaps you'll take a tip from me," answered Mr. Norris with a fatherly air. "Never ask a woman to mend anything; that's fatal."

"Why, what do you mean?"

"Do as I do. When I want a shirt mended, for instance, I take it in my hand and hunt up my wife. 'Where's that rag bag, Mrs. Norris?' I demand in a stern voice.

"'What do you want a rag bag for?' she says suspiciously.

"'I want to throw this shirt away; it's all worn out,' I reply.

"'Let me see,' she demands.

"But I put the garment behind my back.

"'No, my dear,' I answer; 'there is no use in your attempting to do anything with it.'

"'Let me see it,' she reiterates.

"'But it's all worn out, I tell you.'

"'Now, James, you give me that shirt!' she says in her most peremptory tone.

"I hand over the garment.

"'Why, James Norris,' she cries with womanly triumph, 'this is a perfectly good shirt. All it needs is'—

"And then she mends it."

His Greatest Mistake.

"The mistake of my life," said the reminiscent man, "was when I was selling patent medicines in Russia One day I attended a review of a crack regiment, and suddenly every man in the ranks began sneezing for all he was worth. In a trice I had my sample case open and was trying to sell the commissary a carload of my antigrip pellets when he rudely informed me that the troops were only hailing with delight the arrival of General Akachoochebedooski."

The Summer Girl.

"Everything is arranged, dear," said the happy young man who had scheduled to become the freight paying head of a new combine, "and by this time tomorrow we will be one."

"Yes, George," answered the fair bride to be; "but when it comes to ice cream don't you think it would be advisable for you still to order two plates?"

Optional.

"Say, ma!"

"Yes, Reginald."

"Kin any little boy be president when he grows up?"

"Yes, Reginald."

"But, say, ma!"

"Yes, Reginald."

"He don't have to if he'd ruther be a first base man, does he?"

Fatal Coincidences.

"Yes," said the bill clerk, "if it was not for several severe attacks of indigestion I'd have a decent job by now."

"I didn't know you suffered from indigestion."

"Don't I, though! My boss has had an attack of it every time I've applied to him for a raise."

Two Misfortunes.

"You have killed my husband," wailed the woman as the chauffeur brought the automobile to a stop.

"Yes, and the jolt has broken the front axle of my auto," said the chauffeur indignantly as he climbed out.

A PICNIC.

These picnic days, these picnic days, they fill us with delight,
A-getting up 'fore sunrise, packing lunch 'fore morning light,
Then boarding bounding trolley, getting caught in morning rain,
While soon the hot sun blazes out to sizzle us again.
Alighting at the wrong place, joyous tramp the rest of way,
We're chased by bull to picnic place, prepare to spend the day,
And as we make ourselves at home, of course, as you surmise,
We find the mustard's spilt o'er lunch and that we've squashed the pies.

These picnic days, these picnic days, how they appeal to us
When gentle poison ivy starts right in to raise a fuss;
We view in happy pleasure, too, the insects' crawling clan
Make polar explorations there throughout the ice cream can.
Bugs marching, countermarching, in a hungry big brigade,
Foraging on our lunches, meeting death in lemonade,
'Tis picnic, jolly picnic, and our feelings so respond
When farmers' boys catch Johnny and they duck him in the pond.

These picnic days, these picnic days, it is with happy glee
We clamber after Willie when we find he's climbed a tree,
And as we separate him from some cracking topmost bough
And tear our clothes and bark our shin, this stunt a joy, we vow.
And as we get together in a tired, sleepy flock
And straggle to the car line, then we never, never knock;
We're too worn out for anger, and we cannot but be meek,
But you never saw such pessimists throughout the rest of week.

Health for Women.

"Few things are more important to a community than the health of its women. If strong is the frame of the mother, says a proverb, the sons will give laws to the people. Dr. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is especially woman's medicine. By its action on the blood and nerves it gives strength and vigour to the delicate feminine organs and ensures their regular and healthful functions. It gives colour to the pale, strength to the weak, and a rounded form to the thin and angular.

Tommy's Great Scheme.

"What are you making that terrible noise for?"

"I'm keeping baby quiet."

"Where's baby?"

"Under the tin."

Made Matters Worse.

Towne—My wife used to get nervous every time she heard a noise downstairs, but I assured her that it could not be burglars, because they're always careful not to make any noise.

Browne—So that calmed her, eh?

Towne—Not much. Now she gets nervous every time she doesn't hear any noise.

Just Right for a Hot Day.

Does this weather do you up? Then for that fagged out feeling try a bottle of Merrill's System Tonic. It puts new life and energy into the body and makes one feel equal to their duties. As a muscular and nerve tonic and bowel regulator, this medicine has no equal. Price 50c per bottle of 50 doses at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

The Graves of a Household.

They grew in beauty side by side,
They filled one home with glee;
Their graves are severed far and wide,
By mount and stream and sea.

The same fond mother bent at night
O'er each fair sleeping brow;
She had each folded flower in sight—
Where are those dreamers now?

One 'midst the forest of the west,
By a dark stream is laid—
The Indian knows his place of rest,
Far in the cedar shade.

The sea, the blue lone sea, hath one—
He lies where pearls lie deep;
He was the loved of all, yet none
O'er his low bed may weep.

One sleeps where southern vines are dressed,
Above the noble slain;
He wound his colors round his breast,
On a blood-red field of Spain.

And one, o'er her the myrtle showers
Its leaves, by soft winds fanned;
She faded 'midst Italian flowers—
The last of that fair band.

And parted thus, they rest, who played
Beneath the same green tree;
Whose voices mingled as they prayed
Around one parent knee.

They who with smiles lit up the hall,
And cheered with song the hearth—
Alas, for love! If thou wert all,
And naught beyond, O earth!

—Mrs. Hemans.

The Day of Miracles

is past, but many who are cured of itching, bleeding or protruding piles by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment look upon their recovery as the next thing to miraculous. It is not uncommon for persons who have undergone painful, risky and expensive operations in vain to be finally cured by this wonderful ointment. It is the standard the world over and the only guaranteed cure for piles.

THE WALL STREET MARKET

Stocks Were Somewhat Stronger To-day.

Heavy Liquidation was Indulged in However—Money Closed at six per Cent—Sloss Took a Slump.

The Wall street market was not quite so bearish to-day. In fact with one or two exceptions the price of stocks advanced several points on the opening and remained firm throughout the day. The news of a probable solution of the money situation had no doubt a stimulating effect upon the market, and bull manipulation was in evidence. Sloss which was a few days ago as high as 83 fell from 66 to 62 1-2. Dominion Steel is now quoted at 65 1-2, and Dominion coal at 127. Twin City is quoted at 121. St. Paul scored a good advance, jumping from 188 -12 to 194. Reading climbed up from 66 to 70 1-2, while M.O.P. after a scattering opening between 113 and 117 remained steady and closed at 115 3-4. U. P. showed strength, closing at 105 7-8, after opening at 106 7-8. C. P.R. opened at 138 3-4 and gained 1-4 of a point.

Sales to noon amounted to 606,100. Money opened at 6 1-2 per cent., went to 18 per cent, and was quoted at 6 per cent. at three o'clock.

E.M. Poussett & Co. have received the following from McIntyre and Marshall.

New York, Sept. 30. — Secretary of Treasury, after an all day conference with leading Wall street bankers, evolved an additional plan for the relief of money market, which is to permit city banks to forego necessity for maintaining a 25 per cent. cash reserve against deposits secured by public banks. This plan will immediately release about $30,000,000 of money. Gloom and general expectation of further demoralization in to-day's stock market prevailed among brokers up to last night, when the above announcement was made.

As it is, this additional relief has calmed the general sentiment and there is some ground for hope that to-day's market will rule steady and show some slight recovery.

J. P. Morgan, in an interview last night, expressed the opinion that the condition of stock market was much better than before the liquidation, and said he believed that everything would be set right in a few days. We still advise extreme caution.

McINTYRE & MARSHALL.

Current Week's Outlook.

New York, Sept. 29th. — After the strenuous week passed in Wall street it is obvious that in considering the outlook for the week just opening, that one should speak conservatively, and act in similar manner. We will state it to be a fact that many stock issues are cheap at present. To buy them will be to be able to dispose of them at better prices very shortly. In making this assertion it is also not only wise on the part of the writer, but justice to the reader as well, to accompany the opinion with the word of caution. Though stocks be cheap they may be somewhat cheaper, temporarily, owing to the peculiar situation which makes so many houses loth to make new committments until easier money is more assured. After a great activity in the market, specially one that came as a surprise to speculators generally, usually for a time afterwards stocks are more feverish and erratic before the money market and the timidity of brokers and customers all favour better prices. These factors will ultimately govern prices. Any other results are temporary and for local reasons a short time will witness their entire disappearance as a market factor. The belated corn crop is now safe. Climatic conditions from now on will cut no figure. Industrials are all as busy as they possibly can be, while railways will, for the next eight months, positively have more business than they can handle. We rather anticipate a more or less feverish market for the current week, with frequent ups and downs, but believe the general trend or tendency will be, in the majority of instances, in the upward direction. Careful trading is advisable. However, buy when depressed, even if money be at the moment run up in prices. Take profits as they appear. We very much doubt if the low prices of last week will be checked again. Stocks will have to have quite a rise before plungers and light-waisted holders get many of them. Until then it should be safe to buy whenever the list is at all depressed. For those who trade for the long pull, the thing to do, in our opinion, is to buy. Those who are daily traders should watch their opportunity and to them we suggest the advice expressed in these letters.

Summary.—Lower prices from London and several prominent stock articles, published in the public press on Sunday and Monday mornings, brought a general selling movement with L. & N., the strong centre. Everything melted under the viciousness of the bearish attack and the standard securities were as weak, if not weaker, than medium priced issues. Value cut no figure. Necessities ruled the day and caused an array of bargains all along the line. It's impossible to state how far the decline may go before the inevitable turn in the market takes place. The time for it to appear, however, should be near.

RUGBY.

Four electric lights are being placed in position in the Separate school grounds, Murray street, for the convenience of St. Peter's T.A.S. fifteen. Practices will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings. The lights will be ready for use to-morrow evening, and a full turn out of all T.A.S. players is requested.

* * * *

A despatch from London says:—The practice turnout last Saturday afternoon of the Rugby football players was most encouraging to the management, over twenty players donning their uniforms, and having a thorough work out. Among those on the field were Geo. Sippi, Walter Little, Curly Fields, Lucas, Black, Reagan, Stirling, Phenary, Robinson, McMahon, Butler, Dr. Scott and a number of others.

* * * *

Word was received yesterday by the secretary of the O.R.F.U., that the Port Hope club would not play in the Intermediate series this season. The withdrawal is caused by the late start in organizing. However there is plenty of excellent material in Port Hope and a strong team will be entered next year without fail in the intermediate series.

* * * *

The dropping out of the Port Hope club leves Peterborough and Ottawa II in this district. The schedule for these two clubs is as follows, Oct. 11, Ottawa at Peterborough; Oct. 25, Peterborough at Ottawa. The winner will meet the winner of the Western district.

* * * *

A Hartford, Conn., youth, had his back broken playing football. Mentor Mac. will have his heart broken if his team does not win the Intermediate championship.

GOLF.

The defeat of the Ontario Golf Team by the Intermediate Team in the Interprovincial Match at Montreal, by a score of 38 to 9, is another case of "French domination."

After the Interprovincial Match at Montreal, a meeting of the Royal Canadian Golf Association was held at the club house of the Royal Montreal Golf Club. It was decided to hold the 1903 championship meeet at the Toronto Golf Club. The following were elected as officers for 1903; President — P. D. Creerar, Hamilton Golf Club.

Vice-Presidents — A. H. Campbell, jr., Toronto Golf Club; G. F. Perley, Ottawa Golf Club.

Secretary — Stewart Gordon, Toronto Golf Club.

Executive — Vere Brown, Rosedale Golf Club; Fayette Brown, Royal Montreal Golf Club; Geo. Brown, London Golf Club; H. S. McGreavy, Quebec Golf Club; W. A. Kerr, Toronto Golf Club.

BASEBALL.

Canadian League standing—Waterloo won 6 lost 4; Guelph 7 and 5; Berlin, 6 and 6; New Hamburg, 3 and 7.

DEATH ROLL SWELLING.

Bodies of Six Hundred Storm Victims Awaiting Burial.

London, Sept. 30.—A special despatch from Rome says that the death roll resulting from the recent hurricane in Sicily is swelling. The bodies of 600 persons are now awaiting burial, and as means for their prompt interment are lacking, there are grave fears of an epidemic.

Another special despatch from Rome says that Sunday's hurricane swept the small towns of Belpasso and Torre Santa Maria, in the Province of Catania, Sicily, and destroyed everything in its way. Many persons were killed. The Cathedral of Belpasso was destroyed, burying a large number of worshippers. Several ships were wrecked and the population becoming panic-stricken, fled to the mountains.

Went Over the Falls.

Niagara Falls, Sept. 30.—The body of an unknown woman was found in the lower river, near the American dock of the Maid of the Mist Co., at an early hour yesterday morning. The body is that of a woman about 30 years old. It is 5 feet 5 inches in height, weighs about 145 pounds and is dressed in red shirt waist with white stripe, low black shoes with elastic sides, black stockings, white underwear, corsets, but no skirt. There is a gold-filled tooth on each side of the upper jaw. The hair is black, the skull is fractured and the body looks as if it had been in the water about two weeks. It probably went over the Horseshoe Falls.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

We have not advanced the price of our tobaccos. Amber smoking tobacco, Bobs, Curreney and Fair Play Chewing tobaccos are the same size and price to the consumer as formerly. We have also extended the time for a redemption of Snowshoe tags to January 1st, 1904.

NOTHING TO INVESTIGATE.

Magistrate Denison Dismisses Cases Against Scott and Leitch.

Toronto, Sept. 30. — The closing chapter in the Evans warehouse mystery was written in the Police Court Monday, when Foreman William Scott and Charles Leitch were acquitted of the charges of theft of small articles from the stock and $5 from the body of Edward Geen. It was the preliminary before Magistrate Denison, Crown Attorney Curry prosecuting, and T. C. Robinette defending. The men have been in jail, without bail since Tuesday, and Mr. Robinette formally announced his intention of immediately suing Defective Slemin on behalf of Scott, for $5,000 damages. The officer swore to the complaint after laying his facts before the Crown Attorney. A dozen witnesses gave testimony, at the conclusion of which the court declared there was nothing in the case for a jury's consideration.

Child Died of Neglect.

Sault Ste. Marie, Sept. 30.—The coroner's jury in the case of Sanna Salo, a Finlander, 25 years old, charged with murdering her child shortly after birth, have brought in a verdict that death was due to neglect on the part of the mother, and that she had concealed the child's birth. The woman, who is unmarried, has been in Canada only eight months, and is now very ill.

Newspapermen in Jail.

Dublin, Sept. 30.—Timothy McCarthy and Thomas McDwyer, respectively editor and manager of The Irish People, who have been on trial charged under the Crimes Act with having published intimidations, were each sentenced yesterday to two months' imprisonment. They gave notice of appeal.

Fielding Goes to Paris.

London, Sept. 30. — Hon. W. S. Fielding, Canadian Minister of Finance, has gone to Paris to meet Sir Wilfrid Laurier. They will have a further interview with the French Minister of Foreign Affairs regarding the placing of trade relations between Canada and France on a satisfactory basis.

Weary Brain Workers.

All fagged out, ideas flow slowly as molasses, snap and energy gone! The buoyancy that made work a pleasure, that gone also. A doctor would say you are run down, enervated, neither eating or digesting enough. It's Ferrozone you need to brace up that fitful appetite and improve assimilation and digestion so that lots of pure strong blood will be formed to nourish the broken down system. Ferrozone will drive away the tired feeling, restore your spirits and energy, revive your ambition and strength for work. No tonic or rebuilder like Ferrozone—try it. Price 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50; at Ormond & Walsh's.

An Odd Accident.

A false alarm of fire was caused in Paris recently by a horse knocking his head against a street fire alarm, breaking the glass and ringing the bell.

The Cyanide Process.

The cyanide process briefly is the dissolving of fine gold in the crushed ore by a dilute solution of cyanide of potassium and the subsequent precipitation of the gold from the solution of cyanide with fine zinc shavings. The ordinary plant is inexpensive and simple in operation. The cost of the process is small.

Lovers of Dancing.

The Porto Rican native is very much given to dancing. Both men and women have a natural love for the ballroom.

Effects of Fasting.

During a prolonged fast the loss of weight is unusually rapid at first and decreases as the time goes on; death ensues when a certain percentage of the loss has been reached, and this percentage varies according to the original weight.

Beer and Ale.

To brew a barrel of lager beer one and a half bushels of malt are used; to brew a barrel of ale four and a half bushels of malt are required.

Canaries.

Canaries, which were originally green and gray in color, were native to the islands from which they take their name, and were first taken to England on ships plying between English ports and the south of France. From this stock have been derived a number of distinct varieties.

Queensland.

Queensland has at least one-half of its territory within the tropics.

Japanese Dolls.

Japanese dolls are usually most elaborately and gorgeously attired, for the princely families keep these toys and pass them down to their descendants. The brocaded silks for the doll robes are specially woven in miniature patterns on small looms. The wooden dolls are often beautifully carved and enameled.

Fruit and Poultry.

Fruit growing and poultry raising may be made joint occupations, the one being more or less beneficial to the other.

FLOWER LORE.

The pansy means remembrance.

Chaucer speaks of the daisy as the "e'e of dale."

The carnation was called by the Greeks the "divine flower."

One of the pretty names for the lily of the valley is "the ladder to heaven."

The fragrant honeysuckle has a very pretty meaning—generous, devoted affection.

Hope was delineated by the ancients as a little child standing on tiptoe and holding a clover.

Because of the way in which its petals are marked the French call the sweet william the "poet's eye."

The anemone, according to mythology, sprang from the blood of Adonis, mingled with the tears which Venus shed over his body.

The poppy, so the ancient story goes, was created to allay her grief by Ceres while searching for her beloved daughter Proserpina.

From antiquity the rose, the queen of flowers, has been regarded as the emblem of joy, love and prosperity. It is also the symbol of silence.

In Germany the periwinkle is the flower of immortality, but in Italy it is the flower of death. Garlands are made of it and placed on the bier of children.

The heliotrope represents Clytie, the beautiful nymph who died of love for the sun. The story of Clytie is also connected with the sunflower, which, as well as the heliotrope, means devoted attachment.

Once marigolds were simply called "golds" because of their color, but in the middle ages the name of the Virgin Mary was frequently affixed to anything useful or beautiful, so the flower came to be the marigold.

To Increase Your Appetite.

Nothing will stimulate a keen, healthy relish for food, insure good digestion and perfect assimilation, like Ferrozone, which is the most successful tonic and health renewer known to medical men. Ferrozone is a positive cure for Anaemia, Impure Blood, Boils, Pimples, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and all Stomach and Bowel Troubles. Ferrozone cleanses, strengthens and purifies the blood, it invigorates the heart and nerves, banishes sickness and pain and makes ailing people well. Try a box or two of Ferrozone, the result will be a surprise. Price 50c. At druggists or Ormond & Walsh's.

A CRISIS IS AT HAND.

The Miners' Leaders Appear to Be in Buoyant Spirits.

THE PRESIDENT IS POWERLESS.

Mr. Roosevelt Unable to Interfere in the Coal Strike—Legal Opinion Is Rather Against the Idea That Constitution Will Permit Federal Action—What Is Doing to Bring Industrial Peace.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 1.—President Mitchell, and District Presidents Nicholls, Fahey and Duffy conferred at strike headquarters yesterday, but nothing could be learned about their deliberations. Mr. Mitchell was as reticent as ever regarding his visit to Philadelphia. The miners' leaders appeared to be in buoyant spirits, however, and the belief is growing that a crisis of some kind is at hand.

Roosevelt's Scheme.

New York, Oct. 1.—The Commercial Advertiser says: "It was rumored in Wall street yesterday on pretty good authority that President Roosevelt has asked certain presidents of the coal roads to go to Washington to discuss with him a plan to end the strike. It is ture, this report had it, as guessed in Washington, that this was Secretary Root's mission to New York."

PRESIDENT IS POWERLESS.

Mr. Roosevelt Unable to Interfere in the Coal Strike.

Washington, Oct. 1. — The coal strike situation was the subject of a conference at the temporary White House yesterday, in which the President, Attorney-General Knox, Secretary Moody, Postmaster-General Payne and Governor Crane of Massachusetts participated. Everyone connected with the conference was very reticent, but it is learned that the President is much concerned over the situation, the near approach of winter and the great scarcity of fuel. Just what action can be taken is not known.

The fact that a move has been made in the Massachusetts courts to have receivers appointed for the coal companies was discussed, but the legal view was that this was entirely inadequate and would not be likely to relieve the situation.

The impression prevails that one reason for the hurried visit of Secretary Root to New York was to discuss the situation with the leading business men of that city with a view to bringing the strike to an end.

The conferees met again about 2 o'clock in the President's room. Dr. Lung called shortly after the second conference began, but did not see the President.

The second conference lasted less than an hour. The coal situation was further discussed, but the participants refused to make any statement when they came from the President's room.

The legal advisers of the President told him they could find no warrant in the constitution for federal interference. The only way, it was pointed out, by which there could be federal interference would be at the request of Governor Stone of Pennsylvania, and it was stated that he is not likely to ask for federal troops because he has not yet called out the entire militia force in his state. The matter of federal interference by the appointment of receivers for the coal companies was also discussed, but the President was informed that there was nothing in the constitution or any law to warrant such action.

During the day advices were received that the strike might be settled by the operators and miners themselves, and it was suggested that hasty interference of any kind by the Federal Government might prevent the consummation of the plans for a strike settlement, if any such were maturing. While recognizing the futility of efforts to end the strike that could accomplish nothing, it was stated that the President was anxious that the end of the strike should be brought about at the earliest possible moment, and that if the Attorney-General, or any other member of the Cabinet, could devise a method by which the President could proceed that he would not hesitate to adopt it, unless, meanwhile, assurances of a settlement were received.

The conference will be resumed today, at which time Secretary Root will be present.

Lots of Coal in Wales.

London, Oct. 1.—Rush orders, at high prices have been placed in Wales and London yesterday for the quick delivery of anthracite coal in the United States.

There is a tacit agreement among a few shippers to hold back in anticipation of a rise in prices. Certain Welsh farms, however, are shipping in they possibly can at a slightly higher figure. They even contemplate chartering extra boats.

Saturday's shipment to Canada and America from Cardiff amounted to 25,000 tons, which is the record from one port.

Coal Found at Chesley, Ont.

Owen Sound, Oct. 1.—Chesley thinks it has solved the coal question. A farmer of Sullivan, Christopher Inglis, while digging post-holes, found something that looks like and burns almost like anthracite, and the coal strike has called attention to the deposit. Some Chesley business men are investigating the matter. A. E. L. Malone of this town owns the adjoining farm, and has brought home some samples that test well.

A Little Girl's Fearsome Drink.

Ingersoll, Oct. 1.—A quantity of washing fluid, composed principally of Gillet's lye, which she partially swallowed, nearly caused the death of little Cora Swartz, the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Swartz, Saturday night.

Mrs. Swartz detected the child pouring the liquid from the bottle into a glass, but, before she could cross the room and dash it to the floor, the little girl had swallowed it, who then suffered agonizing pain.

A physician was at once called, and, after working with her for some time, informed the anxious parents that she would recover.

Children Played With Fire.

THE FRANKS MURDER CASE.

Murdered Woman's Brother Offers $500 Reward—A Stranger Who Disappeared Very Mysteriously.

Niagara Falls, Oct. 1.—The Franks murder case still remains in darkness. The reason of Constable Lymburner's visit here Monday evening was due to a find that the constable thought might lead to a clue. It was a printed, filled form addressed to Mrs. Franks, dated about the middle of the month from the John Hancock Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn., refusing to take a risk on the woman's life. It was found on the secretary in the corner of the room where the murder is supposed to have taken place.

This, taken in connection with an incident that occurred at the funeral last Sunday, when a well-dressed stranger, about 40 years of age, attended and scanned everyone closely who entered the house, and afterwards walked twice around the casket, to take the last look of the dead woman, seems significant. He was heard to mutter to himself, "Just the same as two weeks ago," The stranger disappeared as mysteriously as he came, without making himself known to anyone.

However, the insurance company have been communicated with to find out who made the application for the risk.

The brother of the murdered woman, Albert E. Fleming, feels confident the fiend who so brutally killed his sister will surely be brought to justice, and says he will leave no stone unturned to hunt him down. Mr. Fleming has caused a thousand public notices to be posted throughout the vicinity, offering $500 reward for anyone giving information for the apprehension and conviction of the person or persons who murdered his sister. Mr. Fleming intends to employ the services of private detectives if the clouds surrounding the murder are not cleared.

CAUSE OF ZOLA'S DEATH.

Carbonic Oxide Fumes—Madame Zola Saved by Her Position.

Paris, Oct. 1.—The autopsy on the remains of Emile Zola has resulted in an official declaration that he died from asphyxiation, caused by carbonic oxide fumes. The funeral has been fixed for Friday, and interest is shown in the question whether Dreyfus will attend.

The post-mortem examination of Zola's body yesterday resulted, besides the official report, that his death was due to asphyxiation, caused by carbonic oxide fumes in showing that the novelist fell into a densely saturated atmosphere as he attempted to open a window, and was thus suffocated.

Madame Zola, it was further declared, owed her life to the elevated position of the bed. A medical bulletin, issued yesterday, says:

"Madame Zola is progressing as satisfactorily as possible, in spite of the terrible shock caused by the news of her husband's death. Complete rest and isolation are indispensable She had a heart-rending fit of anguish when told of his death, which was only communicated to her this morning. It was followed by a state of terror. She is now calm, but is unable to utter a word or make a gesture."

The remains of Zola will be interred in Montmartre Cemetery. The funeral will be a civil ceremony, though probably, the body will be accorded the military honors to which the deceased is entitled to as an officer of the Legion of Honor. The League of the Rights of Man is organizing an imposing demonstration at the funeral, and has issued an appeal for subscriptions to erect a monument to the dead novelist.

Among those who signed the register at Zola's house, or sent condolences, were Premier Combes, a majority of the Cabinet Ministers, M. Waldeck-Rousseau, Maitre Laborie, Col. Picquart and M. Millerand.

Because He Attended Crowning.

London, Oct. 1.—The members of the United Irish League of Donegal County have adopted resolutions demanding the resignation of William O'Doherty, who represents that seat in the House of Commons, because he attended the coronation of King Edward in Westminster Abbey. Mr. O'Doherty, in his reply, declared that he intended to resign, and condemned the separation policy of the Irish Nationalists as impracticable.

Lord Strathcona's Regret.

London, Oct. 1.—Lord Strathcona expresses regret that manufacturers and shippers do not endeavor to obtain more advantage from Canada's preferential tariff. His Lordship considers that the information to hand about the Canadian-South African steamship service is most satisfactory. He hopes that the trade will develop that it will require more frequent sailings.

Soldiers Broke Windows.

Montreal, Oct. 1.—Some three hundred of the Royal Canadians arrived here last evening, and while some proceeded westward, the others remained in Montreal. Several car windows were broken on the way up by the soldiers.

Killed at the Mines.

Lethbridge, N.W.T., Oct. 1.—A private message received here states that two men were killed in the mines at Frank through an explosion. One of the men was John Clarke of this place.

EDITORIAL NOTES

If the fuel famine should extend to the next world, belief in the doctrine of future punishment would be somewhat weakened.

It seems a paradox of fate when Zola, the French novelist and defender of Dreyfus, after dealing out volumes of hard realism to his readers, succumbs to gas.

Toronto is hard to please, and, it timidly suggested, a little unreasonable. The city fills the harbour with sewage sludge and then rails at the Dominion Government because it does not keep dredges at work cleaning out the sediment in the big soup tureen into which they have converted an otherwise beautiful harbour.

The Farmer's Advocate looks on the demand for the restoration of duties on corn as "the attempt of a few misguided politicians to make political capital," and holds that their theory that free corn means depreciation of the price of Canadian coarse grains has been amply negatived by the experience of recent years.

While there is general agreement as to the importance of preserving and renewing forests, the laws of the country seem, in one respect, to attach a penalty to this public service. The Port Hope Guide tells of a farm in Hope Township containing 65 acres of hardwood timber. This year the assessment was raised $3,000 "because of the increased value of the timber." The $3,000 was afterwards reduced to $2,000, but the idea remained. It would pay the owner to cut and sell every stick of timber. The assessment would then be reduced, and the renting value would be increased. If we want the forests preserved we must make the preservation profitable to the owner of the land.—Globe.

Here's a chance for the single tax advocate to get in his argument. We often see in this very town an industrious mechanic buy a little home. Of course he improves it at considerable expense, and the corporation encourages him by raising his taxes—actually fining the man for improving his property and raising the value of the vacant lots in the vicinity. Lots (and not vacant lots, either) can be said in favour of single tax—that is a tax on land value alone.

The apparent inability of the Mail and Empire to state facts fairly, when its object of injuring the Ontario Government seems to be attainable, is shown by the following extract taken from the Globe: "At present the export of pulpwood from Crown lands in an unmanufactured state is prohibited in Ontario, and the Mail and Empire regrets that the North Shore Timber Company "is exempt from the prohibition.' The concession to the North Shore Company was granted three sessions ago by the almost unanimous vote of the Legislature, and it was to run only two years. It expired on April 30 last, and the company has not been permitted since then to export unmanufactured pulpwood. In Quebec there is a refund of 25 cents in the stumpage dues of 65 cents a cord when the wood is made into pulp in Canada. These dues apply to Crown lands only, the settler being entirely exempt." The organ seems to desire to create the inference that by Government neglect or favouritism, a privilege existed which in reality did not, and cannot, exist under the Government's policy of "Ontario for Ontarians."

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Adress F. J. PARTED IN A PASSION.

Rival Leaders of British Columbia Conservatives Fall Out.

ANXIOUS TO SUCCEED DUNSMUIR

Mr. Charles Wilson and Col. Prior Have a Rupture That It is Feared Will Nullify the Movement Toward Party Lines—A Hopeless Task Before Them Unless the Breach Is Healed.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 1.—Mr. Chas. Wilson, leader of the Conservative party, is in Victoria, and Mr. Eberts arrived last evening. The object of the visit was to have an understanding between Messrs. Prior and Eberts previous to the arrival of Premier Dunsmuir, who is due on Thursday, and who, it is stated on good authority, has given a written promise to resign in Col. Prior's favor on his return from the coronation. To anticipate any definite step Mr. Wilson sought an assurance from Col. Prior, and in inner Conservative circles last night there were whispered stories of a rupture between the two. It is understood Mr. Wilson sought an alliance of Messrs. Eberts, Prior and himself, but insisted that there should be no more island Premiers, and, therefore, he was the natural head of the Conservative Government. Col. Prior flew into a passion and declared such a proposition so intolerable an illustration of sectionalism that he repudiated as his leader any man who made it. Such sectionalism was nowhere found in the interior or on the island, and Mr. Wilson must voice the opinion of a very limited portion of the Province. The two men parted in a passion. Conservatives here fear that the result will nullify the movement toward party lines, as it will hopelessly divide the party unless the breach is healed.

CUNARD SHIP SUBSIDY.

British Government Will Pay $750,000 Annually—20 Year Agreement.

London, Oct. 1.—The directors of the Cunard Steamship Company sent a letter to the shareholders last night setting forth the terms of the proposed subsidy. It will include payment by the Government of $750,000 annually, the company to build two large fast steamers for the Atlantic trade. The agreement will remain in force 20 years. After the completion of the second steamer, the company is to remain a British concern, and an undertaking is to be given not to unduly raise freight rates. The Government will lend the money for the construction of the two Cunard steamers, charging interest at the rate of 2½ per cent. per annum. The loan is to be repaid in annual payments, extending over 20 years.

Why Phipps Contributed.

New York, Oct. 1.—Henry Phipps of the Carnegie Steel Company, who gave $100,000 to the relief fund for destitute Boers, arrived home from Europe yesterday. He was reluctant to talk about his gift, but said: "I sent Arthur White, the author, to see Mr. Chamberlain before I decided what to do, and the answer came back that the gift would be all right. If the situation had been charged, and England had been the suffering country, I would have given her the money."

Armour Wheat "Spread."

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 1.—There has been no grain operation this season comparable to the Armour wheat "spread" which closed to-day with a profit of $1,500,000 on 15,000,000 bushels. The operations have lasted about 90 days. In May and June Armour bought July and sold September wheat, and liquidated that "spread" at a moderate profit. No secret was made of the operation. tember wheat is wanted and the Ar- September wheat is wanted and the Armour men are willing to sell it because they are long.

MR. M'DOUGALL SUSPENDED.

Solicitor of the Treasury Department of the Provincial Government Under a Cloud—Cabinet Council's Statement.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—The accounts of Mr. Alfred McDougall, who is in charge of the succession duties for the Ontario Government have not been satisfactory to the audit department and until the whole matter has been unravelled Mr. McDougall has been suspended.

A Cabinet Council was held yesterday morning, and the following statement was handed out, it being the limit of the information the Ministers would divulge:

"The accounts of Mr. Alfred McDougall, who has charge of the succession duties collections for the Province, have not proved satisfactory to the auditors who have been looking into them, and Mr. McDougall has been suspended pending a thorough and searching investigation. It is not certain whether there will be a heavy loss to the treasury or not."

The revenues of the Province have been considerably augmented since the Succession Duty Act came into force. The figures vary from year to year, according to the taxable value of the estates left for distribution. Last year the Province benefitted to the extent of $366,582 from the estate of the dead.

Mr. McDougall has been at the head of the Succession Duty Department ever since its creation in 1892.

Mr. Alfred McDougall, 44 Charles street, solicitor of the Treasury Department of the Provincial Government and head of the Succession Duties Department, was formerly of the law firm of McDougall & Jones, an ex-Alderman of Toronto, and aged 65 years.

ST. THOMAS STREET RAILWAY.

Company Authorizes City to Operate the Road.

St. Thomas, Oct. 1.—The adjourned meeting of the St. Thomas Street Railway Company, to consider the advisability of handing the road over to the city, was held in the company's office on Monday afternoon. A resolution was passed authorizing the city to operate the road and giving the president authority to make such arrangemnts as he deemed necessary for carrying the plan into effect.

The matter was discussed at a special meeting of the City Council, held last night, when it was referred to the City Solicitor, who will define the city's legal position.

A question has been raised as to whether the meeting of the railway shareholders was regularly summoned—hence the reference to the Solicitor.

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

A Remedy Which Has Revolutionized the Treatment of Stomach Troubles

The remedy is not heralded as a wonderful discovery nor yet a secret patent medicine, neither is it claimed to cure anything except dyspepsia, indigestion and stomach troubles, with which nine out of ten suffer.

The remedy is in the form of pleasant tasting tablets or lozenges, containing vegetable and fruit essences, pure asceptic pepsin, (government test), golden seal and diastase. The Tablets are sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Many interesting experiments to test the digestive powers of Stuart's Tablets show that one grain of the active principle contained in them is sufficient to thoroughly digest 3,000 grains of raw meat, eggs, and other wholesome food.

Stuart's Tablets do not act upon the bowels like after dinner pills and cheap cathartics, which simply irritate and inflame the intestines, without having any effect whatever in digesting food or curing indigestion.

If the stomach can be rested and assisted in the work of digestion, it will very soon recover its normal vigour, as no organ is so much abused and overworked as the stomach.

This is the secret, if there is any secret, of the remarkable success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, a remedy practically unknown a few years ago, and now the most widely known of any treatment for stomach weakness.

This success has been secured entirely upon its merits as a digestive pure and simple, because there can be no stomach trouble if the food is properly digested.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act entirely on the food eaten, digesting it completely so that it can be assimilated into blood, nerve and tissue. They cure dyspepsia, water brash, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive power which weak stomachs lack, and unless that lack is supplied, it is useless to attempt to cure by the use of "tonics," "pills" and cathartics, which have absolutely no digestive power.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be found at all drug stores and the regular use of one or two of them after meals will demonstrate their merit better than any other argument.

Eric Sharpe Acquitted.

Kingston, Oct. 1.—The trial of Eric Sharpe, accused of manslaughter, in shooting dead his school associate, Beatrice Holland, on April 28, began yesterday afternoon. The facts of the sad occurrence were detailed by teacher and pupils. The defence was that the shooting was accidental, the lad not knowing the weapon was loaded. He had shown witness the weapon at 1 p. m. It was loaded then, as Sharpe told him it was. Jessie Morrison, another pupil, said there was no ill-feeling between the two, and that Beatrice was a particular friend of Eric. After being out three-quarters of an hour, the jury returned with a verdict of "not guilty," and accordingly the youthful prisoner was acquitted.

The Day of Miracles

is past, but many who are cured of itching, bleeding or protruding piles by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment look upon their recovery as the next thing to miraculous. Kingston, St. Vincent, Oct. 1.—Widespread dissatisfaction prevails here in connection with the relief work on this island. A portion of the food, clothing and other supplies contributed by the United States Government for the assistance of sufferers from the eruptions has been sold under its value by the local Government to merchants abroad. Representations on the ground of mal-administration of the relief funds have been made to the Colonial Secretary, Mr. Chamberlain, who has commissioned A. M. Ashmore, the Government Secretary at Demerara, to proceed to St. Vincent in connection with the relief work early in October, and it is rumored that another commissioner is coming from England on the same errand.

NOT JUST AS GOOD

Did you ever inquire at a store for certain articles and get for a reply "We have something just as good"? Did it ever occur to you that "Something just as good" is something the dealer has been able to buy much cheaper than the articles you inquire for? This is true in drugs, fabrics, groceries, hardware, and in fact every line, including silver-plated ware. If you inquire for 1847 Rogers Bros.' Knives, Forks or Spoons, don't accept any bogus Rogers' stamp because your dealer tells you it's just as good.

1847 ROGERS BROS. TRADE MARK

The above trade mark has been stamped on every article of the original and genuine Rogers Bros.' goods for over 50 years. Get this and you get the best that is made.

A DARING WORKMAN.

His Crazy Antics on an Unfinished Bridge Across the Niagara.

"I remember," said a bridge contractor some time ago while on the subject of workmen's daredeviltries, "when working at the big bridge across the Niagara when the two cantilever arms had approached within fifty feet of each other a keen rivalry as to who should be the first to cross sprang up among the men. A long plank connected the two arms, leaving about two and a half feet of support at each end. Strict orders were issued that no one should attempt to cross the plank upon penalty of instant dismissal.

"At the noon hour I suddenly heard a great shout from the men, who were all starting up. Raising my eyes, I saw a man step on the end of that plank, stop a minute and look down into the whirlpool below. I knew he was going to cross, and I shouted to him, but he was too high up to hear. Deliberately he walked out until he reached the middle of the plank. It sagged far down with his weight until I could see light between the two short supporting ends and the cantilevers on which they rested. He saw the end in front of him do this, hesitated and looked back to see how the other end was.

"I thought he was going to turn. He stopped, grasped both edges of the plank with his hands and, throwing his feet up, stood on his head, kicking his legs in the air, cracking his heels together and yelling to the terrified onlookers. This he did for about a minute. It seemed to me like forty. Then he let his feet drop down, stood up, waved his hat and trotted along the plank to the other side and regained the ground.

"We discharged him, of course, but what did he care? He got all the glory, his fellows envied him, and he could command work anywhere."

The Color of It.

"And you loaned him $2? Did you ever see the color of his money?"

"Well, yes. There was a good deal of dun to it before I got it."

And Yet He Has Plenty of Sand.

Although the medicine business should, above all, be carried on with the utmost conscientiousness and sense of responsibility, the unfortunate fact is that in no other is there so much humbug and deception. The anxieties of the sick and their relatives are traded upon in the most shameful manner; impossible cures are promised; many preparations are absolutely worthless, and some are positively dangerous to health.

As a consequence, all proprietary remedies are regarded with suspicion by many people, and the good suffer for the bad.

A HORRIBLE SCHEME.

Collingwood Man Said to Have Planned His Mother's Murder.

INSURANCE AGENT ROSE'S STORY

Tried to Hire an Accomplice—The Latter Feigned Acquiescence and Informed the Authorities—The Policy in This Insurance Fiend Was For Only $1,500—Police Now Investigating.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—The police authorities are investigating a statement filed with them accusing a citizen of Collingwood with having conspired to accomplish his mother's death. The motive for the proposed matricide was the possession of the $1,500 insurance on the woman's life.

The charge is made by John Rose, a Toronto insurance solicitor, who declares that he played detective, received an offer from the son of a part of the money if he would get rid of the woman, and was actually paid $20 with which to take the woman into the States and purchase poison.

In fact Mr. Rose asserts that the conspiracy progressed to the point where he brought the intended victim to Toronto, while the unnatural son supposed she had been taken across the line to be slain. He says that after listening to the plans of the would-be murderer for a month he concluded that time had come to expose the miserable scheme to the police.

If the authorities are convinced that a crime was contemplated, arrests will probably be made within a few hours.

Rose has nothing to corroborate his startling statement that the man he accuses stands well in Collingwood.

Trolley Took Off His Head.

Montreal, Que., Oct. 1. — George Laviolette, a conductor on the Wellington street car line, fell under the car yesterday morning on McGill street and was decapitated. He had collected fares from three ladies who took the front seat of an open car and in swinging around lost his balance and in making an unsuccessful grasp at the handle on the front of the car fell under the wheels, which severed his neck.

Gain Nearly a Million.

Ottawa, Oct. 1. — The customs revenue of the Dominion is growing rapidly. For the three months of the fiscal year ending yesterday the revenue was $9,070,717, compared with $8,035,094 for the same time last year, an increase of $935,662. The revenue for the month of September was $3,141,050, an increase of $382,905 over September, 1901.

Eleven Peasants Killed.

Vienna, Oct. 1.—An agrarian revolt has occurred at Vadadeny, Hungary. The revolting peasants robbed and burned the mansion of Count Sazabady and plundered his entire estate, doing damage amounting to $1,000,000. Troops were ordered out and restored order, but not before eleven of the peasants were killed and forty injured.

Bourassa Again Speaks.

London, Oct. 1.—Henri Bourassa, M. P., indulges in more threats in The Monthly Review for October of what the French-Canadians will do if Canada is hurried into schemes of Imperial defence or tariffs. He says the French-Canadians are satisfied and proud of their Canadian citizenship, but if a change is forced upon them by those who aspire to greater nationality, they would incline to pan-Americanism, where under the American flag they could preserve self-government for their Province. Bourassa argues that French-Canadians have given the Empire quite as much as they have received; and have nothing to thank British statesmanship for.

More War Medals.

Ottawa, Oct. 1.—War decorations have arrived for the following Canadians who served in irregular corps in South Africa: Trooper F. D. Lauder, Trooper T. Morrison, 2nd Regiment Brabant's Horse, medal and three clasps; S. Smith, J. Moult, Trooper R. O'Shaughnessy, 1st Regiment Scottish Horse, medal; Bombardier Wheeler, M. Kelley, 4th Battalion, R.F.A., medal and three clasps; Trooper C. H. Chopin, Remington's Guides, medal and six clasps.

Gives Away $45,000,000 a Year.

London, Oct. 1.—Andrew Carnegie, according to his own computation, made to a friend, has recently given away nearly $45,000,000 per annum. He averages that about eight libraries per day can be erected, giving an average of $15,000 to each. Apparently he does not anticipate a cessation of his daily donations.

Beef Trust Painted Sausages.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 1.—During the beef trust inquiry yesterday the fact was developed that members of the packers trust resorted to paint to make sausages look fresh. Instead of smoking the meat, it was dipped in a chemical solution and thus the blood red appearance was preserved.

Gen. Hutton in Trouble Again.

London, Oct. 1. — The Chronicle says that Major-General Hutton, G. O.C., N.S.W. militia, is at loggerheads with Premier Dibbs because the former made public a scheme of military instruction before its having been sanctioned by the Cabinet.

SUICIDE NEAR MONTREAL.

Wife of a Constable Uses Her Husband's Revolver.

Montreal, Oct. 1.—Mrs. Joseph Audette, La Prairie, shot and killed herself yesterday at her home with her husband's revolver. Joseph Audette is the constable of La Prairie, and was home to dinner at 12 o'clock as usual. Mrs. Audette, did not then complain of being ill and chatted in a very friendly manner. She was again seen about 2 o'clock by one of the neighbors, and seemed to be in good spirits. When Mr. Audette returned to supper at 6 o'clock he was surprised to find the door locked. On receiving no response to his knocks he forced the door, and was shocked to find his wife lying in a pool of her own blood, clotted on the floor of her bedroom. Beside her was the revolver.

MARKET REPORTS.

Wheat Sold at 95 Cents at Chicago Tuesday—Liverpool Higher For Corn—The Latest Quotations.

Tuesday Evening, Sept. 30.

Liverpool wheat futures closed ½d lower in Liverpool to-day and corn futures ½d to ½d higher.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Wheat sold on the Board of Trade to-day at 95c, which is the highest price for that cereal since the great Leiter deal in 1898. The cause of this was that all the available supply was practically cornered, and it was rumored that Armour & Company held the greater part of it. There has been great anxiety among shorts in September wheat for the past two weeks. When trading opened this morning there was a considerable number who had not made good their contracts.

At 95c there was a halt in the advancing figures, shorts apparently having succeeded in supplying their needs. The close was at the high price, with a gain of 7⅛c over yesterday's close.

ORIGIN OF THE KISS.

The Greek Story of the Way in Which It Came Into Being.

Kissing is usually accepted as an agreeable fact, and its theory and history are ignored, but if kissing did not begin with Adam and Eve it began with the beautiful young Greek shepherdess who found an opal on one of the hills of Greece and, wishing to give it to a youthful shepherd whose hands were busy with his flock, let him take it from her lips with his own, says Science Siftings. Thus the kiss was invented, and perhaps the popular superstition against the opal may be traced back to the same incident, for osculation has wrought great tragedies in the world's history.

Kissing was once an act of religion. The nearest friend of a dying person performed the right of receiving his soul by a kiss, supposing that it escaped through his lips at the moment of expiration. It is said that kissing was first introduced into England by royalty. The British monarch Vortigern gave a banquet in honor of his Scandinavian allies, at which Rowena, the beautiful daughter of Hengist, was present. During the proceedings, after pressing a brimming beaker to her lips, she saluted the astonished and delighted monarch with a kiss "after the manner of her people."

The most honorable royal kiss on record is that which Queen Margaret of France in the presence of the whole court one day imprinted on the lips of the ugliest man in the kingdom, Alain Chartier, whom she found asleep. To those around her she said, "I do not kiss the man, but the mouth that has uttered so many charming things."

The Demon of Indigestion.

Cooks and housekeepers have a nobler mission than they as a class seem to be aware of. It is that of feeding the human being and keeping him in health and good working condition. A poorly fed man is likely to be miserable. Few if any of us are able to rise above conditions.

"A sick man, sir," said Dr. Johnson, "is always a scoundrel." The language is perhaps somewhat strong and lacking in charity, but it contains a good grain of truth. The dyspeptic, who sees the world given over to evil and daily growing worse, is very likely to think himself unable to swim against the current and to drift to disaster. "We are saved by hope," but without a good digestion faith, hope and charity are almost impossible.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Notes Concerning the Movements of Peterborough People and Their Visitors

Mr. Ernie Moore of Port Colborne, is in town to-day.

Mrs. J. Sisson, of Mount Pleasant, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Wm. Batten, McDonel street.

Mr. Erle A. Armstrong left last evening for New York, en route to London, England, where he intends spending a few months.

Miss Mary Baylor, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. W. Menzies, 291 Rubidge street, during the summer, left this morning on the G. T.R. for Newark, N. J.

Mr. J. M. Boyle, business manager for Gay Bros' Minstrels, was in town arranging for the appearance here of the minstrels on October 8th. Mr. Boyle states that all through Quebec and Eastern Ontario the company has pulled great houses. The show is greatly strengthened, and is deserving of success.

JOHN DUNDAS IN TROUBLE.

He was Arrested on a Charge of Obtaining Goods Under False Pretence.

John Dundas was supposed to be best man at a wedding to-day but was suddenly detained and is now occupying quarters at the police station, and will be charged at the police court to-morrow morning with obtaining goods under false pretences. Dundas' scheme of getting a suit of cloths for such an important event was a very foolish one. He ordered the suit from Mr. Peter Simons and they were ready to deliver this after. Dundas came and presented an order which purported to be signed by Mr. Felix Brownscombe, Town Treasurer, stating that the town owed him $25, alleging it to be the usual South African grant to volunteers.

Mr. Simons soon found out the swindle and Dundas was at once arrested.

Mrs. Morrow's Concert To-night.

The lovers of high class music artistically presented are reminded of the exceedingly promising concert to be given under the auspices of Mrs. W. J. Morrow to-night. In addition to brilliant pianoforte selections, Mrs. Morrow will contribute two vocal numbers, and Mr. Harold Jarvis will appear in two or three sterling selections, and also in duet with Mrs. Morrow. Mr. Harry M. Bennett, of Toronto, a high class entertainer will also contribute several of his unique selections. The pubic should take advantage of hearing these artists. They should certainly be appreciated in Peterborough since Mrs. Morrow and Mr. Jarvis will appear on Thursday night on the concert platform in Massey Hall, Toronto, where Mrs. Morrow's rapidly increasing reputation has secured her an engagement to appear for the first time. Reserved plan, with few vacant seats, at Ormond & Walsh's drug store. The Heintsman & Co's Concert Grand piano, same as was used at all the large entertainments in Massey Hall, Toronto, has been shipped to Peterborough for this occasion.

Rupert of Hentzau.

The following letter has been received from Mr. Small, Grand Opera House, Toronto, regarding to-morrow night's attraction: — "Rupert of Hentzau" Company gave a good performance of this play and I sincerely trust that this attraction may do the business in Peterborough to which it is entitled." Plan of Opera House closes at 7 p.m. sharp to-morrow. No person should miss this treat.

THE CENTRAL EXHIBITION.

A Movement on Foot to Re-organize the Central Exhibition Association.

The failure of the Peterborough Central Exhibition during the past number of years has made it plain that something must be done to change the style of the show or introduce some new feature therein that shall command the attention of the people of the district and place the society on a financially sound basis. With this object in view the following circular has been sent out, signed by His Worship Mayor Denne :—

It is proposed to form an organization composed of business men and merchants of the town, and farmers of the county, with the object of carrying on in the town an annual fair, to be called the Peterborough Industrial.

It is important that it be fully known to what extent the business men and merchants of the town are prepared to support the work of such an organization, and a meeting with this object in view, will be held in the Council Chamber, on Friday evening, October 3rd, at eight o'clock.

You are urged to attend. The matter is sufficiently important that it should be given preference over other engagements. A proposition will be laid before the meeting covering the objects as above, and it would be well if you were present to hear the discussion, and take part in the organization.

THE PRESBYTERY.

An Adjourned Meeting Held at St. Paul's Church This Morning—Some Resignations.

An adjourned meeting of the Presbytery was held in St. Andrew's this morning. There were present, Dr. Torrance, Messrs. Lord, Potter, Bennett, McIntyre, Campbell, Atkinson, Somerville, Ross, ministers; and Mr. Robt. Harrison, elder.

Mr. Lord tendered the resignation of the Convenership of the Augmentation Committee, which was accepted. Mr. R. Harrison, elder, was appointed as his successor.

Mr. Reeves was appointed to exchange pulpits with Mr. Campbell, of Havelock at an early date, and to urge the people there to contribute more largely to the Stipend Fund, so as to meet the falling off in the Augmentation Grant.

The remit of Assembly on "Aids to Worship" was approved of.

Messrs. Harrison and Sinclair were appointed to appear before the Assembly's Augmentation Committee in March next to plead the cause of the Augmented Congregations within the bounds.

Mr. Potter presented the report of H. M. Committee as to the Missionaries needed for the winter months, and as to the changes that might be effected to economize men and money. The report was adopted.

Mr. Harrison and Mr. Bennett were instructed to prepare a report for presentation to the executive of the Augmentation Committee, which has been convened to meet on Monday next.

The Presbytery very reluctantly accepted of the resignations of Messrs. Ross and Somerville, of their respective charges of Roseneath and Norwood. The former charge is to be declared vacant on the first Sabbath in November, and the latter on the 19th October.

Presbytery adjourned to meet again in the Walton street Hall, Port Hope, on the 9th December, at 2 o'clock, p.m.

SIX MONTHS IN JAIL.

Blanche Royal's Sentence at the Police Court This Morning.

At the Police Court this morning Blanche Royal came up pursuant to remand. Blanche is a familiar figure in the local Police Court now and it has been a most perplexing question indeed to the Magistrate and other officials to know what to do with her. Her record is also well known to the people of the town and particularly to the jail officials, and local charitable institutions. Miss Blanche lay in the prisoners' box at the police court this morning, as motionless as a log. The general opinion of the court officials was that her action this morning and on a good many previous occasions is feigned. But there is certainly something peculiarly wrong about the girl, and she has on more than one occasion attempted to take her life.

Magistrate Dumble has given the girl's condition a careful study and this morning he concluded that the jail was the best place for her for the next six months. He felt that she would have shelter, the services of a physician and warmth during the winter.

NEWS NUGGETS.

PENNSYLVANIA "COAL BARONS."

Old King Coal
Was a merry old soul,
A merry old soul was he;
He called for his steeds,
And his wagon for coal,
And sent in a dunn,
For fifteen a ton,
And laughed with a fiendish glee.
But, old King Coal,
You merry old soul,
The time will come,
In your future home,
When you won't want for fuel, you see.
Mephisto, the joker,
The merry old stoker,
Will find coal for "Coal Barons," free.

HOME AGAIN.

Sgt. Murphy and Dr. Blanchard Arrived in Peterborough This Morning.

Sergt. Michael Murphy and Dr. Blanchard arrived in Peterborough this morning, after an absence of many months in South Africa. Both soldiers left with the 2nd Canadian Mounted Rifles, and during an engagement Murphy was struck on the head with a piece of shell, and has been in hospital almost continuously since that time.

Dr. Blanchard, too, has been invalided, and their friends are now much pleased to see them home once more. Sergt. Murphy, although not completely recivered from his wounds, is in a great deal better condition than it was at one time expected he ever would be. It is generally regretted that Murphy and Blanchard did not arrive home at an hour when a fitting reception could have been recorded them.

Spanking Team of Horses.

Dr. F. L. Robinson, V. S., has become the proud owner of the splendid team of carriage horses which were awarded first prize at the Lindsay Fair last week. They are a beautifully matched pair of jet blacks, without a single white spot or hair. They are three years old, stand 16 hands high, with good clean legs and body, and good weight. It took some money to bring them to Peterborough, and it would take a good deal more on top of it now to buy them, —so the Doc. says.

MR. MATCHETT REMEMBERED

By the Pupils of the Ashburnham Schools.

An Interesting Presentation That Took Place Yesterday Afternoon—The Address.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. M. W. Matchett, who has been principal of the Ashburnham public school since 1893, was presented by the school children with an address and a silver cream jug and sugar bowl. The address, which was read by Janet Quinn, was as follows;

Ashburnham, Sept. 30th, 1902.

M. W. Matchett, Esq.;

Dear Mr. Matchett,—We have learnt with much regret that you have decided to disconnect yourself with the Ashburnham Public School, of which you have been the Principal for several years. It is our earnest wish on this, the last day of your being our Principal, to assure you of our gratitude for the many services you have rendered us in preparing us for our respective relationships in life. We admit that we, like many others who, in their childhood, have not had the forethought of ripe experience, have not always appreciated your zeal and effort on our behalf as much as we should have done. Nevertheless, we feel to-day more seriously than ever the loss of your ability and the kindly interest that you, in and out of school, have shown us.

We wish to assure you of our appreciation of all you have done for us, and that we will always remember the privilege we have had of having been your pupils.

We ask you to accept the accompanying gift as a mark of our gratitude to you for your labours on our behalf.

In saying "good-bye" to you we wish you much success in your undertakings, and God's richest blessings upon you and your family.

On behalf of the pupils of Ashburnham Public School,

Yours affectionately,
JANET QUINN,
NORMAN GEALE,
JOHN GARVIN MARKLE

Kathleen Long then presented the silver cream jug and sugar bowl.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, who gives religious instruction to the children of the Ashburnham public school every Friday afternoon, was asked to be chairman for this special occasion. In his address he referred to the many excellent qualities of Mr. Matchett, and to the lively interest he had always taken in the welfare of the children, as well as of the school. He pointed out the excellent results the Ashburnham school has had in Entrance as well as in Promition examinations, which all proved the ability of the teaching staff, especially of Mr. Matchett. There was a happy atmosphere about the school, Mr. Langfeldt said, which was certainly due to the amiability of the principal. In his own relations to Mr. Matchett, the chairman could not give enough praise to the readiness and co-operation which Mr. Matchett had shown at every opportunity. He always felt sure of the entire sympathy with the work he was carrying on in teaching the children the elementary principles of Christianity. Personally he regretted very much that Ashburnham was losing such an efficient and kindly teacher. He called upon the children to express by earnest application to their work, and by a sincere endeavour to make their mark in life, to Mr. Matchett their gratitude for the toil and anxiety which it had cost him to impart to them the learning they needed for their life and work.

Mr. Matchett, to whom the invasion of his room, and this presentation was an entire surprise, was much overcome and deeply appreciated the good will of the pupils. He assured them of his further interest in them, and bespoke for the new principal, Mr. Kelly, their good will and obedience.

For the Boys' Rooms.

Mr. Jas. Stubbs has been greeted with crowded houses everywhere, he has gone with his new moving picture machine and phonograph. He is giving an entertainment in the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Friday evening, Oct. 3rd. Proceeds in aid of furnishing the boys' rooms. Tickets, 25c and 15c.

Out of the Ordinary.

It will be noticed that the Peterborough Bookstore announces an unique "Red Ticket Sale," commencing Wednesday morning, September 24th. This unusual event will furnish a good chance to secure special values in wall papers, window blinds, curtain poles, picture framing, etc. Every line offered will be designated by a red tag on which the regular and reduced prices will be plainly marked. This departure from "old traditions" ought to meet with the endorsement of buyers, as they will be able to see at a glance the actual saving in prices.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

A Peterborough Girl Writes of the Teachers' Work—Conditions Under Which the Canadian Contingent Exercise Their Teaching Duties.

The Examiner has been favoured with the following interesting letter from Miss Mabel Yenney, one of the two Peterborough girls who went to South Africa with the Ontario contingent of teachers. Miss Yenney writes a most interesting letter in an excellent literary style, as will be seen on reading it, but only the grateful printer knows of the elegant caligraphy, neat, clean and legible, in which it is written:

Klerksdorp, Aug. 25, 1902.

We have just begun to feel that we have a "local habitation" in South Africa, although it was three months last Sunday since we landed in Cape Town. We saw that city under very favourable circumstances, as the weather had just cleared after a week's rain, and every tree, hedge and garden shone vividly green, free from the yellow covering of dust in which they are usually shrouded. The town is very modern in appearance despite its real age; the streets are wide, the stores large and fine.

Small opportunity was given us, however, of viewing either the town or its more interesting suburbs, Sea Point, Wynberg and Rondebosch, for we started that same evening for Pretoria. The first part of our route lay through the Hex River Mountains where the scenery is said to be the grandest in this part of the continent. Winter, as it was then, there was no verdure, no green of blade and leaf to soften the grim outlines of those rugged peaks. Yet their very wildness combined with the wonderful colouring of rock and valley and sky gives to this district a stern beauty peculiarly its own.

But, like all pleasant things, this part of our journey was soon past, and for three days our way lay over the barren karoo. A wide expanse of waving green in the rain time, it now stretched away, mile after mile, to the far horizon, dry, dusty and treeless. Travelling over this scorched plain would have been monotonous in the extreme, except for the exciting knowledge that we were now

IN THE "WAR COUNTRY."

Along the railway, at longer or shorter intervals, stood those structures devised by Lord Kitchener, which did so much to end the war—the block-houses. Low buildings of sun-dried brick or corrugated iron, shaped like bee-hives and surrounded by a network of barbed wire, they did not look very formidable. At every bridge, or position of strategic importance were strong fortifications, and twice we passed through large military camps. Here and there, very pathetic to see, lay a lonely grave, or group of graves, marked by a rude cross or a name and regiment picked out in white pebbles.

All this was interesting, but still more so was the knowledge that all along the line hovered strong commandos under well-known leaders, who very occasionally made a dash at passing trains. But—to our great disappointment it must be confessed—we got through without so much as seeing a Boer or hearing a shot fired.

After travelling for a week we arrived at Camp Irene, seven miles from Pretoria, where we were, most kindly and hospitably entertained for some days. This was the distributing centre for teachers to all points of the Transvaal, and the now camps of the district. There were over a thousand children in the schools. That was three months ago. Now there are none, so rapidly are the concentration camps breaking up.

At the end of the week, our inspector came to Irene, and escorted four of us to Potchefstroom. This is the FORMER CAPITAL OF THE TRANSVAAL.

and is most quaintly and delightfully Dutch. It is called the "Garden of the Transvaal" on account of its beauty, which is, being interpreted, the number of fruit trees and green trees it possesses. Through the town flows the River Mooi (pretty,) a narrow, winding creek bordered by tall reeds and overhung with willows. The houses are low, one-storey structures, surrounded on three sides by the inevitable "stoep," usually covered with vines. Every house has its garden, a mass of colour in summer, and with roses and violets blooming even in mid-winter. There are no buildings of any size except the post-office and the churches, some of which are rather fine, but very foreign in appearance.

The main road from the town leads straight up to the camp which is situated on the slope of a hill about half a mile away. This road passes over two bridges, both of which were strongly guarded in war time, and just outside the camp is a large blockhouse. Like all the camps it is surrounded by a high wire fence with gates by which a sentry stands night and day, and even now no one whose face is not known is allowed to enter without a permit. Just outside the main entrance stands the superintendent's office, a long, low building of corrugated iron — of course.

From the gate a street about forty feet wide leads up the slope for several hundred yards. Tents, marquees and single bell-tents, border the road and stretch away as far as eye can see. The road, as well as the space occupied by the camp, is kept by a gang of boys whose duty it is to pick all chips, stray pieces of paper, etc. Another street, as wide and clean as the first, crosses it forming a sort of capital "T." At one corner stands the commissariat, a low adobe structure where the rations of food are given out, and opposite it is the coal and wood yard where the burgers, or generally the burgers' wives, receive their daily supply of fuel.

On the second street are the dispensary—with its morning crowd of applicants—the doctors' quarters, and the two camp stores where you can get anything (except what you want) from tinned butter to a pair of veldtschoon. The orphanage is here too, built only of canvas, it is true, but beautifully neat and spotless. Across from the orphanage stands the oven, an imposing structure of brick, with a guard before it from dawn to dark to regulate the temperature, and to see that it is opened only at the proper moment, for here the bread for the whole camp is baked. Early in the morning the great bell rings, and girls and women may be seen coming from all directions, carrying pans of every shape and size. About noon the bell is rung again, and the carefully watched batch is taken out to make room for another.

Just beyond the oven a wire fence divides the school enclosure from the main camp. This compound is about a hundred and fifty feet square, and contains

TEN SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

These are not tents, but are made of canvas stretched over a light rough frame work of wood. For some unexplained reason the canvas is not fastened all the way down to the bottom, but hangs loose for about two feet above the ground. This is an important fact in discipline, for one of the secrets of good order in such a school is to seat the naughty children on the ends of the benches next the wall. Then let the teacher's eagle eye be turned in another direction, and—hey! presto! as if by magic they vanish under the flaps, and quiet reigns in the class room. The windows are merely little sail cloth doors which have to be closed in time of dust or rain, leaving a dim religious light indeed. The floors are of earth, made hard by continual application of water and a broom. Each school, capable of seating one hundred children, has benches, and one of the ten has desks. These, with a moveable blackboard, and a table for the teacher, constitute the furniture. When one of the teachers desires to sit down, she sends to the mess-tent for a chair. Then as she returns when school is over, she is accompanied by a bevy of attendant children, one proudly carrying the chair, another her clock, a third her books and register, while the rest go along to assure themselves that she arrives without mishap.

The children themselves are lively, intelligent and affectionate. Before we came out we heard a great deal about we should find. But in all the camps I have seen thus far there has been no signs of any such alarming lack of cleanliness. Either the tales had been greatly exaggerated or a twelve months in camp has taught the burghers to exercise that virtue which ranks next to godliness. Under the circumstances, the closeness of their quarters and the scarcity of water, they are remarkably neat and tidy.

"THE DIRTY CHILDREN"

From pupils to teachers is an easy transition. In Potchefstroom they all live in tents in a separate compound behind the schools. Nearly all the "school-misses" occupy bell-tents, and a marquee is used as a dining-room. This is really very comfortable, and looks quite cheery when a fire is crackling in the brick fireplace. The kitchen is built of corrugated iron, and its presiding genius is a middle-aged Dutch woman, with a genial expression, and a quantity of short, straight black hair. She is the soul of good nature, but has rather eccentric ideas of the fitness of things. For example, she often combs her hair in the kitchen in close proximity to the soup-kettle or milk jug, and she has been seen to wash her face with the cloth which had just washed the cups. But these are mere details!

on us all. The establishment also boasts an errand boy, who once was a good and willing youth. But during vacation he got a new suit of clothes which quite demoralized him, for he felt that he must live up to them, and his usefulness was in consequence sadly impaired.

Such a household evidently needs a head, and in some of the camps they have a housekeeper. But at Potchefstroom each of the girls takes a week at seeing to domestic affairs. As the cook's knowledge does not extend to the making of cakes, sauces, or puddings, it frequently happens that the mess president has to cater to the mess with her own fair hands. This, though not specified in the terms of the agreement is not after all, bad practice. Most of us, I take it, came out for the experience, and the more experiences of different sorts we can crowd into the year the better we shall be pleased. For it means so much more to relate when we get home — which is the burden of our thoughts at most times. Everything, aside of course from the discharge of our educational duties, is done or planned with a view to home and home people.

APPRENTICE QUARRELS.

Young French Workmen Travel Always Ready For a Fight.

Jealousies between the workmen's corporations in France result in "Homeric" combats, bloody battles. It is the one bad side of an institution that is otherwise so truly fraternal.

They start out in companies, rarely alone, to make their "tour of France." Before coming back to continue their work in their own villages the young apprentices go together from town to town to study on the ground the masterpieces of their trade and to see the best that the genius of their ancestors has produced. It is the knight errantry of the workman.

He earns his living en route, perfects himself in his profession, learns from one master and another, sees, compares, studies, admires. He gathers his humble harvest of souvenirs and impressions, enjoys the full vigor of his early years and passes his youth along the sunny highways.

Unfortunately there is disagreement among the "societies." In everything there is found a pretext for quarrels. The society of the Pere Soubise is jealous of that of Maitre Jacques, and the Enfants du Solomon take part in the quarrel whenever possible.

Two companies meet on the road. The two leaders, the "master companions," stop at twenty paces from each other.

"Halt!" says one.
"Halt!" says the other.
"What trade?"
"Carpenter. And you?"
"Stonecutter. Companion?"
"Companion!"
"Your society—country?"

And according to the reply they drink from the same gourd or fight. The melee becomes general. They fight, fist and stick, until the road is littered with those who are wounded, sometimes even to the death.

He Says he is now Feeling Better Than he has for Many Years.

An Open Letter in Which a Prominent Citizen Gives a Strong Recommendation for Dodd's Kidney Pills, a Remedy Which He Says Restored Him to Good Health.

Welland, Ont., Sept. 29.—(Special.) Mr. J. J. Yokom, grocer and provision merchant of this place, has given for publication, an open letter as follows:

"For a year or more I had been ailing with Kidney Trouble in all of its worst forms. I had a very depressed feeing in my head and little or no appetite, a constant feeling of langour, and I became greatly reduced in weight.

"At times I was entirely incapacitated.

"I have spent considerable money in medicines of different kinds but did not get any good results. I also doctored with a physician of vast experience, but got no benefit.

"At last I became discouraged and hopeless of ever being well again. One day by luck I heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and began to use them.

"From the first they seemed to suit my case exactly, and when I had taken five boxes my old trouble had entirely disappeared, and I was feeling better than I had in many years.

"I am now in splendid health and able to stand great exertion, in fact my general health is better than it has been in a long time.

"Since my recovery I have told many others of Dodd's Kidney Pills and how they cured me to stay cured Many of them say it seems impossible and yet they know it is true."

(Signed,) J. J. YOKOM.

Mr. Yokom has been a resident of Welland for years and is known to every man, woman, and child in the town. He was born in the neighbouring township of Crowland, within three miles of his present home, and is known as a man of Christian principles who would not make a statement that would in any way be misleading.

FAMOUS ILLUSIONS.

SOME SECRETS OF PROFESSIONAL CONJURERS REVEALED.

How the Mysteries Are Destroyed and the Tricks Shorn of Their Charms by a Peep at the Mechanism Behind the Scenes.

A behind the scenes view of the famous illusions with which conjurers have mystified and delighted generation after generation has peculiar fascinations. There are few of us who value our own childish illusions so highly that we will not part with them for the fun of seeing how we have been fooled.

Here are examples of some of the best known tricks:

The box trick is as clever as well known and as old as any. A heavy, brass bound chest is exhibited. An assistant is placed in a large canvas bag, the mouth of which is securely fastened, and the bag is placed in the chest, which is locked and roped.

The box is concealed for a few seconds, and when it is revealed the occupant is sitting upon it, the closed and sealed bag beside him. The cords and seals on the box are intact.

This astonishing feat is accomplished thus: The occupant of the bag has inserted a wooden plug in the mouth while the tying is being done. When the chest is locked, he pulls it out, slips out his hand, pulls off the cords, gets out and replaces the cords over the top of the sack.

By the time the chest is roped he is free. The chest has a secret opening, usually at the end, and while it is hidden he crawls out. A slim man is usually employed to do the trick.

The vanity fair trick is one of the most baffling in the repertory of the black art. A woman stands before a large mirror about ten feet high and placed in a heavy frame. About three feet from the floor is a small shelf placed against the mirror, the bottom of which is about eighteen inches from the floor. The glass having been duly inspected, the young woman mounts the shelf. She then turns to arrange her hair by the mirror. She is asked to face the audience, but again and again turns her back, hence the name of the trick.

Finally, losing patience, the performer thrusts a small screen in front of her, fires a pistol at the spot where she was standing, snatches away the screen, and she has vanished.

The top, bottom and sides of the mirror have been in view all the time and only the center has been hidden for a few seconds.

The secret lies in the fact that the lower part of the mirror is made double, the bottom of the upper part being concealed by a second sheet of silvered glass placed in front of it.

The shelf fits against the line of junction, and enables the mirror to be examined by the audience. As soon as the screen is placed the mirror slides up about a foot into the top of the frame. The bottom of this mirror is cut away in the middle, leaving a hole about eighteen inches square, which was previously concealed from view by the double glass at the base.

Through this hole the lady instantly slips, and escapes by a board which has been pushed forward from behind the scenes while the vanity fair byplay was going on. The glass then slides down again, the screen is removed, and the mirror appears just as solid as it was before.

Another of the most astounding feats of modern magic is that of making a person or object apparently float in the air. A couple of ordinary chairs are placed on the stage—well toward the back, which is draped with black cloth—and upon these is laid a broad, thick plank. A young lady is then introduced and is assisted to place herself in a recumbent position on the plank.

He then draws aside the chairs, and the plank, with the lady on it, remains apparently suspended in the air. To prove that the plank is not supported, the exhibitor takes a large hoop and passes it backward and forward over and around the plank.

Yet there is an attachment. As soon as the lady is placed in position on the board a carriage, placed behind the black curtain and supporting a strong iron bar twice bent upon itself, is pushed forward by an assistant so that the iron bar, which is covered with black cloth, comes out through a slit in the curtain while the exhibiter is pretending to mesmerize the lady. The bar has at its end a very strong clip, and the performer, while making his hypnotic passes, guides this on to the board. The chairs are then removed, and the board remains suspended by the invisible iron bar.

The hoop is passed along from one end until it reaches the bend where the bar passes through the curtain. The performer passes it round the end of the board and himself walks behind, passing the ring along in the opposite direction. Next it is brought back again, and the effect is such that the average spectator is convinced that the hoop has really been passed over the lady and the board from end to end.

Another very effective illusion, arranged upon the same principle, shows the head and bust of a lady supported on a three legged stool resting on a small table. One can apparently see not only between the legs of the table to the back of the stage, but through the space between the stool and the table.

In this case the three legged stool is arranged with mirrors precisely as in the tripod illusion, but the table, which has four legs, is managed differently. A large mirror is placed diagonally under the table, joining to opposite legs. Thus the spectators really only see three of the legs, the fourth being simply the reflection of the first.—New York World.

POINTS OF FEEDING.

Professor C. B. Lane of New Jersey told at a farmers' institute at the Massachusetts Agricultural college of two cows that were fed for sixty days with a daily ration of thirty pounds of ensilage, five pounds mixed hay, four pounds wheat bran, four pounds dried grain and two pounds linseed meal. This had 20.91 pounds of dry or water free matter, of which there were 2.34 pounds of digestible protein, 76 pounds fat, 10.56 pounds of carbohydrates, or a nutritive ratio of one part protein to 5.3 of other nutritive matter. They produced 2,701.7 pounds of milk and butter fat equal to 131.04 pounds of butter.

For the same period two other cows were fed upon twelve pounds of corn stover, eight pounds of mixed hay and four pounds of cornmeal, which contained 20.93 pounds of dry matter, one pound of protein, 33 pounds of fat, 12.7 pounds of carbohydrates, a nutritive ratio of one part protein to 13.5 of other matter. They produced 3,014.2 pounds of milk, with butter fat equal to 94.33 pounds of butter, or 687.5 pounds of milk and 36.71 pounds of butter less than the two cows that were well fed.

Salt Prevents Bloating.

Mr. Simon of Rice county, Minn., says that he lets cattle go on to his clover or rape with impunity and no longer has any bloating among them. His remedy, or preventive rather, is salt where the cattle can get at it at will. He used to notice that cattle would leave a clover field and go to the barnyard, where they knew salt could be found, and when they did so they did not bloat. He has since placed rock salt near or in clover or rape pastures, letting the cattle know where it is, and since that he has had no case of bloating, though cattle have been turned into such pastures when they were wet. He says his neighbors have adopted the same plan and with the same results. This is a good thing to remember and try when the time comes.

Spells of Weakness and Dizziness

The Accompaniments of Nervous Exhaustion and Weak Heart Action.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

To many people peculiar spells of dizziness and weakness are a source of almost daily annoyance and distress. Some see flashes of light before them, and become blind and dazzled; others experience severe attacks of headache. The cause is exhaustion of the nervous system and deficiency in the quantity or quality of the blood. In all such cases Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the most certain, as well as the most thorough cure obtainable.

Mrs. Symons, 42 St. Clair street, Belleville, Ont., states: — "Some weeks ago I began a course of treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and found it a very satisfactory medicine. I was formerly troubled with nervous exhaustion and a weak, fluttering heart. Whenever my heart bothered me I would have spells of weakness and dizziness, which were very distressing. By means of weakness and dizziness, which were very distressing. By means of this treatment my nerves have become strong and healthy, and the action of my heart seems to be regular. I can recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as an excellent medicine."

DUMAS AS A COOK.

He Was Particularly Good in the Preparation of Turkeys.

Dumas pere was in producing the slave of his pen and never studied in his life. No author ever owed less to education or book learning and more to a perpetually fresh and unsophisticated mind and to sociable intercourse with the bright spirits of his day, the upper Bohemia, the best artists, dramatic authors and lions of various kinds of his time. His one accomplishment was his neat, flowing, clerkly handwriting, but he knew nothing of science, of any kind of serious literature, and as he had never thought of punctuation before he burst on the world as an author left it always to the proofreader. Like Rossini, if Dumas had not been the author of "Monte-Christo" and other novels that brought him each a fortune (which he spent as soon as he made), he might have been a great cook.

I partook of a lunch he cooked two years before his death at the house of Gudin, the painter. He came to cook it in this way: Gudin, meeting him on a Friday on the boulevard, said: "A friend has just sent me three splendid turkeys from Devonshire. What shall I do with them?" "You should let me cook them," said Dumas. "All right." "But I must go tomorrow to prepare them for the spit." Dumas arrived next morning with a hamperful of truffles for the turkeys and, not to allow any to go to waste, brought calves' sweetbreads and other delicacies which are the better for truffle accompaniments. He prepared his "plats" carefully and suggested that if Gudin wished to invite friends to a particularly well cooked lunch then was his time. "Perhaps," he added, "you had better call on Alboni and ask her to come. She will crown the feast by singing a brindisi." So said, so done. Dumas acted as chef in the kitchen until it was almost time to serve the lunch.

A most brilliant company had been invited to judge of "le grand Alexandre's" culinary talents. They declared he deserved the name of "Alexandre le Grand" and expressed their sorrow that his literary genius had deprived the world of the greatest chef of the nineteenth century. Dumas used also to cook the grand dinners which Mme. Rattazzi gave at Florence when her husband was prime minister of Italy.—London News.

OLD FASHIONED.

What has become of the old fashioned man who dressed up to serve on the jury?

What has become of the old fashioned woman who thought going to a circus was sinful?

Speaking of old fashioned things, what has become of the child who minded its mother?

What has become of the little old schoolgirl whose braids were so short and stumpy they were called pigtails?

What has become of the old fashioned woman who used to say to her children, "You'll drive me distracted?"

[illegible] has become of the old fashioned man who, according to the neighbors, could lie as fast as a horse could trot?

What has become of the old fashioned man who came to town wearing a soldier overcoat, with a buffalo lap robe in his wagon?

What has become of the old fashioned woman who used to say that a little bird came and told her when asked where she heard a piece of gossip?

Onion Sauce.

As a change from the tomato sauce usually served with breaded lamb chops try an onion sauce made in this way: Slice two or, if very small, three onions and cook them in water for a few moments and drain. Put them into just enough boiling water to cover, add a little salt and cook until tender. Cook together two tablespoonfuls each of flour and butter and when perfectly smooth add one-half pint of stock, three or four tablespoonfuls of cream and a saltspoonful each of salt and sugar and a dash of cayenne. When the onion is tender, press it through a colander and add the water in which it had been cooked.

The Work of Envy.

The leading lady was in tears, and the morning paper lay crumpled at her feet.

"What is the matter?" the manager asked.

"This horrid critic," she sobbed.

"Let me see. Where? What has he said?"

"There," she replied, pointing to the dreadful paragraph. "It says my acting was excellent, but that my gown didn't seem to fit me at all. I just know that was written by some spiteful woman."

The Small Brother.

"I heard him call you 'Duckie,'" announced the small brother.

"Well, what of it?" demanded his sister defiantly.

"Oh, nothin' much," answered the small brother. "I was only thinkin' maybe it's because of the way you walk, but it ain't very nice of him."

A Case In Point.

"Jobbers was thrown from his wheel this morning, but he pluckily arose and remounted."

"Indeed? Well, that's a case of man's not knowing when he's well off."

Aptly Termed.

A farmer in a flood district, watching his mortgaged house and barn fall over and float down the river, remarked, "That represents my floating indebtedness."

MILK FEVER IN COWS.

Possible Causes Discussed and Remedies Suggested.

There are many cows lost each year from milk fever, and the worst feature about it is that it is very apt to be the best cows in the herd—that is, those best for milk production. It may be that in some cases it is caused by overfeeding, says American Cultivator, especially during the period that they go dry before calving. We do not remember ever having seen or heard of a case where it happened to a heifer dropping her first calf. Possibly drying off too early or rapidly may cause it in some cases, or a neglect to draw the milk if the udder fills before calving, thus creating a fever by the absorption of the milk into the system. It seldom occurs to cows that are not let go dry at all or are continuous milkers.

It usually begins about the second or third day after the calf is born, and the first symptoms are usually a chill and a nervous twitching of the head or ears. Then comes the stage where the animal refuses to eat, and the secretions of milk are lessened and the bowels constipated, after which the cow is down and refuses to stand up. If it gets to this stage, there is but little chance of saving the life, though we have done so by the giving of doses of one pound of salts in which was put an ounce of jamaica ginger or perhaps a gill of whisky or rum, then injections of warm soapsuds until there was a movement of the bowels.

This may be better as a treatment for preventing it if given a day or two before she calves. Other preventives are not to feed too highly just before or after calving. Give some moderate exercise and avoid cold winds or rains, heavy drinks of very cold water or allowing the cow to lie down in a cold place. It may be a constitutional weakness in some cows, due perhaps to close breeding, too high feeding of the mother or lack of exercise. It sometimes seems to be an epidemic and attacks almost every cow in the herd, yet in such cases we should look rather to find some cause common to the treatment of the whole than to it being contagious.

The treatment by cold water cure has been recommended by some—that is, wrapping her body in a wet sheet, then covering with two or three woolen blankets and a rubber blanket if at hand. This should start a perspiration in fifteen to twenty minutes, and if it does not repeat it. To move the bowels take one ounce nux vomica, sixteen to eighteen ounces glauber or epsom salts, four and a half ounces common table salt, and boil for ten minutes in two quarts of water; then give a pint once an hour. With this should go the injection of warm soapsuds, taking care to see that she can swallow by trying with a little water first.

Another remedy recommended by some veterinarians, especially if the animal is so nearly paralyzed as to have difficulty in swallowing, is a hypodermic injection of eserine or ergotine, the eserine at one to two grains in water enough to dissolve, the ergotine twenty to thirty grains in as much water as will dissolve or two and a half ounces fluid extract, which may be repeated in twelve hours. The eserine need not be given but once, as if it fails to act the bowels are paralyzed.

While by this treatment those cases that are detected in the early stages can usually be cured, it is almost hopeless when the animals have reached that condition of paralysis where they cannot stand on their feet when lifted up.

THE FARM HAND'S IDEA.

City folks are goin' to the mountains and the seas,
For they think that they've been workin' and had ought to have some ease;
They're shuttin' their fine houses, and they're huntin' other scenes;
Some folks don't know when they're lucky or what bein' tired means.

They've merely been a-settin' down at desks day after day,
While some other folks was busy hoein' corn or pitchin' hay;
They've been leanin' over counters in the shade up there in town
Instead of hoein' taters where the sun's a-boilin' down.

Laws! If I lived in the city 'mongst the things to see up there,
Makin' money by the bushel and with costly clo's to wear,
You can bet nobody'd catch me packin' up to go away;
Some folks don't know when they're lucky, and that's all I got to say.

Eczema Easily Cured.

Merrill's System Tonic has cured many cases of blood and skin diseases such as eczema, scrofula, pimples and syphilitic sores, than all other remedies combined. Besides being a most powerful blood purifier it is an excellent tonic and cures by assisting nature to throw off the disease. A fifty cent bottle lasts three weeks. Sold at Ormond and Walsh's.

Retribution.

"How did you git along while you was to town?" asked Mrs. Corntossel.

"Fine," answered her husband.

"Buy any gold bricks?"

"No; but I sold them tou[illegible] chickens and them last year's packed eggs and a few other choice bargains. When them city people comes to count up, I reckon, they'll be ready to admit that the worm has turned."—Washington Star.

She Hoped He Was.

"I never saw anything so eccentric as that clock of ours," said she, by way of a hint.

"Eccentric? Like me, eh? Ha, ha!" Mr. Staylate chortled.

"Goodness! I hope not."

"No?"

"No. It isn't going, you know."—Philadelphia Press.

Weary Brain Workers.

All fagged out, ideas flow slowly as molasses, snap and energy gone! The buoyancy that made work a pleasure, that gone also. A doctor would say you are run down, enervated, neither eating or digesting enough. It's Ferrozone you need to brace up that fitful appetite and improve assimilation and digestion so that lots of pure strong blood will be formed to nourish the broken down system. Ferrozone will drive away the tired feeling, restore your spirits and energy, revive your ambition and strength for work. No tonic or rebuilder like Ferrozone—try it. Price 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50; at Ormond & Walsh's.

Sharpe—Well—er—perhaps so, provided you told him over the telephone.—Philadelphia Press.

Just Right for a Hot Day.

Does this weather do you up? Then for that fagged out feeling try a bottle of Merrill's System Tonic. It puts new life and energy into the body and makes one feel equal to their duties. As a muscular and nerve tonic and bowel regulator, this medicine has no equal. Price 50c per bottle of 50 doses at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

Funny.

STOCK MARKETS.

American stocks were steady during the day after opening, but slightly lower than last night's close.

Pa opened at 164 3-8, and closed at 164 1-2; B O opened at 107 1-2, closing at 108 3-4, its highest being 109 1-2; Reading, which made the largest gain during the day, opened at 69 3-4, closing at 72 3-8, highest 73 1-2; N Y C lost a 1-4, opening at 157 7-8 and closing at 157 5-8; C P R lost 3-8, opening at 139, closing at 138 5-8; Norfolk gained 1 1-2 points, going from 72 1-2 to 74; St Paul lost 3-4 to-day from opening, which is two points lower than yesterday, closing at 109; U P opened at 106 1-2, closing at 106 3-4; Texas is 1-8 of a point higher than yesterday, closing at 47 3-4; leather is the strongest on the board. C F I opened at 79 5-8, closing at 81 1-2, highest being 82 1-2.

Money was low at 6, highest 9 ,and closed at 7.

The principal buying of stocks this morning has come from shorts covering. It is reported that there is a great deal of buying from outside concerns not connected with the exchange.

There has been little new investment or commission house buying. Our brokers report selling, as a rule, a good deal better than buying.

Stocks have turned strong and acting on general buying movement, based on Washington dispatch. President is holding another Cabinet meeting with the view of finding ways and means for bringing about a settlement of the coal strike. It has stimulated the whole market. There is very good selling on every fractional advance. We expect to see speculation become much narrower, and believe it will drift to a comparatively traders' market.

Sales to noon, 515,000.

McINTYRE & MARSHALL.

The Toronto Globe says, editorially.—Wall street is still a financial storm centre, and yesterday was one of the most exciting since the monetary stringency sent the rate on call loans soaring and broke prices all down the list of securities. The opening was marked by a sharp advance from the demoralized closing of the previous day,and many gains of three and four points were recorded, Missouri Pacific and St. Paul advancing more than five points. This was in spite of a rate of 13 to 19 per cent., for call money. A few weeks ago such an advance as this would have caused but very little excitement, but the recent unfavourable developements have created a short interest of considerable activity, and the rise in prices brought a rush to cover. Later in the day the market became more irregular, and there was some profit-taking on the advance, which showed that many active securities were easily depressed. The chief influence responsible for the altered tone of the market was the announcement by Secretary Shaw that the banks would be relieved from the necessity of holding a gold reserve against Government deposits secured by United States bonds. There are now about $130,000 000 of Government deposits in the banks, and the measure adopted will relieve them of the necessity of keeping against that liability $30 000,000 reserves. That amount has been made available for circulation. The offer to permit the substitution of other securities for consols held by the Government provided they are used as a basis for increased circulation, may give the banks $60,000,000 additional available funds The effect of these measures was seen in a steadying of the rate of interest in the afternoon, the last loan being made at 4 per cent., with an offer at three per cent. The restoration of a normal rate had a stiffening effect on values. Some relief has been afforded, but the crops are still to move, the premature payment of interest on Government bonds will not commence till October 13th, and extensive gold imports are not yet in sight.

RUGBY.

The dropping out of the intermediate series of the O.R.F.U. of the Port Hope Rugby Club leaves only Ottawa and Peterborough to battle for the championship of the eastern district. Ottawa and Peterborough are old time rivals and for several years now have met on the gridiron to settle the question as to who should play off with London for the championship. Peterborough has for the past three years come out victorious but as to whether or not they will do the same this year, it is a question that time alone can determine. It will be no fault of the Peterborough management, or the Peterborough team if the Senators are not put out of business. Whilst it is true that the locals have lost some of their best players it must be remembered that no man is so good that he cannot be replaced. With all due respect to the service rendered the local club in time past by players of last year's team it is down right hard facts when we say that a corp of juniors is looming up in the local football horizon that for speed, weight and judgment cannot be excelled in any rugby town in Ontario, and will make capable substitutes for those of last year's team who will not figure on the 15 this season. The success of the Peterborough fifteen during the past few years has had a wonderfully stimulating effect upon the rugby spirit in town. The citizens of all classes have become interested in the success of their team, the ladies have looked on not only approvingly but enthusiastically, whilst the small boy has been seized with a desire to be a star at half, quarter, scrimmage or some other place where his ability may win the admiration of the onlookers.

The T.A.S., too, which has been a prominent figure in sporting circles during the past season have shown a desire to figure in the game, and have been able to place quite an array of likely material on the field. While they may not figure in the O.R.F.U. series this year, the experience they have gained in their practice matches with the Peterborough team so far, and what they will in addition have an opportunity of learning in further practices should be of service to them for the future.

According to the schedule of the Intermediate series Ottawa is supposed to play here a week from Saturday, and Peterborough is supposed to play the Ottawa Senators a return game on the following Saturday. However, the local management feels that there should be some special attraction in Peterborough on Thanksgiving Day, and the secretary of the local club has, on the recommendation of the Executive, written to the Ottawa club suggesting that the first game be played in Ottawa on October 11th, and the return game here on Thanksgiving Day. If this arrangement can be arrived at Peterborough should be sure of a large attendance at the game.

Should Peterborough win the round with Ottawa they will very likely run foul of London again for the championship of the Intermediate series. The general opinion is that London will win out the western district. They were a strong team last year, and they have strengthened up this year by the addition of several speedy men who have located in the Forest City. Imagine London playing on the Nicholls oval! What a novel sight it would be. Peterborough for the past three years has travelled to London, and even one year was compelled to go twice to the western town, whilst never yet have the Peterborough public had a chance of seeing what kind of people these old-time rivals are. It is to be hoped that should the finals come down to a contest between London and Peterborough that the London team may be obliged to come to Peterborough. But this is building castles in the air; Ottawa has to be heard from.

The opinion appears to prevail that it would have been a good thing for Rugby in Peterborough had both the Peterborough and the T.A.S. clubs entered teams in the junior series. The two teams would in this case have had to play against each other, and there would have been keen rivalry, too. To keep a game alive in any town the juniors must be given every attention, and Peterborough is beginning to realize this fact.

NEW GROCERY FIRM.

Messrs. Kerneghan & Gordon having dissolved partnership as Grocers, corner of Brock and George streets, and Mr. Kerneghan retiring, Mr. Gordon and Mr. Arthur Kennedy will continue the business under the firm name of Gordon & Kennedy, they assuming any claims against the late firm, and all accounts due late firm being payable to them. They solicit a continuance of the patronage extended to their predecessors.

GORDON & KENNEDY.

Rugby is a great game. Many who read of an accident in Rugby, whereby a player may have had his collar bone broken, or the like, entertain a prejudice against the game but this all dies away when a match is witnessed. Rugby is gaining in popularity every day, and it will be only a few years before it is played in every village and hamlet in the province. Peterborough should be the centre of a good live Rugby district, and an effort should be made to have teams in Port Hope, Lindsay, Norwood, Millbrook, Havelock and Lakefield next fall. These places should organize now and be in condition to enter the union next fall. The Peterborough club intends taking an active hand in the organization of these clubs during the next twelve months, and will be glad to lend them any possible assistance in the way of instruction.

UPON THE TENTED FIELD.

Examiner's War Correspondent Writes From Niagara.

The Camp of Instruction Will Break up on Saturday Next—It is Proving a Great Success.

The Examiner has received the following interesting letter from a correspondent at the Niagara Military Camp:

Camp Niagara-on-the-Lake,
September 30th, 1902.

The camp opened practically last Tuesday afternoon, although several units did not arrive until Wednesday morning. The tents had already been pitched, which was a great relief, but unfortunately it rained very heavily that night, and nearly every night since, except last night. Still drill, etc., was not interrupted, as it was usually at night, just before dusk.

A large redoubt, complete, has been built by the officers and non-com. officers, and it was largely built by the efforts of the former, who shouldered the pick and shovel with the rest, all ranks wearing blue jeans and taking a deep interest in the work. There were wire entanglements, gun epaniments, shelter trenches, laid out and completed by the regiments in camp.

The camp in general is a very orderly one, and very little complaint is sent in. One would think that owing to the close proximity of peach and grape orchards that the men would play havoc with them, but the orders are so strict that the men do not attempt to break them. Accidents are very few, the most serious one being Major Kittermaster's, he having had his leg broken by a kick of his horse, and that of a Sergeant, who, while digging a trench, was struck by a pick in the thigh, causing a nasty, but not dangerous wound.

On Sunday the Michigan Central and the Gorge Railways ran a very cheap trip to the Falls, which, although it rained very heavily, was well patronized. Many were the exclamations of delight on beholding the Falls, as the majority of the men had never seen them before. Peterborough is well represented on both sides of the Falls, the writer having met several of them, who appeared to be thriving.

Lord Dundonald, Major-General Commanding Canadian Militia, has been very much in evidence, taking deep interest and lecturing the men. He is a very quiet and business-like man, with no air of bumptiousness, or swagger.

The field day to-day ended up with a charge on the redoubts, after which the Major-General pointed out errors and made suggestions.

Very little attention has been paid to style, but all ranks seem to appreciate the very practical work done, which includes outposts, attack and defence, and other advanced work. The Major-General leaves us this afternoon, after having made a lasting impression with the officers and men.

A number of Yankee soldiers are stationed across the river at Fort Niagara, and they often visit our camp. They appear to be a nice lot of fellows, and one of their Colonels was heard to remark that he was very pleased to see that his men and ours got along so well together, and hoped it would continue. They have given us a standing invitation to visit their quarters and a great number of our men have accepted their hospitality, nothing seeming to be good enough for them.

Camp will likely break up on Saturday morning next, and no doubt a majority of the men will leave with regret, as the officers generally are well liked by them.

OPENING SOCIAL

At the Y. M. C. A. Last Night—A Great Success—The Programme.

Last night was the first social of the season in connection with the senior men of the Y.M.C.A. The contention with the elements, the rain and the absence of electric light, which put the gymnasium and the larger part of the building in darkness, interferred to a large extent with the programme that had been prepared. However, an enjoyable time was spent by the good crowd of young men who attended. The gymnastic programme was, of course, cancelled, much to the disappointment of the Harriers and the Colts, who were all ready to go on with the basketball match and to exhibit their natty new uniforms, when the light failed.

In the prettily decorated Association hall Mr. M. A. Sorsoleil presided, and kept things lively, as he can so well do. Mr. Geo. Schneider presided at the piano in his usual acceptable manner.

Mr. G. W. Mulligan was heartily applauded for his excellent solo.

The selection of the Male Quartette, composed of Messrs. Frowde, Jolliffe, W. Doidge and F. Turner was much enjoyed, and encores were insisted upon each time they appeared.

Mr. W. D. Campbell read a humorous selection, "The Editor's Guests," which was well given.

The hit of the evening was Mr. F. H. Dobbin's chalk talk on "School Room Art," in which Mr. Dobbin, with his clever blackboard sketches, gave a most amusing presentation of the products of a drawing class of forty years ago. At the same time he gave a realistic word picture of those days.

Short speeches were given by Messrs. J. H. Connal, J. S. Knapman and Sorsoleil, following which pumpkin pie and tea of a first-class quality were served, and heartily enjoyed by the fellows.

The gathering broke up by singing "God Save the King."

ST. PETER'S T. A. S.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien arrived home from New York, on Friday evening last where he spent the past fortnight in picking out material for the shelves of the library.

Painters are busily engaged at present in touching up the lecture hall. When the improvements are completed the hall will be a beauty.

A committee was appointed at the last meeting of the T.A.S. to look into the question of starting a gymnasium in connection with the society, and a report will likely be presented at the next meeting.

The members of St. Peter's T.A.S. will receive Holy Communion at 8 o'clock mass in St. Peter's Cathedral next Sunday. They will assemble at the convent hall, and march in a body to the church.

The concert season will open shortly in the rooms. The Literary [illegible] has been thoroughly [illegible] and a good winter's work had been mapped out.

Ennismore Total Abstinence Society is still adding new members to its roll, and has a membership at present of over 200.

Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Ennismore, will assist Rev. Father Bretherton, in organizing a branch of the T.A.S. in Downeyville, and will deliver a temperance sermon in that parish on Sunday next.

BROWN IS ARRESTED

The Charge Is: Conspiring to Murder His Mother.

PRISONER PUTS BLAME ON ROSE

Remarkable Case at Collingwood—Statement of the Prisoner About the Matter—Is Almost on the Verge of Collapse—Agent Rose Declares He Viewed the Project as a Joke —May Be Arrested.

Collingwood, Oct. 2. — In jail, charged with conspiring to murder his aged mother, is William Henry Brown. This is the startling climax of vague rumors which have disturbed Collingwood for several days. The prisoner is in a complete state of collapse. The accusation is made by John Rose of Toronto, and the miserable prisoner confesses that there is some foundation for the statement of Rose, involving him, but asserts, with the greatest vigor, that it was the Toronto man who suggested the crime. The alleged motive was to secure insurance on the woman's life. He denies that he really conspired to cause his mother's death. The preliminary hearing will occur here to-day before Magistrate Nettleton.. W. T. Allan has been retained to defend Brown.

The accused is a man of family, quite well off, and stands well in Collingwood. He has resided here 15 years, and is chief fireman for the local electric light plant. Based upon the copy of a statement furnished him by Crown Attorney Curry of Toronto Crown Attorney Cotter of Barrie, telephoned Chief of Police Fred Maiden at noon to arrest Brown. The officer drove to the water works. A little gray-bearded man, covered with coal dust, stood in the door as the hack drove up. He leaned on a shovel.

"There's my man," observed the officer, as the vehicle stopped. Brown apparently divined the situation. He stepped back trembling and stuck his shovel into the ashes of the boiler pit.

"Billy, I have come to arrest you," laconically remarked the officer.

"My God, has it come to this?" he wailed.

After a moment's silence he continued, while tears began to trickle slowly through the grime on his face. "Where is that man Rose? He has got me into this. My God, what shall I do? I am in a hole." He was forced to sit down from weakness. Then he reached into the coal bin, picked up his lunch basket and followed the officer to the hack.

"Good-bye, Billy," sorrowfully remarked General Superintendent Bassett of the water plant, "you have worked for us 12 years and we like you."

The kind words provoked a fresh outburst of grief, and the prisoner tumbled into the seat, buried his face in his hands, moaning and trembling.

"I am in a box and can't get out," he constantly mumbled.

Just before being locked up Brown said: "Rose did this. I don't know where. It was he came to me, but he did it all. I admit I gave him $10 twice, but it was a loan; he was out of money, but I won't talk until I see a solicitor. I am in a box, and I think I ought to have a lawyer."

Chief Maiden took him across the street and he consulted with Counsellor Allan an hour. Then he was taken to jail.

Lawyer Allan said: "There is nothing in this case, my client tells me. He has not confessed. We are ready for a hearing to-morrow, and they can't hold him. I admit there are some unusual features about this case but this man is not guilty of the horrible charge."

Though the accused lives in a handsome home, his mother, whose life he is charged with having intended to take, lives with Mrs Edwards, another aged woman, and she is dependent upon her friends. The reporter called on Mrs. Jane Brown, the mother, in her humble quarters. She is 70 years old but very robust. She did not know her son was under arrest though she had heard vaguely of the alleged plot to murder her. As she detailed the story as she understood it, the aged creature trembled, and, before the interview closed, she was in great distress, and crying bitterly.

"It is all the fault of Mr. Rose; I know it. My life is insured for $1,500, in favor of my son. He took out the policy in the Union Mutual five years ago, and said he would pay me $200 if I would consent. My son has not been very good to me, but I don't believe he wanted to kill me. On Sept. 9, Mr. Rose came to me. I knew him, as he wrote the policy on my life.

"He said my son had given him two $5 bills on a little deal he had, and he wanted me to take a little trip with him to Toronto. He gave me $2.15, and told me to buy a round-trip excursion ticket, and he would meet me the next day at Toronto, take me to his niece's, and I could see the Exhibition. I did so, and he met me at the Toronto depot. I don't know the place he took me to that night, but it was up a long stairs, and not very nice. Why didn't he take me to his own house? I did not see his niece or anyone else. He told me he would return the next day.

"Early the next morning, as I did not like the place, I left without telling anyone, and asked a policeman where 37 Edward street was. That is where Mrs. Levy lives. She is my friend and used to live here. I found her place and remained there a week. The day after I got back here, Rose came, and said he did not know what had become of me. On Saturday, Magistrate Nettleton sent for me, and told me Rose and my son were in a plot to murder me by giving me some medicine that would kill me slowly."

And, as if the thoughts of the unnatural crime were too much to bear, Mrs. Brown wept aloud.

It is a singular commentary upon the leniency of the Collingwood people, that though this story has been known to many people for several weeks none undertook to interfere in what might have been a matricide of the most atrocious character. While many believed the story, others regarded it as a joke. Still it is not believed possible to convict with the evidence now in sight.

Rose will be arrested to-day, this having been determined upon John Rose, a nephew of the insurance man, works with Brown, and claims to have witnessed the payment of $10 to Rose by Brown.

The prisoner is 43 years old. He was born and raised in Alliston, Ont. For six years he was a fireman on the steamer Bayfield, and for 12 years he has been connected with the local water plant. Though illiterate, he possesses much business keenness and owns much property here, all of which he and his thrifty wife have made. He is spoken well of, though said to be of a very grasping disposition.

Thought It a Joke.

Toronto, Oct. 2.—The first intimation John Rose had of Brown's arrest was at 9 o'clock last night. He said he was much surprised to hear it, and continued, "I did not think it would go as far as that; I thought it a huge joke, as far as I was concerned, but at the same time I thought it should be investigated."

BLACK DIAMOND GLOW

Strenuous President of the United States Strikes a Light.

OWNERS AND MINERS TO CONFER

A Meeting on Friday Arranged Between the Presidents of the Anthracite Coal Companies and President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers by President Roosevelt.

Washington, Oct. 2. — President Roosevelt will make an effort to bring the anthracite coal miners' owners' and their striking employes together in the interest of the public good. The decision was arrived at when the lawyers of the Cabinet informed the President that there was no way under the constitution, and the form of government of the United States for federal intervention to end the strike. Every phase of the situation was canvassed, and the determination to have the mine operators and President Mitchell meet the President, was reached when it was found that no other method was open. At the conclusion of the conference yesterday, which was attended by Secretaries Root, Shaw and Moody, Attorney-General Knox and Postmaster-General Payne, at the temporary White House, the following statement was issued:

The following telegrams were made public at the White House yesterday afternoon. The telgrams are the result of the conferences between President Roosevelt and members of his Cabinet:

"White House, Washington, Oct. 1., 1902:

"George F. Baer, President Reading Railway System, Philadelphia:

"W. H. Truesdale, President D., L. and W. Railroad Company;

"E. D. Thomas, chairman of the board, Erie Railroad Company.

"Thos. P. Fowler, President N. Y. Ontario and Western Railroad Company;

"R. M. Olyphant, President D. and H. Company;

"John Markle, N. Y.;

"I should greatly like to see you on Friday next, Oct. 3, at 11 o'clock a.m., here in Washington, in regard to the failure of the coal supply, which has become a matter of vital concern to the whole nation. I have sent similar despatch to Mr. John Mitchell, President of the United Mine Workers of America. (Signed,)

"Theodore Roosevelt."

"John Mitchell, President Union Workers' of America, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.:

"Should greatly like to see you on Friday next, Oct. 3, at 11 o'clock a.m., here in Washington, in regard to the coal supply which has become a vital concern to the whole nation. I have sent a similar despatch to the presidents of the anthracite coal companies.

"(Signed.) Theodore Roosevelt."

Those wired to have accepted the ultimatum.

At the meeting Friday the line of approach toward the settlement of the strike will be an appeal by President Roosevelt to both sides to come together as men and not allow false pride or a feeling of obstinacy to stand in the way of the termination of the great strike, which is fraught with such threats of misery to thousand of people. It is stated by one of the President's advisers that beyond this the President cannot go; he has no powers of compulsion to bring into play against either side, and he must rely upon his persuasive abilities and his appeals to their sense of humanity if anything tangible is to be accomplished.

THE TEMISKAMING RAILWAY.

It will be seen from the despatch which appeared recently with reference to the tenders for the construction of this line, that the work of construction can now be rapidly pushed forward. The enterprise of the Provincial Government and the zeal it has displayed in connection with this railway calls for the recognition of the public. The railway, when completed, will as we have often pointed out, open up a magnificent territory, at present most difficult of access, yet so attractive and fertile that there is a rush of thousands of settlers, eager to enter in, difficulty notwithstanding. It is not necessary at the moment to recall the feeble attempts made to use the construction of this line for party purposes and to create misconception on account of the change of terminus from Mattawa to North Bay. It has been made sufficiently clear that the change was necessary and further that it will not materially affect the interests of this locality. The Minister of Public Works will now push the construction and a new and most important step in Mr. Ross' programme of "building up Ontario" taken. The Provincial Government has never undertaken a more important or beneficial undertaking and now that the tenders are in and the contracts will be immediately awarded its completion may be looked for.—Ottawa Free Press.

COAL FROM WALES.

The fuel question is becoming so serious that any means of relief will be welcome. It is stated that soft coal can be used in ordinary furnaces and ranges intended for using anthracite by paying proper attention to drafts, the methods of dealing with anthracite being practically reversed. This seems to be correct, but householders will have to go through considerable trouble and annoyance before they get into the new plan, and soft coal is objectionable on account of its being very dirty and burning quickly, no matter what methods are adopted. If no other substitute for hard coal can be found people will have to endure the inconvenience and other drawbacks. Whatever the ultimate result of the manufacture of peat into fuel is, there will not be sufficient available this season to meet the demand. The action taken by the Toronto Board of Trade to ascertain whether Welsh coal can be obtained and laid down here at reasonable rates is a sensible one, and is certainly worth the trouble and expense that may be incurred. The Board should be commended for grappling with the question. A steamer has been chartered to bring 7000 tons of Welsh coal from Swansea to Montreal. It this is a success more will doubtless be imported. It has been stated that Welsh coal can be laid down there for $4 per ton, but this has not been verified. A Toronto merchant, having found that he could get space for 300 tons of Welsh coal on a vessel, has ordered that amount. If it can be brought to Toronto and sold at a price not too excessive it ought to be sold here at the same price as in Toronto.

THE SOARING "SOO."

The Coming City of the New North.

It is said that the Sault Ste. Marie canals on both sides of the straits are fast becoming inadequate to accommodate the enormous and annually increasing lake traffic. Mr. Clergue is quoted as saying that another canal is an immediate necessity, and the opinion has been expressed that the time is near when the rapids will disappear and not a gallon of water will pass from Lake Superior to Lake Huron without contributing its natural power to human industry. Plans have already been suggested for the construction of massive dams and docks for the accommodation of shipping and to obviate delays caused by accidents to the canal locks. The canals are now taxed to their fullest capacity, and Mr. Clergue's advice will have to be followed in order that delay and loss to the vast transportation interests of the lakes may be avoided. Sault Ste. Marie is bound to become one of the greatest industrial centres on the great lakes. Its natural advantages are unsurpassed anywhere, and the United States and Canada are equally concerned in providing all proper facilities for lake commerce and the development of manufactures. For the season of 1900, 19,450 vessels passed through the United States and Canadian canals, of a registered tonnage of 22,881,539, and carrying 25,643,061 tons of freight. Compare with this the fact that in 1900 only 3,441 vessels passed through the Suez canal, of a net tonnage of 9,738,152. The average number of vessels passing per day through the two Sault Ste. Marie Canals for the season of 1900 was eighty-two, the great proportion passing of course through the United States canal. The lake trade of Canada is growing, however, and the disparity between her lake traffic and that of her big neighbour is likely to decrease very considerably in the course of the next twenty years.

On Thursday morning last, the inhabitants of our village were wakened from their slumbers by the fierce ring of the fire bell, when the residence of Mr. Sager, on Spring street, was burned to the ground. The origin of the fire is not known, but it started in a frame building adjoining his residence, which he used as a kitchen. The fire was not discovered until the whole shed was in a mass of flames, and it was only by the help of many willing hands that the contents of his house were saved. The loss was fully covered by insurance. Mr. Sager has since purchased the brick house on Spring street belonging to Mr. R. Ferguson, and has taken possession.

Mr. Stephenson, of Clairmont, shipped a car of cattle from here last week. Messrs. Buck and Walsh shipped a car of hogs and a car of cattle, and Messrs. Roxburgh & Son shipped two cars of grain.

BUILD UP A NATION

Advice of Hon. Mr. Tarte to 500 School Children at Goderich Fall Fair—His Battle Cry.

Goderich, Oct. 2.—The reception tendered Hon. J. I. Tarte, Minister of Public Works, here yesterday, was an event of lively interest to the entire community. His visit was made the occasion of a public holiday in the town, and of a demonstration of Canadian patriotism.

Arriving at the park, in the centre of the town, fully 500 school children, all bearing branches of maple, joined in the procession and sang patriotic airs along the remainder of the route.

At the Exhibition grounds, J. C. Martin, president of the Agricultural Society, read a complimentary address. Hon. Mr. Tarte, who replied to it from the carriage in front of the grand stand, thanked them cordially for the hearty welcome extended to him, and dwelt on the benefits derived from exhibitions in the way of assisting in building up a Canadian nation by meeting together and becoming better acquainted with each other.

The reception tendered to him and his friends by the children would never be forgotten by him. They were the young generation, and it was pleasing to see them display the love of their country that they had. "My little girls and boys," he said, "will you take the advice of a man who is commencing to feel old, but whose heart is young. If so, be not prejudiced against your little friends in Quebec. In my days we in Quebec were prejudiced against the people of Ontario. I was prejudiced myself, but it was all because we did not know each other as now. You are growing in a time when this prejudice is dying away rapidly. The worst of our national work is done, the foundations are solid today, and we are all beginning to understand that we belong to one united family. Let us build up a nation here; we can do it. (Applause.) To the south of us is a big nation, but we are better here than they are; we have no such difficult problems to solve as they have, and our institutions are better. (Applause.) Like a big whale, the republic to the south might think it can swallow us, but it can't if we do not throw ourselves into its mouth. We have only to use our energy to prevent it from crushing us. As pointed out the other day by my friend, Mr. Ross, that is we, like farmers, are apt to have our crops trampled by foreign intrusion, then all we have to do is to raise our fence." (Applause.)

Charles Marcil, M.P., followed with a speech, and at the conclusion cheers were given for Mr. Tarte, the officers of the Exhibition and the King.

Later in the afternoon the visitors were taken for a cruise around the harbor in order to give Mr. Tarte and his engineer an opportunity of inspecting the place where it is proposed to construct a breakwater.

In the evening a banquet was tendered Hon. Mr. Tarte by the Town Council. In his speech, Mr. Tarte said: The question of to-day was whether we were going to allow our American friends to enrich themselves with our trade, and we should have confidence enough in ourselves to keep Canadian trade for Canadian channels.

Holds G.T.R. Responsible.

Woodstock, Oct. 2.—At the coroner's inquest on the death of Mrs. Sarah Atcheson, who was killed by a G. T. R. train, a verdict was brought in saying that the train was running too fast, and recommending the company to protect all their crossings within the city limits. The verdict also says that the G. T. R. is responsible for the woman's death, by not providing proper precautions at the railway crossing.

Editor to Be Jailed.

Dublin, Oct. 2.—William Hastings, editor of The Western News of Ballanasloe, County Galway, has been convicted under the Crimes Act on the charges of incitement, intimidation and conspiracy and sentenced to two months imprisonment. The case has been appealed.

The Day of Miracles

is past, but many who are cured of itching, bleeding or protruding piles by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment look upon their recovery as the next thing to miraculous. It is not uncommon for persons who have undergone painful, risky and expensive operations in vain to be finally cured by this wonderful ointment. It is the standard the world over and the only guaranteed cure for piles.

Suicide From Despondency.

Ingersoll, Oct. 2.—Despondency produced by brooding over what he thought to be an unsuccessful year upon the farm, caused William Henry Tucker, a well-known young farmer, about 25 years of age, who, with his widowed mother, sisters and one brother, resided on the "McKay" farm, to suicide by hanging early yesterday morning.

Passed Worthless Cheques.

Brantford, Oct. 2.—A stranger is going about the country passing worthless cheques. He is about 35 years old, dark, short, and heavily built, and wearing light clothes. Chatham and Woodstock merchants have been victimized.

The Company to Acquire a Fleet of Freighters For the Export Trade—President Sir Thomas Shaughnessy's Statement at the Annual Meeting—Improving the System—Preparing For Expansion.

Montreal, Oct. 2.—At the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, held yesterday, the following directors were re-elected unanimously:

Right Hon. Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, G.C.M.G.; Sir William C. Van Horne, K.C.M.G.; Richard B. Angus, Edmund B. Osler, M.P.; Wilmot D. Matthews, George R. Harris, Sir Sandford Fleming, K.C.M.G.; Thomas Skinher, Charles R. Hosmer, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy.

At a meeting of the board Sir William Van Horne was re-elected chairman and Sir Thomas G. Shaughnessy president of the company.

In moving the adoption of the report, the president said:

"The twenty-first annual report of the directors, now submitted for your approval, furnishes most satisfactory and striking evidence of the company's position, and of the progress and prosperity of the territory served by its lines.

"Keen and growing interest in the fertility and productiveness of northwestern Canada is indicated by the increase in your land sales during the past year. Settlers attracted by cheap lands and agricultural conditions that assure them and their children farms and homes on a basis of investment not now possible in the thickly populated districts south of the international boundary are coming into Manitoba, and the Territories, in gratifying numbers. Nearly all of them will make excellent farmers and most desirable citizens.

"As stated in the report of the last of the 5 per cent. land grant bonds are now being paid off. With the extinguishment of these there will remain against your lands 3½ per cent. bonds, to the amount of $15,000,000. Under the terms of the statute and the mortgage by which these bonds are secured, the proceeds of land sales will be deposited with the Dominion Government until the amount reaches the face value of the bonds, the Government, in the meantime, paying interest on the deposits at the rate of 3½ per cent. per annum.

"By referring to the item in the balance sheet of 'deferred payments on land sales,' which yield six per cent. per annum, you will see that neither the principal nor interest of these bonds need for any lengthy period give you much concern.

"When the subject of an improved Atlantic service between Great Britain and Canada was receiving consideration in London, your directors thought it wise to submit to the Canadian Government, on behalf of the company, a proposition to provide what they believed to be the best and most practicable service under existing conditions.

"The company offered, subject to certain traffic arrangements, to establish a weekly service of 20 knot steamships between Liverpool and a St. Lawrence port during the summer months, Halifax to be the Canadian port during the winter months, for a subsidy of £265,000 per annum during the first ten years, with a graduated reduction in the amount of subsidy during each of the two following periods of five years, the ships to be most modern in every respect, and to be built especially for the route. In addition to this, the company signified its willingness to furnish a fleet of modern freight steamers of 10,000 tons capacity each, sailing at a speed of about 12 or 13 kots per hour, serving Canadian ports.

"Up to the present time your directors have no information as to the policy likely to be adopted by the Government. It is evident, however, that whatever may be the outcome of the negotiations for the fast mail service, the rapid growth of your export tonnage and the necessity for being in a position to meet the rates of any of your competitors make it imperative that your company be so situated on the Atlantic that it can quote through rates of freight and give through bills of lading without being compelled to negotiate for space and rates with independent steamship lines. To that end there will be submitted for your approval a resolution authorizing the directors to make arrangements for the charter or control of vessels if, and when in their opinion, they are required for the protection of the company's freight interests on the Atlantic Ocean. It is not expected, of course, that these freight vessels, when provided, will receive any Government subsidy, and, therefore, there will be no restrictions to prevent your company from running them between such ports as may best suit the purpose of the company.

"The rapid and pronounced increase in the volume of traffic leaving little opportunity to provide the additional facilities required for handling it economically caused a perceptible increase in the ratio of working expenses for the year. Expenditures are being made as rapidly as possible to meet present and future requirements. While, of course, there will be years when, from uncontrollable causes, you revenue will suffer some diminution, it may be safely assumed that the settlement and development of territory now in progress give promise of a general improvement in your earnings during the next few years even more satisfactory and gratifying than the advances made during the past seven years; indeed, in moving the adoption of the annual report, and congratulating the shareholders on the excellent position of their finances, I cannot help personally expressing my conviction that the company has barely entered upon the threshold of the expansion and success that the future has in store for it.

"A lease of the Ottawa and Northern and western amalgamated lines, and an issue of consolidated debenture stock on account of the Pheasant Hills branch referred to in the annual report were authorized. A resolution was adopted authorizing the directors to hold the charter, work and run such steamships as they may find necessary to provide for and protect the transatlantic traffic of the company and a bylaw relating to the election of directors referred to in the annual report was approved."

ARRANGEMENTS WITH MORGAN.

Combine Ships Will Fly British Flag for 20 Years.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—A special cable to The Record-Herald says: Mr. Gerald Balfour, president of the Board of Trade, to-day announced at Sheffield that, while the Cunard Company, by means of a loan and subsidy, is put in a position to fight for its share of the business of the North Atlantic, the Government has also entered into an agreement with Mr. Morgan by which for 20 years British ships in the combination will continue to fly the British flag, be manned by a given proportion of British men, and will be available on an emergency for the British Government, while at least half of the future orders of the syndicate shall go to British yards.

Mr. Balfour's announcement of the arrangement was a big surprise.

Blood Disorders

Cured Without Drugs.

TESTIMONIAL.

A year ago I was unable to go out of doors without a veil covering, on account of eczema and pimples covering my face. I tried all sorts of drugs and lotions without effect. Powley's Liquified Ozone cured me. My skin is clear and healthy now. LILY HALL, 12 Sully St., Toronto, Canada.

Absolute purity of the blood stream and disinfection of all the tissues through which it passes are necessary to make the blood healthy and give the skin that clear, deep bloom so much sought after. You cannot obtain this result by taking drugs or applying lotions or ointments. You can by using Powley's Liquified Ozone, nature's blood food. Clears out all humors thoroughly and surely. Acts quickly. You do not have to take Powley's Liquified Ozone very long to know that it will cure you.

WHEN SIR WILFRID COMES.

Citizens of Quebec Will Go Down St. Lawrence to Meet Him.

Ottawa, Oct. 2.—The Citizens' Committee of Quebec, who have in charge the arrangements for welcoming Sir Wilfrid Laurier when he arrives on the Lake Erie about the 15th or 16th, have applied to the Minister of Marine for the use of the Government steamer Druid, in order to make a trip down the river and escort the Premier to the Ancient Capital. Hon. James Sutherland has granted the application. The Militia Department has also given permission for the citizens to present an address of welcome to Sir Wilfrid in the Drill Hall. The structure will be decorated with flags and banners, which were used on the occasion of the Prince of Wales' visit last September.

PLOT TO BLOW UP FACTORY.

Discontented Employees Drew Water From Boiler Before Striking.

Toronto, Oct. 2.—Samuel Campbell of 515 King street east, who appeared in the Police Court yesterday morning on a charge of malicious injury, revealed a plot to blow up the establishment of R. A. Sebastian, a horse blanket manufacturer at 118 Duke street. Sebastian had trouble with his employes, and when he refused to raise their wages a number of the men returned to the factory and ran the water off from the boiler, leaving it in such a condition that when the engineer fired up an explosion would result.

Not content with this a number of the dissatisfied employes assaulted a young employe of the factory who refused to leave work with them. While maltreating the youth, Louis Bredannaz, a big German appeared upon the scene and interfered. The crowd rushed upon him, and, though he put up a fight he was severely mauled. Some of the men used their teeth upon the German, and he now carries his left arm in a sling as a result of the cannibal tactics of his assailants. The police are looking for the men who assualted Bredannaz.

H. P. Davies Is Under Arrest.

Toronto, Oct. 2.—Harry P. Davies, formerly manager of the American Tire Company here, which before his flight across the line became insolvent, was arrested in Cleveland last night, and will resist extradition. Papers will be sent at once.

Davies left Toronto in March last, when he learned that a charge had been laid, and went to Chicago, and there disappeared. Recently he was heard of in Buffalo, where Toronto relatives visited him. On Monday he was traced to Cleveland, and his arrest followed.

The specific charge preferred against Davies is that he obtained $288 by false pretences from the Quebec Bank. This charge, however, is only one of a number which will be laid, and the sum involved reaches about $12,000. He secured advances from the bank by showing bogus invoices of goods, which he said had been delivered to the American Tire Company.

Out About $25,000.

Toronto, Oct. 2.—The discrepancies in the accounts of Alfred McDougall solicitor of the Treasury Department, and head of the Succession Duties Office, amount to, as far as has been ascertained, $25,000, and it is understood that he himself admits that his books are out this much.

Mr. McDougall was insured in a guarantee company for $5,000.

Admits Voting Twice.

Kingston, Oct. 2.—Yesterday W. D. Carey, who voted in Frontenac and Kingston at the local elections, was on trial, being sued for the penalties for violation of the act. Carey admitted the double voting, but said he was not aware that he could not vote, except in one riding; he had not voted, "knowingly and wilfully" as the statute declared, knowing his voting to be false. His Lordship was asked to mitigate the penalty, because of the defendant's innocence. Judge Britton reserved judgement.

Naval Reserves O.K.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 2.—The British Admiralty is so satisfied with the success of the naval reserve movement among the Newfoundland fishermen, that it has decided to double the contingent which has enlisted for a six months' cruise this winter in the Caribbean Sea. The cruisers Charybdis and Ariadne, the latter the flagship of the station, will each take 50 naval reserves.

Engineer Teale Hurt.

Belleville, Oct. 2.—There was a rear-end collision between two freight trains on the Grand Trunk just west of Ernestown about 2.30 yesterday morning, which resulted in five cars being smashed up and thrown from the track and George Teale, engineer of the rear train, who makes this city his home, was badly injured. It appears that one of the trains was being sidetracked, when the other train came up. Traffic was delayed a good deal by the accident.

The Next Palma Match.

London, Oct. 2.—The medal to be given to those who served in the later period of the South African war, is to be a new one, struck by special order of the King.

The date for the next Palma Trophy competition has been fixed for July 11, 1903, or two days prior to the opening of the N.R.A. annual meeting at Bisley, which has been announced as July 13.

Shot Through the Neck.

Elkhorn, Man., Oct. 2.—A dispute occurred between two Italian navvies at Kirkilla, about 7 o'clock Tuesday evening, when one drew a revolver and shot the other in the back of the neck, the shot passing through. The injured man was sent to the Brandon Hospital after the wound was dressed. The other has not yet been captured.

Who Knows Her?

Yesterday afternoon a young girl of about 13 summers, was arrested by the local police, for having stolen articles from a resident of Smith. The girl said that her name was Jane Ann Elliott, and that she had been in the employ of a family named Guest, in Peterborough, but could not give the name of the street. Her story in this regard is doubted. She also says that her home is in Toronto. If there is any one who knows the girl, the Chief would be pleased to hear from them.

An Ashburnham Citizen.

Two Ashburnham ladies called at this office this afternoon to complain of the conduct of a neighbour, whom they claim is creating disturbances, and proving to be a general law breaker. They claim that although frequent complaints have been made to the authorities, no action as yet appears to have been taken regarding the matter. The Examiner could not locate Mr. Cochrane, the County Constable, this afternoon, to hear his version of the story, but Mr. Fitzgerald, the village constable, said it was true that there had been complaints in regard to the matter, but that the County Constable was looking after the case.

GOT THREE MONTHS.

John Dundas Will Spend a Term in the Jail—Asked for Another Chance.

At the Police Court this morning John R. Dundas appeared, charged with obtaining goods from Mr. Peter Simons under false pretences. He pleaded guilty but begged very hard for another chance. The offence was a serious one, however, Dundas having deliberately forged the name of Mr. Felix Brownscombe, Town Treasurer to an order, alleging that the town owed Dundas a sufficient sum of money to pay for a suit of cloths he was getting.

As the prisoner was out on suspended sentence the Magistrate gave him three months in the county jail at hard labour.

HIGLY SUCCESSFUL CONCERT.

Fine Programme of Meritorious Music—Well Presented at Mrs. Morrow's Concert Last Night.

The highly successful concert given in the opera house last night under the management of Mrs. W. J. Morrow, represented a most auspicious opening of the musical season in Peterborough. If the promise of the key note thus struck is fulfilled, the people of the town, especially those enamoured of music of a high character, capably and artistically presented, may look forward to a winter of rare enjoyment. The concert was in a musical and social way, a gratifying success, and Mrs. Morrow must be well pleased that another effort of hers has developed upon the part of the music-loving people, represented by a large and fashionable audience, so flattering a practical appreciation of both her own versatile musical capabilities, as well as of her ability to arrange a high class and satisfying musical programme. A Heintzman grand piano, of grand tone, occupied the platform, and was used to splendid advantage during the evening. The concert opened with Mrs. Morrow's artistic interpretation of Chopin's Fantasia Impromptu. Though this selection is not one calculated to appeal most strongly to popular fancy, Mrs. Morrow's treatment of it was musicianly to a degree. But her most satisfying piano work was exercised upon her second double piano number, "The Dance of the "Dwarfs," by that weird Norse wizard, Greig, and Arabella Goiard's Mazurka. Both of these selections are sprightly, the former being characteristic of its composer, in its intricate difficulties, demanding rare technique—and served to develop in a delightful way, both Mrs Morrow's facile technical skill, fidelity of interpretation, and fluent expression. Nothing could surpass the tripping and delicate daintiness of the pianissimo passages, light and airy as a fairy footfall; and the contrasting passages that called for more robust treatment, demonstrated the performer's possession of a virile and commanding touch. Mrs. Morrow's musical versatility, and her success as a vocalist, were shown in her vocal selections. The first was an excerpt from Bellini's opera, "I Puritani," and its florid brilliancy exactly suited it to Mrs. Morrow's vivid musical temperament. She sang it with great success, showing admirable method and control of voice. Her capital rendering of it provoked an enthusiastic recall, which was rewarded by the sprightly singing of a little humorous chanson. Equally successful was her vocal rendering of "Annie Laurie," and "Mignon," Hardolet, and the same applies to her share in the splendid duet, sung by herself and Mr. Jarvis. Mrs. Morrow enjoyed a most cordial reception, and it was doubtless due to the large and exacting share of the programme she carried, and not to the enthusiastic insistence of the audience, that she did not repeat every one of her numbers. Mr. Harold Jarvis was all himself last night. His voice, like good sound wine, gathers richness with time. He was in fine form last night; his selections revealed the wonderful compass and timbre of his voice, with its sharply contrasting capabilities — varying like the wind of summer, which expresses itself in the magnificent melody of the tempest that rends, or the zephyr, whose purring whisper scarcely wakens the waves of sound—from the most robust fortissimo to the daintiest piano effects. Mr. Jarvis' voice, however, seems to be best adapted to virile songs, such as the stein song, with its rollicking convivial flavour, and that tempestuously fine composition, "The Admiral's Broom," a strong musical setting of the historical incident of Dutch Von Tromp and British Blake. He reached the other extremity of his gamut of expression in his first number, an aria, "Out of the Depths," and two little songs he gave in response to hearty encore calls. Mr. Harry M. Bennet was enthusiastically applauded for several humourous, or, rather, comic songs and "turns." The hearty applause he received indicated that a part of the audience, at least, was very much delighted with his work, which, however, was hardly on the same plane of elevation at the rest of the programme. The programme of a most pleasing concert came to a close with the spirited singing of Watson's beautiful "O, For Thy Wings, O Dove," by Mrs. Morrow and Mr. Jarvis, who led, as a grand finale in the singing of "God Save the King," by the audience. Miss M. A. Meharry deserves very warm praise for her very satisfactory work as accompanist—with that unobtrusive efficiency which marks the really good accompanist.

CONTRACT LET.

Mr. Wm. Langford to Build the new Hockey and Skating Rink.

The directors of the Peterborough Hockey Rink Company met last night to further consider the tenders for the construction of the new hockey and skating rink. The contract for the stone, brick and wood work was awarded to Mr. Wm. Langford, the price being $7,200. In addition to this the Canada Foundry Company, of Toronto, has been given the contract for the steel work, the contract price being $1,910. The lot for the new rink cost $2,500 and there is yet plumbing and other work the contract of which is not yet let. The expense in connection with the organization of the Company will amount to about $800, so that the cost of Peterborough's new rink will be over the $12,000 mark. However, it will be one of the finest structures of its kind in the Province.

The work of erecting the new rink will be proceeded with at once. It's completion is now an assured fact and Messrs. R. H. Kells and J. S. Knapman the two promoters as well as Mayor Denne, are deserving of much credit for the energetic manner in which they prosecuted the canvas for the sale of stock.

THE LARGEST BLACK BASS.

Mr. Arthur Lang Won the Star's $10 Prize.

He Landed a Bass 5 lbs. 13 oz. in Rice Lake During a Holiday in August.

For some years past the Toronto Star has offered a prize valued at $10 to the person who caught the largest black bass during the season 1902 and reported the same to the Star office. In fact the Toronto Star's bass catching contest has aroused much enthusiasm amongst fishermen and the competition has been very keen. Last year John King, of Belmont was the lucky man, and this year Peterborough county has for the second time carried off the prize, Mr. Arthur Lang, son of Mr. Robert Lang, Water street being the gentleman who landed the largest bass as reported at the Star office. Mr. Lang is on the teaching staff of the St. Catharines Collegiate Institute, and spends his holidays at his old home here. While enjoying the beauties of Rice Lake during the month of August, Mr. Lang landed a beautiful bass measuring 23 inches in length and weighing 5 lbs. and 13 oz. Mr. Lang was today notified of his luck and communicated the same to his friends here.

The bass was caught at Paudash Point.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

MR. HOWDEN'S NEW STORE.

Beautiful Premises in the Crystal Block, George Street.

Mr. W. H. Howden moved yesterday moved his meat market business back to his old stand in the re-built Crystal Block, George street. Since Mr. Howden's premises were destroyed by fire some months ago, he has been located at the corner of George and Brock streets. He has now, however, one of the most up-to-date little establishments in town. The front presents a most attractive appearance, being finished in a luxuriant manner, while the interior of the shop corresponds. A beautiful metallic ceiling [illegible] tastefully covered walls harmonize effectively with the furnishings of the store. Mr. Howden's private office is situated at the back of the shop, while a commodious refrigerator occupies the space between the office and the front store. Mr. Howden is now better able than ever to cater to his customers.

E. F. MASON'S GROCERY.

Attractive Store Premises With Up-to-Date Furnishings, and a Brand New Stock.

Mr. E. F. Mason opened to-day a new branch grocery store at No. 353 George street. This stand has been occupied and known as a grocery store for upwards of a quarter of a century, where a large business was done for many years, when it was known as Alex. Elliott's, and Rush & Elliott's store. During the past month the interior of the store has been undergoing remodelling, with the result that to-day it presents a handsome, business-like effect, equipped with modern conveniences, and fixtures, and filled to overflowing with a brand new stock of general groceries. Mr. Mason is deserving of the thanks of his customers, especially in the south and south-western portions of the town, for the accommodation and convenience he has provided in the establishing of this new branch store, which will enable them to do their shopping nearer home. The stock has been equally as carefully selected, and is guaranteed equally as high grade groceries, as his other store on George street north. The business policy will be the same as that which has all along proved so satisfactory to Mr. Mason's customers. The new branch store will have for its manager, Mr. W. H. Dayman, who has so long officiaetd and been so popular with shoppers at this well known stand for many years. He will be assisted by Mr. D. Kerneghan, whose experience in the grocery business will be appreciated by customers of the new store. Read the large opening announcement on the eighth page of the Examiner.

Mental and Physical Educational Classes.

The classes in English Literature, Composition and Letter Writing, will open to-night at eight o'clock. The classes will be under the efficient instruction of Miss Ackerman, Miss I. Beat, B.A., and Sheriff Hall. Those who have not already registered, are requested to do so promptly.

Owing to the unfavourable weather on Tuesday last, Miss Moodie's lecture on "Physical Education" will be given on Monday evening next at eight o'clock. Don't fail to hear it.

OTONABEE'S EXCELLENT EXHIBITION

Successfully Held at Keene on Wednesday—Large Attendance—Excellent Exhibits in all Classes—Speeding Events.

The annual exhibition of the Otonabee Agricultural Society, was held at Keene on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 30th and October 1st, with all round successful results. The heavy rain of Tuesday night threatened disaster, but Wednesday, though cloudy, provided good weather, and the excellent exhibit attracted a large attendance, over fifteen hundred persons being on the grounds. The steamer Rainbow brought a large number from Hastings, and the North Star had also a large passenger list from Bewdley and Gore's Landing.

The exhibit itself was of an unusually good character, the show of live stock being excellent.

HORSES.

In this department there was a exhibit in all the classes, as shown by the following list of exhibitors.

DRAWING CLASSES

In Connection With the Peterborough Public Library to Commence Oct. 8th.

The class in mechanical drawing which has for so many years been so successfully conducted under the auspices of the Public Library, will begin the new season on Wednesday evening, Oct. 8th, at 7.30 o'clock, in the Y.M.C.A. building.

The management have been fortunate in securing as instructor, Mr. Herbert M. Lloyd, of the drafting department of the Canadian General Electric Company, who is a graduate of MacGill College, holding the degree of B. Sc. from that institution.

The course will include drawing materials, their care and use, working drawings of simple subjects, full set working drawings of a complete and simple machine, tracings and blue prints. It will start with first principles, so that those who have not taken up the work before will be able to start now.

Besides elementary work in machine drawing proper, a few lessons will be given in points of use to those in the class, which will add to the value of their work.

Arrangements will be made so that those purchasing instruments can get them at a low price. The class will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays throughout the season; forty lessons will be given. The cost will be $2.00, which will include membership in the public library, giving the student access to the best books on mechanical and other subjects, as well as the many technical magazines to be found in the public library reading rooms.

All who intend joining the class should hand in their names at the library to Mr. Peters, or at the office of the Y.M.C.A. It is very much desired that those who are going to take up the subject be on hand on the opening night.

OTONABEE

October Raspberries.

Mr. A. A. Goodfellow, of the seventh concession of Otonabee, has left with the Examiner a generous sample of red raspberries—the second crop—fully matured. They are of the wild variety and were plucked by the wayside where they were growing. Mr. Goodfellow regards these berries as a tribute to the mildness of our autumn weather when October can furnish ripe fruit.

ST. PETER'S T. A. S.

Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Ennismore, will assist Rev. Father Bretherton, in organizing a branch of the T.A.S. in Downeyville, and will deliver a temperance sermon in that parish on Sunday next.

Douro Total Abstinence Society at its last meeting added fifty new members to its roll.

St. Mary's church, Lindsay, will also organize a branch of the T.A.S. this month, and it is expected that a flourishing society will be in existence there in the course of a couple of weeks.

A GREAT ORIENTALIST.

An Appreciative Sketch of the Life of the Late Dr. Stratton.

The death of Dr. Stratton at Gulmarg, India, brings to an untimely close the career of the foremost philologian that Canada has so far produced. Two years ago, while abroad as a delegate to the Oriental Congress at Rome, he accepted the offer of the position of head of the Oriental College at Lahore, India, and registrar of the University of Punjab. No Englishman was found capable of the place and after consultation with Professor Bloomfield of the Johns Hopkins University it was offered to Dr. Stratton, who had the rare qualifications necessary. He was a graduate of the University of Toronto, with the highest honors in classics, he had been a successful teacher of classics in the Hamilton Collegiate Institute, and had pursued graduate study in the Johns Hopkins University in which for some years he was fellow in Sanskrit, and where he gained the reputation of being the most brilliant student of comparative philology the university had had. At the time of his Indian appointment, he was associate in Sanskrit in the University of Chicago.

Weary of climbing the slow ladder of promotion in Chicago, and desirous of seeing near at hand the life and country associated with his chief studies, Dr. Stratton went to India, conscious of the difficulties and dangers of his new position. He had to administer the affairs of higher education in the Punjab, as well as give professional lectures in Sanskrit and comparative philology in the college. It was typical of his thoroughness that he was no sooner entered on his work than he learned the vernacular and was able to teach the Indian classics to native students through the medium of Urdu. He had rare gifts—not only the literary appreciation of the languages, but a peculiar genius for languages on their scientific side, and for the great problems of the Indo-European philology. At the time of his death he was prosecuting a monumental work on the Greek stems, part of which was presented as his doctor's thesis in the Johns Hopkins University, and printed by the press of the University of Chicago. In the furtherance of this work he had mastered all the languages of Indo-European scholarship, and made vast collections of material.

Friends of the University of Toronto, had hoped that when the time came to fill the chair of comparative philology in the university there would be opportunity to recall to Canada a brilliant scholar in a most difficult field. The unexpected news of his death has come with a great shock to his many friends and associates in Toronto, Baltimore and Chicago.

Dr. Stratton won us high regard for his personal qualities as for his scholarship. He had the gentleness, modesty and kindliness, as well as the conviction and high aims, that make the nature that is truly great. His loss is irreparable.—Fred. H. Sykes, in Toronto Globe.

FROM NEWFOUNDLAND.

The Island by the Sea Sends Grateful Testimony for Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

No medicine for stomach trouble has ever been favoured with so many hearty and voluntary letters of recommendation as Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

These unsolicited testimonies come from the people in all walks of life and in all parts of the world.

No evidence which might be offered could be more satisfactory and convincing. Men and women who have been sick and suffering for years have been cured and restored to perfect good health, and in their gratitude write such hearty words as Mrs. John F. Stillars, of Western Bay, Newfoundland, who says;

"It gives me great pleasure to be able to say that I have been cured of Dyspepsia by the use of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"For several years I suffered. I could not eat anything without intense agony afterwards.

"I had tried everything that I could think of but could get nothing to help me, and had given myself up to die before I began the use of this remedy.

"Doctors had failed to do anything for me, and there did not seem to be any help or relief.

"An advertisement in some paper drew my attention to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and I began to use them about eighteen months ago.

"From the first I felt relief, and now, after the use of five boxes, I am well and strong and a new woman.

"To say that I am grateful, only feebly expresses what I feel.

"I will always recommend Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets as a cure for Dyspepsia."

Such letters as the above have been the means of convincing many doubtful ones that there is a sure cure for Dyspepsia and all forms of Stomach Trouble. Those who are now suffering should be guided by the happy experience of Mrs. Sillars.

An Extremist.

"Is Mr. Fuzzo much afraid of microbes?"

"Well I should say. He washes the antiseptic gauze gloves he wears in an antiseptic fluid before he even handles the sterilized glass that contains the boiled and filtered mineral water he intends to drink!"

Obedience to the Letter.

Policeman—Come along now quietly or it will be worse for you.

O'Toole—Oi'll not. The magistrate told me last time niver to be brought befoor him ahain, an' begorra Oi'm goin' to obey his instructions."—Boys of the Empire.

Merrill Challenges the World.

Merrill, the druggist, of Brantford, offers $1000 reward to anyone who will make a better cure for constipation than Merrill's System Tonic. This medicine is not simply a cathartic but a positive and pleasant to take cure for habitual constipation. In this way it cures dyspepsia, impure blood and nervous trouble. 50 doses, price 50c., at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

LIVE IN STONE AGE

LOST TRIBE OF ESQUIMAUX DISCOVERED ON HUDSON BAY ISLAND.

Until Recently Its Members Never Saw a White Man—Their Huts Are Made of Whale Skulls—Nor Have They Any Knowledge of Metals—The Facts of the Discovery Are Well Established.

There has been discovered upon one of the islands of Hudson Bay the remnant of a lost tribe of Esquimaux, a community which has been for centuries without intercourse with any other representatives of the human species, and whose members never, until quite recently, had an opportunity of seeing a white man. The facts of the discovery are well established, having been reported to the Federal authorities by the Rev. A. W. Buckland. Mr. Buckland says that these strange people still virtually live in the stone age, knowing no metals. Their habitations are built entirely of the skulls of whales.

The home of the tribe is upon Southampton Island, a piece of water-girt land nearly as large as the State of Maine, lying at the extreme north end of Hudson Bay. These people or their ancestors have undoubtedly inhabited the island ever since pre-Columbian days, and at the present time they exist exactly as they must have done then. Having been isolated for so long a period it is natural that they should possess many peculiarities. A very remarkable collection of their utensils, weapons of the chase, and other objects was secured by Mr. Buckland, but to the great regret of the Canadian authorities, it was allowed to pass into the hands of private persons.

The huts on the island are built by putting together the great jaws of whales and then covering them with skins. In the middle of the primitive dwellings is a slight elevation, on which stands the stone lamp, employed for lighting, heating, cooking, and melting snow and drying clothes. This lamp is nothing more than an open dish of whale oil, with a wick of dry moss soaked in fat.

The whale is the chief means of subsistence of these poor people. They use the bone for many purposes, making plates and cups and toboggan-like sleds. They also manufacture sledges of walrus tusks, with deer antlers for crosspiece. The members speak a dialect peculiar to themselves and they are the most daring of hunters. Not more than sixteen members of the tribe now survive.

Mr. Buckland agrees with the explorers who disbelieve the story that Andree was murdered by the Esquimaux. He has lived for years with these people in their tents, and cannot say too much for their kindliness of disposition and readiness to assist strangers. He explains the finding by them of instruments and other property by the hypothesis that they belonged to the Tyrell brothers, who in 1894 nearly lost their lives near Marble Island, Hudson Bay, and left many valuable articles behind, including their camera, plates, etc.

Mr. Buckland is confident that Andree will never again be heard from. When he was asked by the Norwegian Government last year to undertake a search for him, he declined, believing that to do so would simply mean a waste of time and money.

KINCARDINE GIRL'S ROMANCE.

Miss Maude Hadley Wins Her Husband a Box of Cigars.

Recently Karl A. Winters wagered a box of cigars with a friend that he would be married within 90 days. Time passed, and there was no wedding. Now news has been received in Chicago that Winters has won both a bride and the cigars, with ten days to spare. But it took an elopement to do it. The bride was Miss Maude Hadley, who for some time has made her home with her sister, Mrs. F. W. Beaver, 3,622 Ellis avenue, Chicago. She is from Kincardine, Ontario. Winters travels for the R. G. Gunning Company and is said to be the son of a wealthy Louisville citizen. The couple eloped on Sunday night, Sept. 7, and were married in Toledo, Ohio, on the following Monday. They had known each other for a year, but the marriage was a surprise to their friends.

Mr. Ross in Liverpool.

When Premier Ross lectured on Canada in Liverpool in his recent visit to Britain, he said among other things: With an area thirty times that of the United Kingdom, and a population of only 6,000,000, Canadians had too much room, and they wanted it filled up with precisely the same class as had already taken possession of it. The Canadian population was representative of the four dominant races of the world—Teutonic, German, French and Anglo-Saxon—and they, therefore, anticipated a great future. He was glad to say that they lived on neighborly, peaceful terms with the great Republic of the United States. Under the existing system of monarchical democracy, the Canadians were convinced that prosperity and liberty were as well secured as they could be under a Republican form of Government. He did not suppose there were a dozen Canadians inclined for a change, and he hoped that the dream of John Bright of the United States flag flying over the whole of the American continent would never come true.

A GOOD PRESCRIPTION.

Laughter as a Stomach Cure and an Aid to Health.

Worry is but one of the many forms of fear, so that worry tends to the production of indigestion. Indigestion tends to put the body of the subject in a condition that favors worry. There is thus established a vicious circle which tends to perpetuate itself, each element augmenting the other.

It is necessary to secure a cheerful, wholesome atmosphere for the dyspeptic. He should eat his meals at a table where there is good fellowship and where funny stories are told. He should himself make a great effort to contribute his share of this at the table, even if it be necessary, as it was in one case under my care, for him to solemnly and seriously collect funny paragraphs from the press, and at first interject them spasmodically during lulls in the conversation at the table. The very efforts and determination of the man to correct his own silent habits at table, to correct his feelings of discouragement and worry, were in themselves a promise of success. The effort made was adequate to the obstacles to be overcome. He succeeded, and the spectacle of that man trying to be funny at table when he felt thoroughly discouraged and blue is one we shall never forget.

Laughing is in itself also a useful exercise from the standpoint of digestion. It stirs up all the abdominal organs, it increases the circulation of the blood, it increases peristalsis, it increases the secretion of gastric juices. Five minutes' deliberate laughing after each meal would be an excellent prescription for some people.

To Increase Your Appetite.

Nothing will stimulate a keen, healthy relish for food, insure good digestion and perfect assimilation, like Ferrozone, which is the most successful tonic and health renewer known to medical men. Ferrozone is a positive cure for Anaemia, Impure Blood, Boils, Pimples, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and all Stomach and Bowel Troubles. Ferrozone cleanses, strengthens and purifies the blood, it invigorates the heart and nerves, banishes sickness and pain and makes ailing people well. Try a box or two of Ferrozone, the result will be a surprise. Price 50c. At druggists or Ormond & Walsh's.

Washing in the Orient.

The Japanese rip their garments apart for every washing, and they iron their clothes by spreading them on a flat board and leaning this up against the house to dry. The sun takes the wrinkles out of the clothes, and some of them have quite a luster. The Japanese woman does her washing out of doors. Her washtub is not more than six inches high.

The hardest worked washerwomen in the world are the Koreans. They have to wash about a dozen dresses for their husbands, and they have plenty to do. The washing is usually done in cold water and often in running streams. The clothes are pounded with paddles until they shine like a shirt front fresh from a laundry.

A Heartless Interruption.

A young Parisian, noted for his grace and readiness as a second in many duels, was asked by a friend to accompany him to the mayor's office to affix his signature as a witness to the matrimonial registry. He consented, but when the scene was reached forgot himself. Just as the mayor was ready for the last formalities he broke out: "Gentlemen, cannot this affair be arranged? Is there no way of preventing this sad occurrence?"

How True!

"Say, Jinks, where is that fine gold watch you used to sport? I see now that you're wearing a plain affair in a nickel plated case."

"Well, you know, 'circumstances alter cases.'"

Popular Among Railroad Men.

Because They Cure Kidney Disease, to Which Railroad Men are Particularly Susceptible—

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

It would probably surprise you to know what a large proportion of railway men use and endorse Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. For some reason or other, doubtless as a result of the jarring and jolting of the train and the necessity of being out in all sorts of weather, railroad men are very frequently sufferers from kidney disease. Conductors, engineers, brakesmen, firemen, as well as commercial travellers and others who go much by rail, find that when their backs ache and they feel the strain over the kidneys that Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills bring quick and lasting benefit.

Mr. C. Noyes, for many years section foreman, and now flagman for the G.T.R. at Peterborough, states; "For twenty one years I was section foreman on the G.P.R., and was exposed to all sorts of weather. As a result my kidneys became affected, and there was scarcely a day that I was not troubled more or less. At times I would have sharp shooting pains through my back and would get so used up that I felt like giving up work.

"During this time I was also a great sufferer from constipation. As I heard so much about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for kidney disease and constipation I began using them, and can say that I was entirely cured of my old troubles in a short time. I cannot say anything too good about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and never lose an opportunity of recommending them."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box. At all druggists, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 11

THE SAUERKRAUT PEDDLER.

A Character Common to the German Section of New York.

The regular and popular visitor to the German inns and taverns of the east side is the sauerkraut man. He brings his calling with him from the old country and finds a more profitable field in New York than in Berlin or Hamburg. His equipment is quite curious. He wears a blue or white apron running from his neck nearly to the ankles, and from his shoulders is suspended a circular metal box which goes half around his waist. It has three large compartments, two of which are surrounded by hot water. In one are well cooked frankfurter sausages and in the other thoroughly boiled sauerkraut. In the third compartment is potato salad. He carries in his hand a basket in which are small plates and steel forks. One sausage and a generous spoonful of sauerkraut and potato salad cost 5 cents. All three articles are of good quality, well cooked and seasoned. He finds his best customers in the bowling alleys, where the exertion demanded by the game produces large appetites. Next to these are the taverns which do not supply food with their drink. Last of all are the halls and meeting rooms where different societies assemble. His nightly stock consists of fifty sausages, seven pounds of sauerkraut and as much more of salad. On bad evenings he takes only half as much stock as on fair ones. Some of the more fortunate peddlers have arrangements with clubs which pay them a very fair profit upon their goods. Others are free lances who visit every place where they think they can effect a sale.

The metal boxes are very ingenious and are made in Germany. The metal is some variety of pewter, and the fitting of the compartments and of the entire affair to the body is very accurate. The covers are so well hinged and snug at the edges that when the owner falls down he is not liable to spill any of the contents. The contrivance costs some $3 in Germany, and about $5 in New York. A few of the peddlers appeal to educated palates and carry with them cervelat, bock, reh, leberwurst and vienna, as well as frankfurters. These fancy sausages usually bring 10 cents instead of the regulation 5.

The forks are washed after the customer has finished his little meal, and from repeated cleansing and use are as bright as silver. The plates, on the other hand, are so banged and bruised that they might be easily mistaken for crackle wear.

The Wrath of the Bee.

At the end of winter most hives have exhausted their stores and become dangerous. When this is the case, woe to him who touches the hives. Smoke has lost its spell, and you shall scarce have emitted the first puffs before 20,000 acrid and enraged demons will dart from within the walls, overwhelm your hands, blind your eyes and blacken your face. No living being except, they say, the bear and the sphinx atropos, can resist the rage of the mailed legions. Above all, do not struggle. The fury would overtake the neighboring colonies. There is no means of safety other than instant flight through the bushes. The bee is less rancorous, less implacable, than the wasp and rarely pursues her enemy. If flight be impossible, absolute immobility alone might calm her or put her off the scent. She fears and attacks any too sudden movement, but at once forgives that which no longer stirs.

A Safe Age.

The insuring of one's life is one of those things which one is most apt to put off. There are few, however, who postpone what ought to be the inevitable until so late a period in life as did the tough old smack owner of Grimsby. When he presented himself at the insurance office, he was naturally asked his age. His reply was, "Ninety-four." "Why, my good man, we cannot insure you," said the company. "Why not?" he demanded. "Why, you are ninety-four years of age." "What of that?" the old man cried. "Look at statistics, and they will tell you that fewer men die at ninety-four than at any other age."—London Business Illustrated.

Their Branch of Service.

"To what branch of the military service do captains of industry belong?" asked the recognized yet surviving joker of the party.

"I give it up," replied his victim wearily.

"To the artillery, because they're all 'big guns.' See? Ha, ha, ho, ho!"

Cool Trees.

It is not shade alone that makes it cooler under a tree in the summer. The coolness of the tree itself helps, for its temperature is about 45 degrees F. at all times, as that of the human body is a fraction more than 98 degrees. So a clump of trees cools the air as a piece of ice cools the water in a pitcher.

YOUNG GRANT'S COLT.

The Story of a Purchase That Earned the Boy Much Teasing.

When Ulysses S. Grant was a small boy living in Georgetown, O., he wanted, like most boys, to own a horse, and one particular colt belonging to a man named Ralston he wished especially to have. To indulge the boy's taste and buy the colt his father offered Mr. Ralston $20, but the owner valued the colt at $25 and refused the offer, taking the animal home with him.

As the hours passed after the little horse had trotted away with its owner Ulysses' disappointment and eagerness for possession increased, and he finally begged his father to pay the $25 demanded. His father said that $20 was all the animal was worth, but since Ulysses desired it so much he might go to Mr. Ralston and offer $20 again. If, his father added, he could not buy it for $20, he might offer $22.50, and if the owner would not let it go for $22.50 he might, in order to obtain it, give $25.

Ulysses therefore mounted a horse and set out for Mr. Ralston's. He was at that time probably about eight years old.

When he found the owner, he told him, "Papa says I may offer you $20 for the colt, but if you won't take that to offer you $22.50, and if you won't take that to give you $23."

The eagerness of the boy to gain the horse could not brook any barrier. It is needless to say that he paid $25 and led the animal home.

Grant said, in writing his memoirs, that the story of this purchase of his got out in the village and it was long before he heard the last of it. The schoolboys delighted in teasing him about it; schoolboys are very often little barbarians for tormenting one another, and they did not let Ulysses forget this one instance when he was behind the rest in cleverness.

He kept the horse for several years and finally sold it for $20, the poor animal having become blind. Later he found it taken from the road and working the tread wheel of a ferryboat which plied between the Ohio and Kentucky banks of the Ohio river.

Fish Blowing Bait Up the Line.

How on earth or in the water fish contrive to blow large baits three or four yards up the line has yet to be explained. It is a common thing to find large slabs of pilchard bait used for pollack blown right up the line by large fish. This happens only when the pollack is itself hooked. I have recently found that large bass serve one the same trick, writes a correspondent, but in this case the bass, which is a more cunning fish than the pollack, sometimes gets away. To realize the immense difficulty of such a feat let any one put even a piece of paper on a hook and endeavor tho blow it up the line with a bellows. Much more difficult it must be with the resistance of the water, and by what muscular action the fish contrives it I know not. I have searched the textbooks in vain for some hint on the subject.—London Opinion.

The Word "Picnic."

Few people know the original meaning of the word "picnic." It is to be found set out in the London Times of a hundred years ago. "A picnic supper consists of a variety of dishes. The subscribers to this entertainment have a bill of fare presented to them, with a number against each dish. The lot which he draws obliges him to furnish the dish marked against it, which he either takes with him in his carriage or sends by a servant. The proper variety is preserved by the talents of the maitre d'hotel, who forms the bill of fare. As the cookery is furnished by so many people of fashion each strives to excel, and thus a picnic supper not only gives rise to much pleasant mirth, but generally can boast of the refinement of the art."

THE PERPETUAL LIGHT.

Remarkable Lamp in Louisiana That Never Goes Out.

"The most remarkable lamp in this section of the country," said a man who cruises a great deal along the coast to the New Orleans Times-Democrat, "is to be found in the water area between Lake Borgne and Mississippi sound in a lonely, desolate, isolated spot, where the fall of human feet and the dip of oars are heard only four times a year.

"The light is some distance this side of Bay St. Louis and is a little south of Chinchuba. It stands away out in the marsh, but can be seen from the Louisville and Nashville railroad. It burns all the time, day and night, year in and year out. It flickers away for the benefit of the mariners who frequent these waters. It is the Perpetual light. The sun, the moon and stars may come and go, but the light which shines out in the dismal marsh is always the same. It is the one bright thing in a rather dismal stretch of country. Seaweeds grow wild and rank in that region. The land, such as one may see from a railroad train, is a flat and treeless waste. It is without any cheerful aspect, low, gloomy, overhung by miasmatic mist and a perfect prairie of wild and matted weeds of the kind which flourish in marshy regions. It is threaded by sluggish arms of water.

"Once every three months this lamp is visited by a human being. It is filled with oil, trimmed up and put in condition to burn for three months longer. Thus it is visited four times a year. It is situated so that the winds cannot put it out. It renders good service, never explodes, never goes out, never gets dimmer or brighter, but burns with the same steady power all the time. It has earned the name of the Perpetual light."

Eczema Easily Cured.

Merrill's System Tonic has cured many cases of blood and skin diseases such as eczema, scrofula, pimples and syphilitic sores, than all other remedies combined. Besides being a most powerful blood purifier it is an excellent tonic and cures by assisting nature to throw off the disease. A fifty cent bottle lasts three weeks. Sold at Ormond and Walsh's.

He Left Them.

On the afternoon of Winslow's departure for Denver he was paying his bill, when he called Willie, hanging fascinatingly near.

"I want you," he said slowly, glaring into the boy's eyes, "to go upstairs and see if I left my toothbrush and comb in my room. Toothbrush and comb, toothbrush, toothbrush, toothbrush! Don't forget what I want, boy, and hurry, too. Got to get my train."

"N-no, sir-r; y-yes, sir," chattered Willie.

Winslow hung about impatiently, watching the clock like a hawk. Only two minutes to spare. Just as he caught up his bag to depart Willie came on a dead run across the floor, his face aglow with the sense of a lofty mission well performed.

"Yes, sir," he cried eagerly, "you left 'em!"

Winslow gazed at his empty handed emissary. His lips moved, but no words came forth. Then, with an inarticulate snarl, he stepped into the waiting carriage.

Weary Brain Workers.

All fagged out, ideas flow slowly as molasses, snap and energy gone! The buoyancy that made work a pleasure, that gone also. A doctor would say you are run down, enervated, neither eating or digesting enough. It's Ferrozone you need to brace up that fitful appetite and improve assimilation and digestion so that lots of pure strong blood will be formed to nourish the broken down system. Ferrozone will drive away the tired feeling, restore your spirits and energy, revive your ambition and strength for work. No tonic or rebuilder like Ferrozone—try it. Price 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50; at Ormond & Walsh's.

Stories of Children.

Teacher—What is velocity, Johnny? Johnny—Velocity is what a feller lets go of a bumblebee with.

The Parson—My boy, I'm sorry to see you flying your kite on the Sabbath. Small Boy—Dat's all right, mister. Dis kite's made uv a 'ligious paper. See?

Small Ned, hearing a number of frogs in a pond making a hideous noise, exclaimed, "My goodness, but the froggies must sleep awful sound!" "Why do you think so?" asked his mother. "'Cause they snore so loud," replied Ned.

Limited Choice.

Father—Johnny, I see your little brother has the smaller apple. Did you give him his choice, as I suggested.

Johnny—Yes, father; I told him he could have his choice—the little one or none—and he took the little one.

Just Right for a Hot Day.

Does this weather do you up? Then for that fagged out feeling try a bottle of Merrill's System Tonic. It puts new life and energy into the body and makes one feel equal to their duties. As a muscular and nerve tonic and bowel regulator, this medicine has no equal. Price 50c per bottle of 50 doses at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

Where He Rode.

A schoolboy who was going to a party was cautioned by his father not to walk home if it rained and was given money for cab hire. It rained heavily, and great was the father's surprise when his son, in spite of the instructions he had received, arrived home drenched to the skin.

"Did you not take a cab as I ordered you, Alfred?" the parent asked sternly.

"Oh, yes; but when I ride with you you always make me ride inside. This time I rode on top with the driver. Say, dad, it was grand!"

THE WALL STREET MARKET.

The Stocks Remained Steady Throughout the Day.

Sales to Noon Were 601,900—Money Cleared at 8 Per Cent.—Several Letters.

The market this morning opened fairly strong and remained steady throughout the day. In fact, stocks closed at about the same figures as the opening quotations. P.A. opened at 161 and closed at that figure. Erie opened at 40 and dropped only 1-8. St. Paul closed at 192 1-4, M.O.P. 115 1-2. Sales at noon were 306,000 and at the close 601,700. Money opened at 8 per cent. and closed at the same figure.

The following dispatch has been received by E. M. Poussett & Co. from McIntyre & Marshall, New York, this afternoon:

We confess the continued strength of market is a surprise to us. Generally after so long a period of high (accumulates and anything like) money a heavy short interest. Relief such as Secretary Shaw's action on Monday is followed by a sharp upturn on covering of shorts, but this is ordinarily followed by a sagging market. This relief, however, we are afraid will be found to be more apparent than real. In the first place it seems to us that Europe has served notice on us in no uncertain tone that we need not expect any help from them. The facts of the case are that for at least a week past money could have been placed for three month's time on best collateral at a rate not far from 8 per cent. Ordinarily Europe would have flooded us with money. Instead of that foreign exchange is up again to-day and the Bank of England has increased its rate and altogether has given us to understand that our line with them as borrowers is full. The next two months will see continued demand made on us from west for the money of crops. Canada is a large loaner of money now, but she will soon need this money for the moving of her crop. The best thing that has happened so far is the heavy liquidation that has taken place. This has cleared the air and reduced the loan account materially. We see no chance of anything approaching a bull market, and will be well contented to see present crisis maintained and see but little hope for that.

McINTYRE & MARSHALL.

To Messrs. Haight and Freese;

New York, October 2nd. — The stock market is likely to be somewhat irregular to-day, with probably specialties advancing. The banks have given evidence of their determination to curb pool operations on the up-turn. We believe signs point to a near end of the coal strike. The Bank of England had advanced the discount rate to-day to four per cent. This has the effect of operating against gold exports to the U. S., by making money dearer. This may cause a slight depression here. We continue to advise the purchase of standard stocks on reactions. Specialties in Man., UP, Oo, USS, or Penn. are not unlikely in view of information we get. We are bullish on Atch, AWU, Wa, Can Pac. The morning London market for Americans was very heavy.

To Messrs. Haight and Freese;

New York, October 2nd.—That old common arbitrator, 'Time," will soon end the coal strike. The order will be given to dismount from the hobby horses. A plan to increase wages ten per cent. to the miners will quickly break the backbone of the coal famine. The shorts in the anthracite have still many contracts to cover. Keep long of the soft coalers. Time money is still scarce at rate of 6 per cent. for 60 days and 6 months. Millions will be required for crop moving purposes so do not load up with more stocks than you can carry. Trade for quick returns, preferably buying U P Mop, So Pac and Eries, on all moderate recessions. The Gates contingent will win out handsomely on Colo fuel. Shorts covering PO. Big rise coming in Green Bay and Western Bonds.

Treasury Assistance.

New York, Oct. 1,—Somewhat late to materially benefit many people, the U. S. Treasury has come to the rescue. The secretary has announced that he will make deposit of Government money to the extent of the market value of Government bonds, instead of the par value; also will deposit money against such quick securities as savings banks are allowed by law to invest in. The Savings Bank class of securities may also be substituted for part of each depository bank's deposit of two per cent. against circulation, so that more National Bank notes may be issued against the released 2s. Twenty-five millions of such currency has already been printed, anticipating its consequent demand by the banks. This will release a lot of money, and should not only materially relieve the general stringency, but what is far more to the point, go a long way towards restoring confidence. Every one knows that stocks have not declined owing to future outlok, or because they were too high, but because the money situation made it simply impossible for all to get funds without liquidation. This enormous liquidation has also aided matters materially. Once the storm is over, there will be as much of a desire to buy as the past few days witnessed to sell. Bargains are more in evidence in Wall street than they are in dry good stores. We think it is no exaggeration to say that fully 75,000 shares of stock have been absorbed by cash investors since Saturday morning last. This stock will practically go out of the market to stay for quite a period at least. It will take good profits to bring it back into Wall street, as this class of buyers purchases when low, and only parts with his holdings when things are high, and people climbing for them. Another point to bear in mind—the market of the past week has thrown back upon the hands of the cliques and insiders nearly all outside holdings. Their work of disposal will consequently all have to be done over again. It will also take an advancing market to accomplish the purpose. Remember in the 1899 tight money episode, keen and standard interests were bearish upon the market. To-day they are low with stocks. The course of St. Paul the past month fully proves it. Their interests are consequently identified with the bulls and they are probably the strongest combination to-day in Wall street.

Summary.—To-day's market illustrates the excellence of our advice for the time to sell stocks on bulges; then to repurchase them upon the set-back. We don't mean these remarks to be in any way to be tinged as bearish in nature, as we advise buying long stocks on the depressions. To do as outlined above is simply to take advantage of the feverish and erratic market movements which always follow a shake-up. Stocks will eventually go much higher, in many instances higher than any previous price recorded, but the feverish up and down periods should be gone through before a continuous upward march is resumed, consequently we hasard the advice for benefit of our clients. The low prices of the annual tight money period we believe have been made, and will not be generally reached again.

Money closed 8 per cent. Sales 900,000.

OTONABEE'S EXCELLENT EXHIBITION.

THE INTERIOR EXHIBITS.

The show inside the Agricultural Hall was unusually excellent. The exhibit of grain, as was to be expected this year, was of a most creditable character, including wheat, oats, etc., and a new kind of feed grain called "spelts," which grows on stalks something in the manner of broom corn. A rather fine display of fruit was made—apples, pears, etc., and among the exhibits in this class was a fine plate of peaches grown by Mrs. Wm. Campbell, Keene. The area of the possible production of peaches in this county seems to be widening. The collection of hothouse flowers and cut flowers was excellent. Some of the bouquets displayed very fine taste and skill in arrangement. The garden vegetables were very well represented, there being a magnificent display of potatoes, and field roots were of especially fine quality. This is an exhibit in which the Otonabee always excels. Domestic products, flannels, blankets, carpets, pickles, preserves, etc., were well represented, and so was home-made bread and butter. There were two or three exhibits of factory cheese. The department snored to the ladies was filled with a very creditable collection of fancy work, brading, crocheting, lace, embroidery and other feminine bric-a-brac of this description. A curiosity that attracted attention was a collection of vegetable ivory, shown by Mrs. Alex. Campbell. It consisted of the large nut of vegetable ivory and parts of it in the different stages of manufacture, to a finished button made of this remarkable vegetable resemblance to animal ivory. There was a fair display of fine arts, paintings in oil, etc., but the exhibit did not seem to be as large as in former years. A rather good display of amateur photography was of considerable interest. In the collection was a picture of a lady over 90 years of age, Mrs. John Kindred, and another interesting bit was a picture of the oldest house in Otonabee, one of the first, if not the first house built in the township. It is situated at Kent's Creek.

Other miscellaneous displays served to make the interior of the hall quite attractive. W. T. Mathers had on exhibition several of his well-constructed and well-finished buggies, and carriages. Messrs. Gough Bros. had their usual fine display of clothing, with gramaphone accompaniment, in charge of Prof. McCabe and J. McFadden Messrs. Grafton & Co. were also represented on the grounds by Messrs. Conway and Meagher. The Singer Sewing Machine Company had an interesting corner. Messrs. Turnbull & Company had a display of goods in charge of Mr. Jas. Maude, and Mr. George Hutchison, town, had several cream separators in evidence. On the whole the interior of exhibition hall presented a very attractive appearance.

The speeding events furnished excellent entertainment, and were the centre of attraction. The directors have put the track in excellent shape by the application of the township road grader, and it is safe to say that there is not a better township track in the whole countryside. The events were, subject to the supervision of the directors, conducted by Messrs. William Croft and John Clancy, town, and Mr. W. J. Westington, Cobourg, who acted in the capacity of judges. There were three principal events—the Green Trot, the Free for All Trot, and a running race. All three of these were capitally contested and were interesting events. In the Green Trot there were four entries; in the running race only two entries were there were four entries; in the free for all, three, but in the running race a slight accident occurred. The rider of Boney Pat fell off his mount, but did not receive any serious injury.

Mitchell Says He Has Evidence Against Operators.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S MEET.

Operators Are Already on the Ground—President of United Mine Workers on the Way—Hopes That the Conference Between Opponents May Result in a Settlement of the Great Strike.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 3.—President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers, accompanied by District Presidents Nicholls, Duffy and Fahey, left here last evening for Washington, via Philadelphia. Mr. Mitchell conferred with the district presidents through the day. It is not known what policy the Legislative Board of the Miners' Union will pursue at the conference. Mr. Mitchell declined to express any opinion. All he would say was that he hoped for the best.

The following telegram was sent by President Mitchell to the three anthracite district secretaries yesterday:

"There has been placed in my hands indisputable evidence of an attempt on the part of the operators to create discord among our non-English-speaking members, through the circulation of pamphlets containing malicious and dastardly attacks upon the officers of the organization, and by an effort to arouse race prejudices. These circulars will be printed in all the foreign languages and will be signed by a person designating himself 'A Friend.' I will notify all district and local officers to be on their guard. It is especially important that our non-English-speaking brothers be informed of this conspiracy. John Mitchell."

THE STRIKE CONFERENCE.

Attorney-General Knox and Carroll D. Wright Will Also Attend.

Washington, Oct. 3.—It is expected that all the men to whom invitations were sent Wednesday will be present at the strike conference today. They have all accepted.

This was the only statement that could be obtained at the White House yesterday regarding the conference. Senator Quay of Pennsylvania consulted with the President for an hour yesterday. It is understood that he came here at the request of the President to discuss the strike situation. The President and the Senator were not interrupted, and two Cabinet officers who called did not see the President while the conference was in progress. Senator Quay, after he left the President, would not discuss the situation or express an opinion as to the probable effect of the conference.

During the day Secretary Root, Attorney-General Knox and Senator Shaw were in conference with the President. Secretary Wilson was at the White House for a short time, but the three first remained with the President for nearly an hour. It is understood that the President discussed the subject of the conference with them, and the Cabinet officers made a number of suggestions as to what the President should say to those who will participate in it.

It has been decided that Attorney-General Knox shall attend the conference to-day between the President, the coal operators, and Mr. Mitchell of the Miners' Union. He will be the only member of the Cabinet who will be present. Carroll D. Wright, Commissioner of Labor, who recently made an investigation of the strike situation, will attend on the invitation of the President.

The operators invited arrived in the city last night.

Morgan Backs Roosevelt.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Walter Wellman, wiring to Record-Herald from Washington, says: J. Pierpont Morgan has sent word to President Roosevelt that he fully approves of this effort to settle the strike and hopes it will be successful. Your correspondent has seen the messenger who brought Mr. Morgan's approval to Washington last night. He was present in Mr. Morgan's office when the new of the President's action came, and Mr. Morgan at once exclaimed: "That is right. The President is doing just the right thing in the right way. Tell him so for me."

The significance of this is very great. It means that Mr. Morgan, as the strongest factor in the anthracite corporations, will add the weight of his influence to that of President Roosevelt in the effort to bring about a settlement.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP OF MINES.

Plank of Democratic Platform as Solution of Fuel Problem.

Saratoga, Oct. 3.—The Democratic State convention adopted a platform favoring the nationalization of the anthracite coal mines, promising relief from the trusts, favoring the election of United States Senators by direct vote, and a thousand ton barge canal. On the nationalization of the coal mines the platform reads:

"We advocate the national ownership and operation of anthracite coal mines, by the exercise of eminent domain, with just compensation to owners.

"Fuel, like water, being a public necessity, we advocate national ownership and operation of the mines as a solution of the problem which will relieve the country from the sufferings which follow differences between labor and capital in the anthracite mines. This course will ensure peace in the mining regions and remove the cause for differences leading, not only to suffering, but oftimes to bloodshed and insurrection.

"It will relieve the consumers of coal, not only in this State, but thruout the whole country; ensure steady employment and ample compensation to labor; transfer children from the mines to the schools; ensure, strengthen and preserve the stability of the business interests and popular institutions of our country. Whatever differences of opinion may exist over other propositions of public ownership, the propriety of that policy as applied to anthracite coal mines must be apparent to every citizen."

Coal Operators a Trust.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Attorney-General Davies announced yesterday that he had granted the application of The New York American and Journal, that the coal operators be summoned to appear before him and show cause why proceedings should not be instituted against them under the Donnelly anti-trust law. A hearing will be given in this city Wednesday, Oct. 8, at 2 p.m.

Baer Has a Heart.

Harrisburg, Oct. 3.—The Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company has notified its employes in Harrisburg, who are heads of families, that they will be supplied with one ton of anthracite coal each at $4.25 per ton in less than ten days.

Output of Canadian Coal.

Montreal, Oct. 3.—A special from Glace Bay, C. B., says: The output from the collieries owned and operated by the Dominion Coal Company for the month of September was as follows: Dominion No. 1, 60,010 tons; Dominion No. 2, 49,314 tons; Dominion No. 3, 38,013 tons; Caledonia, 60,497 tons; Reserve, 71,128 tons; International, 19,371 tons. Total, 298,433 tons. The output is over 10,000 tons in excess of that of August, and is the second largest monthly output in the history of the Dominion Coal Company operators.

KILLED BY THE TRAIN.

Robert Stewart, Formerly of Peterborough, Met Death

At Irish River on the C.P.R.—No Particulars of the Accident are yet to Hand.

News was received in town last night of the death of Mr. Robert Stewart, cattle merchant, of Brockville. The message was received by the George Matthews Company, in whose employ the deceased has been, on and off, for some years.

Mr. Stewart's death was due to an accident which occurred at Irish River, a station on the C.P.R. a short distance from Smith Falls. No particulars of the accident are yet to hand other that that Mr. Stewart while attempting to board a train at Irish River, fell underneath the moving cars, sustaining injuries which resulted fatally. All attempts to obtain particulars of the accident up until 3 o'clock were unsuccessful.

The late Mr. Stewart was about 46 years of age, and was a native of Ireland. He came to this country when a boy and learned the blacksmithing business, which he conducted for some years at Fraserville. Later he went into the live stock business, in which he was quite successful. About five years ago he moved to Peterborough, where he continued to reside until two years ago, when he moved to Brockville. He married a Miss Neithercutt, of town, who, together with three sons, are left to mourn his sad demise. The sons are Mr. Bert Stewart, of Peterborough, and Masters Campbell and Kenneth at home. The deceased was a member of the Woodmen of the World, and was widely known throughout this district.

The remains will arrive in Peterborough on the Belleville train tomorrow morning, and the funeral will take place at 1.30 to-morrow afternoon from the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. Harry Donnelly, No. 313 Bethune street, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

TO-DAY'S BLAZE.

A Barn on Lake Street Destroyed This Afternoon.

At about three o'clock this afternoon, fire was discovered in the stables of Mr. Achilles Letellier, 84 Lake street. The alarm was sent in and the brigade quickly responded. However, the flames had made such rapid headway that the structure was consumed, and the attention of the firemen was turned towards preventing the flames spreading to the adjoining buildings.

The employees of the Cordage Coy. did splendid work with their fire extinguishers.

THE AMUSEMENT RULE.

Signs of Revolt Against the Recent Decision of the General Conference.

That the Methodist church does not intend to abide by the declaration of the General Conference to adhere to the present strict rule regarding amusements was made apparent on Sunday night last, when Rev. Dr. Cleaver, probably the foremost Methodist preacher in Toronto, and the pastor of the Sherbourne street church, a wealthy and fashionable congregation, urged that the rule was useless. He expressed the belief that the rule was originally the honest conviction of honest men, placed there in an honest desire to stem the tide of worldliness of which the church was ever in danger, but in this purpose Dr. Cleaver thought it had failed. What, therefore, ought to be done? He thought they had need to go back to the basic principles of Protestantism and Christianity and accept the written word as the only and sufficient rule for life, faith and practice. This was authority unquestionable. "I dare not put the standard lower," declared the preacher, "and no man can raise it higher."

Elevated Salesman.

If you are curious to learn what an elevated salesman is step into the J. C. Turnbull Co's store, and you will see in the curtain room, off the carpet department, a novel overhead fixture for displaying lace curtains. It does its work effectively. It shows the curtains their full length, exposing the whole pattern in front of a dark back ground, giving shoppers as satisfactory an impression of the general effect as if hung up in a room.

THE PRESIDENT'S APPEAL.

President Roosevelt has summoned both parties concerned in the coal fight, to Washington, to appeal to them in the interests of humanity. That sounds very nice, but the coal barons have their whole attention devoted to the interets of themselves. The mine owners paid the miners sixty cents a ton for raising a ton of 3,000 lbs. The coal cost of the coal delivered to retail dealers was about $1.87 a ton, and the average cost to the consumer was $6.25. Somebody was evidently getting a big profit. It was not the miner, whose average earnings was $284 a year, to keep a family, while the middle man got a profit of $4.38 a ton. What will the coal operators care for the interests of humanity alongside of such profits? The only appeal that will reach them is club law. If President Roosevelt consented to confiscate the mines, supposing that were practicable, and have the Government work them, giving the miners living wages, and supply cool at its actual value to the public, the mine owners would begin to take some interest in the "interests of humanity."

RAILWAY TAXES IN THE UNITED STATES.

Mr. H. J. Pettypiece, M. P., West Lambton, and editor of the Forest Free Press, is an enthusiast upon the subject of taxing railways, and last Session of the Legislature he made a strong speech pregnant with information on the subject, which attracted great attention from members on both sides of the House. In his journalistic capacity he has followed up the subject, and the following from a recent number of the Forest Free Press contains much food for reflection:—

The information given in the last two or three numbers of the Free Press in regard to railway rates and regulations in Ontario and in some of the neighbouring States has been so much appreciated by our readers that some additional facts along the same line are in order. The figures below show the amount of taxes paid by the railways in each State of the Union. The first column gives the amount of taxes (not assessment) paid per mile of railway, and the second column gives the total amount of taxes paid by the railways in the respective States. The figures for Michigan are for the year ending June 30th, 1901, and for all the other States for the year ending June 30th, 1900:

State.	Taxes Per Mile.	Total Amount.

Oklohama	168 58	181,247

This summary does not include taxes paid to the United States Government under the recent Internal Revenue Act, nor small amounts not apportioned by States.

The Dominion of Canada has 19,000 miles of railway, which have received from the people direct aid to the amount of $223,000,000 in cash, and 52,000,000 acres of land besides loans, etc. Putting the land at $2 per acre this means that every mile of railway in Canada has received $17,000 from the people. They are capitalized at $57,000 per mile and should certainly bear an assessment equal to the amount of aid they have received, that is, $17,000 per mile, which at the average rate of municipal taxation in Ontario, would yield $340 per mile in taxes. This would add $6,460,000 to the revenues of the various municipalities, and then the railways would not be paying as much taxes in proportion to value of property as the individual propertyholders are paying year after year. But suppose the railways in Canada paid the same amount per mile as the railways in the States are paying, viz., $255 per mile, the total amount would be $4,845,000. The returns for 1901 show that the railways of Canada received in earnings the sum of $72,898,744, with working expenses amounting to $50,368,726, leaving a profit of $22,530,018. They can well afford to pay their fair share of taxes. When will the people compel them to do so?

PROVIDING AGAINST COAL FAMINES.

When the coal strike is over, and anthracite is to be had at the normal prices, the people ought not to relapse into a feeling of indifference or security as to the supply. The anthracite is in a foreign country, we have no control over it, and it is questionable whether we ought to depend upon it absolutely. No doubt anthracite is the cleanest and most convenient of fuels, and will always be preferred to bituminous coal or wood, if it can be had. But this country has an ample supply of bituminous coal and wood, and measures should be taken to make it more easily available in case of a repetition of this year's trouble.

One possible solution lies in the more extensive use of gas for heating purposes. The general notion is that the gas heaters now in use in this country are only makeshifts, intended to "take off the chill" on cold mornings and evenings in uncertain weather, but not to heat the whole house in the icy grip of February. A hot water system with the heat supplied by gas would be the perfection of cleanness and convenience, and it would be useful to have information as to its cost.

Another matter to which attention ought to be paid is the construction of houses with a view to economizing fuel. Solidity, good workmanship and compactness are obvious means of protection against cold weather. The suggestion has been made that the winter sunshine might be utilized more extensively than it is at present. The verandas, which are now becoming every year more common, might be encased in glass during the winter months, and so converted into sun parlours. Even when there is no scarcity of fuel it is pleasant and healthful to bask in the winter sun, and it is customary to advertise the sun parlour as one of the attractions of winter resort hotels. There is no reason why this luxury should not be more generally enjoyed; the cost of the glass would be soon paid for in the saving in coal, and a pleasant room would be added to the house.—Globe.

INDIAN RIVER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The fall crops are looking well, and the farmers are making great progress with their ploughing.

Dr. H. Flinders visited our town last week, and found that Mr. J. E. Devlin's pig was not thriving, and on examining the pig Dr. Flinders discovered and removed three black teeth. John says the pig is now doing well.

Mr. Joseph Collins removed a pea from the eye of a calf belonging to Dennis Sullivan. In some manner it got there on the day of the threshing.

Mr. Patrick Burke and son are taking steps towards buying the Indian River cheese factory from Mr. J. Landrigan. The latter is talking about leaving this country for a while.

Dr. Tupper received a large contract for pills last week.

Mr. David O'Leary intends going to Long's camp as assistant to the cook.

VIRTUES OF DOMESTIC SERVANTS.

In these days when we hear so much of the inefficiency and independence of domestics, it is interesting to come across someone who champions the modern house servant. A New York lady writes;

There is an army of conscientious, hardworking women whom we call "domestic servants." They cook for us, sweep our floors, and amuse our children; they are often butler and baker, maid and housekeeper, all in one; they work early and late, and at every variety of labour.

They are supposed to be able to leave their Monday morning tubs or their afternoon baking to fly to the front door, metamorphosed on the way into the tidiest of French maids; to go without breakfast in order to take Reginald and Charles to school, and to be at all times, and under all circumstances amiable, obliging and—good looking.

It is true that there have been instances of gross misbehaviour on the part of servants, but so there have of bank presidents; and all things considered I think our domestic servants can hold their own in any branch of good morals. Among the ten thousand servants for whom I have obtained situations I have known but one bad case of theft, six of drunkenness and four of dissolute habits.

We hear of occasional instances where the servants left in charge of city houses have turned their master's palaces into places of revelry for themselves and their friends, but we never hear of the many instances where the houses are carefully watched and taken care of.

The trust we place in our servants is stupendous. Our homes, our children, our pocket books, our very very lives we put into their keeping without so much as a bond such as is required of the smallest wage-earner in any other department of labour, and seldom do we think of the hundreds of temptations to which we are constantly subjecting them.

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

A Remedy Which Has Revolutionized the Treatment of Stomach Troubles

The remedy is not heralded as a wonderful discovery nor yet a secret patent medicine, neither is it claimed to cure anything except dyspepsia, indigestion and stomach troubles, with which nine out of ten suffer.

The remedy is in the form of pleasant tasting tablets or lozenges, containing vegetable and fruit essences, pure asceptic pepsin, (government test), golden seal and diastase. The Tablets are sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Many interesting experiments to test the digestive powers of Stuart's Tablets show that one grain of the active principle contained in them is sufficient to thoroughly digest 3,000 grains of raw meat, eggs, and other wholesome food.

Stuart's Tablets do not act upon the bowels like after dinner pills and cheap cathartics, which simply irritate and inflame the intestines, without having any effect whatever in digesting food or curing indigestion.

If the stomach can be rested and assisted in the work of digestion, it will very soon recover its normal vigour, as no organ is so much abused and overworked as the stomach.

This is the secret, if there is any secret, of the remarkable success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, a remedy practically unknown a few years ago, and now the most widely known of any treatment for stomach weakness.

This success has been secured entirely upon its merits as a digestive pure and simple, because there can be no stomach trouble if the food is properly digested.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act entirely on the food eaten, digesting it completely so that it can be assimilated into blood, nerve and tissue. They cure dyspepsia, water brash, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive power which weak stomachs lack, and unless that lack is supplied, it is useless to attempt to cure by the use of "tonics," "pills" and cathartics, which have absolutely no digestive power.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be found at all drug stores and the regular use of one or two of them after meals will demonstrate their merit better than any other argument.

Sir Wilfrid in Scotland.

Paris, Oct. 3.—Premier Laurier of Canada and Lady Laurier, left Paris yesterday for Scotland, where they will be the guests of Lord Aberdeen, the ex-Governor-General of Canada. The Premier, while here, had several conferences at the Foreign Ministry concerning a Franco-Canadian treaty of commerce, but the results have not yet transpired.

More Bills in "Digger" Case.

Toronto, Oct. 3.—The grand jury of the Criminal Sessions yesterday afternoon returned true bills in two more "digger" cases, leaving but one to be considered by them. The bills are against George W. Lorree and Gilbert Nelson. Lorree is charged with receiving tickets to the value of $8 and with the theft of two tickets. Nelson is accused of stealing five cents and fourteen tickets. The indictment yet to be considered is against Matthew Nelson.

Paris, Oct. 3.—The will of Emile Zola was found, as indicated by Mme. Zola, in his bedroom, the seals of which were broken in order to obtain the document. The room was immediately sealed up again. The will was not opened until a late hour last evening, and its contents have not been made public. It is understood, however, that M. Zola left everything to his wife. He left no literary testament, and the will contains no directions as to M. Zola's funeral.

Suicide Due to Love.

London, Ont., Oct. 3.—Minnie Coudy the 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Coudy, 188 Albert street, committed suicide early yesterday morning by drinking laudanum and carbolic acid. The unfortunate girl expired about 10.30, despite the efforts of three medical men. A love affair, which had not gone smoothly, is said to be the cause of the rash deed.

Socialists' Ideas Adopted.

When originating his celebrated Four T's, Merrill, the Brantford Druggist, added to drugs of many generations' usefulness some of the latest drugs used by lung and throat specialists. The result, naturally, is that Four T's is an unexcelled compound and never fails to cure a cough in 24 hours and the worst cold in two days. Large bottles 25c. at Ormond & Walsh's.

Lost in the Woods.

Corona, Man., Oct. 3.—John McCorrister, an old man, aged about 80, has been lost in the woods here since the evening of Sept. 30. Search was made for him yesterday, but without avail, no trace whatever having been found. He has now been out two nights, and, being in poor health and very feeble, there is little hope that he will be found alive.

Massacres in New Guinea.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 3.—Shortly before the steamship Moana, which has arrived here, left Sydney, official despatches arrived from New Guinea telling of intertribal fights and massacres. The Tugeri head hunters had attacked the Sanana villages and killed a large number and carried off many heads. The Sanana afterward attacked the Tugeri.

Temiskaming Contract.

Toronto, Oct. 3.—At a meeting of the Temiskaming Railway Commission yesterday, the contract for the building of the road was awarded to A. R. Macdonnell, whose tender was the lowest. The figure tendered, however, was not made public. There were fourteen tenders received.

Gen. Weyler Will Resign.

Madrid, Oct. 3.—It is currently reported here that Gen. Weyler, Minister of War, will resign his portfolio on the re-opening of the Chamber of Deputies, having King Alfonso's refusal to sign certain military documents which have been presented to His Majesty by Gen. Weyler.

TRAGEDY AT WOODBRIDGE.

Miss Amy Card Fatally Burned—Miss Aggie Also Injured.

Woodbridge, Ont., Oct. 3.—A sad accident occurred Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. Alexander Card of Eighth Avenue. While going outside with a lighted lantern. Mr. Card's youngest daughter Amy tripped, and the lantern exploded, setting fire to her clothing. The clothes of her sister Aggie, who rushed to her rescue, caught fire also. The flames had secured such a start on Amy's clothing that it was impossible to put out the fire, and her whole body was literally burned to a crisp.

Aggie, who was badly burned about the legs, will recover, but there are no hopes for Amy, whose death is looked for at any moment.

Many of the neighbors are assisting Dr. McLean to do everything possible for the children. Both Mr. and Mrs. Card were away when the accident occurred.

Fainted at Husband's Bier.

Paris, Oct. 3.—Madame Zola was allowed to see the body of her husband yesterday. A large crowd assembled in front of the house, saluted her respectfully as she alighted from a carriage, assisted by two doctors. She was attired in deep mourning, and was evidently very weak. Zola's publishers and some of his intimate friends accompanied her to the mortuary chamber. When her husband's features were uncovered, Madame Zola's anguish was heart-rending. She finally swooned.

Killed by a Horse.

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—Walter Boucher, a well-known youth of March Township, was killed Wednesday afternoon by a horse, while leading the animal to pasture. Details of the sad occurrence will never be known, as the boy was alone when it happened, and was not found for several hours after. It is evident he was killed suddenly, by a kick. He was found dead by a younger brother, who went to search for him, having become uneasy at his not returning. The boy was 14 years old.

LACERATED HIS WINDPIPE.

James Alexander, a Toronto Builder, Survived Injuries Only Seven Hours.

Toronto, Oct. 3.—James Alexander, one of Toronto's best-known carpenters and builders, died at his home, 189 Brunswick avenue, last night, from injuries received while at work in A. Wiles' sash and door factory, at 559 Dundas street.

Mr. Alexander was engaged in the carpenter shop of the factory about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when he was struck on the neck by a plank which was shoved up through a trap-door in the floor by two other workmen. The force of the blow was sufficient to badly lacerate his windpipe and render breathing practically impossible. Drs. Oldright and Wiley were immediately summoned, and from the first no hope was held out of Alexander's recovery. After the injury had been dressed Mr. Alexander was taken home, where he lingered till 10 o'clock, when his death occurred. An inquest was deemed unnecessary.

TOO GREAT EXPENSE

Not the Reason.

It is not because Pyramid Pile Cure is so expensive that many people decline to give it a trial, but because they find it too great a tax on their credulity to believe that the published letters bearing testimony to the merit of this remedy are genuine and bona fide; especially to those who have realized the suffering incident to piles is it incredible that any one who has been afflicted twenty-five and thirty years with the worst forms of protruding and bleeding piles should be cured by the application of a simple remedy, when their physician has assured them that the only relief is in a surgical operation. This is rightly viewed with dread by all those afflicted, as it means at the least a great shock to the nervous system, with more than a possibility of utter collapse and death; in a majority of cases, too, there is a return of the complaint, owing to the fact that the cause is not removed.

The proprietors of Pyramid Pile Cure agree to forfeit one thousand dollars to anyone who will show a single published testimonial to be not genuine and unsolicited; this latter feature is most gratifying, inasmuch as these letters are written solely out of gratitude and with the hope that those who are afflicted as the writers have been may learn that relief is at hand, at a comparatively trifling expense. Pyramid Pile Cure is for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a package, or will be mailed by the makers to any address upon receipt of price.

Mr. Wm. Lichtenwalter, head of the largest printing house in Canton Ohio, says, "It is with the utmost pleasure and satisfaction that I can say I believe I am cured of protruding and bleeding piles after suffering more than twenty years. I have been in bed for two weeks at a time. I have not suffered in the least for over a year, and I used only three fifty-cent boxes of Pyramid Pile Cure. I advise every person suffering with this distressing and painful complaint to give this remedy a trial. I have every confidence in it." Write to the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for their book on the causes and cure of piles.

Judgments Mitigated.

Dublin, Oct. 3.—The Birr County Court yesterday upheld the term under the Crimes' Act Court in the cases of Edmund Haviland-Burke, M. P., and Michael Reddy, M.P., and chairman of the Birr Rural District Council, but reduced Mr. Burke's sentence to one month's imprisonment, and omitted the hard labor in the case of Mr. Reddy.

Twelve Miners Killed.

Black Diamond, Wash., Oct. 3.—An explosion of fire damp occurred last night, in the south end of the fourth level of the Lawson mine, badly wrecking the mine and killing twelve miners. Fortunately, no fire was started. Three bodies have been taken out. Nine other bodies are in the mine. Three other men were injured, one severely.

THE INSURANCE CASE

Brown Arraigned and Trial Adjourned Till Tuesday.

SOME IMPORTANT STATEMENTS

Mrs. Brown Tells of Some Suspicions She Had About Her Late Husband's Death—Dr. D. McKay, Physician to the Late Stepfather of the Prisoner, Says Mr. Brown, Sr., Died From Natural Causes.

Collingwood, Oct. 3.—Yesterday afternoon William Henry Brown was arraigned on the charge of conspiring to murder his mother. Magistrate Nettleton presided. Provincial Detective Greer represented the Crown, and Messrs. Allan and Birnie appeared for the prisoner. The complaint was signed by Frederick Maiden, chief of the Collingwood police. "That on or about Sept. 1, 1902, William H. Brown did conspire to murder one Jane Brown." The defence deferred entering a plea, and the preliminary trial was set for Oct. 7, at 2 o'clock, and bail was refused.

While the prisoner stands accused of plotting to secure his aged mother's murder, that he might receive the insurance on her life, the authorities say they have secured much evidence which they believe will warrant the more serious charge of murder by the time the case is again called. Like the case William Henry Brown is now called upon to defend, the alleged motive in the graver crime which is being traced to his door was prompted by the same alleged motive—to secure the insurance on the life of John Brown.

The chief link in the chain of circumstances indicating that William Brown poisoned his father has been supplied by the prisoner's mother. The poor woman declares that she has entertained the awful suspicions before, but that she was never fully satisfied that her son could have committed such a deed until she discovered that he was plotting to have her murdered.

When the case was called yesterday Detective Greer insisted on being permitted to introduce some evidence at once. This was objected to by the defence. The detective urged that the adjournment could be taken after he had placed one or two witnesses on the stand. He was very anxious on this point. He was not permitted to have his way, and refused to take anyone into his confidence as to the point he desired to make. Chief of Police Maiden explained, however, that Mr. Greer wanted to get on record the evidence of the mother touching her husband's death, in which she has told the detective that she did not know her husband's life was insured until after his death, and then her son promised her $200 if she would keep quiet and say nothing about him having collected the insurance.

Just how the authorities think it possible to convict the prisoner of the murder of his stepfather, is incomprehensible. The death occurred three years ago. Dr. D. McKay was the physician, and he states, with the most exasperating positiveness, that it is ridiculous to talk of John Brown having been poisoned. To a reporter he said: "I recall the case very well. The old man was something like 65 or 70 years old. I was called in and found him suffering with an aggravated case of diarrhoea. True, the patient lived at the prisoner's home, and he had every opportunity to introduce poison into the medicine I left there, but the symptoms were too regular and too natural to have been produced other than by natural causes. He was sick about three weeks."

Asked if a person of that age could not be killed by excessive doses of simple physic without exciting suspicion, the doctor said, yes, but that in this case the symptoms were different from what they would have been if artificially produced. The positiveness of the attending physician will prove a strong factor to clear the accused of this charge.

The only real strong evidence comes from the mother, who states positively that her son injured his step-father without her knowledge or consent, and kept her in ignorance of the fact, until it was revealed by accident when he promised to give her $200 for her silence, but this money was never paid. This policy was for $2,000, and the policy was written by the Provincial Providential Insurance Company, two years before death occurred.

It is certain that if poison was introduced into John Brown's body, no traces of the drug could be found in the remains after three years in the grave, and no trace of the purchase of poison could now be learned.

It is now recalled by the insurance men of Collingwood that Brown has twice received the face of insurance policies for his home having burned. In one case he received $900 from this source, and at another time he collected $600. These circumstances were commented upon at the time very unfavorably, but they could not have been so very damaging to the man, for his residence is now insured for $1,200.

A feature of the case which promises to be closely investigated a little later, is that Mrs. Brown says she is 70 years old, whereas the policy on the Union Mutual, which expires Dec. 2, to secure which the conspiracy is alleged to have developed, gives her age at 55. On the face of this, it is a fraud, as her accused son is 48 years old, making the mother but 12 years of age at his birth.

The Day of Miracles

is past, but many who are cured of itching, bleeding or protruding piles by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment look upon their recovery as the next thing to miraculous. It is not uncommon for persons who have undergone painful, risky and expensive operations in vain to be finally cured by this wonderful ointment. It is the standard the world over and the only guaranteed cure for piles.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Oct. 2. — There were about 500 head of butchers' cattle, 40 calves and 1000 sheep and lambs offered for sale at the East End Abattoir to-day, and a good many more were sold yesterday. There was a rather small attendance of the butchers, and trade was exceedingly dull, with no improvement in the low prices prevailing of late. Fat hogs are still declining in price. A few of the best cattle were sold here at 4¼c per lb., but they were only good medium steers, while ordinary medium beasts and feeders sold at from 3c to 4c per lb. Common stock sold at from 2c to 3c per lb. Canners at from 1½c to 2c. A considerable number of half-fatted steers have been brought here lately for shipments to places near Toronto for feeders. The prices paid for them being about 3c per lb., for 1000 lb. steers. Calves sold at from $3 to $12 each, or from 3c to 5c per lb. Sheep sold at from 2¾c to 3½c, and lambs at from 3¼c to 3¾c per lb. Fat hogs sold at about 6¼c per lb. for good lots, weighed off cars.

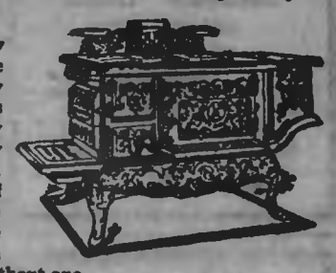
The King of Ranges— "BUCK'S HAPPY THOUGHT"

One Hundred and Fifty Thousand Canadian Women have decided for

The "Happy Thought" Range.

Common Ranges were not good enough—why should they be for you?



Don't be imposed on by "just as good" talk. The construction of The "Happy Thought" is patented, its design registered, it is totally different in every respect to any other. There is none like it. There can be none so good. If you only knew the time, the trouble, the labor it would save you, how little fuel it uses, you would not be one single day without one.

At St. Paul's.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, Rector of St. Luke's, will conduct the preparatory service at St. Paul's church this evening. The service will be held in the body of the church. Last night Rev. Mr. Yule was the special minister at St. Paul's, and delivered an address to a large congregation.

THIS EVENING!

Remember social this evening under auspices of Girls' Guild of George street Methodist church at residence of Mr. B. F. Ackerman, Dalhousie street. Admission 10c.

To-night's Entertainment.

There should be a large attendance at the entertainment in the Y. M.C.A. hall to-night in aid of the fund for furnishing the Boys' rooms. Mr. James Stubbs, who has been greeted with crowded houses everywhere with his new moving picture machine will entertain. Views of the Coronation, the Duke's visit, Mt. Pelee and other scenes will be shown.

Last Night's Play.

A crowded opera house last night greeted Mr. Walter Munro's presentation of the dramatisation of Anthony Hope's great story, "Rupert of Hentzau." The play abounds in strong dramatic situations, and was ably presented in all respects, and gave the greatest satisfaction to the audience. Mr. Leighton took the dual role of Rudolph Rassendyl and the King in a most capital manner, while the rugged Sapt was very forcibly portrayed by Mr. Geo. Miller. The play was a decided all round success.

THE LATE THOMAS GEORGE CHOATE.

His Death in Toronto on Thursday Night.

The intelligence will be received with regret of the death of Mr. Thomas George Choate, of Peterborough, which took place at Grace Hospital, Toronto, last night, Thursday, Oct. 2nd, at eleven o'clock. Mr. Choate went to Toronto last spring for treatment of necrosis of the large bone of one of his legs, and underwent an operation with the result that he returned home as, was thought, cured. However, the disease re-appeared, and he went again to the city, entering Grace Hospital the beginning of September. The 21st of September, however, he was attacked with acute appendicitis. For some time he declined to consent to an operation, but on Wednesday, September 24th, it was found it could no longer be delayed, but the disease had progressed so far that the operation was unsuccessful and although the strength of his constitution and his large reserve of vital force delayed for some time the inevitable, death ensued as stated above, on Thursday night, Oct. 2nd.

The death of Mr. Choate removes a gentleman who has long occupied a position of prominence in Peterborough, town and county, and has been associated, for a long time, with its progress. The deceased gentleman was born in Warsaw about 70 years ago. He was of U. E. Loyalist stock. His father was the late Thomas Choate, who died at Warsaw two years ago last January. He received his preparatory education at the public school in his native village and subsequently attended the Grammar School in Peterborough of which Rev. Mr. Taylor was principal. Subsequently he attended, as one of the first students, the Provincial Normal School at Toronto. Here he took a thorough course to fit him for the business life upon which he proposed to enter.

Mr. Choate early in life was united in marriage to Miss Christina Kidd, and began his business career in Warsaw. He built the first stone grist mill in that village, which still stands, and entered extensively into the milling business, at the same time carrying on a furniture factory, and at one time controlled the largest number of acres of land of any man in the township. He was a public-spirited citizen and for about fifteen years was reeve of the township of Dummer. In the early eighties he retired from business and removed to Peterborough where he remained for several years, and returned with his family to Warsaw, where he continued to reside till about two years ago, when he and Mrs. Choate, the family having in the meantime been married or settled in life, removed to town taking residence on the Communication Road, and here he remained till the time of his death as recorded above.

Mr. Choate is survived by his wife and four children—Mr. Thomas A. Choate, Lakefield; Mrs. (Rev.) R. Macknight, Peterborough; Mrs. Wm. Payne, Warsaw; Mr. A. P. Choate, Toronto. The deceased members of the family are Mrs. B. Earle and Mr. Geo. Rufus Choate.

The late Mr. Choate, was a well-read gentleman, being quite a student. In his earlier years he had a fondness for music. He was well informed in general subjects and an interesting conversationalist. In religion he was a Methodist, and in politics a Liberal. In his time he filled a prominent and respected place in the community in which he lived and his death will be learned with general regret.

The funeral will take place from Mr. Choate's late residence, Stewart street north, on Monday, the 6th, at 10.30 a.m., interment being at Warsaw.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Notes Concerning the Movements of Peterborough People and Their Visitors

Mrs. R. J. Frost is visiting at "The Highlands," the home of Mrs. W. S. Frost, Orillia.

Rev. E. A. and Mrs. Langfeldt will be at home to the members and adherents of St. Luke's, on Friday evening, October 10th.

Miss Marguerite O'Connell left today for Kingston, to enter upon a specialist's course in Arts at Queen's University, Kingston.

Miss May Dunford, of town, is visiting with her uncle, Mr. T. W. Spilsbury, graduated nurse of the City Hospital, Rochester.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Cunningham returned home from their honeymoon trip last night and were tendered a very cordial reception at their new home on Dennistoun avenue.

Amongst those who went down to the Millbrook Fall Fair this afternoon were Messrs. W. D. Parker, R. B. McKee, R. H. Kells, R. H. Leary, R. J. Munro, C. G. Graham and Geo. McWilliams.

Mr. F. J. R. McPherson's electrical business has increased to such an extent that he has procured the additional services of Mr. C. P. Walker, formerly of the electrical contractors of McDonald & Walker, Toronto.

Rev. Father McNulty, who officiated at St. Paul's church, Norwood, during the absence of Rev. Father Conway, Parish Priest, who spent a couple of months in Ireland, has been appointed to succeed Rev. Father Howard at Amherstburg.

The Toronto Globe, in reporting the entertainment in Massey Hall, Toronto, last night, says—

Nearly 2,000 people attended the W. C.T.U. concert last night in Massey Hall and showed their satisfaction with the programme by encoring nearly every number. Those who contributed to the enjoyment of the evening were Mr. Harold Jarvis, Mrs. Gertrude Black-Edmonds, Mr. Owen Smiley, Mr. Harry M. Bennett and Mrs. W. J. Morrow, of Peterborough. Mrs. Morrow and Mr. Jarvis opened the programme with the duet, "O, for thy Wings, O Dove," which was enthusiastically applauded. Mrs. Morrow, who on her second appearance, sang a Bellini floria aria, created a very favourable impression. She has a light and pleasing soprano, and her coloratura work was a severe test of her vocal technique. She was warmly recalled and on being presented with a handsome bouquet responded with an extra number. Mr. Jarvis and Mrs. Black-Edmonds sang with their accustomed ability and effect and were the recipients of flattering demonstrations. Mr. Smily was as happy as ever in his recitations, and Mr. Bennett, the humourist, made a hit in his selections.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—A small dance is being held in the Foresters' Hall this evening.

—From all over the country comes reports of the scarcity of the wood supply.

—Mr. Robert Leary is showing his new team of chestnuts at the Millbrook Fall Show.

—Quite a number of Peterborough people went down to Millbrook at noon to attend the Fall Show.

—Mr. W. J. Morgan, Peterborough's wide-awake barber, has one of the most stylish looking establishments in town.

—Mr. J. J. Elliott, of the Turner Lumber Company, left yesterday for South River with a gang of eighteen men for the shanties.

—A meeting of the Board of Works, the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and the Joint Committees of the Town Council will be held this evening.

—You are invited to call at the new Crystal Block Barber Shop, where you will find a fine assortment of cigars, pipes, tobaccos, cigarettes, etc. W. Morgan, barber. dtf

—Billy Morgan's New Crystal Barber Shop is run on strictly sanitary principles, where absolute cleanliness is the first consideration—a shop that particular men can safely patronize.

—We don't know what to wish for; we are in a fuel quandry. We want the mild weather to hang on as long as possible and we want the snow as quickly as we can get it, so that farmers can bring wood to town. There's no pleasing us.

—The scarcity of fuel goes away back and affects even the farmer. The latter wont have so brisk a demand for his beef animals when the butchers find it difficult to sell their meats to persons who are short of fuel to cook them.

—Mr. Charles Nixon, a former member of the Post staff, was in town yesterday. Mr. Nixon is an old Port Hope boy, but he is now engaged in farming in the vicinity of Peterborough. He says that he has never regretted the day he quit slinging type to go farming, as he has done well in the latter business. —Lindsay Post.

TO-NIGHT'S MEETING

To Re-organize the Peterborough Central Exhibition Association.

A meeting will be held at the Town Council Chamber this evening for the purpose of discussing the advisability of re-organizing the Central Exhibition Association and placing the Peterborough Fall Show on a more attractive basis. The meeting has been called by His Worship Mayor Denne, and all those who are desirous of seeing Peterborough possess a first-class Exhibition Association are asked to attend.

THE PIGEON CREEK BRIDGE.

A Committee From the County Council Inspected it Yesterday.

The Pigeon Creek Bridge was inspected yesterday afternoon by a committee from the County Council of the County of Peterborough and a committee from the Victoria County Council, and Mr. T. A. S. Hay, Town Engineer, representing the Town of Peterborough. Mr. John Belcher, County Engineer, was also present and the members of the County Council who constituted the committee was composed of the Warden, Mr. Thos. Eastland, and Messrs. Wm. Anderson, R. Crow, W. Casement, J. W. Fitzgerald, R. Shaw and P. Costello.

The object of the committee was to enquire into the advisability of putting down 500 feet of planking. A thorough examination of the bridge was made and a recommendation will be made to the County Council at its next session.

Our Opening Day

THE OPENING OF A DIFFERENT KIND OF

GENTLEMEN'S

CLOTHING STORE

Men are looking for a Better Kind of Clothing — a Superior Grade —

"Cressman's Climax" Brand

Is put on the market to fill this want. We expect to win the Confidence and Trade of men only through the Superior Goods and Better Service we shall give. Every bit of our stock is Fresh, Bright and New, and none of it has ever been shown before. And how will our store be different from others? In several ways.

First of all, CRESSMAN'S CLIMAX CLOTHING isn't at all like the average Ready-to-wear Clothing, and that difference makes it the best that has ever been shown in Peterborough. It is the sort of Ready-made Clothing for which many good dressers pass by high-priced tailors. Why should they pay double our prices for clothes that will certainly Not Be More Stylish, that may fit no better, that will have no better cloth or more careful making?

What we particularly want to emphasize about CRESSMAN'S CLIMAX CLOTHING is its honesty. It is not skimpily made, the cloth is always what we say it is, it won't lose it's colour, or shrink, and the making is careful throughout. It's Honest because the wear won't belie its good looks. Clothes as well made as ours must fit and keep their fit. WE PROMISE YOU THEY SHALL.

Everything is marked in plain figures. You can come in, examine the stock and know for yourself the price of anything that attracts you. That price is final—it is the lowest we shall sell for. It is only by sticking to one price that fair treatment and the lowest price can be assured to everybody. Come in and see for yourself how we are going to do the Clothing Business—if anything can, THAT will bring conviction home to you.

We are not anxious to get a reputation for selling cheap clothes, but we shall work hard for the reputation of selling the best clothing at fair prices in Peterborough.

In addition to Clothing, this New Stock contains a full assortment of Furnishings, Hats, Caps, etc., in short, a complete Men's Outfitting Establishment

Cressman

385 and 387 George Street, Peterborough.

THE CENTRAL EXHIBITION.

The Town of Peterborough, as well as the people of the district, have an important interest in the Central Exhibition, and the meeting to be held in the Council Chamber to-night, to deal with its future, should be attended by every business man in the town. What the Toronto Industrial Exhibition is to that city, the Central exhibition can be made to Peterborough. In its present condition the exhibition is comparatively dormant, not so much, perhaps, from bad management, as from changing conditions. The directors, being chiefly connected with farming, have paid, as is proper, the principal attention to the development of the stock, and purely agricultural features. While it is the primary object of such an exhibition to promote improvement in these directions, there has to be considered means for attracting the attendance of the public, without which the lessons to be learned from such exhibitions do not have their widest influence. It is unfortunate that the public are not thirsting so much for instruction as for entertainment, and it, therefore, becomes necessary to invest exhibitions with such features of attraction as will secure the attendance of the public, and incidentally provide the necessary financial element. The exhibition from a farmer's standpoint, would be more successful, if a more generous prize list constituted a means of attracting stronger competition. Larger receipts would result from the addition of features of attraction, that would appeal to the public. What these attractions should be, their character and extent should be the subject of consideration from a practical business point of view, and for that reason there is a demand for a stronger representation of business men in the membership of the society and on the Board of Directors than now obtains. Of necessity farmers have not the business instinct, except in relation to their particular occupation, that business men and townspeople enjoy the advantage of. Besides directors living principally out of town prevent the holding of as frequent meetings as is necessary, to good, live and effective administration of the affairs of the exhibition. It would seem that a livelier interest in the exhibition on the part of Peterborough business men, cooperating with the farming element, would be productive of good results—beneficial to both. A successful exhibition, bringing several thousand persons to the town for two or three days, would leave a large amount of ready money which would tell upon business activity, and the increased receipts at the gates would so strengthen the finances as to correspondingly promote the agricultural interests proper of the exhibition. It is to be hoped that there will be a large and influential representation of the business men of the town at the meeting in the Council Chamber to-night.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB.

The Annual Meeting for the Election of Officers to be Held.

A meeting for the reorganization of the Fortnightly Club will be held in the Y.M.C.A Hall on Tuesday evening next. This most important element in the development of the intellectual, literary and aesthetic culture of our more thoughtful citizens, should be maintained. It has had an excellent educational effect in the past, but it has in this respect degenerated, or developed, as the view may obtain, into a form quite distinct from its original intention, that is a club at whose meetings essays would be read by members to be followed by discussion. Gradually the social, literary and entertainment element assumed preponderance. It is understood that at the next meeting the question of reversion to the original form and constitution of the club, will be considered.

See the Coronation and other moving pictures. Hear Edison's latest phonograph. Mr. J. Stubbs' illustrated entertainment Y.M.C.A. Hall tonight. Tickets 25c and 15c. Proceeds for Boys' Department.

Mathematics for Mechanics.

The Y.M.C.A. evening school opens next week. The courses are designed to meet the needs of the men. Among others is the class in Algebra and Trigonometry, a knowledge of which is so essential to the machine shop man. Mr. Jas. A. Fife, of the Collegiate Institute staff, started this class last year, and will instruct in the same subject again. The class opens on Monday evening, October 6th, at 7.30 p.m. All who intend taking it up should be present that evening.

New Picture Moulding.

This is a good time to think of picture framing. We are prepared to show a rare collection of new types of mouldings for pictures. MR. ALF. TERRILL'S DEPARTURE.

He Left This Morning to Reside in Barrie—His Send-off.

Mr. A. J. N. Terrill, who for the past ten years has been connected with the reportorial staff of the Daily Examiner, and during the past several years has filled the position of city editor, left this morning for Barrie, to assume the editorial chair of the Advance of that town, upon which his marked ability as a writer, and his long experience, amply fit him to give first-class service.

During Mr. Terrill's residence in Peterborough he made many warm friends in social circles, and among the various athletic organizations with which he has been from time to time connected. For many years he was secretary-treasurer of the old Peterborough lacrosse club; he has been for years a prominent member of the Thistle Curling Club, while he has acted in the capacity of secretary treasurer of the Peterborough Lawn-Bowling Club since its organization.

Mr. Terrill's friends in Peterborough could not see him depart from town without in some manner expressing to him their appreciation of his genial disposition and his services to the town in various ways, during his stay in Peterborough, and last night at the Oriental Hotel he was presented with a purse of gold, as well as being the recipient of many complimentary expressions of regret on his leaving town.

The chair was occupied by Mr. Jas. Hamilton, while Mr. Dickson Davidson made the presentation.

Mr. Terrill replied, thanking the boys for their kind remembrance of him. His residence in Peterborough would always be looked back upon with pleasure, he said, and he was glad to know that in going to his new home that he had so many warm friends in Peterborough.

MR. KELLY'S FAREWELL.

The People of Perrytown Game Him a Gentleman's Companion.

The Perrytown correspondent of the Port Hope Guide says;

At the close of the Public School here on Tuesday night, a presentation of a gentleman's companion, accompanied by the following address, which was read by Miss Ethel Irwin, Miss Edna Campbell making the presentation to Mr. J. W. Kelly, our very popular teacher, who has received the appointment as headmaster of the public school, at Ashburnham.

To Mr. Kelly,—

Dear Teacher, — We, the pupils of Perrytown school, having learned that the time when you will cease to be our teacher is near at hand, desire to express to you the sorrow that we feel at your leaving, and also the joy that you have been found worthy of being chosen to fill so responsible a position as principal of the Ashburnham public school.

We have spent many pleasant hours under your guidance and have derived much instruction from the efforts that you have, with much kindness, devoted to us as your pupils, and regret that the same is not to be longer continued.

We cannot allow this separation to take place without showing in some tangible manner the high esteem in which you have been held by us, and ask you to accept this small token as a memento, that will remind you when absent from us of the many happy hours spent together.

We thank you for the many kindnesses you have shown us and wish you every success in your new engagement, and may prosperity attend you in the future.

Signed on behalf of the school.
ETHEL IRWIN,
EDNA CAMPBELL.

Perrytown, Sept. 30, 1902.

Although taken completely by surprise Mr. Kelly made a very suitable reply, and also some very pleasing remarks regarding the school.

EARLY CLOSING.

The Merchants of Ashburnham Will Continue to Close at 7 p.m.

The Ashburnham merchants have decided to adhere to the early closing policy which has been in vogue throughout the summer months. The early closing proved so successful during the past few months that it was the unanimous desire of the merchants to continue to close their places of business each evening in the week, excepting on Saturdays and on days preceeding holidays, at 7 o'clock.

A HARVEY WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Jemima Tedford and Mr. G. B. Westaway.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tedford, in the Township of Harvey, was the scene of a pretty wedding on the evening of Wednesday, the 1st inst., when their second youngest daughter, Miss Jemima, was united in marriage to Mr. Byron Gilbert Westaway, of the Township of Fenelon. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. R. Macknight, B.A. The house was tastefully decorated for the occasion, a graceful evergreen arch sprinkled with blossoms forming a fitting background to the central group of a large company. The bride's dress was of cream silk, trimmed with chiffon, with hat to match. The travelling hat was of gray mohair. The bride bore a very handsome white bouquet, the gift of Mr. W. J. Hawes. She was supported by her sister, Miss Mary Tedford, who was very prettily attired in cream lustre, trimmed with cream silk and bore a rich pink bouquet. Little May Hewie, of Fenelon, was maid of honur, and looked charming in her lace-trimmed cream silk frock. Mr. Robert Hewie, of Fenelon, supported the bridegroom. The marriage service over, the large company of neighbours, friends and relatives of the principals sat down to a sumptuous tea, after which the evening was spent in the usual amusements. Among the large array of presents, which was very rich and varied, special notice ought to be taken of a gold watch and chain from the bridegroom.

CANADA'S NEW WATERWAY.

Description of the Plan Recently Outlined From a U. S. Viewpoint.

A Buffalo paper says that Canada has revived the old project for the construction of a deep waterway from Lake Huron to the seaboard, though by a different route from the much talked-of Georgian Bay canal. The new plan of the Dominion Government as outlined by Mr. Tarte, the Canadian Commissioner of Public Works is to improve the French River to Lake Nipissing and secure a deep water channel to Montreal by improvement of the Ottawa river. He says that $5,000,000 has already been provided for the improvement of the French river and that a deep water channel by the way of French river, Lake Nipissing and the Ottawa river will call for an expenditure of $80,000,000.

The old scheme for a Georgian Bay canal, which has been agitated off and on for more than thirty years, was a short cut to Lake Simcoe and from there to Lake Ontario. This route, it was claimed, would save 300 miles from any port on Lake Superior, Lake Michigan or Lake Huron to Lake Ontario, and, as the Canadians claimed, would avoid the dangers of the St. Clair flats.

The main point, however, was to divert commerce from Lake Erie, as it was admitted by the advocates of the project that once the boats from Lakes Superior, Michigan and Huron entered Lake Erie the commerce was sure to go by the way of the Erie canal or the railway lines to the seaboard. They argued that if this commerce could be kept out of Lake Erie and thrown into Lake Ontario by way of the Georgian Bay canal, it would go down the St. Lawrence and be to the benefit of Montreal and Quebec. The same results, it is now insisted, could be obtained by the French river, Lake Nipissing and Ottawa river route, which the Canadian authorities appear to regard as more feasible than that of the Georgian Bay.

The fact that the Canadians seem to be in earnest about constructing such a waterway as is here indicated should stir to action the people interested in the maintenance of our supremacy of the commerce of the great lakes. If Canada can afford to spend $80,000,000 on the proposed deep waterway to Montreal, the United States can afford to spend as many or more millions in building a ship canal from Buffalo to the Hudson river. If it is to the political and commercial interests of the Dominion to have a purely Canadian route from Lake Huron to the seaboard, it ought to be much more to the interest of the United States to have a purely American route from Lake Erie to the seaboard.

FROM NEWFOUNDLAND.

The Island by the Sea Sends Grateful Testimony for Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

No medicine for stomach trouble has ever been favoured with so many hearty and voluntary letters of recommendation as Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

These unsolicited testimonies come from the people in all walks of life and in all parts of the world.

No evidence which might be offered could be more satisfactory and convincing. Men and women who have been sick and suffering for years have been cured and restored to perfect good health, and in their gratitude write such hearty words as Mrs. John F. Stillars, of Western Bay, Newfoundland, who says;

"It gives me great pleasure to be able to say that I have been cured of Dyspepsia by the use of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"For several years I suffered. I could not eat anything without intense agony afterwards.

"I had tried everything that I could think of but could get nothing to help me, and had given myself up to die before I began the use of this remedy.

"Doctors had failed to do anything for me, and there did not seem to be any help or relief.

"An advertisement in some paper drew my attention to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and I began to use them about eighteen months ago.

"From the first I felt relief, and now, after the use of five boxes, I am well and strong and a new woman.

"To say that I am grateful, only feebly expresses what I feel.

"I will always recommend Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets as a cure for Dyspepsia."

Such letters as the above have been the means of convincing many doubtful ones that there is a sure cure for Dyspepsia and all forms of Stomach Trouble. Those who are now suffering should be guided by the happy experience of Mrs. Sillars.

The Man and the Wave.

Once upon a time a man was telling a tale of woe that unveiled his matrimonial experience.

"It was all on account of a little dainty handkerchief," he said. "The first time that I saw the girl and before we had been introduced she waved that bit of lace at me, and I was carried away. It was a fall in love and then matrimony. But, alas, that delicate handkerchief was no index to the girl's nature, and I found myself wrecked on the sea of matrimony."

Moral.—A man may be carried away by a wave and wrecked without going near the water.

Wanted a Lower Key.

Spatts—My love, I wish you would alter the key of your voice.

Mrs. Spatts—What's the matter with it?

Spatts—Oh, nothing; only from the expression of Eliza Jane's face after our recent argument I'm certain it fits every keyhole in the house.

FATAL DISCOVERIES.

INVENTIONS THAT BROUGHT THEIR ORIGINATORS TO THE GRAVE.

Scientific Secrets That Have Been Buried With the Men Who Possessed Them and That Were the Causes of Their Tragic Taking Off.

The maxim which states that silence is golden has cost the world some of the greatest discoveries of modern times, for not a few of the inventors whose names would have been handed down to posterity as public benefactors have been killed by their secrets before they would consent to divulge them to their fellow beings.

In 1895 all Europe was startled by the discovery of a new explosive called fulminite, which, it was believed, would revolutionise modern warfare. It was the invention of an Exeter scientist named Sawbridge, and samples of the explosive which were tested by the government revealed the fact that its power was three times greater than that of cordite and in consequence it would treble the range of a rifle bullet. The German government offered Sawbridge £20,000 for his invention, which he patriotically refused until the home authorities had had the first option of purchase. But just as the latter were about to seal a contract with him the news came that his laboratory had been blown up and himself with it. Unfortunately he left no records whatever, and although some of the leading experts of the day minutely examined the debris they failed to discover the secret, which is probably lost forever.

About half a century ago an Italian priest named Luigi Taranti discovered a method of making stained glass, the coloring of which was declared equal to that made by the ancients, whose secret has been lost. Taranti abandoned holy orders and set to work to execute the hundreds of commissions he received in the secrecy of his workshop at Ostia, near Rome. The finest stained glass windows in Italy were made by him, and he guarded his secret well, for when a year later he was found dead of blood poisoning, set up by the pigments he employed, it was realized that he had carried his secret with him. The cleverest workmen were called in to examine the ingredients, but they one and all failed to penetrate the dead man's secret.

The person who could make composition billiard balls equal to those of ivory would quickly qualify as a millionaire, and it is not an impossible task, for it has already been done. Some years ago a Scotch manufacturer put composition billiard balls on the market which were as good at but only a third of the price of those already in use. He refrained from patenting his invention and made all the balls himself, even his family being prohibited from sharing his secret. But just as he was beginning to taste the fruits of his experiments he was one day mortally wounded by an accident in his workshop and died before he could make any statement. Experts were given specimens of the balls to analyze, but in spite of the fact that they succeeded in tracing the materials used they have long since given up all hopes of being able to discover how they were put together.

The only man who has yet been successful in taking photographs in color was a martyr to his discovery, the secret of which is lost. Some years ago Dr. Herbert Franklin of Chicago submitted a number of colored photographs—of a somewhat crude nature, it is true—to the leading American scientific institutions, and the encouragement he received was such that he built himself a laboratory, proof against the wiles of spies, at a cost of $12,000, wherein to perfect his invention. In the preparation of his plates he used a charcoal fire, and one day when at work he omitted to open the ventilators and was found asphyxiated. He had refrained from divulging his secret to any one, and in consequence, although some partially finished plates that hid the secret remained, the way they were prepared is a problem that has baffled scientists to this day.

Another victim to his secret was Adams, the inventor of tallium, the greatest discovery in the metals of the age. Adams was confident that a metal could be produced which, although as hard as steel, was only half its weight and price, and after five years' experimenting with an electrical process tallium was the result. The invention was taken up throughout America, and orders for thousands of tons of the metal began to pour in from the leading railway companies.

But it was too late. The enormous mental strain he had undergone, coupled with the sensation of finding millions within his grasp, took away his reason, and he was confined in an asylum. He left no records to explain the process, and no amount of persuasion drew the secret from him, which perished locked up in his brain when two years later he died a helpless lunatic.

Believes in the Theory.

"Somebody advances the idea that there are words that affect us just as certain colors do."

Prisoner—I'm the victim of the unlucky No. 13.

Parson—Indeed! How's that?

Prisoner—Twelve jurors and one judge.

THE BIRTH OF JAPAN.

Curious Legend of the Creation Handed Down by the Japanese.

The following is the curious legend of the creation as it is told in Japan: Clouds formed the bridge on which once god Yzanaghi and his spouse Yzanuma stood pondering on the riddle of existence, whether the beginnings of worlds and the beginnings of life lay slumbering in that sea of chaos. Yzanaghi, apparently more enterprising than philosophically inclined, seized his shimmering spear and plunged it into the black and seething flood. Pulling it up again, he discovered seven salt drops on its diamond point, which, dropping, condensed and formed the island of Cusokorosima.

Thereupon Yzanaghi and his spouse selected the spot of earth which had thus been created as their permanent dwelling place and peopled it with innumerable genii of animal and plant life and spirits of the elements. And around this "palace of immortality" rose eight other islands—Awadsi, the island of foam; the mountainous Cho, Yamato, blessed with fruit; Iyo, unsurpassed in its beauty; the quinquangular Tsikousi, Sado, rich in copper and gold; Yki, one of the pillars of heaven, and Oko, surrounded by three satellites.

Such was the birth of Japan, of that curious land of Fusiyama, with its amiable population of artist artisans, its graceful teahouses, its glistening silks, its grotesque dwarf trees, its white cranes and dreamy lotus ponds.

Could not Walk Or Lie Down.

Sleepless Nights of Dreadful Agony With Piles—Doctor Wanted to Burn Them With a Hot Iron.

Has Been Cured Permanently and Names One Hundred Dollars a Box as the Value of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. Alex. McLean, Tarbot Vale, N. S., writes: "For two years I worked as sectionman on the Dominion Coal Company's Railroad between Sydney and Glace Bay, N.S., and during that time was exposed to all sorts of weather. Gradually my health failed and I became a victim of protruding piles. At first I did not know what my ailment was, but consulted a doctor, and, though he treated me for piles, they only grew worse.

"I was forced to give up work and return to my home. My suffering could scarcely be described. I could not walk or sit or lie down, but while the rest of the family was sleeping I would be groaning and aching from the excruciating pains.

"Again I decided to consult a doctor. This one stripped me and said the piles would have to be burned with a red hot iron. I shivered at the thought of burning the flesh and told him I could not think of undergoing such an operation, so he gave me some salve, for which he charged me two dollars, but it did not do me any good.

"I was in a desperate condition and had about given up hope of ever being freed from this dreadful suffering when a friend told me about Dr. Chase's Ointment. He said he had seen so many cases that it had cured that he would pay for it himself if it failed to cure.

"My experience with Dr. Chase's Ointment is that the first application did me more good than did the two doctors, and it has made me as well and as free from piles as any man. Since being cured I worked during the winter in the lumber woods and experienced no return of my old trouble. I am not putting it too strong when I say that Dr. Chase's Ointment was worth one hundred dollars a box to me. You are free to use my testimonial for the benefit of others, as I feel it my duty to make known this great ointment."

SEWAGE DISPOSAL.

Provincial Health Officers Visit Berlin's Farm—Dr. Amyot's Paper on the Subject and Discussion Thereon.

Just before the close of the annual meeting of the Association of Executive Health Officers of Ontario the members were driven to the Berlin sewage farm, which they examined with the utmost thoroughness. Upon returning to the Court House a paper was read to the Association by Dr. Amyot on "Sewage Disposal." Dr. Amyot has been conducting a series of investigations at the Berlin farm during the past summer on behalf of the Provincial Board of Health. The experiments have been watched closely by Berlin's people, as owing to the peculiar situation of the town the question of sewage disposal there is unusually difficult. The rapid growth of the last few years has increased the quantity of sewage, until there is now some half-million gallons a year. This is much stronger than ordinary domestic sewage, as the waste of four large tanneries is included. Some years ago a sewage farm was acquired and it has been in operation since. A septic tank has been installed, but the plant has been found insufficient to meet the situation, and the effluent to the small stream is not pure. Dr. Amyot not only described the experiments being conducted there, but also dealt with the general question of sewage disposal and the process of putrifaction. Dr. Amyot said finally that the reason that the Berlin septic tank has not been effective in disposing of more than 50 per cent. of the organic matter is that the tank is altogether too small; that, in fact, one tank is being used to do the work of seven or eight, according to the results obtained with septic tanks in other sewage disposal plants.

Mr. Thomas Macfarlane of Ottawa read a paper on the treatment of domestic sewage with moss litter. He described a moss closet that, he said, completely dries, disinfects and deodorizes organic matter, and at the same time preserves its full fertilizing value. The system, he claimed, required little attention, and is very inexpensive.

The discussion on sewage disposal was opened by Mr. Willis Chapman, C. E., who suggested that perhaps after experimenting with many forms of sewage disposal municipalities might return to the broad system which had never been abandoned in favor of septic tanks, etc., but merely supplemented by them, in old country plants. He deprecated the parsimony of the average Councilman who feared to lay out enough money to procure a proper plant. To illustrate the extravagant expectations of some people in connection with septic tanks, he said that an Alderman looked into a septic tank and said: "I don't believe this tank is any good; I can't see a blamed living thing in it."

Railroad Time Tables.

The genius to arrange a railroad time card, or time table, so that it may be readily, easily and accurately understood by the occasional traveler is not yet born. Perhaps he will have to be made. But no matter how much the patrons of a road may be mystified the management takes particular pains to supply a special card "for the government and information of employees only." This table is so simple that a child can understand it. The second page usually contains a table showing the rate of speed required per mile for a train to travel a given number of miles in an hour. It starts at fifteen miles an hour, which is four minutes to the mile, and goes as high as 100 miles an hour, or a mile in thirty-six seconds, and shows 200 subdivisions.

This card gives locations of regular water stations, yard limits, situations of standard clocks, maximum speed of freight trains between different towns, what days are holidays, speeds at which trains may cross bridges at various hours and a list of all stations and trains. It is likely, of course, that were similar cards furnished to the traveling public there would be no abatement of fool questions. Besides, it is not to the interest of a railroad company to take the public too entirely into its confidence.

Who Executed Charles I.?

In the burial register of Whitechapel under the year 1649 is the following entry:

"June 21st. Richard Brandon, a man out of Rosemary lane. This Brandon is held to be the man who beheaded Charles the First."

A less distinguished candidate for the infamy was one William Howlett, actually condemned to death after the restoration for a part he never played and only saved from the gallows by the urgent efforts of a few citizens who swore that Brandon did the deed. Brandon was not available for retribution. He had died in his bed six months after Charles was beheaded and had been hurried ignominiously into his grave in Whitechapel churchyard. As public executioner of London he could hardly escape his destiny, but it is said that remorse and horror shortened his days. In his supposed "Confession," a tract widely circulated at the time, he claims that he was "fetched out of bed by a troop of horse" and carried against his will to the scaffold; also that he was paid £30, all in half crowns, for the work and had "an orange stuck full of cloves and a handkerchief out of the king's pocket." The orange he sold for 10 shillings in Rosemary lane.—Harper's Magazine.

His Malady.

Farmer Honk—I understand that the young city feller that has been boardin' at Eli Summertime's died last night in sort of a peculiar manner.

Farmer Hornbeak—D'know as there was anything specially peculiar about it? He died dead, same as folks generally do.

Farmer Honk—Aw, you know what I mean—the cause of his death was peculiar.

Farmer Hornbeak—D'know as it was either. He died of a combination of mushroom appetite and toadstool judgment—a pretty common failin' amongst city folks, I've noticed.—Judge.

NATURAL HISTORY.

Ostriches live to the age of about sixty years.

The mandarin duck is one of the most beautiful of aquatic birds.

So voracious is the cod that it will swallow anything it sees in motion.

An eel has two separate hearts. One beats 60, the other 160, times a minute.

A ladybird can travel 20,000,000,000 times its own length in an hour. In that time a sloth can only travel fifty times its own length.

There is no country in the world in which the raven is not found to be native; it is also the only bird known to ornithologists which is of such cosmopolitan character.

Only one existing reptile can sustain itself in the air. This is the flying dragon of the East Indies. It has no real wings, but can glide from tree to tree like a flying squirrel.

The common house fly usually produces the note F in flying. To do so it must vibrate its wings 335 times a second. The honey bee sounds A, which means that its wing vibrations are 440 to the second.

First Analysis of Aerolites.

In 1790 a stone weighing fifty-six pounds was exhibited in London. It was said to have fallen from the sky in Yorkshire in the previous December, but this statement was received with great incredulity. At that time Sir Joseph Banks was president of the Royal society, and he noticed a strong resemblance between the Yorkshire stone and one sent to him from Siena, in Italy, which was said to have fallen from the sky. Two or three years later he received an account of a fall of stones near Benares, in Hindustan. A chemical analysis of the stones from all three sources proved them to be identical in composition, and incredulity as to their meteoric origin began to give way.

Eccentricities of English.

There is a new maid in the family, a Swedish girl, who has many things besides language to learn, says an exchange. Her new mistress, who is a young wife with a husband many years her senior, is trying to instruct her. One of the lessons was upon bread, the girl being told that she should speak of bread which had lost its freshness as stale, and not old. The girl was sure to remember this, for she was quick to learn, and she did. So the young wife knew when a few days later the maid remarked to her confidentially:

"It is too bad, isn't it, that your husband is so much more stale than you are!"

Preliminary.

The policeman heard high words and poked his head in the door.

"What's goin' on here?" he demanded.

"Nawthin'! Nawthin' at all," answered one of the belligerent Irishmen in the middle of the floor. "There's nawthin' goin' on, but there's a fight comin' off in less than a minute if ye'll only keep movin'."

He Had to Die.

"If you refuse me," cried Moody, "my blood will be upon your head. I cannot live without you!"

"Well, self preservation is the first law of nature," replied Miss Cooley. "I simply couldn't live with you."—Philadelphia Press.

After the Strike.

He tried the door with his key, but the thing was locked on the inside—locked and bolted. And just as he was about to apply the knocker a voice, stern and admonitory, reached him from above:

"Hello! Who are you? What do you want?"

"My dear," he called, "isn't that a trifle gratuitous? I want to come in. D'ye see?"

"Where have you been till this hour?"

"Club, my darling. Been down discussing the strike."

"Very well, then. Now you can go back and discuss the lockout. Does it still pain?".

GLEAMS OF HUMOR.

Some Scintillations That Will Brighten True Lovers of Wit.

Patience—Do you care for these house parties?

Patrice—Not if you refer to the janitor's, I don't.

Bill—Have you seen the automobile hair yet?

Jill—No; I suppose it stands up straight.

Church—Does he lie about the fish he catches?

Gotham—No; only about the ones he doesn't catch.

Mr. Crimsonbeak—Here's an article in the paper about your new tight shoes, dear.

Mrs. Crimsonbeak—You're joking.

"Well, I thought it was. It's headed 'Much In Little.'"

"Now, my boy," said the teacher, "when there is to be a storm what does the sailor do?"

"He takes in sail, ma'am."

"That's correct. Now, why does he take in the sail?"

"So it won't get wet, ma'am."

Patience—While Miss Fussanfeather was at an exhibition of paintings the other day she says she came to a mirror, and while looking in she really thought it was a painting.

Patrice—Well, she was looking at something painted, very likely.—Yonkers Statesman.

Eczema Easily Cured.

Merrill's System Tonic has cured many cases of blood and skin diseases such as eczema, scrofula, pimples and syphilitic sores, than all other remedies combined. Besides being a most powerful blood purifier it is an excellent tonic and cures by assisting nature to throw off the disease. A fifty cent bottle lasts three weeks. Sold at Ormond and Walsh's.

The Tired Foot.

A lady was watching a potter at his work whose one foot was kept with a "never slackening speed turning his swift wheel round" while the other rested patiently on the ground. When the lady said to him in sympathizing tone, "How tired your foot must be!" the man raised his eyes and said: "No, ma'am; it isn't the foot that works that's tired. It's the foot that stands. That's it."

If you want to keep your strength, use it. If you want to get tired, do nothing. As a matter of fact, we all know that the last man to give a helping hand to any new undertaking is the man who has plenty of time on his hands. It is the man and woman who are doing the most who are always willing to do a little more."

Weary Brain Workers.

All fagged out, ideas flow slowly as molasses, snap and energy gone! The buoyancy that made work a pleasure, that gone also. A doctor would say you are run down, enervated, neither eating or digesting enough. It's Ferrozone you need to brace up that fitful appetite and improve assimilation and digestion so that lots of pure strong blood will be formed to nourish the broken down system. Ferrozone will drive away the tired feeling, restore your spirits and energy, revive your ambition and strength for work. No tonic or rebuilder like Ferrozone—try it. Price 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50; at Ormond & Walsh's.

Hamilton's Pills Cure Constipation.

Glad of the Chance.

"Did the old man seem to hesitate when you asked him for Laura?"

"Not a bit of it. He said the caterer and the florist owed him a lot of money, and it would be a good way to get even with them."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Fruits.

"I suppose your political career has taught you to value the fruits of wisdom."

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum, "especially when they take the form of political plums."—Washington Star.

Splitting Hairs.

"You may trim my whiskers a little," the customer remarked, taking his seat in the chair.

"Yes, sir," replied the Boston barber. "Shall I do anything to your beard, sir?"—Chicago Tribune.

Second Appearance.

"This meat," protested the boarder, "is overdone."

"Not exactly it isn't," replied the new waitress; "it's done over. This is the same meat you had yesterday."—Philadelphia Press.

Just Right for a Hot Day.

Does this weather do you up? Then for that fagged out feeling try a bottle of Merrill's System Tonic. It puts new life and energy into the body and makes one feel equal to their duties. As a muscular and nerve tonic and bowel regulator, this medicine has no equal. Price 50c per bottle of 50 doses at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

After the Shooting.

Police Captain—So you shot the dog. Was he mad?

Officer Grogan—No, sor, but th' leddy thot owned him was.—Detroit Free Press.

Smith and His Money.

"I can't make out what Smith does with his money."

"No?"

"No, I can't. Yesterday he was short, and he's short again today."

"Did he want to borrow from you?"

"No; I wanted to borrow from him."—Chicago Journal.

The Snare.

Daughter—I have an invitation to the theater and have no chaperon.

Mother—You must have one, of course, or you shan't go. It's from Mr. Slimpurse, I suppose?

"No. It's from Mr. Fatpurse."

"Um—never mind about the chaperon."—Tit-Bits.

THE WALL STREET MARKET.

A Fluctuation of Prices on the Exchange.

Many Stocks Dropped 2 1-2 Points but Regained Their Strength.

The Wall street prices closed at about the opening quotations, after having taken a sudden drop of from 1 to 2 1-2 points during the day. The cause of this fluctuation was the rumour that the money situation would not be relieved as had been announced. The following are some closing quotations:—C.P.R., 137 3-4; B.O., 107 7-8; U.P., 105 5-8; M.O.P., 115 5-8; N.Y.C., 56 1-2.

E. M. Poussett & Co. have received the following dispatch from McIntyre & Marshall, New York:

Private advices received from Washington over night are to the effect that the President's scheme is to induce the miners to go to work at once and permit forwarding enough coal immediately from mines to relieve famine, maintaining agreements to be given by operators that they shall consider the grievances of miners and concede something to them. It is the feeling to-day that conference will result in practical termination of strike. We look for only a trader's market to-day, and cling to view that stocks are a sale on all rallies pending the clearing of money situation. There was very little demand for stocks in loan crowd at close yesterday. General sentiment is that if coal strike is settled and any attempt to bull the market on it, stocks should be sold on rises. Of course everyone is looking for a good bank st tment, but it is well understood that it will come almost entirely from relief from treasury.

Trading in stock mostly by professionals and slight improvement under leadership of St. Paul, Manhattan and Reading is result of manipulation in effort to strengthen speculation, and prospects of a good statement to-morrow.

Bank statement will show an increase in surplus reserves $10,000,000 even if the week's movement of currency does not show one dollar's difference from last week. This will come from decision of Secretary Shaw regarding abatement rule effecting reserve.

The following telegram was received by E. M. Poussett & Co., from McIntyre & Marshall, New York, at five minutes to twelve o'clock, to-day:

11.55 a.m. — President Mitchell's first proposition at the conference will be that the strike be submitted to arbitration. He is willing that the men go back to work as soon as the Board of Arbitration is agreed upon, and remain at work pending decision of arbitrators. Coal conference adjourned till 2 p.m. A statement will be given out soon.

McIntyre & Marshall wire that the weakness of the market at the close is caused by the action of Attorney General Knox in not sustaining Secretary Shaw's scheme to relieve the money market.

Our Washington correspondent wires that Comptroller Ridgely denies that he gave out the report in our other despatch to effect that he was opposing Shaw's plan for relief of money situation.

McINTYRE & MARSHALL.

To Messrs. Haight & Freese,—

New York, October 3rd. — The stock market is a waiting one with trading of a purely professional character. The anthracite coal strike is assuming equal importance with the money situation, as far as the present is concerned, and prices are likely to move within narrow limits until these factors are satisfactorily adjusted. The standard railroad stocks may be bought on declines for moderate profits. The strong bull points we get on Norfolk and W & Co. lead to the belief that specialty movements in them are no tunlikely. We believe reasonable profits in AF and PRS should not be ignored. Don't fail to have a line of SP. Interest centres in the conference to-day looking to a settlement of the Pennsylvania coal strike. London heavy.

COAL OUTLOOK.

To Messrs. Haight & Freese,—

New York, Oct. 3rd. — Gates will be home on the 15th. He avers that he is in full accord with J. P. Morgan, and he says "I am always content to put my money where Morgan asks me." Higher prices will be made for CFI, Norfolk & Co. Something will be done in Washington to-day for humanity's sake. Furnace coal is $30 to $35 per ton, with little in sight. Readings, Erie and B & O will have a sympathetic rally. Buy Pacifics on early dips, but take reasonable profits. Market will be a trading one until conditions change measurably for the better. Take on Sugar and hold Steels.

In Addition to Treasury Assistance.

New York, Oct. 3,—Dividends and interest due in October amount to a great deal over eighty one million dollars, exclusive of Government interest, which has been anticipated by Secretary Shaw. This amount was figured at twenty million, but probably only about sixty per cent. of that amount will be called for. There will naturally be some shifting of loans, consequent upon these payments, but the money will be immediately available again. We have undoubtedly turned that corner in a very nasty market situation. The probabilities are that a first-class panic would have been raging on Tuesday last had the Secretary not come to the front as he did. Values have been temporarily slaughtered, and though recoveries would have sharp and speedy, many people would have been compelled to let go, regardless of price, while even the foundation of some of the pools would have been severely shaken. After the episode of the past week it will be perfectly natural for the market to be fitful, feverish and erratic—many unexplainable ups and downs will be recorded—prices alternately weak then strong. Such market affords splendid trading opportunities for the cool and sagacious. Conditions are such at present that one can trade with a pretty general certainty. That should be for the time long of anything which declined in their hands, that a few days will bring prices back so he will have no loss. Looking along the line of stocks, these remarks would seem to apply generally to all of them. There has not been a time in over a year when it was so much to the interest of the cliques and greater powers of Wall street to assist in the work of rebuilding values as at present. Their immense holdings make this logically imperative. We can therefore depend upon their assistance in again advancing prices and rely upon their support to the market for a long time to come. Had the treasury not acted as it did it would have taken from two to three weeks for the money situation to have improved. As matters now stand, it should, and will, improve immediately. Fortunately for all concerned, the wealthy men were the principal shareholders. Public interest was small, consequently values will mend more rapidly than they otherwise would do. This method of computation will be more satisfactory inasmuch as it affords a more comprehensive view of monetary conditions. Money closed at 6 per cent. Total sales 501,700.

The Toronto Mail and Empire says:—The Executive Committee of the Ontario Rugby Football Union met last night at the Rossin House, with the president, A. W. Ballantyne, in the chair. The other members present were Vice-President Geo. S. Gibbons, Secretary Frank D. Woodworth, S. S. DuMulin, and F. H. Thompson. The resignation of T. C. Erving, who was elected to represent the junior series, was received and accepted, and George H. Ballard, of Varsity, was appointed to fill the vacancy.

A representative was present from the St. Peter's T.A.S. Club, Peterborough, renewing their application for the junior series of the O.R.F.U., but coupling with the application a request for permits to play four of last year's intermediate Peterborough team. The T.A.S. made application for admission to the junior series, which was received. They, however, learned that the feeling of the Executive was adverse to granting permits to players barred by the rules to play junior where there was an intermediate or senior team, the rule having been passed only to benefit new teams in places where football was not played. They withdrew their application, but last night renewed it, still coupling with it the applications for permits. The Executive advised the representative to enter a junior team, and try and form a series with Port Hope or Lindsay.

LACROSSE.

Fergus defeated Oshawa yesterday for the intermediate championship of the C.L.A. Next year Peterborough will have to be reckoned with before either of the above named teams shall win the same honours.

OUR STORE NEWS AND ITS CHRONICLING

It takes time to learn a store thoroughly, especially if the store is one that keeps moving.

The reason for the steady progress of The Fair Store is found in the ability to buy largely—judiciously—and distributing economically; as well as the spirit of aggressiveness that, in season and out of season, produces such exceptional values as to attract and hold the attention of the best households and most clever shoppers.

Past achievements are but stepping stones to those of the future.

Our store news chronicling and its underlying policy is—to tell the truth and stick to it. Back of our words are facts. Truthful ads. will develop a drawing power; and that's why the Golden Lion has earned and maintained the reputation of being "just a good, honest store."

Josh Billings once remarked:—"My son, observe the postage-stamp. Its usefulness depends on its ability to stick to one thing until it gets there." Sound advice. Sticking to to Dry Goods and to the truth is the secret of this store's success.

Watch this space every day. Keep tab on what's going on here. This space has been reserved for a chatty chronicle of this store's daily doings.

REFUSE ARBITRATION

Mine Operators' Answer to President Roosevelt's Appeal.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT GIVEN OUT

The Address of President Roosevelt and the Answers Made by the Leaders of the Parties to the Dispute—President Mitchell Suggests Arbitration as Best Mode of Settling Differences.

Washington, Oct. 4.—The great coal conference between the President and representatives of the operators and miners came to an end at the temporary White House at 4.55 o'clock yesterday afternoon, with a failure to reach an agreement.

Apparently the rock upon which the conference split was recognition of the Miners' Union.

The President had urged the contending parties to cease strife, in the interests of the public welfare.

The miners, through the president of their union, had expressed a willingness to submit their differences to the arbitration of a tribunal, to be named by the President, and to enter into an agreement to abide by the terms fixed by the arbitration for a period of from one to five years.

The employers, through the presidents of the coal companies and a leading independent mine operator, had squarely refused arbitration.

They had denounced the miners' labor organization as a lawless and Anarchistic body, with which they could have no dealing.

They demanded Federal troops, to ensure complete protection to workers and their families in the mining region, and court proceedings against the Miners' Union.

They had offered, if the men returned to work, to submit grievances at individual collieries to the decision of the judges of the Court of Common Pleas for the District of Pennsylvania in which the colliery was located.

There the matter closed.

Yesterday the views of the contenders in the great industrial struggle were so extreme and wide apart that there was no middle ground possible, and so the conference came to an end without any agreement for its continuation. The conference had lasted six hours, including a recess of three hours between the morning and afternoon sessions, taken to enable the miners and operators to prepare the written responses to the President's appeal.

The immediate parties to the strike say they will continue as heretofore. What course the administration will take next, no one is prepared to say. One of the operators, as he left the White House, with closely-set jaw, was asked regarding this, and replied:

"If anyone knows what the President will do next, that is more than I know."

During the conference, the President listened to both sides with the greatest eagerness.

It was announced at the White House last night that the President had no comment to make on yesterday's conference.

AN OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

At the temporary White House last night the following official statement was given out concerning the coal conference yesterday:

The conference opened at 11 o'clock. The operators and representatives of the miners were presented to the President. Those in attendance were:

George F. Baer, president Reading Railway; W. H. Truesdale of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western; E. B. Thomas, chairman of the board, Erie Railway Company; Thomas P. Fowler, president New York, Ontario & Western Railway; David Wilcox, vice-president and general counsel, Delaware & Hudson Company; John Markle, representing independent operators; John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers' of America; Thomas Nicholls, Thomas Duffy, John Fahy, district presidents United Mine Workers' of America; Attorney-General Knox; Secretary Cortelyou; Carroll D. Wright, Commissioner of Labor.

The President at the outset expressed his hearty thanks for their attendance, and stated that, owing to his peculiar relations to the situation, he felt that he should make a very careful statement of his position and of his intentions in asking them to meet.

The President's Speech.

"I wish to call your attention to the fact that there are three parties affected by the situation in the anthracite trade: The operators, the miners and the general public. I speak for neither the operators nor the miners, but for the general public. The questions at issue which led to the situation affect immediately the parties concerned—the operators and the miners, but the situation itself vitally affects the public. As long as there seemed to be a reasonable hope that these matters could be adjusted between the parties it did not seem proper to me to intervene in any way. I disclaim any right for duty to intervene in this way upon legal grounds or upon any official relation that I bear to the situation, but the urgency and the terrible nature of the catastrophe impending over a large portion of our people in the shape of a winter fuel famine impel me, after much anxious thought to believe that my duty requires me to use whatever influence I personally can to bring to an end a situation which has become literally intolerable. I wish to emphasize the character of the situation, and to say that its gravity is such that I am constrained urgently to insist that each one of you realize the heavy burden of responsibility upon him. We are upon the threshold of winter with an already existing coal famine, the future terrors of which we can hardly yet appreciate. The evil possibilities are so far reaching, so appalling, that it seems to me that you are not only justified in sinking but required to sink for the time being any tenacity as to your respective claims in the matter of issue between you. In my judgment the situation imperatively requires that you meet upon the common plane of the necessities of the public. With all the earnestness there is in me, I ask that there be an immediate resumption of operations in the coal mines in some such way as will, without a day's unnecessary delay, meet the crying needs of the people.

"I do not invite a discussion of your respective claims and positions. I appeal to your patriotism, to the spirit that sinks personal considerations and makes individual sacrifices for the general good."

Mr. Mitchell's Suggestion.

Upon the completion of the President's remarks, Mr. Mitchell made a statement as follows:

Mr. President: "I am much impressed with what you say. I am much impressed with the gravity of the situation. We feel that we are not responsible for this terrible state of affairs. We are willing to meet the gentlemen representing the coal operators to try to adjust our differences among ourselves. If we cannot adjust them that way, Mr. President, we are willing that you shall name a tribunal who shall determine the issues that have resulted in the strike, and if the gentlemen representing the operators will accept the award or decision of such a tribunal, the miners will willingly accept it, even if it is against their claim."

The President: "Before considering what ought to be done, I think it only justice to both of you—both sides—and desirable from any standpoint, that you should have time to consider what I have stated as to the reasons for my getting you together, and I shall trespass so far upon your good nature as to ask that this interview cease now, and that you come back at 3 o'clock. I should like you to think over what I have stated—not to decided now, but give it careful thought and return at 3 o'clock.

The conference then adjourned until 3 o'clock.

Upon reassembling, Mr. Baer spoke as follows:

"Mr. President: Do we understand you correctly that we will be expected to answer the proposition submitted by Mr. Mitchell this morning?"

The President: "It will be a pleasure to me to hear any answer that you are willing to make."

Mr. Baer: "I have prepared an answer."

President Baer's Statement.

Statement by Mr. G. F. Baer, president of the Reading Railroad, was then read:

"To the President of the United States:

"We understand your anxiety is forcibly expressed in the statement you read to us this morning to bring about an immediate resumption of operation in the coal mines in some such way as will, without a day's unnecessary delay, meet the crying needs of the people. We infer that you desired us to consider the offer Mr. Mitchell verbally made this morning, expressing and speaking for the United Mine Workers 'to go back to work if you would appoint a commission to determine the questions at issue.' You distinctly say that you 'do not invite a discussion of our respective claims and positions.' But we assume that a statement of what is going on in the coal region will not be irrelevant.

"We represent the owners of coal mines in Pennsylvania. There are from 15,000 to 20,000 men at work mining and preparing coal. They are abused, assaulted, injured and maltreated by the United Mine Workers. They can only work under the protection of armed guards. Thousands of other workmen are deterred from working by intimidation, violence and crimes inaugurated by the United Mine Workers, over whom John Mitchell, whom you invited to meet you, is chief. I need not picture the daily crimes committed by the members of this organization. The 'domestic tranquility' which every constitution declares is the chief object of government does not exist in the coal regions. There is a terrible reign of lawlessness and crime here. Only the lives and property of the members of the secret oath-bound order which declared that the locals should 'have full power to suspend operations at collieries' until the non-union men joined their order, are safe. Every effort is made to prevent the mining of coal, and when mined, Mitchell's men dynamite bridges and tracks, mob trainmen and by all manner of violence try to prevent its shipment to relieve the public.

"The constitution of Pennsylvania guarantees protection to life and property. In express terms it declares the right of acquiring, possessing and defending property, 'to be inalienable.' When riot and Anarchy, too great to be appeased by the civil power, occur, the government of Pennsylvania is bound to call out the State troops to suppress it. He must fearlessly use the whole power of the State to protect life and property and to establish peace—not an armed truce, but the peace of the law, which protects every man at work and going to and from work. It has sent troops to the coal regions. Gradually, the power of the law is asserting itself. Unless encouraged by false hopes, order soon will be restored, and then we can mine coal to meet the public wants. If the power of Pennsylvania is insufficient to re-establish the reign of law, the constitution of the United States requires the President, when requested by the legislature and the Governor, to suppress domestic violence.'

"You see, there is a lawful way to secure coal for the public."

"The duty of the hour is not to waste time negotiating with the fomenters of this anarchy and insolent defiance of law, but to do as was done in the war of the rebellion, restore the majesty of the law, the only guardian of a free people, and to re-establish order and peace at any cost.

"The government is a contemptible failure if it can only protect the lives and property, and secure the comfort of the people by compromising with the violators of law and the instigators of violence and crime.

"Just now, it is more important to teach ignorant men, dwelling among us, misled and used as tools by citizens of other States, that, at whatever cost and inconvenience to the public, Pennsylvania will use the whole power of the government to protect, not only the man who wants to work, but his wife and children while he is at work, and to punish every man, who, by instigation or by overt acts, attempts to deprive any man of his liberty to work.

"Under these conditions, we decline to accept Mr. Mitchell's considerate offer to let our men work on the terms he names. He has no right to come from Illinois to dictate terms, on the acceptance of which anarchy and crime shall cease in Pennsylvania.

"He must stop his people from killing, maiming and abusing Pennsylvania citizens, and from destroying property. He must stop it, because it is unlawful, and not because of any bargain with us. We will add to our offer, 'to continue the wages existing at the time of the strike, and to take up at each colliery, and adjust any grievance, this further condition:

"If the employers and employes at any particular colliery cannot reach a satisfactory adjustment of an alleged grievance, it shall be referred to the judges of the Court of Common Pleas of the district in which the colliery is situated for final determination.

(Signed) Geo. F. Baer,
President Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company and Lehigh & Wilkes-Barre Coal & Iron Co., and Temple Iron Co.

The Strikers' Side.

The following is the text of the statement made by official representatives of the Miners' Union:

Washington, Oct. 3, 1902.

Mr. President: "At the conference this morning the accredited representatives of the anthracite coal mine workers are much impressed with the views you expressed and the dangers to the welfare of our country from a prolongation of the coal strike that you so clearly pointed out. Conscious of the responsibility resting upon us, conscious of our duty to society, conscious of our obligations to the one hundred and fifty thousand mine workers whom we have the honor to represent, we have, after most careful consideration and with the hope of relieving the situation and averting the sufferings and hardships which would inevitably follow in the wake of a coal famine, decided to propose a resumption of coal mining upon the lines hereinafter suggested.

"Before doing so, Mr. President, we desire to say that we are not prompted to suggest this course because of any doubts of the justice of our claims. In deferring to your wishes we are prompted by no fear on our part of our ability to continue the contest to a successful issue, thanks to the generous assistance [illegible] low workers in this and other lands, thanks to a justice loving American public, whose sympathies are always on the side of right, we are able to continue the struggle indefinitely. But confident of our ability to demonstrate to any impartial tribunal the equity of our demands for higher wages and improved environment, we propose that the issues culminating in the strike, shall be referred to you and a tribunal of your own selection, and agree to accept your award all or any of the questions involved. If you will accept this responsibility and the representatives of the coal operators will signify their willingness to have your decision incorporated in an agreement for not less than one year or more than five years, as may be mutually determined between themselves, and the anthracite coal mine workers, and will pay the scale of wages which you and the tribunal appointed by you, shall award, we will immediately call a convention and recommend a resumption of work upon the understanding that the wages, which shall be paid, are to go into effect from the day upon which work is resumed.

ed. Very respectfully yours

"John Mitchell."

President of the United Miners' of America. John Fahey, Thomas Duffy, D. D. Nicholls, District Presidents.

Mitchell's Fair Proposition.

Mr. Mitchell said: "The charge made by the gentlemen that 20 murders have been committed in the anthracite coal regions during the present strike is untrue. If they will name the men, and will show that they have committed the murders, I will resign my position. That is a fair proposition, Mr. President, that is a fair example of how our organization and our people are maligned. Truth of the matter is, as far as I know, there have been seven deaths unfortunately. No one regrets them more than I do. Three of them were committed by the coal and iron police, and no one else has been charged with them. God knows the miners do not escape being charged with everything done there. They speak about burnings. There was a reward offered for burnings. I can bring affidavits of a hundred people if necessary that the lightning caused one burning that they charged to the United Mine Workers. Mr. President, I have admitted on more than one occasion that there has been some lawlessness, but I will say that a large portion of such lawlessness has been provoked by criminals who have been brought into the anthracite regions to recruit the coal and iron police. I want to say, Mr. President, that I feel keenly the attacks made upon me and my people, but I came here with the intention of doing nothing, and saying nothing that would prevent reconciliation.

All Dismissed.

The President then asked the representatives of the anthracite companies whether they would accept Mr. Mitchell's proposition.

They answered "No."

In response to a further question from the President, they stated they would have no dealings whatever with Mr. Mitchell, looking toward a settlement of the question at issue, and that they had no other proposition to make save what was contained in the statement of Mr. Baer, which in effect, was that, if any man chose to resume work, and had a difficulty with his employer, both should leave the settlement of the question to the judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the district in which the mine was located. At about 5 o'clock the conference was brought to a close, without agreement.

Brutal Assailant Punished.

London, Oct. 4.—George (alias) "Whitey" Underwood was sentenced to two years and six months imprisonment in Kingston Penitentiary by Police Magistrate Love at yesterday morning's Police Court. The charge was that of assault, occasioning actual bodily harm. In passing sentence the magistrate said that Underwood's crime was a most brutal and unwarranted one, he having entered the residence of a stranger and there assaulted a defenceless woman and a little child.

Ottawa Fare Boxes Robbed.

Ottawa, Oct. 4.—E. Gagnon, a street car conductor, was arrested last night by Detective Robillard, on the charge of stealing from a fare box. Gagnon admitted his guilt. On his person was found a very ingenious digger, similar to those produced in the courts in the Toronto cases. Gagnon would not tell where he got the digger.

Quebec Elects Conservatives.

Montreal, Oct. 4.—The Quebec Liberal Government received its first check yesterday in six years, its candidates having been defeated in Stanstead and Soulanges. Mr. St. Pierre, Conservative, defeated Mr. Rider, Liberal, in Stanstead by 425 votes, the county having been carried by the Liberals two years ago by 288, and ten years ago Mr. Bourbonneau, Liberal carried Soulanges by 577, while yesterday Mr. Bissonnette, Conservative, defeated Mr. Morrisseau, Liberal, by 11 votes.

Died of Her Burns.

Woodbridge, Ont., Oct. 4. — Miss Amy Card, daughter of Mr. Alex. Card, who was burned by the lamp explosion here on Wednesday evening, died yesterday morning, at 8.15. The other victim, Miss Aggie Card, is recovering.

The Student's Prayer.

There was long ago a divinity hall presided over by a most amiable and dignified professor. On certain days the senior students opened the proceedings of the day with prayer. One morning a raw youth from a remote region performed this duty, and it was a memorable occasion. None who were present can forget how the venerable professor turned and gazed on the untutored lad, who prayed for him as follows: "Lord, have mercy on our professor, for he is weak and ignorant. Strengthen his feeble hands, confirm his tottering knees, and grant that he may go out and in before us like the [illegible] before the flock."

It takes time to learn a store thoroughly, especially if the store is one that keeps moving.

The reason for the steady progress of The Fair Store is found in the ability to buy largely—judiciously—and distributing economically; as well as the spirit of aggressiveness that, in season and out of season, produces such exceptional values as to attract and hold the attention of the best households and most clever shoppers.

Past achievements are but stepping stones to those of the future.

Our store news chronicling and its underlying policy is—to tell the truth and stick to it. Back of our words are facts. Truthful ads. will develop a drawing power; and that's why the Golden Lion has earned and maintained the reputation of being "just a good, honest store."

Josh Billings once remarked:—"My son, observe the postage-stamp. Its usefulness depends on its ability to stick to one thing until it gets there." Sound advice. Sticking to to Dry Goods and to the truth is the secret of this store's success.

Washington, Oct. 4.—The great coal conference between the President and representatives of the operators and miners came to an end at the temporary White House at 4.55 o'clock yesterday afternoon, with a failure to reach an agreement.

Apparently the rock upon which the conference split was recognition of the Miners' Union.

The President had urged the contending parties to cease strife, in the interests of the public welfare.

The miners, through the president of their union, had expressed a willingness to submit their differences to the arbitration of a tribunal, to be named by the President, and to enter into an agreement to abide by the terms fixed by the arbitration for a period of from one to five years.

The employers, through the presidents of the coal companies and a leading independent mine operator, had squarely refused arbitration.

They had denounced the miners' labor organization as a lawless and Anarchistic body, with which they could have no dealing.

They demanded Federal troops, to ensure complete protection to workers and their families in the mining region, and court proceedings against the Miners' Union.

They had offered, if the men returned to work, to submit grievances at individual collieries to the decision of the judges of the Court of Common Pleas for the District of Pennsylvania in which the colliery was located.

There the matter closed.

Yesterday the views of the contenders in the great industrial struggle were so extreme and wide apart that there was no middle ground possible, and so the conference came to an end without any agreement for its continuation. The conference had lasted six hours, including a recess of three hours between the morning and afternoon sessions, taken to enable the miners and operators to prepare the written responses to the President's appeal.

The immediate parties to the strike say they will continue as heretofore. What course the administration will take next, no one is prepared to say. One of the operators, as he left the White House, with closely-set jaw, was asked regarding this, and replied:

"If anyone knows what the President will do next, that is more than I know."

During the conference, the President listened to both sides with the greatest eagerness.

It was announced at the White House last night that the President had no comment to make on yesterday's conference.

AN OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

At the temporary White House last night the following official statement was given out concerning the coal conference yesterday;

The conference opened at 11 o'clock. The operators and representatives of the miners were presented to the President. Those in attendance were:

George F. Baer, President Reading Railway; W. H. Truesdale of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western; E. B. Thomas, chairman of the board, Erie Railway Company; Thomas P. Fowler, president New York, Ontario & Western Railway; David Wilcox, vice-president and general counsel, Delaware & Hudson Company; John Markle, representing independent operators; John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers' of America; Thomas Nicholls, Thomas Duffy, John Fahy, district presidents United Mine Workers' of America; Attorney-General Knox; Secretary Cortelyou; Carroll D. Wright, Commissioner of Labor.

The President at the outset expressed his hearty thanks for their attendance, and stated that, owing to his peculiar relations to the situation, he felt that he should make a very careful statement of his position and of his intentions in asking them to meet.

The President's Speech.

"I wish to call your attention to the fact that there are three parties affected by the situation in the anthracite trade: The operators, the miners and the general public. I speak for neither the operators nor the miners, but for the general public. The questions at issue which led to the situation affect immediately the parties concerned—the operators and the miners, but the situation itself vitally affects the public. As long as there seemed to be a reasonable hope that these matters could be adjusted between the parties it did not seem proper to me to intervene in any way. I disclaim any right for duty to intervene in this way upon legal grounds or upon any official relation that I bear to the situation, but the urgency and the terrible nature of the catastrophe impending over a large portion of our people in the shape of a winter fuel famine impel me, after much anxious thought to believe that my duty requires me to use whatever influence I personally can to bring to an end a situation which has become literally intolerable. I wish to emphasize the character of the situation, and to say that its gravity is such that I am constrained urgently to insist that each one of you realize the heavy burden of responsibility upon him. We are upon the threshold of winter with an already existing coal famine, the future terrors of which we can hardly yet appreciate. The evil possibilities are so far reaching, so appalling, that it seems to me that you are not only justified in sinking but required to sink for the time being any tenacity as to your respective claims in the matter of issue between you. In my judgment the situation imperatively requires that you meet upon the common plane of the necessities of the public. With all the earnestness there is in me, I ask that there be an immediate resumption of operations in the coal mines in some such way as will, without a day's unnecessary delay, meet the crying needs of the people.

"I do not invite a discussion of your respective claims and positions. I appeal to your patriotism, to the spirit that sinks personal considerations and makes individual sacrifices for the general good."

Mr. Mitchell's Suggestion.

Upon the completion of the President's remarks, Mr. Mitchell made a statement as follows:

Mr. President: "I am much impressed with what you say. I am much impressed with the gravity of the situation. We feel that we are not responsible for this terrible state of affairs. We are willing to meet the gentlemen representing the coal operators to try to adjust our differences among ourselves. If we cannot adjust them that way; Mr. President, we are willing that you shall name a tribunal who shall determine the issues that have resulted in the strike, and if the gentlemen representing the operators will accept the award or decision of such a tribunal, the miners will willingly accept it, even if it is against their claim."

The President: "Before considering what ought to be done, I think it only justice to both of you—both sides—and desirable from any standpoint, that you should have time to consider what I have stated as to the reasons for my getting you together, and I shall trespass so far upon your good nature as to ask that this interview cease now, and that you come back at 3 o'clock. I should like you to think over what I have stated—not to decided now, but give it careful thought and return at 3 o'clock.

The conference then adjourned until 3 o'clock.

Upon reassembling, Mr. Baer spoke as follows:

"Mr. President: Do we understand you correctly that we will be expected to answer the proposition submitted by Mr. Mitchell this morning?"

The President: "It will be a pleasure to me to hear any answer that you are willing to make."

Mr. Baer: "I have prepared an answer."

President Baer's Statement.

Statement by Mr. G. F. Baer, president of the Reading Railroad, was then read:

"To the President of the United States:

"We understand your anxiety is forcibly expressed in the statement you read to us this morning to bring about an immediate resumption of operation in the coal mines in some such way as will, without a day's unnecessary delay, meet the crying needs of the people. We infer that you desired us to consider the offer Mr. Mitchell verbally made this mornin, expressing and speaking for the United Mine Workers 'to go back to work if you would appoint a commission to determine the questions at issue.' You distinctly say that you 'do not invite a discussion of our respective claims and positions.' But we assume that a statement of what is going on in the coal region will not be irrelevant.

"We represent the owners of coal mines in Pennsylvania. There are from 15,000 to 20,000 men at work mining and preparing coal. They are abused, assaulted, injured and maltreated by the United Mine Workers. They can only work under the protection of armed guards. Thousands of other workmen are deterred from working by intimidation, violence and crimes inaugurated by the United Mine Workers, over whom John Mitchell, whom you invited to meet you, is chief. I need not picture the daily crimes committed by the members of this organization. The 'domestic tranquility' which every constitution declares is the chief object of government does not exist in the coal regions. There is a terrible reign of lawlessness and crime here. Only the lives and property of the members of the secret oath-bound order which declared that the locals should 'have full power to suspend operations at collieries' until the non-union men joined their order, are safe. Every effort is made to prevent the mining of coal, and when mined, Mitchell's men dynamite bridges and tracks, mob trainmen and by all manner of violence try to prevent its shipment to relieve the public.

"The constitution of Pennsylvania guarantees protection to life and property. In express terms it declares the right of acquiring, possessing and defending property, 'to be inalianable.' When riot and Anarchy, too great to be appeased by the civil power, occur, the government of Pennsylvania is bound to call out the State troops to suppress it. He must fearlessly use the whole power of the State to protect life and property and to establish peace—not an armed truce but the peace of the law, which protects every man at work and going to and from work. It has sent troops to the coal regions. Gradually, the power of the law is asserting itself. Unless encouraged by false hopes, order soon will be restored, and then we can mine coal to meet the public wants. If the power of Pennsylvania is insufficient to re-establish the reign of law, the constitution of the United States requires the President, when requested by the legislature and the Governor, to suppress domestic violence.'

"You see, there is a lawful way to secure coal for the public."

"The duty of the hour is not to waste time negotiating with the fomenters of this anarchy and insolent defiance of law, but to do as was done in the war of the rebellion, restore the majesty of the law, the only guardian of a free people, and to re-establish order and peace at any cost.

"The government is a contemptible failure if it can only protect the lives and property, and secure the comfort of the people by compromising with the violators of law and the instigators of violence and crime.

"Just now, it is more important to teach ignorant men, dwelling among us, misled and used as tools by citizens of other States, that, at whatever cost and inconvenience to the public, Pennsylvania will use the whole power of the government to protect, not only the man who wants to work, but his wife and children while he is at work, and to punish every man, who, by instigation or by overt acts, attempts to deprive any man of his liberty to work.

"Under these conditions, we decline to accept Mr. Mitchell's considerate offer to let our men work on the terms he names. He has no right to come from Illinois to dictate terms, on the acceptance of which anarchy and crime shall cease in Pennsylvania.

"He must stop his people from killing, maiming and abusing Pennsylvania citizens, and from destroying property. He must stop it, because it is unlawful, and not because of any bargain with us. We will add to our offer, 'to continue the wages existing at the time of the strike, and to take up at each colliery, and adjust any grievance, this further condition:

"If the employers and employes at any particular colliery cannot reach a satisfactory adjustment of an alleged grievance, it shall be referred to the judges of the Court of Common Pleas of the district in which the colliery is situated for final determination.

(Signed) Geo. F. Baer,
President Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company and Lehigh & Wilkes-Barre Coal & Iron Co., and Temple Iron Co.

The Strikers' Side.

The following is the text of the statement made by official representatives of the Miners' Union:

Washington, Oct. 3, 1902.

Mr. President: "At the conference this morning the accredited representatives of the anthracite coal mine workers are much impressed with the views you expressed and the dangers to the welfare of our country from a prolongation of the coal strike that you so clearly pointed out. Conscious of the responsibility resting upon us, conscious of our duty to society, conscious of our obligations to the one hundred and fifty thousand mine workers whom we have the honor to represent, we have, after most careful consideration and with the hope of relieving the situation and avegiing the sufferings and hardships which would inevitably follow in the wake of a coal famine, decided to propose a resumption of coal mining upon the lines hereinafter suggested.

"Before doing so, Mr. President, we desire to say that we are not prompted to suggest this course because of any doubts of the justice of our claims. In deferring to your wishes we are prompted by no fear on our part of our ability to continue the contest to a successful issue, thanks to the generous assistance rendered us by our fellow workers in this and other lands, thanks to a justice loving American public, whose sympathies are always on the side of right, we are able to continue the struggle indefinitely. But confident of our ability to demonstrate to any impartial tribunal the equity of our demands for higher wages and improved environment, we propose that the issues culminating in this strike, shall be referred to you and a tribunal of your own selection, and agree to accept your award all or any of the questions involved. If you will accept this responsibility and the representatives of the coal operators will signify their willingness to have your decision incorporated in an agreement for not less than one year or more than five years, as may be mutually determined between themselves, and the anthracite coal mine workers, and will pay the scale of wages which you and the tribunal appointed by you, shall award, we will immediately call a convention and recommend a resumption of work upon the understanding that the wages, which shall be paid, are to go into effect from the day upon which work is resumed.

Very respectfully yours

"John Mitchell."

President of the United Miners' of America. John Fahey, Thomas Duffy, D. D. Nicholls, District Presidents.

Mitchell's Fair Proposition.

Mr. Mitchell said: "The charge made by the gentleman that 20 murders have been committed in the anthracite coal regions during the present strike is untrue. If they will name the men, and will show that they have committed the murders, I will resign my position. That is a fair proposition. Mr. President, that is a fair example of how our organization and our people are maligned. Truth of the matter is, as far as I know, there have been seven deaths unfortunately. No one regrets them more than I do. Three of them were committed by the coal and iron police, and no one else has been charged with them. God knows the miners do not escape being charged with everything done there. They speak about burnings. There was a reward offered for burnings. I can bring affidavits of a hundred people if necessary that the lightning caused one burning that they charged to the United Mine Workers. Mr. President, I have admitted on more than one occasion that there has been some lawlessness, but I will say that a large portion of such lawlessness has been provoked by criminals who have been brought into the anthracite regions to recruit the coal and iron police. I want to say, Mr. President, that I feel keenly the attacks made upon me and my people, but I came here with the intention of doing nothing, and saying nothing that would prevent reconciliation.

All Dismissed.

The President then asked the representatives of the anthracite companies whether they would accept Mr. Mitchell's proposition.

They answered "No."

In response to a further question from the President, they stated they would have no dealings whatever with Mr. Mitchell, looking toward a settlement of the question at issue, and that they had no other proposition to make save what was contained in the statement of Mr. Baer, which in effect, was that, if any man chose to resume work, and had a difficulty with his employer, both should leave the settlement of the question to the judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the district in which the mine was located. At about 5 o'clock the conference was brought to a close, without agreement.

Brutal Assailant Punished.

London, Oct. 4.—George (alias) "Whitey" Underwood was sentenced to two years and six months imprisonment in Kingston Penitentiary by Police Magistrate Love at yesterday morning's Police Court. The charge was that of assault, occasioning actual bodily harm. In passing sentence the magistrate said that Underwood's crime was a most brutal and unwarranted one, he having entered the residence of a stranger and there assaulted a defenceless woman and a little child.

Ottawa Fare Boxes Robbed.

Ottawa, Oct. 4.—E. Gagnon, a street car conductor, was arrested last night by Detective Robillard, on the charge of stealing from a fare box. Gagnon admitted his guilt. On his person was found a very ingenious digger, similar to those produced in the courts in the Toronto cases. Gagnon would not tell where he got the digger.

Quebec Elects Conservatives.

Montreal, Oct. 4.—The Quebec Liberal Government received its first check yesterday in six years, its candidates having been defeated in Stanstead and Soulanges. Mr. St. Pierre, Conservative, defeated Mr. Rider, Liberal, in Stanstead by 425 votes, the county having been carried by the Liberals two years ago by 288, and ten years ago Mr. Bourbonneau, Liberal carried Soulanges by 577, while yesterday Mr. Bissonnette, Conservative, defeated Mr. Morrisseau, Liberal, by 11 votes.

Died of Her Burns.

Woodbridge, Ont., Oct. 4. — Miss Amy Card, daughter of Mr. Alex. Card, who was burned by the lamp explosion here on Wednesday evening, died yesterday morning, at 8.15. The other victim, Miss Aggie Card, is recovering.

The Student's Prayer.

There was long ago a divinity hall presided over by a most amiable and dignified professor. On certain days the senior students opened the proceedings of the day with prayer. One morning a raw youth from a remote region performed this duty, and it was a memorable occasion. None who were present can forget how the venerable professor turned and gazed on the untutored lad, who prayed for him as follows: "Lord, have mercy on our professor, for he is weak and ignorant. Strengthen his feeble hands, confirm his tottering knees, and grant that he may go out and in before us like the he goat [illegible] flock."

"JUST AS THE TWIG IS BENT."

In dealing with the case of a juvenile housebreaker the other day, Judge Phelan, of Detroit, uttered these significant words, which many a parent would do well to take to heart;

Perhaps it is not all your fault, those charged with your origin may have something to answer for. Parents will allow their boys to run the streets until all hours of the night, in evil company, knowing that a young man out until the hours of morning cannot be engaged in any good. The mother may know of it and conceal the truth from the father and when finally she does tell him, it is too late. The son is in a felon's cell, charged with crime.

There is much truth in the foregoing, as we see demonstrated every every day. The mother is, however, perhaps not altogether to blame. She has always the soft side for her children, and if her maternal tenderness did not often act as a buffer between an unreasonably exacting and violent tempered father, the children would often suffer physical injury; and by habit the position of defender, thus tacitly assumed, is extended to cover the little trespasses which would be the proper subject for conjugal conferences, if the father had the good sense to be reasonable and temperate in his judgment and chastisement of his children. But there is often too much indifference on the part of parents to the goings and comings of their children, and it is only when some offence, cognizable by the law, draws attention to the fact that a child has gone wrong through the passive ignorance of its parents of its daily and nightly life, that the awakening comes. Ignorance of the trend of their children's habits is inexcuseable in parents. Any parent with wit enough to avoid a rain shower, knows that a boy or girl left to their own devices, allowed to run abroad at night where they like, are certain to go wrong. This is especially the case with young girls. They are by nature more confiding, and subject to more perilous, if not greater temptation, than boys, and one false step on the part of a girl is often, and as a rule, an irrevocable one—as it generally is a false step into ways that "lay hold on hell." And society, in its pharisaical prudery, instead of barricading the downward way, perversely obstructs the return of the erring girl to the path of virtue and respectability. Parents cannot be too watchful of their children, for with all the faithful training that can be given, in some cases an ingrained and perverse spirit of evil triumphs, and ruin is the result — a result that would have come sooner, and, perhaps, in a blacker form, but for the influence of good training. Parents who do not know where their boys and girls, in their growing years, spend their nights, will, in too many cases, arrive at a terrible certainty of knowledge — when their boys are behind prison bars and their girls in the Magdalen's cell.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Though the referendum vote is arousing very little surface excitement there is no doubt a strong undercurrent of quiet preparation on both sides. On both sides far contrary to the contentions of those who opposed the referendum on the grounds that the terms of the referendum relieved the opponents of prohibition from making any fight, the liquor party is quietly preparing to show a big amount of fight when the time comes.

President Roosevelt, though a noted rough rider, was knocked out by a common trolley car. He has considerable trouble with the coal strike but more with an injury to one of his limbs by his collision with the street car. The doctors, to use the vernacular of the street are "pulling his leg" to great advantage — to themselves. A healthy navvy with a "barked shin" like the President suffered would be at work in his trench next day, but when surgeons have a patient good for three figure fees, the injury becomes very serious. President Roosevelt, in his rough rider days, would have rubbed a little arnica on his leg and have been in the saddle again next morning.

We often hear of husbands poisoning or making away with wives or of wives disposing of their husbands in a similar way, for the sake of the money an insurance policy represents, and though the thing comes upon us with a shock it is mitigated by the reflection that some husbands and some wives, and some husbands, especially when their lives are well insured, are most desirable or least undesirable, and of the greatest use to the survivor when they are comfortably dead. But one can hardly conceive the monstrosity of a son murdering his mother for the sake of the paltry insurance her life carried, as in the case of a young man near Collingwood, who is charged with conspiracy to procure the death of his mother for the sake of the insurance upon her life.

There are good reasons why Canadian trade with Japan should increase. First virtual alliance between Great Britain and Japan makes Canada, in a sense, an ally of Japan. Then there is a large market there for what we produce in abundance, namely, breadstuffs. United States' trade with Japan is falling off in favour of imports from Britain, India and Canada. The falling off of United States' trade, about 31 per cent., is principally in flour. With unbounded wheat fields on the highway to the Orient, with a direct line of Canadian steamers, our trade in flour and allied goods should boom, and it does not seem improbable that cereal foods, from our own Cereal Works in Peterborough, should find their way to the land of the Rising Sun. Quaker Oats for the chrysanthemum would be a fair exchange.

CRIME OF NOAH HALE.

He Shot and Killed His Son and Wounded His Wife.

TRAGEDY NEAR SAULT STE. MARIE

Mrs. Hale Was Living With Her Boy For Protection From Her Husband—After Murdering His Son and Wounding His Wife Hale Started For the Bush — Not Yet Captured.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Oct. 4.—Noah Hale, a farmer of Korah township, about six miles from Sault Ste. Marie, shot and killed his son Frank, a young man about 25 years of age, and wounded his wife in the arm, leaving her for dead.

Friction existed in the family and Mrs. Hale left her husband to live with her son. Hale possesses a violent temper, and after a quarrel two weeks ago his wife appeared against him in the Police Court. He was bound over to keep the peace, and since then has been in an ugly mood towards the family.

Yesterday morning Hale left his own home on his murderous mission before daylight. His daughters did not know he was out of the house till they got up to prepare breakfast. He returned about this time in an excited state and carrying his gun. He left the house, saying he was going to bring in the cows, and has not been seen since. The daughters think he secured a bottle of carbolic acid that was in the house. He also took his gun with him.

Special constables and the regular police force are scouring the woods for him, but those who know him say he will not be taken alive.

Mrs. Hale is too weak to be able to tell a connected story of the tragedy. Her condition is serious, as she is suffering as much from shock and fright as from actual wounds. When the murderer appeared at the home of Frank Hale, where the mother was stopping, he raised his gun without giving warning, and the charge entered the young man's body. The murderer then fired at his wife, who fell unconscious, and Hale probably left with the impression that he had killed her.

Mrs. Hale recovered consciousness, however, and made her way to a neighbor's house, where she raised an alarm. The police of the Soo were at once notified and a large number of the countryside are in pursuit, with small chances of taking the murderer alive. He is certain to take poison or kill himself with his gun.

The murderer is an Englishman by birth and is about 65 years of age. He has been a resident of Korah township for a number of years. The murdered son, the wounded wife and the daughters were all highly thought of.

WILL USE A MAGNET.

To Search the Stream For the Weapon Used by Murderer.

Niagara Falls, Oct. 4.—There are no new developments in the Franks murder case. If the police have found anything, they are keeping it quiet. A. E. Fleming, brother of the deceased woman, returned home to El Paso, Illinois, last evening, but before leaving, stated positively that he would return shortly, and would have the creek at Chippewa searched, where the weapon that the fiend killed his sister with is supposed to have been thrown. The means employed will be a powerful magnet. The creek is fully 100 feet wide and about 10 feet deep, and runs from the Niagara River up through the village, and will afford no easy task.

KILLED BY A TRAIN.

Robert Stewart, a Brockville Cattle-Buyer, Meets Death Thursday.

Smith's Falls, Oct. 4.—Robert Stewart, a traveler for the George Matthews Company, of Ottawa, lost his life on the C.P.R. track, about three miles south of here, Thursday evening. He was a well-known buyer of live stock. When the 7 o'clock train reached Jasper Thursday night he got off, presumably thinking it was Smith's Falls, and then started to walk up the track the intervening five miles. The express going to Brockville ran him down. He was instantly killed. He was a married man, about 44 years of age, and lived at Brockville.

APPLE CROP HAS IMPROVED.

Dealers Say the Results are Exceeding the Estimate.

Toronto apple buyers say that the crop throughout the province is turning out much better than it promised earlier in the season. Not only is it larger, but the quality of the fruit has improved, the fungus noticeable in the early autumn has pretty generally disappeared, and the apples have filled out well, without serious blemish.

The crop is pretty well distributed. Satisfactory reports are to be had from almost every section, and the dealers say that it now looks as if three times as many apples will be packed this year as were barrelled last year. The price, however, is not so high, ranging from 50 cents to a dollar a barrel to the farmer, according to quality and kind. The dealers who bought by the orchard have no reason to complain, as the crop exceeds the early estimates. On the other hand, those who are buying by the barrel have no culls to handle and no risk to run from heavy winds.

FACTS ABOUT COAL.

In order that the readers of the Traveler may be informed of the exact conditions of the coal situation, especially in regard to the relation between the causes of the present controversy and the profits on coal, the following facts will be of interest:

There are 147,500 anthracite coal miners out on strike. They want higher wages. Prior to the strike these men worked ten hours a day 200 days of the year, for an average wage of $1.42 a day, which amounted to an average individual income of $284. Each miner received about 60 cents for each ton of coal that he mined, and each miner mined about two and one-third tons a day. In computing the wages of the miners, the mine-owners fixed the weight of a ton of coal at various figures ranging between 2,000 and 3,190 pounds, and sold the same coal to the customer at 2,240 pounds to the ton.

The average cost of the coal delivered to local dealers throughout the country was $4.87 a ton. The average cost to the consumer was $6.25 per ton. The difference between the cost of production and the price paid by the consumer, $4.38, represents the profits of the coal trust and the retailers. And our readers will all unite in saying that the coal trust gets the lion's share of the profits.—Boston Traveler.

CORTICELLI HOME NEEDLEWORK.

The October issue of this excellent magazine is now being mailed to subscribers. It is one of the best issues yet published, containing, as it does, a series of beautiful coloured plates and hundreds of half tone illustrations. This number takes up extensively lace work, modern lace work, fancy reticules and pouches, Holiday needlework, Porto Rican lace work, centrepieces and doilies in numerous designs, sofa pillows, etc. Certainly any lady who has any pretentions at all of doing lace and fancy needlework should not be without the little school teacher. The Corticelli Home Needlework Magazine is published at great expense and no labour is spared to acquire the best article embracing the work the publication deals with. It is without doubt the best book of the kind published. Mailed on receipt of ten cents, or for 35c the book will be sent for a full year, four issues. After January first the subscription price is to be advanced to 50c a year or 15c per single issue, so lovers of art needlework should take advantage of the offer now being made. Address, Corticelli Silk Company, Limited, St. John's P.Q.

PRICES OF HOGS.

The fact that prime hogs bring from 90c. to $2 per cwt. more in Chicago than in Toronto is a circumstance worth enquiring into, with a view to ascertaining the reason therefor and the remedy, if there be one.

Canadian hogs should bring good prices. They are mostly of the best weights, especially when intended for the export trade, and it is maintained that their quality cannot be excelled, for they are very carefully fed upon the best foods to produce the choicest meats. A proof of the quality of Canadian hogs is found in the fact that in open competition on the English market the Canadian pork trade is forging ahead. According to the British Board of Trade returns, the imports of Canadian bacon for August this year, were valued at $194,894, against $126,522 for August, 1901, while Canadian ham figures were: August, 1902, $55,109; August, 1901, $53,865. The English receipts of United States hog products have shown a falling off, but this may be due to the increased domestic demand in the American Union. If Canadian hog products more than hold their own in England, Canadian hog prices should hold their own on the Toronto and other markets.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

Complete Message Said to Have Been Sent 2,200 Miles.

Sydney, N. S., Oct. 4.—It is rumored here that communication by wireless telegraphy has been established between Cape Breton and Cornwall, England. It is said that a complete message has been sent between the stations. Mr. Vyvian, engineer in charge of construction of Tablehead station, when asked to deny or affirm the report declined to say anything about it. The distance between the two stations is about 2,200 miles.

Convict Binder Twine.

Ottawa, Oct. 4.—(Globe Special.)—The report sent out from Kingston, to the effect that the Government has decided to permanently close down the binder twine industry at the penitentiary is untrue. The industry is only temporarily suspended to await a drop in the price of raw material, and can be resumed, if necessary, at two hours' notice. On July1, last year in accordance with the directions of Parliament, the stock on hand, amounting to about two hundred tons, was sold off. During the two ensuing seasons the factory has only filled the orders received from day to day, and has suspended operations when harvest time was over. There is, however, no intention of abandoning the manufacture of binder twine. As soon as the cost of raw material reaches the normal figure manufacturing operations will be resumed with the old-time vigor.

Reid Arbitration Closes.

St. John's, Nfld, Oct. 4.—The hearing in the Reid arbitration case closed last evening with addresses by counsel for both sides. The arbitrators will begin private sittings to-day preparatory to making their award The announcement of the decision is not expected for a week or ten days. Mr. Reid, a railroad contractor, has claims against Newfoundland, aggregating $2,000,000. The matter has been referred to arbitration, and the arbitration tribunal began its sitting at St. John's, Sept. 4.

LOBSTER HATCHERIES

Mr. Sutherland's Plan to Promote a Great Industry.

THREE TO BE ERECTED AT ONCE

Each Will Be Capable of Turning Out Annually One Hundred Millions of Young Lobsters—The Importance of the Industry to Canada—Runs Cod and Salmon Very Closely.

Ottawa, Oct. 4.—Hon. James Sutherland, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, has in various ways shown his desire to promote the great lobster-fishing industry on the eastern shores of Canada, and his latest act, that sanctioning the erection of three new lobster hatcheries in the Gulf of St. Lawrence will be hailed with satisfaction throughout the Maritime Provinces.

The new hatcheries will be located at Shippegan Island, Shemogue Harbor and Lobster Point, P.E.I., respectively.

That at Shippegan Island will be in the very centre of the lobster canneries of northern New Brunswick, and will draw its supplies of lobster spawn from the canneries along the Baie des Chaleur, especially Gloucester County, and from the Straits of Northumberland as far as the southern limits of Kent County.

The hatchery at the entrance to Shemogue Harbor will be midway between the flourishing canneries of the Shediac and Cape Tormentine districts.

Lobster Point, where the third hatchery is to be established, is a few miles from Charlottetown and midway between the canneries east and west of Hillsborough Bay.

The Minister has decided that the hatching plant shall be of an improved type, capable in the case of each hatchery of turning out at least one hundred millions of young lobsters per annum. Few people are aware of the importance of the lobster fishery, which runs the cod and salmon a close race for premier place in the fishing industries of the Dominion. Each of these industries has an annual value of between three and four million dollars, far exceeding the mackerel and herring fisheries, which reach an annual output of only between one and two million dollars each per annum.

BRODRICK TO HICKS-BEACH.

Former Chancellor of Exchequer Most Unfortunate in His Criticisms.

London, Oct. 4.—Responding to the toast, "His Majesty's Ministers," at a dinner at Farnham last night, Mr. Brodrick, Secretary of War, combatted the criticisms of the War Office, uttered by Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, in his speech at Bristol Sept. 29, when Sir Michael said the War Office was chiefly responsible for the increase in national expenditure.

Mr. Brodrick said Sir Michael had told the people the War Office was in need of drastic reforms, but one ought to make allowances for him. The War Office had not met the degree of ill-success in carrying out the South African war which people were inclined to attribute to it, said Mr. Brodtick, and he characterized the assertion of the former Chancellor of the Exchequer, that the War Office was subjected to outside influence, as most unfortunate.

He said every one of the higher officers of the War Office had been the architect of his own fortune and that in every appointment in the new army corps the War Office had had the joint authority and advice of Earl Roberts and Lord Kitchener.

Mr. Brodrick contended that the army was a better profession than people generally thought, but he said the reforms now in progress must take time to develop.

Good manners is the art of making those people easy with whom we converse. Whoever makes the fewest persons uneasy is the best bred in the company.

OUR TRADE OF 1867.

Great Difference Between the Amount of Customs Duties Gathered in Canada Then and Now.

The total amount of customs duties collected in the year ending January 5th, 1853, was £737,439. In 1849 they were £444,597 5s. 1d., and in 1850 they were £615 13s. 9d. Such a rapid increase in the trade of the Province is most remarkable. The value of the goods imported was:—

In 1849	3,002,599	12	4
In 1850	4,245,517	3	6
In 1851	5,858,697	12	7

The importations of 1851 were from the following countries:—

To Great Britain	1,505,350	6	4
British North America	109,244	16	1
West Indies	3,406	7	4
United States	2,091,441	6	3
Other foreign countries	142,574	0	5

The total value of the exports for 1851 as reported at the customs house amounted to £3,241,180, though this is believed to be greatly under the real value. Of these exports there went:—

To Great Britain	1,505,350	6	4
To the United States	1,017,886	3	3
To British North America	259,379	12	7
To British West Indies	978	0	0
To other countries	41,036	1	7
Ships built for sale in Great Britain	416,550	0	0

The description of the goods exported in 1850 and 1851 is as follows:

1850.

Products of the mine	9,145	12	0
Products of the sea	36,512	15	7
Products of the forest	1,860,784	6	4

The exportation of animals was very much the same in 1851 as in 1850. The article of butter shows a great increase—from 11,785 cwt. in 1850 to 28,548 cwt. in 1851. The value increased from £30,817 to £65,600. Pork increased from 5,300 cwt. to 11,160, and the value from £7,374 to £17,992. The exportation of wool in 1850 was 276,691 pounds, valued at £14,214; in 1851 it was 410,101 pounds, and worth £20,126. Eggs rose from 387,343 dozen to 610,560. Candles were exported for the first time—164,800.

The following returns appear in a table and show the value of the exports according to ports:—In 1851 Quebec shipped goods valued at £1,503,662, Montreal £529,607, St. John's £134,588, Hamilton £91,312, Port Dalhousie £89,017, Toronto £81,850.

The ports at which the largest amounts of duty was collected were as follows in 1851:—Montreal, £315,303; Toronto, £94,830; Quebec, £92,939; Hamilton, £78,892; St. John's, £61,153; Kingston, £17,249.—From The Globe, Sept. 9, 1852.

A Choice.

The panorama of one of the great lakes is spread before me, and a small section of its mighty traffic is passing. Toiling along at a fair rate of speed goes a powerful steam barge, towing two deep-laden schooners; behind puffs a little high-pressure steam barge, making an awful fuss, but going mighty slow and carrying mighty little. Overhauling this bunch comes a magnificent steel freighter, with rakish masts and funnel, quadruple expansion engines, a noiseless exhaust, and a mountain of water at her bow.

The little high-pressure steam barge is making more noise and spitting out more steam than either of her big neighbors, but she isn't carrying one quarter as much freight, she isn't carrying it as fast or as far or as economically.

These three classes of steamers are duplicated in all walks of human life. Some men are little, noisy, high-pressure affairs. They do their work in an old-fashioned, and consequently expensive way. They puff and sweat and make an awful fuss about it, and they, like the little high-pressure steam barge, usually make so little by it that they have to keep going long after they should have been able to lay up for good.

Other men are like the lazy schooner behind the big steam barge. They never progress unless someone throws them a friendly rope and tows them along; they are useful only as long as someone else keeps them going.

A few men are like the big freighter — work swiftly, intelligently, smoothly, and noiselessly, and make money fast in consequence.

Of the three classes of human craft sailing over life's ocean, I'd rather be a big, fast freighter than any, but next to that I'd sooner be apuffing little high-pressure craft than have to be everlastingly hanging on to someone else's towline.—Ravenspur, in Toronto Star.

BABY'S FIRST TOOTH.

A Family Event That Does not Always Bring Unmixed Joy.

Baby's first tooth does not come unannounced. Inflamed gums and impaired digestion produce a feverish and fretful condition about which the mother often feels concerned. The baby boy of Mrs. George McGregor, of Hamilton, Ont., was troubled with diarrhoea while teething and was cross and restless. He did not sleep well and matters became serious. The mother writes as follows; "My sister had used Baby's Own Tablets for her baby and advised me to try them. I got a box and after giving the Tablets to the baby a few times he began to improve and was soon well. He is now a big healthy baby and whenever he gets fretful or does not feel well I give him a tablet and he is soon all right again."

Baby's Own Tablets replace with great advantage castor oil and other nauseous, griping drugs. They sweeten the stomach, quiet the nerves and promote healthful sleep. They are guaranteed to contain no opiate and to be perfectly harmless. If your druggist does not keep them you can obtain a full size box by mail, post paid, by sending 25 cents to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y.

Checking a Hemorrhage.

Even a very slight hemorrhage is always startling, but it does not necessarily mean anything dangerous. It may be caused by a slight disarrangement of the stomach as well as by a disease of the lungs or heart. No one but an experienced physician should decide this question, however. Let the patient lie quietly and give him cold drinks until a physician comes. A little salted water is a simple, familiar household remedy for such cases. Quiet and rest are positively essential if the cause is a serious one.

Turkish Cemeteries.

Upon the graves of the dead in the Turkish cemeteries little vessels of water are placed for the benefit of the birds, and some of the marble tombs have basins chiseled out for the same purpose, the superstition being that birds carry messages about the living to the dead and, like everybody else in Turkey, are suspected of being spiteful unless something is done to curry their favor.

Period of Deepest Sleep.

The period of deepest sleep varies from 3 o'clock to 5. An hour or two after going to bed you sleep very soundly; then your slumber grows gradually lighter, and it is easy enough to waken you at 1 or 2 o'clock, but when 4 o'clock comes you are in such a state of somnolence that it would take a great deal to waken you.

Truth.

Truth is always consistent with itself and needs nothing to help it out. It is always near at hand, sits upon our lips and is ready to drop out before we are aware. A lie is troublesome and sets a man's invention upon the rack, and one trick needs a great many more to make it good.

Compulsory Domestic Service.

Probably compulsory domestic service will have to be resorted to some day. That will not only help to solve a difficult problem, but it will also lift the social stigma off the kitchen industry by main force. Compulsory military service for men is common enough, and even Australia will almost certainly find it necessary some day. Compulsory domestic service for women—say from the age of nineteen to twenty-one—is no greater a hardship. There is the same reason for compulsion in both cases—a great national demand and insufficient supply.—Sydney Bulletin.

The Day of Miracles

is past, but many who are cured of itching, bleeding or protruding piles by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment look upon their recovery as the next thing to miraculous. It is not uncommon for persons who have undergone painful, risky and expensive operations in vain to be finally cured by this wonderful ointment. It is the standard the world over and the only guaranteed cure for piles.

Marriages Without Money.

The poet and divine, John Donne, who became dean of St. Paul's in 1621, married a daughter of Sir George Moore without the consent of her parents. He was told by his father-in-law that he was not to expect any money from him. The bridegroom went home and wrote this witty note, "John Donne, Anne Donne, undone," which he sent to the angry father, and this had the effect of restoring them to favor. They were very poor at first, but things soon got brighter, and they lived most happily together.

Sir Joshua Reynolds after Flaxman had married told him that this would ruin him as an artist. When the husband related this to his wife, she resolved that marriage should make and not mar her husband and to this end further resolved that he should study at Rome and do everything that he might have done without matrimonial responsibilities. "But how?" asked Flaxman. "Work and economize," rejoined the brave woman. So well did they do this that he found that "wedlock is for an artist's good, rather than his harm," and they both discovered that they were made for each other.

SIR WILFRID IN LONDON.

Will Open the New Produce Exchange at Liverpool.

London, Oct. 4.—Premier Laurier and Finance Minister Fielding of Canada have returned here from Paris, and, yesterday, called at the Colonial Office and reported the results of their interviews with the officials of the French Foreign Ministry.

The Premier will open the new Produce Exchange at Liverpool, Oct. 7, and will sail for Canada, Oct. 8.

Canada-Jamaica Steamers.

London, Oct. 4.—The Associated Press is in a position to deny the statement of The Daily Dispatch of Manchester, Eng., that the terms of a British syndicate for the establishment of a fast steamship service between Canada and England have been accepted. Nothing in this connection is expected to be settled for some time, and it is considered likely in shipping circles that the establishment of a Canada-Jamaica service may take precedence over the proposed Canada-England line.

Produced Peritonitis.

Belleville, Oct. 4.—A fatal accident occurred at Deloro, Hastings County, by which William Young lost his life. He was driving with a young lady when one of the lines broke, and the horse turned sharply to the side, throwing Young back in the buggy with his companion on top of him. The injuries produced peritonitis, from the effects of which he died after great suffering.

Canada As a Bogey.

Boston, Oct. 4.—The Boston Advertiser says that Canada and certain European nations have entered into a tariff league to destroy United States trade.

Thursday Lore.

The natives of the Hawaiian Islands considered thunder as being Mauna Loa's echo from the clouds. This curious notion has crystallized a weather proverb which is now current among many of the white residents of the islands—viz. "It will rain today; Mauna Loa shakes the clouds." In this connection it may be remarked that the early Scandinavian settlers in Iceland believed that there were some mysterious and supernatural connections between the roarings of Hecla and the "angry mutterings of Jove." In England many of the peasantry still plant the house leek—"Jupiter's beard"—on their house roofs as a preventive against thunder, lightning and evil spirits, a custom which reminds one of Charlemagne's edict, "Et habeat quisque supra domum suam Jovis barbam."

Another widespread superstition, and one that has been noted among the tribes and nations from China to England and from Cape Hatteras to the Golden Gate, tells us that if the "claps" or reports of thunder come in even numbers the storm will be of short duration and very mild, but, on the other hand, if they come in uneven numbers, especially if the reports be a series of five, nine or thirteen distinct claps, much loss of life and property will result.

Juvenile Suspicion.

"I shall soon be your new mamma," said a governess to her little charge. "I am going to marry your father. Freddy, dear. I wonder if you are glad?"

"Hurrah!" exclaimed Freddy. "That's a perfectly splendid idea. Who thought of it first—you or papa?"

MR. ROBERT ROSE EULOGIZES DR. PITCHER.

The Originator of the "Rose Hair Grower" Speaks in Glowing Terms of the Benefits He Derived From The Use of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

They Cured Him of Backache and Kidney Trouble Which Had Bothered Him For Years.

The many patrons of the "Rose Hair Grower" will no doubt be pleased to learn that the originator and compounder of that splendid hair tonic, is now in the best of health, having been cured of the severe backache and kidney trouble which formerly afflicted him, by the use of the new kidney specific, "Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets." Mr. Rose is naturally delighted to be rid of his aches and pains and very gladly gave Dr. Pitcher the following statement of his case:—

"Having been a sufferer from backache and kidney trouble for years, and having been obliged to try Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, I did so. The result in my case has been most satisfactory, as I am entirely cured and can highly recommend this remedy to all sufferers from pain in the back or kidney trouble in any form. I have heard many people speak highly of these Tablets, and I know in every case where I recommended them they produced a prompt and permanent cure." (Signed) ROBT. ROSE.

Remember Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are altogether different from the common kidney pills with which the drug stores are filled. Every tablet goes to the right spot, and you can feel every dose doing you good.

They remove every bit of pain from the sore, aching back, because they get at the origin of the ache in the kidneys.

There has no medicine ever before been compounded like these tablets for backache, kidney, and urinary troubles of both sexes.

One Tablet a dose, fifty Tablets in a bottle. Price 50c a bottle, or three for $1.25, at all druggists, or by mail. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

Doctor Mecklenburg Praises Ozone.

The Celebrated Specialist of Montreal, Cured of a Severe Case of Eczema by this Drugless Product.

Dr. Mecklenburg, formerly of New York, has been cured of a serious case of Eczema, and he has given us a full account of his endeavors to get cured. His final recovery, by using Powley's Liquified Ozone, reads more like a miracle than an actual happening in this the 20th century. Read his letter—it is extraordinary.

DOCTOR MECKLENBURG.

"I feel it my duty to write you this testimony of the wonderful merit of Powley's Liquified Ozone. For over twelve years past I have been a great sufferer from eczema. My hands and limbs were so bad that blood would ooze out of my skin, and I had a very bad sore on my right leg at the knee. It was so painful at times that I was unable to walk, and often my hands were so bad I could not attend to my practice, and I had to wear silk rubber gloves. I was treated by the best specialists on skin diseases in New York City and elsewhere. I also went to Kingston, Canada, and engaged another specialist who said he could cure me, but I received no permanent relief.

"About the first of December, 1901, I saw your preparation—Ozone—advertised, and without the slightest belief that it would cure me, as I had given up all hope, I procured a dollar bottle at John T. Lyons' drug store, and began taking it. To my very agreeable surprise I noticed an improvement almost immediately. I continued taking Ozone until I had taken eleven bottles. I also used one jar of Ozone Cream, which I found an excellent preparation for the skin.

"I am now cured of that troublesome disease, my skin is as smooth as a baby's, and I can attend to my practice in comfort.

"I cheerfully recommend Ozone to all sufferers from eczema, and I will ever sing its praises."

(Signed) M. MECKLENBURG,
Doctor of Optics and Refraction.

Physicians endorse Powley's Liquified Ozone—druggists recommend it, and people who have benefited by it tell of its virtues to others. Ask your druggist how it acts on a case of eczema. He may have had several cases come under his notice. If he has had, you can learn about Ozone from a disinterested source. We're content to let him tell you all about it.

Daily Examiner.

SATURDAY, OCT. 4, 1902.

Charlotte Street Church.

Rev. Dr. Potts of Toronto, will preach to-morrow morning, and the pastor in the evening, in the interests of the Educational Society.

W. C. T. U.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will hold their regular monthly meeting on Monday, the 6th of October, at half past three in the Y.M.C.A. building.

All Saints' Church.

There will be a celebration of the Holy Communion on Sunday morning at 8.30 o'clock. The sermon will be on, "Though Noah, Daniel and Job were in It," and "Common Things," which teach us what to be.

Thanksgiving Night Concert under auspices of Charlotte street Ladies' Aid Society. Reserve this date and look for further particulars.

At St. Andrew's Church.

At St. Andrew's church to-morrow the pastor, Rev. J. G. Potter, will officiate at both services. The subject at 11 a.m., will be "Ye are not your own," and at 7 p.m., "Sleep on Now, and Take your Rest." Seats are all free.

Miss Jessie MacLachlan Coming.

Arrangements have been made for the second appearance of Miss Jessie MacLachlan, who so highly delighted a large audience by her wonderful singing last spring. With Miss MacLachlan will appear an exceptionally successful elocutionist from Philadelphia. Further particulars will be announced in a few days.

St. Luke's Church.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt will preach at both services to-morrow. The subject in the morning will be, "The Treasury of God," and in the evening, "The Power of Unbelief." The Holy Communion will be administered at the morning service. The annual offering for the Widows and and Orphans Fund will be taken up to-morrow.

A Contradiction.

Messrs. Joshua Hicks and Thomas Crowe called at the Examiner office this morning to contradict a paragraph that appeared in yesterday's issue to the effect that Mr. J. J. Elliott had hired men for the Turner Lumber Company, Algonquin Park. They say that Mr. Elliott is not now employed as a clerk, and that he has no authority to hire men, and that as a matter of fact, he employed no men. Messrs. Hicks and Crowe say that they are regularly authorized to employ men for the company, and that they only are authorized to issue tickets to men employed for the company. They have affixed their names to a statement to this effect.

GRAFTON'S NEW MODEL STORE

Well Known Clothing House and Their Complete Stock.

The Firm That Saves the Middle Man's Profits—Manufacturers and Retailers —New Home of Their Own.

It is some weeks sibce Messrs. Grafton & Company moved into their new premises at No. 381 George street, but it has taken some little time to arrange matters in that superior manner so characteristic of this well known clothing house.

Grafton & Company are no longer tenants in Peterborough, they having purchased the handsome and commodious new quarters in which they are now located. Their new store is fully one-fourth larger than their old one, and will afford better facilities to cope with their greatly increasing trade. Of course there are many improvements yet to be made to Grafton & Company's store, such as the decoration of the front, and the placing of new shelving inside. When this is completed they will possess a business house that for accommodation will be in keeping with the excellence of their goods, which have acquired a country-wide reputation.

The floor space of the new Grafton store is exceptionally large, as the firm will occupy four stories. On the second floor is situated the tailor shop, which is used merely to alter any clothing that may require such when making a fit. The ground floor is brilliantly illuminated with arc lights, while large plate glass mirrors reflect a glow of radiance over the entire store. When the new office is fitted up and when the new shelving and tables are added Grafton's store will be a model establishment.

Messrs. Grafton & Company always pride themselves on the fact that they are manufacturers and retailers, and thereby save the middle man's profits. In fact they have always claimed that for style and quality of material and work, that they are unsurpassed by any clothing house in the Dominion. This fact is recognized by all the largest clothing houses in the country.

A visit to Messrs. Grafton & Company's at the present season of the year, is well worth the trouble, whether one intends to purchase or not. The immense piles of ready-made clothing, and the gentlemen's furnishings combine in making a most thoroughly selected stock of the latest styles of the day. The staff, too, has been increased, and is noted for the obliging manner in which they are at all times found, and thoroughly acquainted with all branches of the clothing trade.

At George Street.

Rev. Dr. Potts of Toronto, Secretary of Education of the Methodist Church, will preach in the George street Methodist church to-morrow night. Collections and subscriptions in aid of the Educational Fund of the church.

Murray Street Baptist.

At the Murray street church to-morrow morning the Lord's Supper will be administered and a suitable sermon will be preached. In the evening the pastor will preach a special sermon to the young men, on "How to get Health, Wealth, Honour and Religion." Young men and women are specially invited.

Mr. Letellier's Thanks.

Mr. Letellier, whose new barns and outhouses were destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon, desires to publicly express his thanks to Mr. Holmes, superintendent of the Cordage Works, for the prompt assistance he rendered in saving the rest of the property. Mr. Holmes hurried to the fire with Babcock extinguishers, and aided by some of his men, stopped its progress. Mr. Letellier also desires to thank his neighbours for their kind services on his behalf.

A Good Opportunity.

The extra demand for office assistants in Peterborough is so pressing that the Business College finds it difficult in many cases to meet the requirements. Especially is this the case with boys from 15 to 17 years of age. During the week just ending eight applications have been received at the school, most of which have been filled. For those who cannot take advantage of the day classes at the college an excellent opportunity is offered in the Night School, for which a nominal fee is charged.

LATE ROBERT STEWART.

His Remains Were Brought to Peterborough This Morning—Interment To-day.

The remains of the late Robert Stewart, who met with a fatal accident on the C. P. R. track, near Smith Falls, were brought to Peterborough this morning, and conveyed to the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. Harry Donnelly, Bethune street. The funeral took place this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, to the Little Lake Cemetery, and was attended by a large number of townspeople, and many of the deceased's friends throughout the country.

Concerning the unfortunate accident a despatch from St. Falls says;

"Robert Stewart, a traveller for the George Matthews Company, of Ottawa, lost his life on the C. P. R. track about three miles south of here last evening. He was a well known buyer of live stock for the above-named company throughout the country, and was on his way here last night to take in stock to-day. When the seven o'clock train on which he was travelling, reached Jasper, he got off, presumably thinking it was Smith's Falls, and when he found his mistake he started to walk up the track the intervening five miles. The express going to Brockville ran him down about half way between the two places and he was instantly killed, the body being fearfully mangled."

MR. F. D. M'KAY'S RETIREMENT.

He Leaves the Journalistic Charge to Engage in Another Field of Activity.

Mr. F. D. MacKay, who for the past 15 years has been connected with the Peterborough Evening Review, has severed his connection with that paper in order to engage in a new enterprise. Mr. MacKay does not intend leaving town just at present, but his duties will necessitate his being from Peterborough the greater part of his time.

The retirement of Mr. MacKay from newspaper work here and his intended departure from Peterborough will be felt very much indeed amongst the business men of the town, and amongst the various societies with which he has been connected. It was in 1898 that he came to Peterborough as city editor of the Review, and 10 years ago he succeeded Mr. S. R. Armstrong, now Town Clerk, as editor of that journal. He has at all times displayed great energy in the discharge of his duties and during his period of editorship he has won the respect and esteem of a wide circle of friends. He is a Past Master of Corinthian Lodge, A. F. and A. M., and has been prominently identified with Oddfellowship. He has been for some years Secretary of the West Peterborough Conservative Association and in many other ways was identified with public affairs and the welfare of the community at large.

The Examiner joins with Mr. MacKay's many friends in wishing him success in his new sphere.

A PRESENTATION.

Mr. J. E. Middleton, a Monaghan Teacher, was Remembered This Week.

On Friday afternoon a number of the parents and friends gathered at the school house, No. 1, North Monaghan, and presented their teacher, Mr. J. E. Middleton, with a handsome ruby ring, accompanied by the following address:—

To Mr. J. E. Middleton:

Dear Teacher,—On the eve of your departure from our midst, we the scholars and people of this school section desire to show our appreciation of the services you have rendered us during the past four years.

As a teacher you have endeavoured by your kindness and thoroughness, as well as by example and precept, to train us for our labours in the field of life. Your interest was not confined to the school alone, but to the whole section you have ever proved a willing assistant.

It is needless to say we very much regret your departure from amongst us, but in your future calling we, one and all, wish you God speed.

As a slight token of remembrance we ask you to accept this ring, emblem of Eternity.

Our echoes roll from soul to soul
And go forever and forever.

Signed on behalf of the school,
ETHEL HATHERLY,
INA SPILSBURY,
ELLA WHITE.

The teacher, although entirely taken by surprise, found words to thank the scolars and friends for their handsome gift and expressed his warm appreciation of the many kindnesses he had received from both scholars and parents.

Mr. Middleton has given up his school to attend Royal Dental College, Toronto.

Assize Suit Settled.

The action for damages—Kindred vs. American Cereal Company— in which plaintiff brought suit to recover damages in respect of injuries received while employed in the construction of the defendants' buildings, and which was to have been tried at the coming fall assizes, was settled to-day in consideration of plaintiff receiving compensation to the extent of $500. E. B. Stone for plaintiff, Dennistoun, Peck & Stevenson for the defendants.

Life on the Rail.

Mr. R. J. Colville, who for a number of years was secretary of the Association, and who now has charge of the Railway Y.M.C.A. work in Toronto, will be the speaker at the men's meeting in the hall on Sunday at 4.15 p.m. He will speak on "Life on the Rail," which will present the very interesting work with which he is connected. While all men are invited a special invitation is extended to all who were members of the association in Mr. Colville's time. All railroad men are also especially invited.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Notes Concerning the Movements of Peterborough People and Their Visitors

Mr. W. J. Hoban left last night for Chicago, where he will spend some weeks.

Dr. Poole and Mrs. Poole have arrived home from an extended visit to the old country.

Miss M. J. Barnard, Stewart street, is spending a few days visiting with friends in Millbrook.

Miss Nellie McGivern, of Rochester, is visiting her friend, Miss Minnie Hickey, 129 Elm street.

Mrs. H. C. Conway, (Miss Edith Mason) will receive at her residence, 90 Murray street, on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons.

Mr. Chas. I. Hendricks, an old Peterborough boy is in town for a day or two as sole agent for the Kee-Lox carbon paper and ribbon, Toronto.

Mr. George Eagleson, mail clerk in the Post Office, is spending a few weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Eagleson, of Baillieboro, recuperating his health.

Mr. Jas. O'Brien is on a visit to friends in Saginaw, Bay City and other American cities. The "Deacon" says he will settle the coal strike before he returns.

The Port Hope Guide says:—The Farewell Dinner tendered at the Queen's Hotel last Thursday evening, by the young men of the town to Mr. Geo. B. Henwood, on the occasion of his leaving Port Hope for the Canadian North-West, was one of the most successful and representative send-offs ever accorded to any young man leaving town. It was felt that one who has occupied the prominent position that Mr. Henwood has in sporting, social and professional circles deserved some public recognition, on the occasion of his breaking ties dear to him and withdrawing from our midst.

IN Y. M. C. A. ASSEMBLY HALL.

A Delightful Entertainment Given Last Night by Mr. James Stubbs.

The Y.M.C.A. Assembly Hall was last evening filled to the doors, the occasion being the concert given by Mr. James Stubbs in aid of the Intermediate Department.

The programme included stereopticon views, moving pictures and illustrated songs. The views of the coronation of the King and Queen were realistic, as were those of the Canadian Northwest. The moving pictures comprised the destruction of Mount Pelee, the Battle of Mafeking, the last international yacht race, etc., all of which were clearly shown. The illustrated recitation, Jane Conquest, was particularly well given, and deserving of the applause which it received. The phonographic selection, The Holy City, accompanied by an illustration, also drew forth much applause. In fact, every number was a good one, and Mr. Stubbs is justly deserving of the many compliments he received.

The rooms of the Intermediate Department have not yet been fully fitted up, and the proceeds of last evening's concert will go towards purchasing pictures, carpets, furniture, etc., for this new and deserving department.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB.

The Annual Meeting for the Election of Officers to be Held.

A meeting for the reorganization of the Fortnightly Club will be held in the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Tuesday evening next. This most important element in the development of the intellectual, literary and aesthetic culture of our more thoughtful citizens, should be maintained. It has had an excellent educational effect in the past, but it has in this respect degenerated, or developed, as the view may obtain, into a form quite distinct from its original intention, that is a club at whose meetings essays would be read by members to be followed by discussion. Gradually the social, literary and entertainment element assumed preponderance. It is understood that at the next meeting the question of reversion to the original form and constitution of the club, will be considered.

MARRIED.

SUTHERLAND—HUESTON.—At the parsonage, Spadina Avenue, Toronto, on the evening of Thursday, Oct. 2nd, 1902, by the Rev. Dr. Zimmerman, Mr. R. J. G. Sutherland, Plumber and Steamfitter, 223 George street, Peterborough, to Miss Edith Hueston of North Monaghan.

WEDDED IN TORONTO.

Marriage of Mr. R. J. G. Sutherland and Miss Edith Heuston.

A marriage of considerable local interest took place in Toronto on Thursday, October, 2nd, when Mr. R. J. G. Sutherland, plumber and steamfitter, No. 223 George street, and eldest son of Mr. Jas. Sutherland, grocer, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Edith Heuston, daughter of the late Wm. Heuston, of North Monaghan. The occasion was quietly celebrated, the ceremony having been performed at the parsonage, Spadina avenue, Toronto, by Rev. Dr. Zimmerman. The happy couple, to whom a large circle of friends extend cordial congratulations, will take residence in Peterborough.

THE MILLBROOK FAIR.

Many From Peterborough Attended the Event—Mr. Leary's Prize Team.

The annual fall show of the East Durham and Cavan Agricultural Societies, was held in Millbrook yesterday, and proved to be quite as successful as the shows of former years. Peterborough sent a large delegation down to the event, and all came home well pleased with the quality and number of the exhibits, and the general manner in which the fair passed off.

The entry of horses was exceptionally large, and the quality of horse flesh of a particularly high class. Mr. R. H. Leary's team of chestnuts carried off the red ticket in the gentlemen's driving class, 15 1-2 hands and over. Dr. Court King's beast won first in the gentlemen's driving class of 15 1-2 hands and over.

The exhibit of cattle was not quite up to that of former years, but the total number of entries and the gate receipts excelled all previous shows in Millbrook.

ST. PETER'S T. A. S. AN OBJECT LESSON.

Its Work Attracts Father Murphy's Attention—He Suggests Holding a Great Temperance Rally of Catholics in Toronto.

The important work done by the St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society in Peterborough was sharply signalized by the demonstration attending the bringing home of the banner from the Dubuque Convention. The elaborate reports of that ceremony in the Peterborough papers have reached the Rev. Father Murphy, the "Father Matthew," of America, a well known Paulist, who will be remembered locally from the strong address on temperance delivered by him last winter in St. Peter's Cathedral. Rev. Father Murphy, it appears, has the run of the exchange list of the Catholic World, New York, the organ of the Paulist Order, and it was there that he came upon the Peterborough papers, with reports of Rev. Dr. O'Brien's banner home-coming, and was inspired to address the following letter to the Catholic Register, Toronto:—

To the Editor of the Catholic Register.—

Dear Sir, — Your paper comes as one of the exchanges to our office of The Catholic World. My attention has been called to the stand you are taking in regard to the formation of Total Abstinence Societies in Ontario. There is no reason why your suggestions should not be taken up. There are any number of priests in Ontario who have been only waiting for an object lesson in successful Total Abstinence Society work. That object lesson is now before them in St. Peter's T.A.S. of Peterborough. The Society was established less than three years ago. For some time it was looked upon as an experiment, and anxiously watched by friends and enemies. It received every kind of discouragement at the hands of the liquor dealers and their friends. But the Rev. Director, Father Frank O'Sullivan, now of Lindsay, put his whole soul into the work, determined that it must succeed. After his transfer, Rev. Father O'Brien was appointed to the direction of the Society by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, and the wisdom of the choice has been fully demonstrated in the fact that the membership increased by more than twelve hundred in one year from August, 1901, to August, 1902. Ask any man or woman from Peterborough what they think of the T.A.S. Ask any Protestant minister in the town. Ask any traveller for a commercial house doing business in that town. And from each and everyone you will receive the same answer—"It is the best thing from a moral standpoint, as well as from a business standpoint that ever struck the [illegible] recently [illegible] of the [illegible] banner by this society at the National convention at Dubuque, Iowa. That called the attention of the public to the experiment. Am I correct now in saying that the time has come when the work should be taken up in every Catholic parish in Ontario? There is nothing in the world to prevent it from being as great a success in the province as it is in the town where the experiment has been so carefully made. It is the work of Jesus Christ for the protection of the home. There are men who will stand in the way. But there must be men enough both in the priesthood and among the laity of the province to make the work a success. Why not take it up this autumn? Why not have a mass meeting in Toronto to get it going? Why not fill Massey Hall with a mighty audience of Catholics to show the people of the city that we are not behind in any good work? You can get two or three speakers from the National Organization here in the United States. And their visit will cost nothing. You can get Rev. Father O'Brien, of Peterborough, and others from your own fair city, and other parts of the province. Will you not take it up in your columns? Will you not try to get a committee of priests and laymen at work? Will you not bring home to the minds of your intelligent readers the fact that there is such a thing as an opportunity, and that it should be grasped? Talk it up among your business men. Now is the time.

Yours in Christ,

PATRICK J. MURPHY, C. S. P.

Without any specific authority beyond the record of Rev. O'Brien's zeal in the temperence cause, it may be asserted that he would be very glad of an opportunity of giving such an address in Toronto as Rev. Father Murphy suggests, and on the same authority one might say that a strong contingent from the society would be glad to go to Toronto and march behind the banner to Massey Hall to show to the people of Toronto a tangible token of the work which a zealous priest was able, with the co-operation of his flock, to accomplish.

BAILLIEBORO.

The annual anniversary and tea in connection with Christ's Church of this place, was held on Sunday and Tuesday evening of last week, and was a decided success. The sermon on Sunday morning was preached by Rev. Mr. Teney of Omemee, and in the evening by Rev. Archdeacon Allen of Millbrook, who surpassed even himself in a splendid sermon, taken from the 116th Psalm. The tea on Tuesday evening was a decided success, considering the very wet evening. The programme was lengthy and varied. Special mention may be made of the decided hit Mr. Halpany of Peterborough, made in his songs, etc. The chair was occupied by Rev. Mr. Mr. Allen in his usual efficient style. The programme was as follows:

TO RE-ORGANIZE THE CENTRAL.

A Representative Meeting Held Last Night.

THE LINE OF ACTION TAKEN.

A Committee Appointed to Prepare a Prospectus in Order That a Joint Stock Company be Formed—Some Resolutions.

An important meeting was held in the Town Council Chamber last night and was attended by many of the representative business men of the town, the object of the meeting being to determine what action should be taken towards placing the Central Exhibition on a more attractive basis. In the discussion which followed many suggestions were made as to the manner in which the Association might be re-organized and after the deliberation it was decided to appoint a committee of four who will be entrusted with framing a prospectus and proceed with the work of re-organization.

Amongst those in attendance were Mayor Denne, T. E. Bradburn, Harry Neill, H. LeBrun, M. Connors, W. G. Howden, F. H. Dobbin, F. W. Miller, A. Rountree, Geo. E. Elliott, M. Tooley, J. J. Turner, B. Sutcliffe, R. M. Roy, C. N. Brown, R. H. Kells, W. E. Conway, James O'Shea, T. Barrie, J. R. Goodfellow, R. H. Leary, Wm. Collins, Macfarlane Wilson, Angus McIntosh, W. J. Green, T. A. S. Hay, H. C. Garbutt, Jas. Brooks, A. Dunn and many others.

Mayor Denne upon motion took the chair, and in explaning the objects of the meeting, said that it was contained in the following circular which was issued:

"It is proposed to form an organization composed of business men and merchants of the town, and farmers of the county, with the object of carrying on in the town an annual fair, to be called the Peterborough Industrial.

It is important that it be fully known to what extent the business men and merchants of the town are prepared to support the work of such an organization, and a meeting with this object in view, will be held in the Council Chamber, on Friday evening, October 3rd, at eight o'clock.

You are urged to attend. The matter is sufficiently important that it should be given preference over other engagements. A proposition will be laid before the meeting covering the objects as above, and it would be well if you were present to hear the discussion, and take part in the organization."

In addition to this the Mayor said that although he knew little of how a fair should be conducted he had consented to allow his name to be signed to the circular. He spoke of the advantages of the town and hoped that in another year that the street railway would be in operation.

Regrets in being unable to attend had been received from A'd. Morrison, Regt. Fair and J. Hughes-Charles, who wrote stating that he felt sure that by hearty co-operation of the citizens and the farmers of the county the fair could be made a success.

F. H. Dobbin, President of the West Peterborough Agricultural Society, reviewed the history of the Association as to its success and failure in the past. Some considered that the weather had been the main cause of failure in years past while again it was thought that the Toronto Industrial took away the interest that otherwise might be in the local show. To overcome the latter influence the management had gone into the matter of special attractions, but with great precaution as they were looking toward success. The Society had spent $4,000 in the erection and repairing of buildings and fences and the liabilities of the Association were at present in the neighbourhood of eleven or twelve hundred dollars. The question was now, what is to be done? It had been suggested that an association be formed for the purpose of carrying on the fair and in view of this fact the following articles in the way of a proposition had been prepared to be submitted to the meeting:—

THE PROPOSALS.

1—It is desirable that an Association of business men, merchants, farmers and others be formed with the object of carrying on in the Town of Peterborough, as a convenient central point, an Annual Fair.

2—That this Association be known as the Peterborough Industrial Fair Association.

3—That funds to carry on the objects of the Association be derived from the sale of stock.

4—That the capital stock of the Association be fixed at the sum of $20,000, divided into 800 shares of $25.00 each.

5—That calls on the said shares of stock be paid in, subject to arrangements made by the Board of Directors, from time to time, as deemed advisable or necessary.

6—That a first call be made as soon as possible after organization, sufficient in amount to acquire the buildings of the Central Fair, and to provide a fund for expenses connected with the fair to be next held.

7—That a President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer and a Board of Directors be elected from among the qualified members of the Association.

8—That all individuals subscribing to and acquiring stock in the Association be eligible to office.

9—That a membership in the Association, carrying with it the right to exhibit at the Fair, be had on the payment of a stated fee.

10—That the Association lease suitable grounds for the objects in view, and that a committee of the Directors be appointed, with power to deal with this matter in due form as instructed.

11—That a committee be appointed, whose duty it shall be to solicit subscriptions to the capital stock of the Association, perfect the details of organization, and act in conjunction with the Officers and Directors.

12—That a form of Constitutions and By-laws be prepared, to be submitted at a future meeting for adoption.

Mr. Dobbin, in addition, pointed out that an important consideration in connection with the old fair, was the paying off of the old indebtedness.

MR. ELLIOTT'S VIEWS.

Mr. George E. Elliott, who for many years has been connected with the Peterborough Agricultural Society, in expressing his views on the matter, said that he was sorry that the fair had not been a success of late years. He pointed out as an object lesson of what might be accomplished the fact that as a result of a fair held in Peterborough some years ago, quite a number of [illegible] had settled in this neighbourhood. Mr. Elliott contended that with the united action of the country people and the town people, the fair could be made a success. At one show there was between fourteen and fifteen hundred dollars taken in at the gate, and that $400 had been given for races alone. Of this amount the hotel keepers had subscribed $200. The sale of tickets in the year he had reference to amounted to $200, outside of those sold by the secretary. They had the town grant of $400 and the Government grant of $400, while the sale of grand stand tickets amounted to $100, making a grand total of receipts of $2,700. The outlay was only $2,300, leaving a good balance on hand.

ALD. TURNER.

Alderman J. J. Turner expressed his disappointment, too, at the failure of the exhibition; he was sorry that more support had not been given the exhibition by the people of the town. He favoured the formation of a joint stock company and he was confident that the money would be subscribed in sufficient amounts to make the fair a success.

Mr. H. LeBrun also favoured the proposition as read by Mr. Dobbin, and would do everything he could to support the sceme. He thought that subscriptions for stock could be obtained if a competent promoter were appointed.

Mr. R. H. Leary traced the history of the association back for some years and held that there should be more attention paid to speeding in the ring than was heretofore given. He was in favour of Mr. Dobbin's suggestion, and thought that the driving park grounds should be enlarged so as to permit of the show and the speeding in the ring events being held in the one field.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn wanted to know what the business men of the town were prepared to do?

Mr. Barrie, Mr. MacF. Wilson and Mr. W. G. Howden and Mr. M. Connors, expressed their views, favouring a joint stock company.

Mr. Arthur Rountree was asked to express his views on the matter, and in doing so suggested that some union be effected between the Turf Club and the Agricultural Society. The members of the Turf Club would individually take stock in the new company, and would be willing to run the races in connection with the fair. There is plenty of room in the centre of the ring to carry on the remainder of the exhibition.

Mr. Elliott considered that it was better to put the stock at $10 a share than at $25, as had been proposed. He understood that the racing association was making the stock only $10 a share.

MR. COLLINS.

Mr. Wm. Collins, who for many years has been Secretary of the Peterborough Farmers' Institute, was called upon to give his opinion. He had nothing to say against the organization of a joint stock company if it could be worked in such a manner as to receive the Government grant. He went on to explain the provisions of the Agricultural and Arts Act whereby Agricultural Societies receive each year a grant, and they must retain the name and machinery of the old Agricultural Association if they are going to continue receiving this amount. He thought the matter might be arranged in some manner. There would have to be a regular fee to members and in addition under the joint stock company co-operation scheme they would have to have stockholders besides. There would, in fact be two classes of members. In this connection he recited the case of the East Durham and Cavan Agricultural Societies, which held their shows jointly and were two separate organizations merely for the purpose of securing the Government grant. He also favoured the idea of calling a meeting on a Saturday afternoon in order that the farmers might be able to attend.

Mr. Dobbin—Mr. Collins is quite right. We would require to have two classes of members—stockholders and ordinary members, one class would rate on the affairs of the stock company and the others on the affairs of the Agricultural Society. It would be a secondary matter to make money out of the association for the benefit of the stockholders—a merchant would have to be contented with what it brings in the shape of trade to town. Once we could secure a membership of 500 we would be all right. We must have the farmers interested. The farmers say it is the citizens of the town who should run the show, whilst the citizens say it should be the other way, so there the matter stands.

Mr. Elliott felt that a stock book opened at $10 a share would be readily subscribed, and that in the course of 10 years this amount could be paid back to the subscribers. As to the grounds, there were 17 acres in the Driving Park, and this is sufficient for all purposes. The buildings could all be moved for $500. The important question now is to raise sufficient money with which to purchase the grounds. Mr. Elliott pointed out that in '85 the Association owed $4,500, but had paid off the amount, and why could it not be done again?

Mayor Denne suggested that a committee be appointed to deal with the entire matter, and report at another meeting of the farmers and citizens.

Mr. Dobbin felt that a committee of nine would be large enough. They could start out with subscription lists and the backbone of the matter would then be broken.

Mr. Barrie urged the meeting to hand the management of the exhibition over to the Turf Club. Then they could all subscribe for stock.

Mr. Rountree explained that the Turf Club was composed exclusively of license holders.

Mr. George W. Bennett told of the success of Owen Sound's Fair, and the features that tended to make it such an unqualified success. He considered that outside of Toronto there were really only two fairs in Ontario. These were London and Ottawa. Peterborough should have just as good a show as either of these towns. We should have horse races, but horse races were not everything; we must look at the matter from a farmer's standpoint, and from an industrial stand point as well. We should not either compare Millbrook's fair with that of Peterborough. If the Millbrook show were set up in Peterborough it would draw no larger attendances than the Central Exhibition has in the past. The manner in which the Owen Sound Fair is conducted might serve as a model for Peterborough. It is a joint stock company yet arranged in such a manner that they may draw the Government grant. It is an industrial fair, and all the merchants are given space in the buildings, which they readily use. His idea of a joint stock company was that they should engage a competent manager, and have a good sound class of business men on the board of directors. Comparing the attendance at the Turf Club's meet with the attendance at the fair, Mr. Bennett claimed that the exhibition drew much the larger crowd, and the Turf Club was, in addition, [illegible] private subscriptions, others [illegible] have been able to give such prizes. He concluded by moving a resolution favouring the establishment of a new association, the name of which could be settled later on.

The motion was seconded by Ald. Turner and carried.

Mr. Jas. Brooks favoured the advisability of having a committee appointed, which might be able to prepare a prospectus, and the same could be submitted to another meeting of the citizens.

Mr. Michael Tooley brought matters to a climax by moving that the President of the Agricultural Society, Mr. Dobbin, the President of the Peterborough Turf Club, Mr. Brooks, the President of the Farmers' Institute, Mr. E. M. Elliott, and Mr. Dumble, President of the Board of Trade, be a committee to strike a larger committee consisting of five members from the above named bodies, to obtain all possible information regarding the formation of a joint stock company and to report to a meeting to be held at an early date.

Mr. Bennett supported Mr. Tooley's motion, which was seconded by Mr. Leary.

Informal discussion followed, in which it was understood that the committee will have full power to draw up a prospectus and proceed with the sale of stock, if deemed advisable.

Upon motion of Mr. Turner it was decided to make the stock ten dollars a share. Stock books will, it is understood, be procured at once, and an effort made to boom the new venture.

Mr. Dobbin was anxious to test the feeling of the meeting, and asked all those who were willing to take stock in the scheme to hold up their hands. Every man in the room raised his hand, amid much enthusiasm.

The meeting then adjourned.

AS TO ADVERTISING.

Leslie's Weekly points out that the failure of the American Bicycle Trust, is an illustration of the fact that it is a poor policy to stint advertising. It says that when there were many companies, and the papers were full of their advertising, they prospered; but when they combined and concluding that there being no competition people must buy, "economised" by cutting down their advertising to almost nothing, sales soon fell off, and now the Trust is bankrupt.

Col. Pope, president of the Columbia Company, although not in the active management of the Trust, protested against cutting out the advertising account, but he was over-ruled. He prophesied that once they discontinued advertising largely, interest in the sport would flag and sales would drop, and now amid the ruins of the business he has the satisfaction of saying, "I told you so."

In the matter of the estate of John S. Milne, late of the Town of Peterborough, Painter, deceased.

Notice is hereby given pursuant to "The Revised Statutes of Ontario," 1897, chapter 129, that all creditors and others having claims against the estate of the said John S. Milne, who died on or about the 1st day of August, 1902, are required, on or before the 15th day of October, 1902, to send, post prepaid, or deliver, to Roland F. McWilliams, of the said Town of Peterborough, Solicitor for the Executor of the estate of the said deceased, their Christian and surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims, the statement of their accounts, and the nature of the securities, if any, held by them.

And further take notice, that after such last mentioned date the said Executor will proceed to distribute the assets of the deceased among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which he shall then have notice, and that the said Executor will not be liable for the said assets or any part thereof to any person or persons of whose claim notice shall not have been received by him at the time of such distribution.

Dated the 17th of September, 1902.

R. F. McWILLIAMS, Solicitor for the Executor.

MR. TARTE AT OSHAWA

Visits the Town's Industries and Lays a Corner-Stone.

BUSY DAY IN THRIVING TOWN

The Breakwater—Mr. Tarte Re-affirms His Position on the Tariff—The Evening Meeting—Freedom of the Town Presented to the Minister—Speech by Hon. John Dryden—The Banquet.

Oshawa, Oct. 3. — Two important facts were impressed upon Hon. J. I. Tarte, Minister of Public Works, upon the occasion of his visit here yesterday. The first was that Oshawa as a manufacturing centre is thriving in the most satisfactory manner, so much so that the problem of housing the steadily increasing population attracted by the remunerative employment offering is a difficult one to solve. The second one was the need of a breakwater to make available in all weather the fine wharf which the Dominion Government has recently reconstructed.

Visiting the Industries.

Upon his arrival by the G.T.R. afternoon train the Minister was met by a deputation of the leading citizens, headed by Mayor F. L. Fowke and Mr. E. S. Edmondson, President of the Board of Trade. He was first taken by electric car to the harbor, in order that he might make a personal study of the situation and the nature of the work which the Government has been requested to undertake. A round of the leading industries was then made, and at the McLaughlin Carriage Works, Mr. Tarte laid the corner-stone of a new solid brick addition to their large establishment.

The Public Meeting.

In the evening a public meeting was held in the Opera House. Mayor Fowke presided, and upon the platform were: Hon. Mr. Tarte, Hon. John Dryden, Mr. Charles Marcil, M. P., Mr. Wm. Ross, M. P., and a number of leading citizens.

Mr. Wm. Ross, M. P., who represents the constituency, was the first speaker, and extended a cordial welcome to Mr. Tarte. Mr. Charles Marcil, M.P., Bonaventure, followed, after which the freedom of the town was presented to Mr. Tarte in an address from the Town Council. Mr. Tarte briefly replied, reiterating his surprise at the magnitude of Oshawa's industries, the importance of which had, he said, frequently been impressed upon him by Mr. Ross, M.P.

Hon. John Dryden expressed the pleasure it afforded him to be permitted to join the citizens of Oshawa in doing honor to Mr. Tarte. Mr. Dryden said that although he had in the past declared himself a free trader, he was able to subscribe to all that Mr. Tarte had said in favor of a policy of Canada for the Canadians.

Last evening Mr. Tarte was the guest at a banquet at the Oshawa House. In response to the toast of "Our Guest," he spoke for upwards of an hour upon the transportation and tariff questions.

FROM NEWFOUNDLAND.

The Island by the Sea Sends Grateful Testimony for Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

No medicine for stomach trouble has ever been favoured with so many hearty and voluntary letters of recommendation as Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

These unsolicited testimonies come from the people in all walks of life and in all parts of the world.

No evidence which might be offered could be more satisfactory and convincing. Men and women who have been sick and suffering for years have been cured and restored to perfect good health, and in their gratitude write such hearty words as Mrs. John F. Stillars, of Western Bay, Newfoundland, who says;

"It gives me great pleasure to be able to say that I have been cured of Dyspepsia by the use of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"For several years I suffered. I could not eat anything without intense agony afterwards.

"I had tried everything that I could think of but could get nothing to help me, and had given myself up to die before I began the use of this remedy.

"Doctors had failed to do anything for me, and there did not seem to be any help or relief.

"An advertisement in some paper drew my attention to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and I began to use them about eighteen months ago.

"From the first I felt relief, and now, after the use of five boxes, I am well and strong and a new woman.

"To say that I am grateful, only feebly expresses what I feel.

"I will always recommend Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets as a cure for Dyspepsia."

Such letters as the above have been the means of convincing many doubtful ones that there is a sure cure for Dyspepsia and all forms of Stomach Trouble. Those who are now suffering should be guided by the happy experience of Mrs. Sillars.

An Enviable Position.

Biggs—I met a man yesterday who makes his living by buying millinery.

Boggs—Well, what of it?

Biggs—Oh, nothing; only I've been buying millinery ever since I was married, and I never made any money by it.

Not Dissuaded by Compliments.

Husband—Your hair is your crowning glory, my dear.

Wife—That's all right, but I've got to have a new bonnet just the same.

A New Suit in Prospect.

"And didn't the company give you any redress?"

Eczema Easily Cured.

Merrill's System Tonic has cured many cases of blood and skin diseases such as eczema, scrofula, pimples and syphilitic sores, than all other remedies combined. Besides being a most powerful blood purifier, it is an excellent tonic and cures by assisting nature to throw off the disease. A fifty cent bottle lasts three weeks. Sold at Ormond and Walsh's.

WASTING AWAY.

The Sad Condition of Many Young Girls.

Mothers Should be Very Careful When Their Daughters Complain of Headache, Pickle Appetite, Dizziness or Heart Palpitation.

Many mothers neglect the health of their growing daughters. Not wilfully, of course, but because they think the occasional headaches from which they suffer, fickleness of appetite, and pale cheeks, are the natural result of the merging of girlhood into womanhood. This is a serious mistake. There is no period in a girl's life when she needs more attention, and unless the little troubles are successfully treated, more serious ones—perhaps decline and consumption—are sure to follow. What every young girl needs at this period is a tonic medicine that will give her a rich, red blood, strong nerves, and bring her safely through a critical period in her life. For this purpose there is no other medicine in the world can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Thousands of girls throughout Canada owe their present health and happiness to this medicine, and thousands of others who are suffering would soon be strong if they would give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial. Among the many young ladies who have proved the great worth of this medicine is Miss Jennie Beamer, of Boyle, Ont. Miss Beamer says:—"Some years ago I became very ill, and my friends feared I was going into a decline. I was pale; suffered from terrible headaches; my appetite was poor, and I grew very thin. I became so weak that I could hardly walk. I remained in this condition for several months, during which time I tried several medicines, but none helped me in the least. Then my mother got me some of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and almost from the outset they helped me. As I continued the use of the pills, the severe headaches left me; my appetite returned and I gained in weight. In fact, I was soon enjoying perfect health, and have since continued to do so. I attribute this entirely to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and will be glad if some other weak and ailing girl will profit by my experience."

Pale and sallow cheeks, dizziness, headaches, palpitation of the heart, and the feeling of weariness that afflicts so many young girls will soon disappear if Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are used. These pills also cure rheumatism, dyspepsia, kidney ailments, St. Vitus' dance, and the other troubles that come from poor blood and weak nerves. Sold by all dealers in medicine or sent post paid, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TAPS FROM THE WIRES.

The Duchess of Manchester gave birth to a son Thursday morning at Tandaragee Castle, County Armagh, Ireland.

According to The St. James Gazette, a Cardiff firm Thursday booked a single United States order for 15,000 tons of steam coal.

Judge Brooks Thursday sentenced ex-Superintendent of Police Frederick W. Ames of Minneapolis, to six years and a half in the penitentiary for accepting a bribe.

Gas been struck on the farm of Thomas Thompson, about one mile south of Waterford. They have been drilling about two months, and had gone down about 930 feet.

The attendance at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, at the opening of the fall session is: First year, 93; second year, 73; third year, 26; fourth year, 17; total, 209.

There were 254 fresh cases of cholera reported in Egypt Wednesday and 241 deaths from that disease. The total since the outbreak, July 15, are 36,658 cases, and 30,988 deaths.

Snow fell Thursday at Hanover, Hildesheim Wernigerode, and in the Harz Mountains, accompanied by heavy windstorms. The temperature at Hanover fell to 28 degrees fahrenheit.

The Dominion Government has come to the conclusion that the binder twine industry at the Kingston Penitentiary is not a paying investment, and, as a result, it has been abolished.

The Camden, N. J., city reservoir near the Deleware River, broke Thursday morning, and about 8,000,000 gallons of water escaped and flowed down 27th street, flooding the cellars of many houses. It will cost the city $25,000,000 to repair the damage.

One Year's Issue.

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—The revised figures of the immigration returns show that during the year ending June 30 last, the total arrivals was 67,230, as against 49,149 last year, an increase of 18,081. The arrivals for the last two months were 15,865, an increase of 7,142 over the same time last year. Immigrants from Great Britain for this two months were 3,329.

Hamilton's Pills cure Constipation.

Very Simple.

A rather simple looking lad halted before a blacksmith's shop on his way home from school and eyed the doings of the proprietor with much interest.

The brawny smith, dissatisfied with the boy's curiosity, held a piece of red-hot iron suddenly under the youngster's nose, hoping to make him beat a hasty retreat.

"If you'll give me half a dollar, I'll lick it," said the lad.

The smith took from his pocket half a dollar and held it out.

The simple looking youngster took the coin, licked it and slowly walked away whistling.

MR. FIFE'S APPOINTMENT.

Former Scale Manufacturer Appointed Inspector Weights and Measures.

Ottawa, Oct. 3.—At a meeting of the Cabinet yesterday morning Mr. James Fife was appointed chief inspector of weights and measures. The position is a new one and carries with it a salary of $2,500. Mr. Fife will have an office in the Inland Revenue Department here, and will pay visits of inspection from time to time to Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and other centres. Mr. Fife was formerly a scale manufacturer, and was strongly recommended for his present position by the trade in Montreal.

Will Reduce Britain's Taxes.

London, Oct. 3.—The newspapers yesterday congratulate Charles Thomson Ritchie, Chancellor of the Exchequer, upon the prospect of a reduction of taxation in 1903. Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, the former Chancellor, in his last budget estimated that the revenue for the current year would show an increase of $45,000,000. A treasury statement just issued shows that the revenue for the first half of the year has given an increase of $36,500,000.

Newfoundland Prospers.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 3.—The revenue of the colony for the quarter ended Sept. 30, reaches a total of $550,000, which is $20,000 more than the revenue for the corresponding quarter of last year. The revenue for this quarter of 1901 was the highest ever collected during any three months in the colony's fiscal history. The prosperity of Newfoundland is now greater than ever and all branches of business are booming.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Softening the Blow.

The cashier of a certain firm had absconded, and the staff of clerks were deciding on a fit and proper person to acquaint the head of the firm of the fact on his arrival.

Ultimately the matter was left in the hands of the head clerk, possibly because none of the others cared to undertake the responsibility.

There had been a dogfight in the street, and a small crowd was just dispersing as the chief's carriage dashed up.

"What's that crowd after, Jorkins?" demanded the head of the firm.

The chief clerk thought he recognized a chance of breaking the news gently and seized it.

"The vacancy, sir," he replied.

"Vacancy? What vacancy?"

"Cashier, sir."

"But we want no cashier, Jorkins."

"Beg pardon, sir; but we've a vacancy for one!"

"Jorkins, are you mad?"

"No, sir. That is, sir, I don't know, sir. Fact is, sir—all the cash is gone and—and"—

"Well?"

"The cashier's gone with it, sir."

From the way the old man took it the clerk thought he might just as well have blurted it out at the start.

Foiled by Humidity.

Noiselessly, but with all his might, the burglar tugged at the bureau drawer.

In vain.

It refused to open.

He tugged again.

"Give it another jerk," said a voice behind him.

The burglar turned.

The owner of the house was sitting up in bed and looking at him with an expression of the deepest interest on his face.

"Jerk it again. There's a lot of valuable property in that drawer, but we haven't been able to open it since the damp weather began. If you can pull it out, I'll give you a handsome royalty on everything that's"—

But the burglar had jumped out through the window, taking a part of the sash with him.

Regarded in Different Ways.

That one can obtain more favors by "jollying" than by being brusque is just as true as "one can catch more flies with molasses than with vinegar."

Two young men have lived in a boarding house in West Twenty-third street for some time, and one has the reputation of being a "jollier," while the other is quick spoken and of a bearish disposition. The young men are friends and usually breakfast together. Their respective standings in the estimation of the dining room maid may be judged from the way in which that damsel shouted their order—both had requested steaks—down the dumb waiter shaft recently:

"A nice beefsteak, a trifle rare, for Mr. Wood; some meat for Baldwin."

WHY NOT CHANGE YOUR MEDICINE?

If You Have Failed up to the Present Banish Rheumatism and Sciatica Try

Paine's Celery Compound

There is but one true and reliable specific for the cure of all forms of rheumatism; it is Paine's Celery Compound. This decided and weighty assertion is fully supported by letters from thousands of cured men and women, and prominent physicians have ably and fearlessly supported the statement.

If your efforts up to the present with other medicines have failed to drive the terrible disease from your system, remain no longer in agony and peril; change your medicine at once. Prudence and wisdom will surely direct you to use Paine's Celery Compound, the medicine that has cured so many of your friends and neighbours.

The prompt and marvellous cure of Mrs. E. King, Cedar Hill, Victoria, B.C., who endured the tortures and agonies of rheumatism for almost a lifetime, points unmistakeably and truly to the fact that Paine's Celery Compound is the king of medicines for the cure of rheumatism. She says:

"I have been troubled with Rheumatism nearly all my life, and about eight years ago I had a very severe attack, almost losing the use of my right arm. A friend recommended the use of Paine's Celery Compound, and kindly gave me a bottle. I was so much benefitted by that one bottle that I took three more and was quite cured. Since then it has been my only medicine for all the ailments from which I have suffered and all my family have found some benefit from it. I am sixty-five years of age; I live on a farm, get up early in the morning, and am now equal to a good day's work.

The Disyllable Sect.

The difficulty of rhyming to "girl" is mainly due to the varieties of its pronunciation. It is never pronounced, as it is so often conventionally written, "gall," but one often hears "gell," with a hard "g." Moreover, in Scotland, though it is as well not to mention the fact to a Scotsman, it consists of two syllables—"gurrel." The other day it was pointed out to a Scotsman that the name of his national poet was a dissyllable in Ayrshire. "Hoot awa'!" he said, or words to that effect. "Burruns two syllables! Absurrd!"

A Curious Custom.

In some parts of Brittany a curious marriage custom prevails. On certain fete days the marriageable girls appear in red petticoats, with white or yellow borders round them. The number of borders denote the portion the father is willing to give his daughter. Each white band denotes $20 per annum; each yellow band represents $200 a year.

Reciprocity.

Suburbanite—Well, you have told my fortune. How much?

Gypsy—Only 50 cents.

Suburbanite—Here it is. Now I'll tell your fortune for nothing. If any of my chickens are missing tomorrow morning, I'll have your entire gang run in.

Soothed to Slumber.

"What de reason Br'er Williams shet his eye w'en de collection basket gwine roun'?"

"He say de singin' do him so much good dat he 'bleege ter fall asleep en dream er heaven!"

Could not Walk Or Lie Down.

Sleepless Nights of Dreadful Agony With Piles—Doctor Wanted to Burn Them With a Hot Iron.

Has Been Cured Permanently and Names One Hundred Dollars a Box as the Value of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. Alex. McLean, Tarbot Vale, N. S., writes: "For two years I worked as sectionman on the Dominion Coal Company's Railroad between Sydney and Glace Bay, N.S., and during that time was exposed to all sorts of weather. Gradually my health failed and I became a victim of protruding piles. At first I did not know what my ailment was, but consulted a doctor, and, though he treated me for piles, they only grew worse.

"I was forced to give up work and return to my home. My suffering could scarcely be described. I could not walk or sit or lie down, but while the rest of the family was sleeping I would be groaning and aching from the excruciating pains.

"Again I decided to consult a doctor. This one stripped me and said the piles would have to be burned with a red hot iron. I shivered at the thought of burning the flesh and told him I could not think of undergoing such an operation, so he gave me some salve, for which he charged me two dollars, but it did not do me any good.

"I was in a desperate condition and had about given up hope of ever being freed from this dreadful suffering when a friend told me about Dr. Chase's Ointment. He said he had seen so many cases that it had cured that he would pay for it himself if it failed to cure.

"My experience with Dr. Chase's Ointment is that the first application did me more good than did the two doctors, and it has made me as well and as free from piles as any man. Since being cured I worked during the winter in the lumber woods and experienced no return of my old trouble. I am not putting it too strong when I say that Dr. Chase's Ointment was worth one hundred dollars a box to me. You are free to use my testimonial for the benefit of others, as I feel it my duty to make known this great ointment."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 12

BRITISH POSTOFFICE.

Some Very Interesting Things Found in the Blue Book Just Issued by the Postmaster-General.

The British postal system is a great piece of mechanism that works like clockwork. With all its faults it carries on its work in a satisfactory manner, and the service is improved as each well-founded growl of the public finds its way into the newspapers, or to the Postmaster-General at St. Martin's Le Grand.

The annual report is a readable compendium of the blue book variety, but entertaining to an extent that is not characteristic of other Government publications. It is a pamphlet of 88 pages, less than a quarter of the number to be found in a Canadian report, but then it does not give so much detail as does the Ottawa issue.

The British postoffice carried in 1901 3,919,000,000 postal packets, including letters, post cards, books, circulars, newspapers ,and parcels. The letters have increased six per cent., or at a higher rate than for many years, excluding the two years after the Jubilee reduction of postage. The increase in postal cards was due to pictorial cards, and of the whole number of postal cards sixty-five per cent. were private cards.

The express delivery service is phenomenal. In London alone 963,038 articles were delivered by express messengers, and the special messenger service has increased eighteen per cent. 2,500 messengers were called by 'phone to houses of subscribers in London to perform express service, while in 2,150 cases a letter was dictated by 'phone to be sent by special messenger. The express delivery is akin to our special delivery stamp system.

The number of undelivered postal packets, which includes 10,183,866 letters, were 24,421,976. Nine million letters were re-directed and returned to the senders. About 600,000 letters from abroad were returned as undelivered. Book packets to the number of 11,523,272 were undelivered, but many were returned, and now it is common to mark packets prepaid one half-penny for return to the senders if undelivered. The registered letters rose in number sixty per cent., due largely to the use of the post for trade in cheap jewellery.

In dead letters £18,231 in cash and bank notes and £650,298 in bills, cheques, money orders, postal orders and stamps were found. Three thousand seven hundred and eighty-two letters were posted without address, but with £179 in cash and £8,434 in cheques. There were found loose in the post 85,640 articles, including £1,000 in coin, and cheques to the value of £6,000. A half sovereign, which had evidently been used to seal a parcel was found to be still adhering to the wax on the arrival of the parcel in London.

The color of the penny stamp has been changed from purple to red, and the color of the sixpenny stamp from red to purple, and the twopence halfpenny stamp is now printed in blue on white paper, instead of in purple on blue paper.

The registered letter envelopes stamp, or medallion, is now in value threepence to cover the registration fee of twopence and the penny postage, instead of the old medallion, which covered the registration only.

An estimate of the weight of letters and post cards and other articles exchanged by the United Kingdom with British Colonies show that to Canada and Newfoundland there were 81,000 letters and post cards; 1,000,000 circulars and newspapers were despatched, and that 90,000 letters and post cards, and 440,000 circulars and newspapers were sent to the United Kingdom. Australia had a very much larger quantity. A statement of the number of foreign and colonial parcels despatched and received during the years ending 31st March, 1901, and 31st March, 1902, shows that there were despatched to Canada 66,105 in 1900-01, and 75,221 in 1901-2, an increase of 9,116; while there were received in the United Kingdom from Canada in 1900-01 29,282, and in 1901-02 34,860, an increase of 5,578. The totals despatched and received show 95,387 in 1900 and 110,081 in 1901-2, an increase of 14,694. The increase in the total list shows Canada as above at 14,694, Cape Colony 87,676, New South Wales 188, New Zealand 5,012, South Australia 236, West Australia 69. The increase in Cape Colony was on account of the war, and will now fall far below the Canadian figures.

To show how the postoffice watch mail connections, an abstract of contracts or agreements for the conveyance of mails is very interesting. For instance in the steam service between Holy Head and Kingston, twice a day with four steamers paid £100,000 or $500,000 up to March, 1917, and £80,000 or $400,000 after that date. A deduction is made for overtime of £1 14s. or $8.30 per minute. If on any occasion a vessel is not ready the penalty is £100 and £10 per hour for every hour beyond the stipulated time before the vessel starts. The contract time is three hours and thirty-seven minutes for 60 miles.

The Canadian Pacific Railway receives £60,000 or $240,000 a year for a five-year monthly service between Halifax or Quebec and China and Japan, via Vancouver. The contract commenced on April 7, 1901, and will terminate on April 6, 1906. The penalty for delay is £100 for every twelve hours. The amount received on this contract "by contributions" is "Canada £14,925 and the Admiralty £7,312," a total of £22,237. The amount received by sea postage for mails despatched by colonies and foreign countries was £2,763 and the cost borne in respect of mails despatched from the United Kingdom £34,700.

MR. SEDDON.

Energetic Premier of New Zealand Well Thought of at Home.

Mr. Seddon, Premier of New Zealand, appears to hold a most enviable place in the hearts of his countrymen. A small New Zealander, asked to write an essay on "The Peace," produced the following:—"The Boers fought against England and Mr. Seddon sent the army to Africa and fought them. Bye-and-bye everyone thought it time to stop but the Boers wouldn't. So Mr. Seddon went to South Africa and told the Boers he would send another army if they would not make peace, and they did, provided he would be their Governor, and he promised he would be."

Possibly the lad's ignorance of what Mr. Seddon actually did while in South Africa last spring may be due to the fact that the very scant reports of his speeches reached his own country. When the energetic New Zealand Premier was in Johannesburg he was entertained by the members of the Stock Exchange and made a speech that in the first instance filled a column and a quarter of The Johannesburg Star. The paper had gone to press, a few hundred copies had been printed when the censor appeared on the scene. He seized all the printed copies and ordered the speech to be taken out until he had time to go through it carefully. As this would have involved too much delay in publication, the editor decided to obliterate the whole of the speech. The copies that have reached New Zealand show a blank column and a quarter, save for a few smudges caused by chiselling. Mr. Seddon's chief offence seems to have been the incorporation of a confidential telegram from Lord Kitchener in his stirring speech.

Anecdotes of Carlyle.

James D. Hague records these recollections of a visit to Thomas Carlyle in company with Prof. Tyndall and Rear-Admiral Raymond Rodgers:

The talk touched mainly upon topics of the day. I remember that there was some discussion concerning the revised version of the Scriptures, in which work a commission of eminent scholars and theologians was at that time engaged. Carlyle seemed to regard the undertaking with but little favor. He thought it useless, and said he believed the old familiar version would retain its place with the common people. Little good was to be hoped for from the new. "One thing is certain," he said; "every man who helped make the old version believed that unless he did his whole duty he would be eternally damned, while not a single one of the new lot believes anything of the sort."

Early in the conversation Carlyle, apparently interested in the personality of his visitors, turned to me with an inquiry touching my vocation and career. I told him I was a practical geologist, especially concerned in mining pursuits.

"What do you mine for?" he asked.

"Gold and silver," I replied.

"Gold!" he exclaimed. "You mine for gold! That's a good-for-nothing pursuit. The biggest gold nugget ever found was never half so useful to the world as one good mealy potato."

I sought to defend my position by saying that many a good mealy potato and many other things of equal value had since grown in California and elsewhere, which never would have grown at all if the way had not been opened by those who went there first to seek for gold. This did not seem to change his mind; but when we came away, he went with us to the door, asking after several friends in America, and sending personal greetings; and at last, turning to me and placing his hand on my shoulder, he said, as nearly as I can now recall his words: "Young man, don't let anything I have said to you to-night change your mind, about your work. Do your work industriously and stick to it faithfully, and all will be well in the end."

Sport.

"Automobiling is not likely to endure as a sport."

"No; people are already so shy that it's more a matter of luck than skill when anybody is run down."—Life.

FRUITS AND FLOWERS.

In planting the orchard care should be taken to allow each tree plenty of room.

A layer of charcoal in the bottom of a flower bed is very beneficial in keeping the soil fresh.

In plowing in the orchard always turn the furrow toward the tree, and be careful not to injure the fine, fibrous roots.

The life of an apple tree is often shortened because it grows in a poor, exhausted soil or one not properly drained.

When ill or ailing, handle the flowers little or wear gloves. Delicate plants are sensitive to human magnetism, good or bad.

The roots of the strawberry often reach out five feet from the main stem; hence the plants should not be set too thickly.

An apple or cherry tree is much more valuable if it shoots out low. Trim from the top, as this will cause the lower branches to grow out.

Land that has been too rough for plowing may yet be sufficiently fertile to grow fruit trees and is better than land that has been exhausted by cropping.

Too Gorgeous Books.

The author of "Elizabeth and Her German Garden," writing on the "Giving of Books" in the Century, says:

Gifts of books addressed solely to the spirit should never be editions de luxe. Of what use is a book to me, however much I may want to read it, if it is so gorgeous that it must not be taken anywhere where rain might fall on it, or where it might get muddy, or where a heedless gnat, caught by the quick turning of a leaf, might leave its legs in the pages, angering the owner of the defiled book, who does not want its legs, almost as much as it is itself angered by having to go on being a gnat without them? I can no more take an overgorgeous book to my heart than I can fold my child in my arms when it is dressed for a party.

Weary Brain Workers.

All fagged out, ideas flow slowly as molasses, snap and energy gone! The buoyancy that made work a pleasure, that gone also. A doctor would say you are run down, enervated, neither eating or digesting enough. It's Ferrozone you need to brace up that fitful appetite and improve assimilation and digestion so that lots of pure strong blood will be formed to nourish the broken down system. Ferrozone will drive away the tired feeling, restore your spirits and energy, revive your ambition and strength for work. No tonic or rebuilder like Ferrozone—try it. Price 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50; at Ormond & Walsh's.

A Light Sentence?

A gentleman now living in New York tells the following story of a negro in Tennessee whose son had been convicted of killing a fellow workman. A few days after the trial the father was asked what disposition had been made of the case.

"Oh," he answered, "dey done send Johnson to jail for a monf."

"That's a light sentence for killing a man, don't you think?"

"Yes," answered the darky, "but at de end of de monf dey done goin' to hang 'im."

Diverse Appetites.

"I wonder why donkeys eat thistles?" said the man who is always finding something peculiar in life.

"Oh," answered the person who likes plain food, "there is no accounting for taste. If a donkey were to give the matter a thought, I suppose he would wonder why human beings eat olives."

Lord Spencer's Bargain.

Lord Spencer of Althorp, one of the greatest of book collectors, was at home only in his own field. One day, in browsing about Bond street, London, he went into the shop of a dealer in bric-a-brac. The dealer, who knew him by sight, said persuasively:

"Here is a fine bit of pottery which your lordship really ought to have, and you shall have it very cheap—only two guineas."

So Lord Spencer bought it and took it home, and set it in a high place. One day a connoisseur in china paid him a visit, and Lord Spencer showed him the bargain.

"What did you give for it?" asked the connoisseur.

"Two guineas," answered Spencer, rather proudly.

"H'm!" said the connoisseur. "At that price the marmalade should have been included."

"What do you mean?"

"Why, that precious piece of yours is nothing more nor less than a shilling marmalade pot, with a green thistle painted on it."

Merrill Challenges the World.

Merrill, the druggist, of Brantford, offers $1000 reward to anyone who will make a better cure for constipation than Merrill's System Tonic. This medicine is not simply a cathartic but a positive and pleasant to take cure for habitual constipation. In this way it cures dyspepsia, impure blood and nervous trouble. 50 doses, price 50c., at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

A Wonderful Echo.

At a watering place in the Pyrenees the conversation at table turned upon a wonderful echo to be heard some distance off on the Franco-Spanish frontier.

"It is astonishing," said an inhabitant of the Garonne. "As soon as you have spoken you hear distinctly the voice leap from rock to rock, from precipice to precipice, and as soon as it has passed the frontier the echo assumes the Spanish accent."

Knights of Old.

The knights of the days of chivalry were so well protected by their armor that they were practically invincible to all ordinary weapons. Even when dismounted they could not be injured save by the misericordia, a thin dagger, which penetrated the chains of the armor. In more than one battle knights fallen from their horses could not be killed until their armor had been broken up with axes and hammers.

Good Cooks.

"If all sick people had good cooks," says the London Hospital, "how much greater might be the proportions of recoveries!" The value of the patent foods which are advertised so much lies largely, it says, in the ease with which they are prepared for the table.

Forethought.

"Right here," said the surveyor, "will be a good place for your sawmill. The county line will run exactly through the middle of it."

"Not much," said the pioneer. "We'll have it all on one side or the other. When a man gets sawed in two, I don't want no two coroners' inquests over him."

An Ingersoll Story.

John W. Mackay once invited Robert G. Ingersoll to visit the Comstock mines. As the cage descended to the furnace heat at the bottom of the shaft of one of the mines Mr. Ingersoll said, gasping for air, "Privately I always believed there was a hades somewhere, but I never dreamed it could be so hot."

Nine out of every ten men have been guilty of transgression against nature in their youth. Nature never excuses, no matter how young, thoughtless or ignorant he may be. The punishment and suffering corresponds with the crime. The only escape from its ruinous results is proper scientific treatment to counteract its effects.

The DRAINS, either by slightly losses, or secretly through the urine, must be stopped—the NERVES must be built up and invigorated, the blood must be purified, the SEXUAL ORGANS must be vitalized and developed, the BRAIN must be nourished. Our New Method Treatment provides all these requirements. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers disappear; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and sexual systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. The various organs become natural and manly. We invite all the afflicted to call and consult us confidentially and free of charge. Cures Guaranteed or no Pay. THE WALL STREET MARKET.

Stocks Fell Several Points This Morning.

Money was Quoted at 3 1-2 per cent—C. P. R. Showed Weakness—The Quotations.

The failure of a settlement of the coal strike had a rather bad effect upon Wall street stocks to-day, and many quotations were from 1 to 2 points lower at the close than at the opening figures. C.P.R. showed weakness, selling off from 137 1-4 to 136. Sloss dropped 11-4 points from 61, whilst M.O.P. fell from 115 to 113 1-4. P.R.S. opened at 60 3-4, went as high as 62 7-8 and closed at 61 5-8. B.R.T. closed at 94 1-2 and Met. at 139.

Sales to noon were 281,200, and money was quoted at 3 1-2 per cent.

The following despatch has been received by E. M. Poussett & Co. from McIntyre & Marshall, of New York and Chicago:

New York, Oct. 4.—The disturbance in market yesterday on unfounded reports of disagreement between Secretary Shaw and Comptroller of Currency shows what we may expect from the markets in case of any really bad news developing, ought to certainly cause conservation. Even with money situation improved and it is not improved to any extent that will allow common houses obtaining any time money at 6 per cent. Even on gilt edged collateral we have other factors of anything but pleasant nature to deal with. The labour situation is surely of the gravest we have had since railway strike at Chicago. In addition to this instead of a record breaking cotton crop we have had the poorest yield in prospect in many years. We also have the fact to consider that the average prices of stocks is still very high and operating expenses increasing from high prices for nearly everything. Bank statement of to-day was a great surprise. It was compiled under old system as result of clearing house decision that it was best to take a conservative stand in regard to Shaw's measures of relief respecting the maintenance of their full cash reserves on Government deposits, but they looked upon the whole thing as a clearing house proposition rather than a matter to be left for Mr. Shaw's own interpretation of the U. S. Bank account. For this reason Secretary Shaw's proposition which would have permitted an increase of $10,000,000 in reserves was not shown. This of itself had some adverse sentimental effect, but it upset the calculation of many traders early in the week. No one was, however, prepared even under the old system of calculation for the statement to show a decrease in the surplus.

McINTYRE & MARSHALL.
E. M. Poussett & Co.

To Messrs. Haight & Freese;

New York, Oct. 4th.—The stock market is likely to be irregular and choppy to-day. Failure of the President's conference to end the anthracite coal strike is a depressing factor. Mixed sentiment as to the bank statement under new conditions constitutes an uncertainty which will tend toward evening up of contracts. The stock jobbery, causing the break in the afternoon yesterday, having been exposed, should cause no apprehension. It may be said upon authority that Treasury officials in Washington are entirely in accord with the monetary relief, which is considered adequate. We do not advise the purchase of any stocks to-day, except on reactions and moderate profits should be taken. Stocks which were strongest in yesterday's raid are safest. These resisted pressure best—Manh., P.O., L.N., U.S.S., C.P. Co., S. Pac. Co., Colo. South., while M.O.P., St. Paul, U. P. Co., and Erie quickly recovered.

HAIGHT & FREESE CO.

One Splendid Indication for the Future.

To Messrs. Haight & Freese;

New York, Oct. 3rd.—Were continuous troublous times ahead, the great interests would not be so busy in creating new combinations and companies for introduction to the business world and to Wall street. Their time would be taken up in endeavours to dispose of what already existed as a preparatory, putting off their houses in order for lower prices. The great ship combine has at last been made. It will be known as the International Mercantile Marine Co. The Morgan interest have the affairs of the concern in hand. Papers were filed in Trenton last Wednesday, which gives the new concern legal life. Its capital to commence will be $120,000,000. This great company will be a mile post in the annals of the attempts of the American people to regain dominion of the sea, and will be a great factor in the struggle for the securing and retention of the major portion of the trade of the world. In addition to this, all the great transcontinental railways are building gigantic steamships for the Pacific and Oriental trade. Our Oriental trade and our Trans-Atlantic trade will greatly increase during the next few years. All these points tend to and will still further increase our wealth and trade, with its accompaniment of enhancement in values. Once the feverishness of present speculation is over stocks will again commence to harden and advance. Some issues are highest now than before the recent break, noticeably pressed steel car, which we wrote up six weeks ago, and commended to our clients as a good purchase. Conditions are too strongly bullish in this country at present for anything more than temporary set backs, for purely local reasons.

Summary.—To-day's market was thoroughly in accord with our direct advices in our letter of Oct. 1st, advising realizing when strong, taking back one's stocks when they sell off. After yesterday's concessions, to-day's market made considerable progress in the upward direction with Pacifics, the main leaders. C.F.I. and P.R.S. bore out our predictions of higher prices made in last night's letter. The former sold up to 38 1-2, while the latter rose 3 1-2 points more, selling above 63. A sharp and decisive drop came after delivery hour, carrying prices down from 1-2 to 2 1-2 points. This afforded the opportunity to buy again, each advance going a trifle beyond the last one. The above advice still applies to the market, and is, in our opinion good to act upon. Money closed at five per cent. Total sales, 830,000.

One thousand volumes of Henty's Books at 23 cents each at Salisbury's.

MATTERS MILITARY

BY SENTRY.

The annual matches of the Peterborough Rifle Association will be held at Curtis' rifle ranges on Thursday, Oct. 9th, commencing at 8.30 o'clock in the morning. These matches are very keenly contested each year, and with the additional interest that has been infused into rifle shooting during the past year, more enthusiasm than ever is being displayed in the coming events. The entries are open to the world, which is saying a good deal, and the D. R. A. rules are to govern the shooting. The officers of the Peterborough Association this year are as follows—

Hon. President—Hon. J. R. Stratton.
President—E. B. Clegg.
Vice-Pres.—D. Cameron.
Sec.-Treas.—R. P. Watt.
Range officers—Messrs. G. Fitzgerald, R. E. Layfield, F. Bartlett and W. H. Moore.

The "Banker's Challenge Cup" (1896) to be held by the winner who must be a resident of the County of Peterborough, for one year, and become his property on winning it twice in succession, or three separate times. The "Cox Cup" is to be held by the winner, who must be a resident of the County of Peterborough, for one year, and becomes his property on winning it three times, twice of which must be in succession.

The "Stratton Cup" (1902) is to be held by the winner, who must be a resident of the County of Peterborough, for one year, and will become his property on winning it twice in succession, or three separate times. No entries shall be received after closing of the first range in any match, but strangers will be squaded so as to suit trains coming and departing.

Lieut.-Col. E. B. Edwards and Sgt.-R. A. W. Hay have returned home from Niagara camp. They speak enthusiastically of the success of the camp, although they encountered plenty of rain. Sgt.-Major Brittain stopped off at Toronto to take a special short course.

Lieut. R. G. Johnston is writing a book entitled "To the Orient and Back in Khaki, or Some Dots from a Diary." The story, which has recently been published in part in the Examiner, is not yet completed, but will be in a short time. The profits of the book are to be devoted to the widows and orphans of his comrades who gave their lives for the Empire. Although their have been many works of a similar nature we are sure that none will be more true to fact or more interesting than that written by Lieut. Johnston, and we have no doubt that it will have a large sale, seeing it is for so worthy an object.

Hon. F. W. Borden, Minister of Militia, has consented to officiate at the unveiling of the monument to Pte. Evans, the Port Hope hero of Harts River. The monument is being erected in Port Hope.

This is the time of the year when company supplies prove to be an attraction for the members of the various units. Nothing tends to cultivate a feeling of friendliness amongst the members of any corps more than an evening around the festive board. Let the members of the 57th wake up in this regard.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

RUGBY.

Fee, formerly of Varsity, will play on Queen's Intermediate Rugby team.

* * * *

Norman C. Ogilvie has been appointed captain of the Montreal Rugby team.

* * * *

King is the biggest man in the Hartford squad. He weighs 242 lbs. stripped, and is a candidate for the position of centre rush.

* * * *

Queen's Athletic Committee met on Wednesday afternoon, and decided to enter a junior team in the O.R.F.U. This will necessitate a change in the schedule for this district.

* * * *

Keep an eye on the Rough Riders this year in the senior and intermediate series of the O.R.F.U. There has never been such enthusiasm in Ottawa since the organization of the club.—Kingston Whig.

* * * *

Rev. R. Laird, formerly of Queen's, has followed the example of Rev. H. H. Bedford-Jones, and is playing Rugby with Brockville, in the position of inside wing. Now, wouldn't it be sweet if both these gridiron clergymen entered their pulpits on Sunday with black eyes!

* * * *

In the neighbourhood of 600 people have been paying admission to Chicago's athletic field to see the team practice every afternoon last week.

* * * *

In Strange, Kent, and Grant, the Argos have three husky forwards. Grant will be relied upon to do most of the goal-kicking for the Argonauts.

* * * *

H. C. Griffiths of St. Catharines will referee the Hamilton-Argonaut game at Hamilton next Saturday.

* * * *

A Toronto paper says Captain Gordon Crawford of the London team was out with the Argonauts last night. He says the Forest City will make a great bid for the intermediate championship.

* * * *

With four good men like Hamber, Henderson, Hardisty, and Darling to choose from, the Argonauts half-back line should be the best in the O. R. F. U. this season. The oarsmen should have a very strong team all round. Bell will probably play quarterback on Saturday. The scrimmage of Boyd, Wright and Russell, which proved the best in the business last year will again be doing business. The wing line will be the only part of the team to show much change.

* * * *

The new men out at Varsity's practice yesterday were Snively, Hoyles, Bryce and Madden. The latter aspires to a position on the half line. Hoyles managed the team last year, but did not play. This year he will play, but will not manage. Manager Gordon Gleck had the team working hard yesterday. There was the largest turn out of the season yesterday.

* * * *

There appears to be a touch of sour grapes about that report sent out from Ottawa that college do not want Boucher, last year's captain, because he is a hotelkeeper. Boucher was in the hotel business last season, and no one had any fault to find. But when Gleason was pulled into the final game against Argonauts, and practically given full control of the team, Boucher is said to have had a kick coming himself. This year it is understood that Gleason will again have a say in football as it is played at Ottawa College, and Boucher will play on the Rough Riders' scrimmage. On the face it looks as if Boucher was the man who did the quitting.—Telegram.

The London News says: The practice turn out on Saturday afternoon of the Rugby Football players was most encouraging to the management. It was really the first full turnout of the season and two hours of good hard work was indulged in.

Among those attending Saturday afternoon were Geo. Sippi, Dr. Scott, Curly Fields, Stirling McMahon, Lucas, Black, Robinson, Butler, Phenary, Walter Little and a number of others. Unfortunately there seems to be a lack of enthusiasm among several of last year's men, who should turn out and encourage the younger players.

Frank Hobbs will attend all the practices this week to coach the team. A large turn out is particularly requested so the management may be able to place a good team on the field for Saturday against Toronto. The juniors are also requested to turn out in force as they go to Ingersoll for their first scheduled game on Saturday.

HOCKEY.

Port Hope are going to get right into the hockey game this winter. Their covered rink has materialised at last, and Roach and Masterson, who figured on the Ontarios in the lacrosse match against Oshawa, were so enamoured with the town that they went back to Montreal, closed out their business, and returned to Port Hope to live. They are good hockey players, and will fill up the weak points on the winter edition of the Ontarios.

* * * *

And now it is whispered that Dutchy Morrison will play hockey in Winnipeg this winter, as the Peg people are endeavouring to have him transferred to the branch of the bank out there. If this happens to be true, there will be a rain of tears in Galt like unto a spring freshet.

Taylor, of Paris-Brantford, who was reported headed towards Galt, is said to have made up his mind to stay in Brantford. The Telephone Town may buy a new rink and a brand new hockey team.

Y.M.C.A. GYMNASIUM.

The Intermediate and Boys' classes have got started, and have a larger attendance than ever.

The Senior gymnasium class was to have started last evening, but owing to the concert in the assembly hall, it was cancelled. The class will start on Tuesday evening of next week, and a large number of men will line up before the director. The Senior classes will be held on Tuesday and Friday evenings, as last season.

Last evening Mr. Sandford Hall, while out running in the north end of the town, came in contact with a barbed wire, and as a result carries several bad scratches on his limbs.

LACROSSE.

In one of the prettiest games of lacrosse seen on the Toronto Island in many a day, Fergus defeated Oshawa by 6 goals to 1, and annexed the intermediate championship of the C. L. A. for 1902, Thursday. About one thousand people were present, one half of whom came in from the rival towns on excursions, Fergus bringing along a piper to help out the enthusiasm. It was after three o'clock when the teams lined up and Referee Gillespie blew his whistle. Both teams were nervous on the start, but both soon settled away to play good lacrosse, the combination on both sides being exceedingly good. It was up and down the field, for a time, and apparently anybody's game, till from a scrimmage in front of the Fergus flags, the ball was batted into the net and Oshawa were in the lead. Fergus, by a neat combination, tied the score before the end of the quarter. The second quarter was hard fought all the way. Shields went to the fence for tripping, and with twelve men to eleven Fergus had half a dozen or more chances, but Way was in the way of all that didn't go wide. With equal men, however, Fergus managed to find the net, and at half time the score was, Fergus, 2; Oshawa, 1.

From this time out, Fergus clearly out-played their opponents. In the third quarter, they scored three times, whild Oshawa seldom got the ball close to their flags. In the fast quarter Fergus scored once more, and the play lagged a little, as everyone recognized the fact that it was all over. Fergus' stickhandling and passing was superb, probably better than anything seen at the Island this year. Their players with two or three exceptions, are light but very fast, and they play as pretty a game from a spectator's standpoint as almost anyone could wish.

Oshawa's strong defence kept the score from getting away up, but their home was too well taken care of to be dangerous. The play was clean and the work of Referee Gillespie satisfactory to both teams. The teams Twere:—

Fergus—Goal, Clark; point, Graham; cover, Gow; defence field, Murton, Selp, Bergin; centre, Groves; home field, Kyle, E. Curliss, Grasley; outside, J. Curliss; inside, Ramore; captain, A. C. Steele.

Oshawa—Goal, Way; point, Kerwin; cover, Shields; defence field, Gee, Glover, Sands; centre, Jones; home field, Munro, Hall Crites; outside, Charlebois; inside, Stewart.

CURLING.

The annual meeting of the Lindsay Curling Club, held on Tuesday night, was the most successful meeting the club has ever had. Fifty enthusiastic members went through mud and rain to show their enthusiasm for the game, and the general opinion of those present was that the game would be more popular the coming winter than ever.

The members evidently were fully satisfied with the way the affairs of the club have been managed for the past few years, as practically all the old officers were retained in office. Mr. Hopkins following the custom of past presidents, insisted on being allowed to retire this year, and and Dr. McAlpine succeeds to the presidency. The office of Chaplain is held for one year only, and Rev. G. W. Henderson was elected Chaplain for the season 1902-1903. The other officers are, Patron, Dr. A. E. Vrooman, M. P., First Vice-President, Mr. W. Dundas; Second Vice-President, Rev. J. W. MacMillan; Treasurer, Mr. J. D. Flavelle; Assistant Treasurer, Mr. P. Kennedy; Secretary, Mr. J. C. Harstone; Managing Committee, Messrs. J. McAlpine, M.D., W. Dundas, J. W. MacMillan, J. D. Flavelle, J. C. Harstone, G. H. Horkins, R. A. Miller, G. A. Little, W. McLennan, J. M. Knowlson. Local Match Committee, — Messrs. J. D. Flavelle, G. H. Hopkins, J. C. Harstone. Representatives to the Ontario Curling Association — Messrs. J. D. Flavelle and J. C. Harstone.

Health and Hope.

"He who has health has hope; and he who has hope has everything." But hope flees at the approach of kidney disease with the dreadful pains which accompany it. With the the flesh gradually falling, the back aching, and the despair which often comes to victims of this ailment, only the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will restore hope, confidence and health. One pill a dose; 25c a box.

Statesman and Gambler.

Charles James Fox, the English statesman, was even more notorious in the gaming world than he was famous in the world of politics. He had squandered $250,000 before coming of age. He became one of the most profligate gamesters of the vicious days in which he lived. Some of his finest displays in debate were sandwiched between excitement such as would unnerve most men who had no serious business on hand. Walpole has given a glimpse of a typical passage in this extraordinary man's life. He had to take part in the discussion on the thirty-nine articles in parliament on a certain Thursday. He had sat up playing hazard from Tuesday evening until 5 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. An hour before he had recovered $60,000 that he had lost and by dinner time, which was 5 o'clock, ended losing $55,000. On Thursday he spoke in the debate, went to dinner at past 11 at night; thence to a club, where he drank till 7 the next morning; thence to a gambling house, where he won $30,000, and between 3 and 4 in the afternoon he set out on a journey to Newmarket.

Lengthening a Bee's Tongue.

Man is often blamed for driving to extinction many sorts of beautiful creatures, but the account is far more than balanced by the amount of good he has done for those animals which proved useful and could be tamed.

Take the case of the bee. The bee lives by its tongue, with which organ it is able to extract the honey from flowers. Now, a bee's tongue is naturally about a twenty-fifth of an inch long. Clever beekeepers, by keeping only those bees with naturally long tongues, have succeeded in lengthening the tongues of a number of bee colonies to the extent of another hundredth of an inch. It does not sound much, but it enables those insects to do a quarter as much work again in the same time.

Man has done more than this for bees. He has given them ready made homes, where they are safe from wasps and other enemies; frames for making their combs without using large quantities of wax for outside walls, and food during flowerless weather.

Saving the Money.

In a certain parish in Scotland collectors were going round soliciting contributions for the kirk. On coming to a wretched little hovel they hesitated whether or not to enter, but finally decided to "try their luck." A hale old man greeted them, and to him they explained their errand, but he really had nothing to give them, he said.

"Can't yo gi'e up your whisky?" one of the visitors asked. "No," he said, "I don't drink 'whusky.'" Perhaps then he could forego the pleasures of snuff. No, he didn't use snuff.

The collectors prepared to move on. "Stop a bit!" cried the old fellow. "I pay Sandy, the barber, twopence every Saturday night for shaving me. Tell the meenister he can have the twopence if he'll come and shave me himself!"

OUR STORE NEWS AND ITS CHRONICLING

It takes time to learn a store thoroughly, especially if the store is one that keeps moving.

The reason for the steady progress of The Fair Store is found in the ability to buy largely—judiciously—and distributing economically; as well as the spirit of aggressiveness that, in season and out of season, produces such exceptional values as to attract and hold the attention of the best households and most clever shoppers.

Past achievements are but stepping stones to those of the future.

Our store news chronicling and its underlying policy is—to tell the truth and stick to it. Back of our words are facts. Truthful ads. will develop a drawing power; and that's why the Golden Lion has earned and maintained the reputation of being "just a good, honest store."

Josh Billings once remarked:—"My son, observe the postage-stamp. Its usefulness depends on its ability to stick to one thing until it gets there." Sound advice. Sticking to to Dry Goods and to the truth is the secret of this store's success.

Watch this space every day. Keep tab on what's going on here. This space has been reserved for a chatty chronicle of this store's daily doings.

LONG CONFERENCE ON SUNDAY

Cabinet Members Discussed the Coal Strike Situation—Members of the Conference Pledged to Secrecy, and So Public Remains in the Dark for the Present—Strikers Confident.

Washington, Oct. 6.—In an earnest effort to expedite the adjustment of the coal strike problems another conference over the situation was held at the White House yesterday and adjourned after three hours' deliberation. No statement was given out as to the conclusions reached, and every participant absolutely refused to discuss what had taken place during the meeting. The conference was called for yesterday, although it was Sunday, in view of the extraordinary importance to the American people of a solution of the question.

Besides the President there were present at the conference Secretary of War Root, Secretary of the Navy Moody Attorney-General Knox, Postmaster General Payne and Col. Carroll D. Wright, United States Commissioner of Labor. The last named was summoned to attend the conference on account of his expert knowledge of the situation in the anthracite coal fields and because of his personal investigation of the conditions there, which he made some months ago at the instance of the President.

It was notable that officially four of the members of the Cabinet were present. This, however, was significant only of the fact that three of these four were lawyers, and that the issue involved was one which called for the deliberation of trained legal minds. The fourth Cabinet officer, Postmaster-General Payne, has taken a prominent part in the preliminary conferences over the coal situation, which led to the conference with the railroad presidents and the miners' representatives Friday, and besides has had a lifelong identification with corporate interests, which are involved in the present question. The fact that Mr. Payne also has been one of the closest advisers for many years in the National Councils of his party likewise is important in connection with the personnel of the conference. It began shortly after 10 o'clock yesterday morning, the time fixed by the President.

The President in expressing his views at the outset of the conference talked earnestly and showed a deep feeling. His voice at times could be heard downstairs. Several times during the conference Secretary Cortelyou was summoned and directed to prepare certain matters for the consideration of the President and his advisers. This was taken to indicate that some action of one nature or another was about to be consummated. When the conference adjourned a few minutes before 1 o'clock all those who had joined in it declined to talk. Every member of the Cabinet, and Col. Wright, the only outsider who was present, were pledged to the President to absolute secrecy as to what had occurred within the conference room.

The utmost efforts were made to guard against publicity, just as the Presidential summons, which called the conference had been made in a very quiet and carefully guarded way. Not since the Spanish war has there been such reticence shown at a conference of such a character as was observed yesterday.

In this state of absolute reticence of everyone of the parties to the conference, it is almost impossible to do more than draw the most general of conclusions as to the nature of the proceedings based upon what preceded the meeting. The known facts are that the President has reached the conclusion that he has nothing to expect, save refusal from a further appeal to the coal operators, and, therefore, has decided to look for relief from a situation, which, in his view, is fast growing intolerable, to the miners side. He feels that he hardly can expect them to make the sacrifice of all of their contentions without holding out at least a promise of some return, and the question before him is as to his ability to do this. He can pledge himself to appeal to Congress to examine into the justice of the miners' complaints and remedy them so far as lies in his power of the legislative branch backed by the earnest good-will of the legislative. Also he can suggest to Governor Stone of Pennsylvania that he cause the Pennsylvania Legislature likewise to make an inquiry, perhaps hastening the usual methods by calling an extra session. But these pledges would be given only on condition that the men go at once into the mines to get out with all speed the coal for which the people are suffering.

To adopt this course, means the continuance of the policy of exerting moral suasion to end the strike. It is certain that thus far the President has not found a single one of his constitutional advisers who could suggest any departure from this policy; no one could find a method sanctioned by law or constitution which promised relief and involved the use of duress against either the operators or miners. So it is believed that yesterday's conference was called by the President with the purpose of putting in exact shape the details of a plan conceived in its rough outlines even before the departure of President Mitchell last Friday afternoon from the mixed conferences. Three hours spent in consultation yesterday were none too long to put into form the twin propositions; one to the miners' organization, and the other to Governor Stone, and the fact that Secretary Cortelyou was called on to prepare one or more statements at the direction of the President, is taken as an indication that messages were sent out at the end of the conference yesterday, and that the reticence of all of the parties is explainable, perhaps by their desire to avoid the discourtesy of publishing the nature of these before they are received by the persons to whom they are addressed, as well as by a wish to escape the complication of the negotiations by heated public discussion at this stage. That the parties to the conference feel that they have accomplished something was made evident by the expression of one of them of a belief that the miners soon will be again at work.

MITCHELL'S IDEA.

The Conference But Increase the Enthusiasm of Workingmen.

Washington, Sept. 6. — President Mitchell and the other members of the anthracite miners' delegation who attended Friday's conference left Washington at 10.50 o'clock Saturday over the B. & O. Railroad, for their headquarters at Wilkes-Barre. Before boarding the train, Mr. Mitchell said that, probably, soon after his arrival in Wilkes-Barre, he would issue directions to the miners as to how to proceed, but that he could not say positively what he would do. When asked what directions, if any, he would issue, he replied that any directions issued would only be for the continuance of the strike.

"Do you feel," he was asked, "that public sentiment will sustain you in continuing the strike?"

"It certainly must do so, after the result of yesterday's conference," he replied. "We are confident that we have the sympathy of every workingman in the country, and we believe that we will have the financial support of most of them."

Strikers Tightening Their Lines.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 6. — The strikers are now engaged in tightening up their lines and preparing themselves to combat any movement by the operators to break the ranks of the strikers. The first step in this direction was taken yesterday, when W. R. Russell, president of District No. 12 of the Miners' Union, which comprises the entire State of Illinois, came here by direction of Mr. Mitchell, for the purpose of discussing relief measures.

Operators to Make an Effort.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 6. — The three anthracite district presidents will arrive here to-day for a conference with their chief. To-night the four will leave for Buffalo, where they will meet a committee from the National Association of manufacturers, which organization hopes to be able to devise some plan by which the mining of coal can be resumed.

Blew Up the Track.

Tamaqua, Pa., Oct. 6.—At an early hour yesterday a section of track on the Silver Creek branch of the Philadelphia and Reading Road was blown up with dynamite. The explosion shook the houses in New Philadelphia, and Silver Creek. When the workmen's train reached the scene of the explosion yesterday morning, a force of 50 deputies were on hand to escort them to the colliery.

Democratic Bid For Support.

New York, Oct. 6. — Government ownership of the coal mines is now one of the most important questions before the people of the United States, and there is indubitably a strong sentiment in its favor, owing to the exactness of the coal barons, and the long-continued strike of the miners. In pronouncing for the confiscation of the coal mines, the recent Democratic State Convention, at Saratoga, has made a big bid for popular support. It is said that ex-Senator Hill was the author of this plank, and the Republicans, generally, regard it as most radical and revolutionary in its tendencies.

Petitions to the President.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—Six thousand Illinois citizens, during the last 24 hours, have signed a petition asking President Roosevelt to call an extra session of Congress to enact some measure for the prevention of a coal famine. One method suggested in the petition is a provision for the appointment of a temporary receiver to operate the Pennsylvania mines, which are closed on account of the strike. The petition is being circulated all over the city of Chicago, and throughout the State of Illinois, under the direction of U. S. Senator W. E. Mason.

SOLDIERS GUARD A TOWN.

Result of Rioting Consequent in a Street Car Strike.

Glen's Falls, N.Y., Oct. 6. — Soldiers of the National Guard are again guarding this town, and though yesterday had seen no rioting an uneasy feeling prevails. The militia company of this place, which had been dismissed to its armory Thursday last, was called out again Saturday night, and is now protecting the power house and other property of the Hudson Valley Electric Railway in Glens Falls. A squad is also guarding a bridge at Sandy Hill, having been sent there following a report that one of the canal bridges there was to be blown up.

This show of militia is due to the riots that took place Saturday in the street car strike. Car windows were smashed with stones. One conductor is in the hospital seriously hurt. Several shots were fired by the police.

French Troops as Strike Breakers.

Paris, Oct. 6.—A despatch from Lille says ten squadrons of cavalry and three brigades of gendarmes have been despatched to the districts where the French coal miners are on strike.

A despatch from Lens, in the Pas-de-Calais district, says the strike of the French miners is spreading. There are 19,794 men now out in that department.

Millionaire Gets Five Years.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 6. — R. M. Snyder, banker, promoter and millionaire, well known in financial circles in New York, St. Louis and Kansas City, was found guilty Saturday night of bribery in connection with the passage of the Central Traction bill, and the jury assessed his punishment at five years in the penitentiary. The testimony offered by the State showed that Snyder placed $150,000 or more in the hands of members of the Municipal Assembly to secure the passage of the bill of which he was the promoter.

BRITAIN AND VENEZUELA.

The Scottish American, under the above heading, has the following in a vein of quiet sarcasm:—

"If the Government at Washington intends seriously to insist on its assumed right, under its self-declared Monroe Doctrine, to be the dictator and controller of everything in any way relating to the Western Hemisphere, the prospect is that it will always have its hands so full that it will have no time to devote to such a trifling matter as the Government of the United States—more especially when it seeks further to be the arbiter in European affairs. One might have thought that it would ere this have taken cognisance of the war or revolution raging in Central America, have ordered it to cease, and at same time have determined which side was in the right in the matter. Perhaps it thought neither side was worth spending time and trouble upon; but another trouble has arisen which commands immediate attention. Britain and Venezuela are again on the verge of rupture, and as the United States chose to take the latter under its wing on a former rather memorable occasion it cannot afford to stand coolly aloof now. The people of this country are naturally asking What is the Government at Washington going to do about it?

"To a certain extent the present trouble between Britain and Venezuela is just the old dispute revived. It relates to the ownership of Patos, or Goose Island, in the Gulf of Paria, about midway between the British Island of Trinidad and the mainland of Venezuela. This Goose Island is almost of no value excepting as a strategic position, commanding as it does the entrance to the north-western and northern mouths of the great Orinoco River, just as the eastern mouths are commanded by Point Barimas. Both Britain and Venezuela claim this Goose Island, and the claim has never been formally and definitely settled. For good reasons the Governor of Trinidad caused the British flag to be hoisted on the island the other day. As its hands are so full just now with revolutionary affairs Venezuela could only protest against that hoisting of the Union Jack, but it is said that so soon as peace and order are restored in Venezuela the latter intends going for Britain over that Goose Island, and expects to be backed up by the United States; so it is time the latter was making up its mind as to what it will do about it."

EDITORIAL NOTES

Midland bored for oil and struck a rock, in both a figurative and literal sense. There was no oil at the bottom of the hole—only $1200.

A certain Tory citizen is so intensely Tory that he calls his plant house a conservatory, and a good Grit, not to be left behind, calls his a reformatory.

By gaining two seats in the Quebec Legislature the Conservatives in that body, the Toronto Star suggests, will now be numerous enough to keep two card tables going at one time in the caucus room.

Toronto wants the Ontario Government to go into the wood supply business for the benefit of the people of that city. Toronto was always in favour of a wooden government—it always voted that way.

Brockville has two clergymen on its rugby team. This will be a change of relation for them. Instead of talking to sinners on red-hot subjects from the pulpit, they will have to listen to red-hot talk from the sinners in the scrimmage pile.

Conservatism is looking up. In Quebec the party have won two elections for the local Legislature, but the party can't be considered to be up to the mark, when Leader Borden's barked shin in the upset of a prairie schooner did not affect the stock market.

It is stated that Carnegie is giving "his" money away at the rate of $120,000 a day. Who said it was his money? Where is the share of the workingmen whose work made such an accumulation possible, and where is the share of those who were compelled to contribute by artificially enhanced prices to Carnegie's hoard? A large share of his money was made at the expense of somebody else. He is simply a self-constituted trustee, accountable to nobody for the money of the people of others.

STOP THE LEAKS.

A Few Pertinent Pointers for Farmers.

In order to pay, farming should be conducted in the same way as other business enterprises. A suitable return should be received, not only for the money invested in the land, stock and implements, but also for the labour and cares of management. Every farmer should, by a simple system of book-keeping, keep a careful check on his receipts and expenditures, so as to know which of his farming operations are yielding him a profit, which are conducted at a loss, and which are causing him merely to "mark time." A little figuring of this sort may reveal to him a number of little leaks which almost imperceptibly drain away the profits that should reward his labour. In these days of fierce competition it is only by keeping down the cost of production and preventing all waste that farming can be made successful. Some sources of loss are here given which will readily suggest others.

LACK OF SYSTEM.

One of the chief leaks on many farms is the loss of time and energy because the management is not carried out on any definite system. A study of any old and successful business will show that success has been largely due to a methodical and systematic way of doing things. System may be carried too far so as to become merely mechanical, but as a general proposition it may be said that after a well defined plan of action has been determined on it should be rigidly carried out. As more knowledge is gained, or new ideas acquired, it will be necessary to make changes in the routine, but no change should be made without due deliberation. All work should be carefully planned in advance and all tools and implements gotten ready so that there may be no delay when operations actually begin.

USE OF TIME TABLES.

All men employed on the farm should have well-defined duties to perform so that their time may be used to the best advantage. A good system provides for the feeding of stock at regular hours each day. When stock are fed and watered at regular hours they become accustomed to the regularity of feeding, and thrive much better than if fed at different hours on each succeeding day.

CARE OF IMPLEMENTS.

A very common source of loss is found in the neglect of expensive farm implements and tools. These are left lying in the fields where they have been used, subject to all the inclemencies of the weather, which are more destructive than actual use. Small tools are frequently lost, and larger implements rust or rot. There should be a place on every farm where implements may be kept under cover, and none should be left outside when not in use. A workshop should also be provided in connection with the tool-house, so that during rainy days or other slack periods, implements may be painted and necessary repairs made. Much time is lost by farmers, during busy seasons, such as seeding, haying and harvest, because a bolt or some other small part has been lost, and a trip to blacksmith shop or foundry is necessary to replace it. This waste of valuable time might be prevented by a little forethought or examination of the implement before it was required for use. In many cases implements are purchased, which the farmer could well do without.

KEEPING UNNECESSARY STOCK.

This is another frequent cause of loss. If a farmer has more horses than are required to carry on the work of the farm, he should sell those he does not need, if a figure at all reasonable can be obtained. The cow which does not yield enough milk or butter to pay a good profit on her keep should be disposed of, and her place filled by another. A few weeks' use of the scales and Babcock tester will usually furnish some surprising results in this direction.

IMPROPER FEEDING OF STOCK.

To secure maximum profits it is necessary that stock should be fed intelligently for the object in view. Rations should be carefully compounded in order to secure a proper proportion of albuminoids, and carbohydrates, or as it is called, a proper nutritive ratio. Animals should be selected for early maturity and fed so as to be ready for market at an early age. The nearer maturity an animal comes, the greater becomes the cost of growth. Again money is lost by failing to provide green crops for feeding during the summer dry spells incident to this country. Horses in many cases are given all the hay they care to eat—a practice not only wasteful but injurious to the animals as well.

WASTE OF MANURE.

In the older settled portions of Canada the restoration or maintenance of soil fertility is already an important question. How desirable is it then that all the manure made on the farm should be used, and used in the best possible condition, without loss from leaching, firefanging, etc.

INFERIOR SEED.

In many cases a partial or total failure of a certain crop is due to the purchase of a cheap or inferior grade of seed. Such seed is usually badly mixed with foreign seeds, so that the farm becomes over run with weeds, which not only replace useful crops, but entail a vast amount of labour to get rid of. The division of a farm into small or irregular fields often provides numerous places for weeds in the fence corners, and other uncultivated spots.

NEGLECT OF FENCES AND BUILDINGS.

Another leak which takes money out of the farmer's pocket is neglect in keeping fences and buildings in proper repair. Inferior fences allow his own and his neighbour's stock to injure his crops and are a source of constant worry and loss of time. The old proverb, "For the want of a nail the horse was lost," is very appropriate in such a case. A dollar or two spent for lumber or nails will often result in a large saving of feed and increased comfort to the stock during the winter months. Neglect of a leaky roof is often responsible for heavy losses of grain or fodder, and in the timbers of the buildings. Many a good frame has been ruined by a leaky roof.

LACK OF KNOWLEDGE.

Nearly all the leaks previously mentioned can be set down to carelessness, but farmers also lose because some of them think that nothing can be learned from others, and that a new idea is necessarily nonsense. No matter how good a farmer may be he can still gain ideas from others that will prove of value to him. The experience of the Experiment Stations and of successful farmers should be carefully scanned for "pointers." How many farmers there are who do not subscribe to a paper devoted to farming; these men are certainly losing money by false economy. In this age of progress it is ideas that count; a single idea gained from a paper will often, when put into practice, represent a gain of many times the subscription price. The local paper should also always be supported, and each farmer should do all he can to assist the editor of the agricultural paper and the local paper to produce as good a sheet as possible, and to extend the circulation of each. — F. W. Hodson, Dominion Live Stock Commissioner.

BASEBALL.

National League—Season Closed.

New York, Oct. 5.—The New Yorks closed their season yesterday with a victory. They beat the Bostons in the second game of a double-header, losing the first. The Brooklyn-Philadelphia game was not played, owing to wet grounds, and the pennant season in the east is now only a memory. Pittsburg, by beating Cincinnati, accomplished the feat of breaking the record of victories. The Chicagos and St. Louis played a tie. Scores:

EIGHTEEN PROTESTS DROPPED.

No Evidence Found to Proceed Against Election Candidates.

Toronto, Oct. 6.—Eighteen election petitions were dropped at Osgoode Hall on Saturday for want of sufficient evidence against the respon- cross-petitions left to be fought out in the courts. These Conservative members, whose seats were disputed, are safe: East Hamilton, H. Carscallen; West Hamilton, Mayor Hendire; Algoma, W. R. Smyth; South Huron, Henry Eilbert, and Manitoulin, R. R. Gamey.

The cross-petitions are: S. F. dents. There are 24 petitions and 17 Washington in West Hamilton; Dr. Griffin, East Hamilton; D. M. Brodie, Algoma; M. Y. McLean, South Huron, and J. M. Fraser in Manitoulin.

These petitions against Liberals were dropped: Centre Simcoe, D. Davidson; West Huron, M. G. Cameron; South Wentworth, John Dickenson; South Norfolk, W. A Charlton, and South Bruce, R. E. Truax. The cross-petitions in these are against A. B. Thompson, Centre Simcoe; J. L. Buck, in South Norfolk, and Dr. Clapp in South Bruce.

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

A Remedy Which Has Revolutionized the Treatment of Stomach Troubles

The remedy is not heralded as a wonderful discovery nor yet a secret patent medicine, neither is it claimed to cure anything except dyspepsia, indigestion and stomach troubles, with which nine out of ten suffer.

The remedy is in the form of pleasant tasting tablets or lozenges, containing vegetable and fruit essences, pure acceptic pepsin, (government test), golden seal and diastase. The Tablets are sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Many interesting experiments to test the digestive powers of Stuart's Tablets show that one grain of the active principle contained in them is sufficient to thoroughly digest 3,000 grains of raw meat, eggs, and other wholesome food.

Stuart's Tablets do not act upon the bowels like after dinner pills and cheap cathartics, which simply irritate and inflame the intestines, without having any effect whatever in digesting food or curing indigestion.

If the stomach can be rested and assisted in the work of digestion, it will very soon recover its normal vigour, as no organ is so much abused and overworked as the stomach.

This is the secret, if there is any secret, of the remarkable success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, a remedy practically unknown a few years ago, and now the most widely known of any treatment for stomach weakness.

This success has been secured entirely upon its merits as a digestive pure and simple, because there can be no stomach trouble if the food is properly digested.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act entirely on the food eaten, digesting it completely so that it can be assimilated into blood, nerve and tissue. They cure dyspepsia, water brash, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive power which weak stomachs lack, and unless that lack is supplied, it is useless to attempt to cure by the use of "tonics," "pills" and cathartics, which have absolutely no digestive power.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be found at all drug stores and the regular use of one or two of them after meals will demonstrate their merit better than any other argument.

REVENUE INCREASING

It Exceeded $58,000,000 For the Last Year.

THE EXPENDITURE LESSENED.

Revenue Was $6,226,228 More and Expenditure Was $261,000 Less Than Was Expected by Our Chancellor of Exchequer—A Better Final Showing Than Was Anticipated by Finance Minister Fielding.

Ottawa, Oct. 6.—The finally revised statement of revenue and expenditure for the last fiscal year makes a better showing than the Finance Minister anticipated when he delivered his budget speech a few months ago. Mr. Fielding estimated that the revenue on consolidated fund account would be $56,800,000 and the expenditure $51,000,000. The actual figures were $58,024,228 and $50,739,000 respectively, or $1,224,228 more revenue and $261,000 less expenditure than was expected by our Chancellor of the Exchequer. The ordinary receipts gained by $5,509,527 as compared with 1901, while the expenditure exhibited an increase of $3,873,586. There was an excess of $7,284,275 of ordinary revenue over ordinary expenditure, but the capital expenditure reached a total of over $13,000,000. Deducting from the latter item the surplus on consolidated fund and the charges for sinking fund, it leaves $3,398,412 to be added to the national debt. Mr. Fielding was of opinion that the year's transactions would involve an addition of $6,000,000 to the public debt whereas his estimate exceeded [illegible] amount by $2,600,000. [illegible] capital outlay necessitated by the falling due of iron and steel bounties, the equipment of the Intercolonial with rolling stock and new rails, the development of our transportation routes and the settlement of awards aggregating nearly a million to two of the Provinces. The first quarter of the present fiscal year has closed very auspiciously. There has been a reduction of $1,778,000 in capital expenditure, and a slight diminution in ordinary expenditure, compared with the same period of last year. The ordinary revenue exceeded the ordinary expenditure by $7,210,000 and showed a gain of $1,638,000 compared with 1901.

TRIBUTE TO HON. E. J. DAVIS.

Monster Demonstration at Newmarket on Saturday—Premier Speaks—"No Surrender" the Policy He Will Follow.

Newmarket, Oct. 6.—North York has never seen such a magnificent demonstration as that in honor of Hon. E. J. Davis Saturday. Between 8,000 and 10,000 people attended it, and the speakers were compelled to address the crowds both in the immense Exhibition building and in the open air. So vast was the crowd that when the 2,000 people in the building mingled with those who had been strolling about the grounds and watching the sports they made no appreciable difference in the number. The speeches were of unusual eloquence and interest, and all highly complimentary to Mr. Davis, who was evidently greatly pleased at the magnificent demonstration in his honor. The most important speech was that of Hon. Geo. W. Ross, who declared his intention of fighting his opponents, and expressed his confidence that he would be able to conduct the Government of the country.

Compromise Is Likely.

New York, Oct. 6.—The Tribune's London correspondent says that the advice received by Mr. Balfour and Mr. Chamberlain from their friends this evening to abandon the Education Bill is not disinterested. The setting of one of these against the other was partizan mischief making. Mr. Balfour has a big majority behind him in the Commons, and Mr. Chamberlain is supporting him loyally. The safest forecast is that the Education Bill will neither be abandoned nor forced through, but that Parliament will settle down for a prolonged session, during which a compromise will be arranged.

Brother Lives in Hamilton.

Edmonton, N.W.T., Oct. 6. — W. Stiff, a well-known old-timer of Edmonton, was found dead in his bed yesterday morning in his room. He has been a resident of Edmonton since the early 80's. He has no relatives in this part of the country. He leaves a widow and two daughters in Ontario. His brother resides in Hamilton, and was a high official of the Great Western Railway when that road had a separate experience. Deceased was well-known as Major Stiff having held that rank in an Ontario volunteer battalion.

Eight Thousand Heard Him.

New York, Oct. 6.—The Academy of Music was filled from pit to gallery with three audiences yesterday, gathered to listen to the preaching of Gen. Wm. Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, who is in this country on an evangelical campaign. Meetings were held at 11 a.m., 3 p.m., and 8 p.m.

Fell to His Death.

St. Thomas, Oct. 6.—W. H. O'Hara of Albion, Mich., a passenger on the M.C.R. excurse Saturday night stepped out into the vestibule before the train stopped. His hat blew off. He made a grab for it an fell off the train. He died early Sunday morning, never regaining consciousness.

Health and Hope.

"He who has health has hope; and he who has hope has everything." But hope flees at the approach of kidney disease with the dreadful pains which accompany it. With the the flesh gradually failing, the back aching, and the despair which often comes to victims of this ailment, only the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will restore hope, confidence and health. A SIMPLE CEREMONY

Thousands of Workmen Follow Zola's Body to the Grave.

DREYFUS WAS IN THE CORTEGE.

Magnificent Floral Offerings From Zola's Friends in All Parts of the World—Mme. Zola Not Allowed to Attend Funeral by Her Doctors—Socialist Emblems, Red Flowers, Very Conspicuous.

Paris, Oct. 6.—The funeral of Emile Zola was a simple, but impressive ceremony, such as Zola himself would have wished, without pomp. Thousands of workingmen, accompanied by their wives, sorrowfully marched behind the coffin. Municipal guards, mounted and on foot, lined the route, but, except for a company of infantry which rendered military honors as the body was carried from the house to the hearse, they were there as guardians of order and not as participants in the ceremony.

Former Captain Dreyfus marched in the funeral cortege, according to the authority of the Prefect of Police, but he passed completely unnoticed by the crowd. A little distance behind him came Mme. Dreyfus, accompanied by her father. Dreyfus sent a handsome wreath, which was placed beside the coffin. The Temps says Dreyfus went to the Zola house yesterday evening and watched beside the corpse with the family. While there he induced Mme. Zola to give him back his promise not to attend the funeral.

Long before 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the hour fixed for the start of the cortege, an immense concourse began gathering along the short route leading to the entrance of the Mont Martre Cemetery. Facing the house was drawn up a double line of infantry. A hearse with two horses attached to it stood before the door. In front of the hearse were three other cars, almost hidden beneath masses of magnificent floral offerings from Zola's admirers in all parts of the world.

Mme. Zola wished to follow her husband's body to the grave, but her doctors forbade her to do so, and she bade her last farewell in the mortuary chamber. Her grief was most poignant when the coffin was removed to the entrance hall of the house.

As the bier was carried to the street the mounted officer of infantry saluted and the soldiers presented arms. The crowd of mourners in front of the house uncovered, and, amid a deep silence, broken only by the melancholy rolling of muffled drums, the coffin was laid in the hearse. Beautiful wreaths of violets, Zola's favorite flower, were arranged about it and the pall-bearers took their places beside the coffin, with tasseled cords in their hands, and the procession started for the cemetery.

Among the masses of spectators which lined the route there were probably many who were not admirers of Zola, but the deep respect for the dead which is inherent in Frenchmen prevented a discordant note, and everybody uncovered as the hearse passed.

At the cemetery, M. Chaumie declared Zola's life work had been dominated by anxiety for sincerity and truth. M. Hermant and Anatole France also spoke. Zola's part in the Dreyfus affair was gone over. He was eulogized for his efforts to right a great wrong.

At the conclusion of the orations the relatives of the deceased novelist grouped themselves beside the coffin and a monster procession, composed mainly of members of labor organizations was allowed to enter the cemetery and file past the body. A majority of those who marched wore a red flower, the Socialist emblem in their buttonholes, others wore violets. Each delegation brought a wreath and deposited it beside the coffin. After the march past the coffin was placed in a temporary vault.

PROF. WYCKOFF AS A TRAMP.

His Identity Disclosed When He Became Ill in Colorado.

Pueblo, Col., Oct. 6.—A worn and haggard tramp who staggered into the dispensary of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company yesterday was discovered to be Prof. Walter A. Wyckoff of Princeton University. He had walked 50 miles through storm and cold and wanted relief from severe cramps in the stomach. He admitted his identity after it had been disclosed by a letter which fell from his pocket. Prof. Wyckoff said he had tramped the State for weeks, living the life of a hobo. In a few hours he was able to resume his sociological travel.

No Maritime Sessions.

Montreal, Oct 6.—The commission appointed by the Government to inquire into the alleged tobacco combine, held a brief session here Saturday, under the presidency of Judge McTavish, Ottawa, and adjourned to meet Oct. 14 at Quebec, and Oct. 20 at Montreal, at which time the question of a session at Joliette will be decided. Petitioners submitted they had no evidence in the Lower Provinces which would apply, consequently, there will be no sessions there as at first contemplated.

The Day of Miracles

is past, but many who are cured of itching, bleeding or protruding piles by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment look upon their recovery as the next thing to miraculous. It is not uncommon for persons who have undergone painful, risky and expensive operations in vain to be finally cured by this wonderful ointment. It is the standard the world over and the only guaranteed cure for piles.

Glad Sir Michael Is Gone.

London, Oct. 6.—There are signs that the reconstructed ministry is more homogeneous than the previous one, and that it has been delivered from the conflict of two wills which were ever at variance. The Government contract with the Cunard Line, which the stoutest opponents of subsidies on the Tory side, are justifying, as a piece of naval strategy, would not have been made if Sir Michael Hicks-Beach had been at the Treasury. Mr. Chamberlain favored it, and is likely to advocate strongly corresponding measures for promoting rapid communication between the colonies.

Pope Backs Up Bruchesi.

Montreal, Oct. 6.—Monsignor Rasicot, administrator of the Montreal Diocese, has just received an official document from Rome, concerning the marriage between Miss Blanche Prevost and Joseph Masson, which had been annulled by Archbishop Bruchesi because of certain technical illegalities existing at the time between the parties to the marriage. Pope Leo approves the position taken by Bruchesi.

BRILLIANT BANK BILL FORGERY

An Exceptionally Ingenious "raising" of a Modest Little one Dollar Bill.

Dr. Lee, psychologist, showed the Examiner this morning, one of the cleverest specimens of a bank note forgery imaginable. The bill under remark is ostensibly a ten dollar United States issue, but in reality it is a one dollar bill raised to an X, by a skill in engraving and manipulation that is simply astounding, and which, Dr. Lee thinks, entitles the clever scamp who did the work by virtue, or rather, vice, of his perverted diablerie of ingenuity and skill to the additional nine dollars of face value he gave a little one dollar article. The perfection of the fraud may be understood from the fact that the bill was got from a local bak in the regular way of business, and sent to the United States, with other American money, by express. It was returned as worthless, and on closer investigation showed that it was a one dollar bill raised to a ten. The face of the bill looks to the casual observer all right; the paper is the orthodox Government bank note paper, with the characteristic threads of silk incorporated in the tissue of the paper. But the weak points are the presence of the spread eagle on the central part of the face. One naturally expects the spread eagle to be always in order upon anything belonging to our Yankee cousins, but their X dollar bill is an exception. This expansive fowl has no business on a genuine X dollar bill, but has legitimate place on a one. Then the omission of apparently trifling details is an instance of the little slips which the criminal makes which so often furnish the clue and scent to the sleuth hounds of the law. On the lower margin of the bill, nestling among the intricacies of the lathe work, are the words "one." This, however, does not deprive the ingenious piece of forgery of its dangerous character. It is perhaps necessary to caution the public to exercise caution in accepting X bills of the kind referred to above. There is a temptation to not scrutinize too closely a bill of the face value of two-thirds of a ton of coal. The bill shown the Examiner would deceive many an expert, but in a soul to soul interview with a psychologist it went to pieces on a Lee shore.

DIAMOND RINGS GIVEN AWAY

To the Happy Purchasers of the "Cook's Delight" Stove.

A local stove dealer has hit upon a timely and seductive mode of attracting attention to his wares, but as he does not advertise, with delicate deference to his modesty and desire to be unknown, his name is withheld. In one of his store windows is a "Cook's Delight" cooking stove, and in front a card bearing a legend to this effect—"A black diamond ring given with every one of these stoves purchased." In front of this placard is a fine white sheet of paper, and on it reposes a sample of the rings — two hoops about the diameter of the top lid of a stove, set with three pieces of black diamond $15.00-a-ton coal.

THE STEWART FATALITY.

The Brockville Recorder Tells of how it Happened.

Both Legs Were Broken and Head Crushed in—Was Prominently Known in Brockville.

The Brockville Recorder contains the following account of the death of Mr. Robert Stewaert, of that town, and formerly of Peterborough:—

An accident, attended by sad and fatal circumstances, took place last night on the C.P.R., between Irish Creek and Smith's Falls. The victim was Robert Stewart, of this town, who lost his life. The particulars of the sad event are in effect that the deceased, who was the travelling representative of the George Matthews Packing Co., of Hull, left here on the 5.40 train, ostensibly for Smith's Falls, in the pursuit of his calling, and for some reason not known, he left the train at Irish Creek. It was dark when the train reached that point, and the deceased being missed by the train hands, a search was made in the limited time at their disposal. Not finding him, it was supposed that he had gone into the country about there, as was his custom, to purchase hogs from the farmers for shipment to Hull. Nothing more was seen or heard of him until shortly after 9 o'clock, when the night express, due to reach here at 9.55, reached a point two miles north of Irish Creek. The night was somewhat foggy, and just as the train crossed a small creek and emerged from the fog rising from it, the engineer perceived the deceasd walking on the outside of the right rail, with his back to the train, at a distance equal to about the space between one and a half telegraph poles; in advance of the train, which was moving at the rate of 30 miles an hour. The train was in charge of Conductor Wm. Anderson, of Ottawa, and Engineer I. Russell, of Brockville, two of the most careful and capable employees in the company's service. So soon as Engineer Russell saw the deceased, he vigorously pulled the whistle as a warning to the unfortunate man. Seeing that he paid no attention to the warning, Engineer Russell put the air brake into what is called the emergency position, and by which all its force is centered on the swiftly-moving wheels, but it was of no avail in so far as Stewart was concerned, and he was run down. He was struck with sufficient force to be thrown onto the ditch and he received such injuries as to cause death instantly. The train was brought to a standstill in about the length of itself. On going back it was found that Stewaert was dead. Both his legs were broken, and the back of his head was crushed in so that his brain was oozing out. It was decided to leave Brakeman Foley in charge of the body, and when the train arrived here, Coroner Jackson was notified. He gave orders to have the body removed to Irish Creek and held there until this morning, when the coroner went out to investigate.

The late Robert Stewart was 46 years of age. He was born in the county of Cavan, Ireland, and came to Canada when 28 or 30 years of age, locating at Peterborough. At that town he married Miss Margaret Nethercutt, who now survives him, with three sons. It is needless to say that they have the deep sympathy of the whole community in the sore affliction which has befallen them. The deceased had lived in Brockville for the past two years. He moved his family here a year ago. He was a Presbyterian in religion. He was a man of a genial and affable disposition, and had the faculty of making friends and keeping them. He was a shrewd and capable buyer, and enjoyed the confidence and esteem of the firm in whose employ he was, and of the general public as well.

The remains reached here this afternoon in charge of Undertaker Buchanan, and will be taken to Peterborough to-night for interment.

Coroner Jackson has decided that an inquest is unnecessary, and that deceased came to his death by an accident.

ST. PETER'S T. A. S.

Several Hundred Members Received Holy Communion Yesterday.

Sunday morning at 8 o'clock the members of St. Peter's T.A.S., to the number of several hundred, received Holy Communion. The members marched in a body from the convent hall, being marshalled by Messrs. P. Kane and Wm. Crowley. At the conclusion of Mass his Lordship congratulated the society on the good work it was doing, and praised the members for their display of loyalty to the principles of their society. The members afterwards marched to their rooms where they were addressed by Rev. Dr. O'Brien, after which each member renewed his pledge.

It is expected that the new books for the library shelves will arrive this week. The selection of volumes was carefully made and the new works will place the library on a good basis. All book holders are asked to turn in their books this week, in order that the different works may be catalogued.

Next Friday is Father Matthew's Day, and the occasion will be celebrated on an elaborate scale by the different temperance organizations throughout the world. The Literary Committee of the T.A.S. will meet to-night to consider the advisability of celebrating the date by an evening in the rooms.

Those interested in the night school will meet this evening in the rooms.

The membership tickets for the season will be out to-morrow, and an effort will be made to boom the number of ticket holders.

THE LATE MR. CHOATE.

His Funeral Took Place This Morning to Warsaw.

The funeral of the late Mr. T. G. Choate took place at 10.20 o'clock this morning from his late residence, Stewart street, north, to Warsaw cemetery. The funeral services at the house were conducted by Rev. Dr. Dewart, of Toronto, and Rev. J. P. Wilson, pastor of George street Methodist church of town. A large number of citizens from both town and country followed the deceased remains to their last resting place. The bearers were Messrs. John Walton, Warsaw; A. E. Dixon, A. R. Kidd, Richard Hall, Jas. Stevenson and H. C. Strickland.

The chief mourners were, Messrs. A. P. Choate and T. A. Choate, sons; Messrs. Percy Earl and Ollie Earl, grand sons; Wm. Payne, son-in-law; A. F. Choate, a brother, and Dr. Herriman, Lindsay, a cousin.

Valuable Advice to Mothers.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness off any kind, the first thing get your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25 cents.

WEDDED IN CLEVELAND.

Nuptials of Mr. James E. Spellman of This Town to Miss Ida Lauretta Bogan of Cleveland.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was solemnized in Immaculate Conception Church, Cleveland, on Tuesday, September 30th, at 9 o'clock, when Mr. James E. Spellman, a popular resident of Peterborough, Canada, was united in marriage to Miss Ida Lauretta Bogan, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bogan of Sixth avenue, and formerly of Peterborough. The solemn and impressive ceremony was performed during the celebration of grand nuptial mass, by Rev. Father Mosely. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion and was aglow with candles and incandescent lights. As the chimes ceased, the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march were played, and the bride entered, leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. Albert E. Bogan, who gave her away, and proceeded to the altar, where she was met by the groom. The fair young bride looked charmingly attractive, gowned in a travelling suit of castor shade broad cloth, with trimmings of pearl and white silk. She wore a large black velvet hat with rich trimmings of point lace, gracefully looped in bride's knots, and black ostrich plumes. She carried a beautiful pearl prayer book with trimmings of ivory and white silk ribbon. She was attended by her friend, Miss Agnes Cushing, who was prettily gowned in white mousseline de soie, with hat to match, and carried a pretty shower bouquet of pink roses. The groom was supported throughout the ceremony by Mr. Charles A. Bogan, brother of the bride, who performed the duties of best man. After the ceremony the bridal party returned to the residence of the bride's parents, where an elaborate dinner was served to about forty guests. The floral decorations for the table consisted of roses and carnations, gracefully intertwined with smilax, also rich silk embroidered rose centre pieces, presented to the bride. The house decorations were also elaborate, being composed of a bountiful supply of palms, ferns and cut flowers. The bride, who was very popular among a large circle of friends, was the recipient of many costly and beautiful presents, consisting of rare pieces of silverware, cut glass and china. Mr. and Mrs. Spellman left in the evening, amid showers of rice and good wishes, for a four weeks honeymoon to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal. They will in the near future return to Peterborough, Canada, where they will take up residence.

Both bride and groom are well and popularly known in Peterborough, and have many warm friends here, who will be glad to welcome them to their old home and will join with their many Cleveland friends in extending their heartiest congratulations and sincerest well wishes for a bright and happy future.

THE "CANADIAN INVASION."

J. J. Turner and Sons Lead the Van

There is a good deal of talk of the "American invasion" of this country, but it seems to be left for Turner & Sons to inaugurate a Canadian invasion of Uncle Sam's domains, of an industrial character. The following copy of a letter accompanying an order from a Cleveland, U. S., civic department, is a high testimonial to the quality of the goods of this firm.

TWO PROMINENT MINISTERS

Of the Methodist Church Here Yesterday.

Rev. Dr. Potts and Rev. Dr. Dewart Preached in Methodist Churches The Educational Fund.

The services at George street Methodist church, yesterday, were marked by the presence of two very prominent devines in the Methodist church of Canada. These were Rev. Dr. Dewart, the editor of the Christian Guardian, and Rev. Dr. Potts, of the educational branch of the church. The latter occupied the pulpit at the Charlotte street Methodist church in the morning and the George street Methodist church at night, preaching sermons in support of the educational fund of the church.

Rev. Dr. Dewart happened to be in town attending the funeral of the late Mr. T. G. Choate.

Rev. Dr. Potts took for his evening sermon — Psalm 48 — "Walk about Zion, consider her towers and her bulwarks and her palaces; tell it to the generation following." There is no more important duty resting upon the church of Jesus Christ than its relationship to the generation following, and a right understanding of that relationship qualifies us to discharge these duties. I propose to take an educational walk about Zion. The words of the text are the closing words of a Psalm both patriotic and pious, and very much depends upon spirit in which we undertake this walk. We may do it skeptically, or intermixed with malice. We should walk about an art gallery with an eye and imagination in beautiful sympathy with the work. The survey of Zion should be general and comprehensive. Knowledge of the church by the people of the church is sometimes very limited. This is accounted for sometimes by defective education of home, in the Sunday School or in the Christian pulpit. We should know the church constitutionally, historically and professionally. This educational walk should be definite and particular, embracing missionary enterprise, evangelization, Sunday School and temperance work.

Consider the bulwark of the doctrine, of revelation of the atonement, of the exceeding great and precious promises. Consider the towers, divine truth, divine grace and divine providence.

The scene then changes from the towers and bulwarks to the city itself.

Consider her palaces. In the palace of creation we may recognize God. In the divine palace is found the Sceptre of Mercy and a royal banquetting hall—man needs provision as well as protection. Every provision is made for the soul to adjust its relationship to God, and to feed and satisfy it.

Consider her palace of high and Holy fellowship. Why should we consider all this? That we may tell it to the generation following. The value of things often lies in the telling. Tell of history, commerce, of the various treasures of art and the preciousness of literature, but above all tell of the towers and bulwarks and palaces of God in Zion.

To whom shall it be told? To anybody and everybody, but especially to the young. One of the most important questions we have to solve is, who shall have the young people? Infidelity is after them. Let us tell it in the home, in the Sunday School, in the Church, in our intercourse with the young people. Tell it again and again, it is worth telling. The hope of humanity is in the telling of it.

The generation that preceded told it to us and now we are telling it to the generation that followeth. This is the true idea of Christian education and this is the work our schools and colleges are accomplishing. The colleges are telling to the generation that followeth.

THE MUSIC.

The music at both services was especially good. The morning anthem was "The King of Love, My Shepherd is," Mr. Mulligan taking the solos. The duet "Lead Me to Jesus" was nicely given by Miss Clara Belleghem and Mrs. F. E. Walden, of Picton.

In the evening the choir sang the anthems "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Sun of My Soul," with solos by Miss Clara Belleghem and Mr. Mulligan.

SUNDAY AT THE "Y"

Mr. R. J. Colville was the Speaker Yesterday Afternoon.

Mr. R. J. Colville, who for a number of years was Secretary of the Y. M.C.A., and whose work was so successful during that time, was the speaker at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday. Mr. Colville is now Railway Secretary of the Y.M.C.A.

In the morning at ten o'clock the six-group Bible classes for boys were organized for the season, and advantage was taken of Mr. Colville's presence to have him address the boys, who gathered together in the parlour. His address was listened to very intently by the boys and a good impression was made.

There was a good gathering of men at the Men's Rally in the afternoon, when Mr. Colville gave a pointed Gospel address on the "Three Great Things," Great wickedness, great white Throne, great salvation.

Mr. Geo. Schneider again presided at the piano and accompanied Mr. James Browne in the solo "Beyond the Gates of Paradise." Both were greatly appreciated.

Mr. Colville will address the meeting on November 9th, on the subject "How are the Mighty Fallen."

LT.-COL. EDWARDS SPEAKS

Of the Recent Military Camp of Instruction.

Claims That it was a Grand Success— Peterborough Well Represented.

The Examiner to-day had a very interesting talk with Lieut.-Col. E. B. Edwards, who has only recently returned from Niagara, where he had been acting as Deputy Adjutant General of the 3rd Division of the Divisional Camp of Instruction. Lieut.-Col. Edwards speaks most enthusiastically of the success of the camp, which was one of the most unique ever held in Canada.

Peterborough was certainly well represented at the Niagara camp. Lieut.Col. W. D. Gordon, who commanded the 3rd Division, is a native of Peterborough, Lieut.-Col. Edwards, of our 57th was Deputy Adjutant-General and Sgt.-Major Brittain had an appointment on the staff of instructors. Besides this Sgt. R. A. W. Hay, formerly of the 14th Durham Field Battery, held an important clerical position.

As before stated the camp differed widely from ordinary Camps of Instruction inasmuch as only the skeleton's of the various regiments of the province were represented. This included from each regiment, 13 officers, 50 non-coms. and 24 men, and as there were 28 regiments in camp it made up an army of about 2,000 men. The militia of Ontario from the farthest point east to the 97th of Sault Ste. Marie were represented with their skeleton force. The privates of the regiments who were taken to camp, did not undergo any training whatever and were not even required to do guard or piquet duty, but were employed entirely in in fatigue work. In addition to volunteer soldiers it might be stated that there were a number of regulars and a field hospital corps.

Many may wonder why this style of camp was chosen instead of having the old time annual training of two weeks to all ranks of the regiments. Col. Edwards explained that there were several reasons for this. In the first place the new drill book of 1902 is not known to many of the officers in the volunteer service of the Canadian Militia, and had the entire regiment turned out the officers would not have been, as a rule, prepared to give the proper instruction to the men. The idea of the camp was, to a large extent, to instruct the officers who would then be in a position to instruct the men upon their return. Again another reason for the change in the style of camp was that under the old system the 12 days was not a sufficient length of time to enable the officers and non-coms to take up advanced drill in the shape of attack and defence position, out post work, etc. The 12 days drill has heretofore been taken up in preliminary work that should really be known before a soldier comes into camp.

The camp was under a splendid staff of special instructors. Capt. Symons, of the R. M. C., Kingston, Lieut. Enoicke, of the London School, were amongst the number, the latter being in charge of the instructor in military intrenchment. He lectured to the officers and non-coms., and illustrated his lecture by means of a blackboard. The blackboard work was then followed by practical work on the part of the officers and non-coms. They all donned blue ducks and shouldering a pick or a shovel put their ideas into practice. The work was pursued with great vigour, Colonel Edwards assured the Examiner.

Lieut. Colville, who was taken upon the staff of the Intelligence Department of the British Government in South Africa, was in charge of the field sketching at the camp and lectured to non-coms. Sketches of the surrounding country were made with the aid only of pencil and paper, and the measurements were obtained by paces. Captain Barker, of the first Canadian contingent, who is well-known in Peterborough, lectured on advnce and rear guards, out posts, etc., illustrating his lecture by means of pencil and paper. He took the 5th and 6th Brigades through such work in the field.

Colonel Cartwright had a special class of 60 men who were trained in musketry instruction only.

Altogether the camp was a great success. There was considerable rain, but this was principally at night, and the drill went on uninterruptedly during the day. The grounds are rather small for the style of work attempted, but they were remarkably dry throughout. Lord Dundonald was in camp and was very friendly with all the officers, asking them to dine with him on several occasions.

During the progress of the camp Sergt. Major Brittain gave a lecture on the changes in drill introduced by the new drill book of 1902, which was very highly spoken of by those who heard it. His work in the field was chiefly done with the third division.

The work of Sergt. R. A. W. Hay, in the office of the third division, was also well done, and was highly appreciated by the officers of that division.

Lieut.-Colonel Edwards had a great deal of riding to do during the camp, and was in the saddle an average of six hours a day.

HIS EXPERIENCE

He scoffed at signs and tokens, a belief
In which, he said, was but proof of weakness
Which, manifested, gave him pain and grief,
But which he could not listen to with meekness.
In fact, he said, it always made him hot
To hear grown people talk such tommy-rot.

Wherefore he took a contrary delight
The superstitious ones he met in shocking.
Things that would give most of us quite a fright
He spoke of in a manner worse than mocking.
He always made it one of his chief boasts
That he had never been afraid of ghosts.

When he spilled salt, he scorned to throw a pinch
(Bad luck averting) over his left shoulder.
To omens he would never yield an inch.
I'm very sure no person could be bolder.
In dressing there is very little doubt
He turned his hose if put on wrong side out.

But retribution followed, for one day
He broke a mirror. It was quite a large one.
I'd hate to pay the bill he had to pay.
You know how awfully sometimes they charge one.
He said with fervor that he had been "stuck"
And owned that time the breaking brought bad luck.

Then—this, I think, was also rather quaint—
That morning he walked underneath a ladder.
The man above upset a pot of paint,
Which, falling, made the man below much madder,
And (circumstances sometimes so combine)
The painter then was working on a sign.

Indoors he raised a fine umbrella next—
Bad luck, of course, but he'd show he despised it.
The name was on the inside, and, quite vexed,
The rightful owner saw and recognised it.
The thing was rather awkward to explain.
He'll pause when tempted to do that again.

Well, things like that just happened right along.
I did not say, I think, that day was Friday—
The worst of all the week. I may be wrong,
But I would never pick that day for my day.
He said at last—his pride had had its fall—
There might be something in it after all.

SEVEN YEARS IN BED.

This Wonderful Case Borders on the Miraculous.

Nothing Like it has Ever Been Heard of—In Newfoundland, Where the Story Comes From it has Created a Profound Sensation.

Cottel's Cove, New Bay, Newfoundland, Oct. 6.—(Special.) — This part of the island has been thoroughly aroused by the most miraculous cure of a man named Joseph Boon.

For eight years this man had been ailing and for seven years of this time he was unable to work. He had Back Ache and Kidney Complaint, in fact he was all pains and aches. He had been treated from time to time by several doctors and although he always carefully attended to their several prescriptions exactly as ordered by them, he got no relief, but was slowly growing worse.

Finally he went to the hospital where he remained for seven months, only to be sent home as an incurable case.

He has tried every remedy he could hear of, electric belts, liniments, oils and other medicines but all of no avail. No one ever thought he could ever be well again.

However, one day he picked up a newspaper containing an account of how Mr. Richard Quirk, of Fortune Harbour, had been cured of Lumbago by Dodd's Kidney Pills. After reading this Mr. Boon made up his mind to try this remedy and at once began a treatment.

He used altogether twenty-one boxes before he was able to go to work again, but now he is able to attend to his daily duties as strong and vigorous as any man along the coast.

Mr. Boon is a fisherman and is at present engaged at lobster fishing fishing with no thought whatever of his old time Back Ache and other pains.

The people here regard this cure as little short of miraculous.

The Dinner Table.

The woman from New England buys a "tablespread," while her sister from the south buys a "tablecloth." The woman from Nova Scotia orders the servant to "lay the table," while with most of us natives of the United States the command is to "set the table." In the country the hostess says to her guests, "Sit by," when it is time to eat; in town it is "Please sit down;" in the city among the swells there is no further invitation than the announcement of the servant that "Dinner is served."

Effect of Fruit on the Stomach.

The malic acid of ripe apples, either raw or cooked, will neutralize any excess of chalky matter engendered by eating too much meat. It is also the fact that such fresh fruits as the apple, the pear and the plum, when taken ripe and without sugar, diminish acidity in the stomach rather than provoke it. Their vegetable sauces and juices are converted into alkaline carbonates, which tend to counteract acidity.

Safer Too.

Lover—One kiss is worth a hundred letters.

Damsel—Oh, you're very sentimental.

Lover—Oh, no. The kiss, you know, can't be introduced in a breach of promise suit.

Eczema Easily Cured.

Merrill's System Tonic has cured many cases of blood and skin diseases such as eczema, scrofula, pimples and syphilitic sores, than all other remedies combined. Besides being a most powerful blood purifier it is an excellent tonic and cures by assisting nature to throw off the disease. A fifty cent bottle lasts three weeks. Sold at Ormond and Walsh's.

CURRENT IN AFRICA

TOLD BY A BRITISH MISSIONARY TO THE LOWER ZAMBESI.

Some Fresh Folk-lore—Moral Tales and Fables—How God Gave the Animals Water—Tale Which Teaches That the Despised and the Last Shall Be First—The Hyena's Ingratitude.

Once upon a time the animals had no water to drink. So an assembly of representatives of the various species was called and they held a consultation. Then the Elephant said: "We have food in abundance, but God has neglected to give us even a single well of water whereat we may quench our thirst. Come, let us go together to God and beg for water." To this all agreed, and so they arose and commenced their journey up the steep mountain track which led to the dwelling-place of God.

After proceeding a short distance, they heard footsteps coming behind them. Looking back, they saw the Tortoise hurrying after them. "Stay," said the Buffalo, "let us wait until he comes up to us, and then give him a sound thrashing for his impudence in seeking to associate himself with us." Presently the Tortoise came up, fearing no evil. "good day, friends," said he; "will you allow me to join your deputation, and put in a plea for water on behalf of my tribe; for sorely, indeed, do we need it?" "What impudence!" said the Leopard, striking a blow at the Tortoise's head, which he cleverly avoided by withdrawing into his shell. "To think that a wretched reptile like you should venture to place himself on an equality with us!" So saying, he picked up the inoffensive Tortoise and flung him into a thorn bush; and the cavalcade proceeded on their journey. Soon recovering himself, the Tortoise picked his way out of the thorn bush, and followed in the track of the other animals, keeping, however, at a respectable distance, for fear of further ill-treatment. At length the animals stood in the presence of God. And they cried out, saying: "O God, we are dying of thirst; give us water, we beseech Thee," And God said: "Go thy way, pull up the acacia tree, and you will find water at its roots." So they parted. And when they had gone the Tortoise, who had kept out of sight while the other animals were speaking with God, came forward. And God said: "What do you want here, Tortoise?" And he said: "I have come to beg water for my tribe, lest we perish with thirst." And God replied: "Have I not already told your companions to dig at the root of the acacia tree, and they will find water?" So the Tortoise arose and went his way.

Now, on their way down the mountain the other animals had all forgotten the name of the tree which God had told them to pull up. When they reached the plain their friends gathered round to learn how they had fared. "God has told us," said the Buffalo, "to pull up a certain tree, and we shall find water at its root. Come, friend Elephant, you are stronger than any of us; you shall pull up the tree for us. It was the fig tree, was it not, that we were told?" No," said the Elephant, "it was the plaintain." "No, no," came from a dozen voices at once, and each animal had a different tree to suggest. "Well," said the Elephant. "it is no use arguing, I will pull them all up, and then we are sure to find the water." His labor, however, was all in vain; not a drop of water could be found. Then the representatives of the various species began to quarrel, each blaming the others for having forgotten the name of the tree which would save them all from perishing. As the turmoil was getting noisier, and threatening to end in a general fight, the Tortoise came up, and, learning the cause of the disturbance, said, "Let me point out the tree for you. Come friend Elephant, pull up this acacia tree." The animals all laughed at this, and the Elephant replied: "Do you suppose, Tortoise, that you know better than all of us? Has not your experience in the thorn bush taught you wisdom? Be off! or a worse fate will be yours, you audacious reptile." Nay," meekly replied the Tortoise, "just pull up this one tree, as I ask you, and if you do not find water at its roots kill me at once, as a creature which is, indeed, no longer fit to live." So the Elephant consented, and pulled up the acacia tree, and there, rapidly rising in the hollow that was made, was seen a bubbling spring of crystal water. Then all the animals sang the praises of the Tortoise, as they slaked their burning thirst, and ever after he was highly esteemed by great and small.

Letter on a Cuff.

A queer kind of letter reposed in the correspondence rack at Edgbaston, Birmingham, recently. It was nothing more nor less than a shirt cuff, which had come across the world just as a letter or post card would, addressed to an Australian, at present accompanying the cricket team through England. After the name, the address went on, "Care of Australian Cricketers, Somewhere in England." It was duly stamped, and bore the usual post marks. It had been posted after the news of the first test match collapse was cabled to Australia, and in large lettering were the words, "Ten for 36 and two for 10 versus nine for 376." There was a sly humor about it, for the postcript was, "Look out for further cuffs."

What Carlyle Wrote of Tennyson.

Tennyson in his prime was thus described by Thomas Carlyle to Ralph Waldo Emerson on Aug. 5, 1844: "One of the finest looking men in the world. A great shock of rough, dusty dark hair; bright, laughing, hazel eyes; massive aquiline face—most massive, yet most delicate, of sallow brown complexion, almost Indian looking; clothes cynically loose, free and easy; smoked infinite tobacco. His voice is musically metallic, fit for loud laughter and piercing wail and all that may lie between; speech and speculation free and plenteous. I do not meet in those late decades such company over a pipe."

The Gleaners.

The old custom of gleaning in the harvest fields, which recalls the Biblical story of Ruth and Naomi, is not obsolete in England, and in Hertfordshire, Bedfordshire and the neighboring counties as soon as the wheat is gathered in the late days of August there may be seen in the newly cleared fields numbers of women and children diligently picking up one by one the scattered ears and forming them into neat little sheaves, which they carry in their hands until large enough to be bound up. When the daylight fails, all the booty is bound up in cloths and carried home on the heads of the gleaners. At home they thrash it out by hand and sell the grain or use it for their chickens. The gathering of a half peck is usually a full day's work for a child, and often a woman spends a whole day in gathering very little more. Gleaning, however, is looked upon somewhat in the light of a picnic. The mother and children leave home in the morning, take with them food for the day, and stay out in the fields until nightfall.

To Increase Your Appetite.

Nothing will stimulate a keen, healthy relish for food, insure good digestion and perfect assimilation, like Ferrozone, which is the most successful tonic and health renewer known to medical men. Ferrozone is a positive cure for Anaemia, Impure Blood, Boils, Pimples, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and all Stomach and Bowel Troubles, Ferrozone cleanses, strengthens and purifies the blood, it invigorates the heart and nerves, banishes sickness and pain and makes ailing people well. Try a box or two of Ferrozone, the result will be a surprise. Price 50c. At druggists or Ormond & Walsh's.

Hamilton's Pills cure Constipation.

A "Tragedy."

A Missouri paper gives an account of an amusing little "tragedy" which it claims occurred in its town. A man and his wife were riding home on a street car. He was reading his paper, when another lady got on. The car was crowded, and without glancing up he arose and gave her his seat, receiving a gracious smile in payment. The man's wife immediately got up, gave the bellrope a hard jerk and invited her husband to get off. When he looked around to learn the cause of her anger, he discovered that the woman to whom he had given his seat was his first wife, whom he had divorced two years before. They walked the rest of the way home, and he is still explaining.

Merrill Challenges the World.

Merrill, the druggist, of Brantford, offers $1000 reward to anyone who will make a better cure for constipation than Merrill's System Tonic. This medicine is not simply a cathartic but a positive and pleasant to take cure for habitual constipation. In this way it cures dyspepsia, impure blood and nervous trouble. 50 doses, price 50c., at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

Wronged.

Lucille—But he has no imagination.

Hortense—He hasn't? That's where you wrong him. Why, he thinks there are fully a dozen girls in this town who have hearts that he broke all to pieces.

Assured Approval.

"The singer has made great strides in the profession, hasn't she?"

"Yes, indeed. Formerly, when she received an encore, she sang; now she usually smiles."

These Girl Friends.

"I had a proposal last night and refused it."

"You are always thinking of the welfare of others, aren't you, dear?"

A German botanist has ascertained that one use of the movements of leaves on sensitive plants is to warn off small creeping insects.

Stricken With Paralysis.

Could Scarcely Walk and was Given up by Doctors—An Extraordinary Case—Now Believes His Life was Saved by

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mr. James A. Deal, a respected resident of Bridgewater, N. S., writes:—"About a year ago I suffered a stroke of paralysis, which left me in a very bad state of health. To add to my troubles, last winter I took la grippe, which completely exhausted my nervous system. I could scarcely walk or talk, my legs and arms were partially paralyzed, my blood did not circulate properly, and I could not do any work. In fact, I was so bad that the doctors gave me up and thought I could not live through the summer.

"I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and persevered in the treatment, until now I am at work again. The change in my condition has been most remarkable. It is a surprise to everyone to know that I am able to be around again. My nervous system has been built up wonderfully by this remedy. I am able to rest well, my circulation is normal, and my general health good. My appetite is first-class, and I have gained considerably in flesh.

"The results I have obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food have been most gratifying, and I have no hesitation in stating that I believe I owe my life to this preparation. I am willing that you publish this letter, with the hope that it may be the means of helping others to regain their health."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 1

CIVILIZATION.

Times That Have Vanished Move in Mysterious Procession Across the Mirror of the Mind.

We see, as in a glass darkly, the civilizations that have vanished. The misty images of Asiatic, of African, of Grecian, of Roman social organization move in mysterious procession across the mirror of the mind, and each vanishing casts a deeper gloom over the spirit of the beholder. Is your civilization doomed likewise to pass away? * * * Deep melancholy, as we survey the success of civilizations, seems inseparable from contemplation. When we behold an Egyptian society that thousands of years before our era revelled in ecstacies of art that possibly even Greece herself did not surpass; when we regard Greek art and thought—inseparable twins of excellence—when we watch a Roman civilization that evolved methods of law and government that made the Eternal City the heart of the world; when we gaze upon a mediaeval Renaissance that brought learning and art to a new and an undreamed perfection; when we see these visions pass across the mirror of the mind and vanish, the sense of tears and sadness comes. * * * Is Egypt to-day the better, for her catena of civilization? Is Greece, Rome, Italy, nay, is the world itself advanced at all in proportion to the stress and storm that accompanied the evolution of successive societies? Is there, on the whole, any advance? Is not our civilization growing towards ripeness, not doomed likewise to natural decay? Is not civilization like an annual garden plant that rises and flowers in beauty, fades and casts its seed—seed that will in due time rise in glory and cast its seed, and so on year by year until at last exhaustion or the gardener's hoe ends all?

Pessimism is apt enough to take such a view, and not the less so perhaps because of the fact that analogy is more convincing than analysis. But even by the use of analogy another and a more cheering aspect of the question may be shown. Let us take it that the earth is a garden, that civilization is a slowly flowering plant, a great aloe, bitter in leaf, exquisite in bloom; that the Gardener is One who neither slumbers nor sleeps. From such premises one would expect to happen exactly that which has happened. A process of selection would go on, experiment after experiment, millennium after millennium—for with this Gardener a thousand years are but as yesterday—would be made, until at last there would be evolved, out of innumerable apparent failures, a flower of such transcendent glory that it would remain a joy for ever—the final and sempiternal type at which the great Gardener aimed.

There is not necessarily, therefore, a sense of hopeless despair involved even in the idea that our own civilization must fade away, if we are only convinced that we are playing a part in the evolution of civilization that will fully realize in the ripeness of time the potentialities of the race. To be so convinced introduces into the life of the race a new factor that will hasten the day of gladness. The sense of personal responsibility arises in each optimist, and the belief that something of final importance turns on his or her every action drives the mind forward to accomplish something that will hasten the end.—London Spectator.

The Hyena's Ingratitude.

Long ago there lived a man named Nemi, who was very kind to all the animals. All through the winter, when food was scarce, he feasted them from his well-filled barns. The sound of the great drum in Nemi's courtyard was the signal for the gathering of animals of almost every species. The elephant came with the buffalo, the lion and the antelope, the hyena, and the rabbit—all for the time laying aside their mutual hatred of one another, and joining in honoring Nemi with a chorus of praise as they partook of his bounty. One day Nemi said to his wife, "I should like to put the affection of these animals to the test. I often wonder whether there is any real gratitude in their hearts for all my kindness, and whether after my death, they will any longer hold me in honor. Let it be given out that Nemi is dead; then I will lie upon my mat in front of my house, simulating a corpse ready for burial, and will see whether they will come to mourn over me." So it was reported that Nemi was dead, and soon, from all directions, the animals came to mourn over their benefactor. Among them came the hyena, who, when he saw the corpse of Nemi, was seized with an overmastering desire to devour it. So after the other animals had all taken their departure, he returned to the courtyard, and, with a growl of satisfaction, ran to the body, and was just about to commence his horrid feast, when Nemi sprang to his feet, and seizing a heavy wooden pestle, hit the hyena such a blow on the back that it was almost bent double. The hyena never fully recovered from the effects of the blow, and the deformity which bears record to his ingratitude and greed has been transmitted to all his children.—London Standard.

Divers Get Angry.

An Australian pearl diver says that one of the strange effects of diving is the invariable bad temper felt while working at the bottom of the sea. As this usually passes away as soon as the surface is reached, it is probably due to the pressure of the air affecting the lungs and through them the brain. The exhilaration and good temper of the mountain climber is a contrary feeling from an opposite cause. A diver becomes so angry at some imaginary wrong on the part of those in the boat above that he gives the signal to be pulled up—"with the intention of knocking the heads off the entire crew"—only to forget what he came up for when the surface was reached.

HE TOOK THE SHOWER BATH

And It Drove Him From the Yosemite Back to New England.

After a week of little journeys, striking here and there a few miles to absorb the Yosemite valley from a dozen coignes of vantage, we were whipping the Illilouette one afternoon for mountain trout, says the World's Work.

"Tomorrow," said a voice, "I shall take a shower bath under the seventeen hundred foot fall."

"You," said another voice, "are a fool."

"Not at all," came back argumentatively. "The river's very low. What there is of it turns to spray in the first hundred feet; it will simply come down like rain. Why, you'd go under the Bridal Veil yourself. Only that's prosaic. This is something big. Come on."

"Not I."

But I was there to see. The water, as he had said, came down, a considerable part of it, in rain and spray that flew out on the wind incredible distances. But to crawl down, dressed in a bathing suit, closer to the main stream that falls to the pool and upon the rocks with a murderous swish in the air and a roar like a railway train when it strikes was daring to foolhardiness. At any moment a veering wind might swing the whole mass upon the tall, slim figure backing tentatively on all fours down the jagged talus slope, his eyeglass pebbles glinting cheerfully. A steady breeze kept the fall swung out a little the other way, and the spray burgeoned out far up the other slope. The roar was deafening.

All at once the wind shifted, the water swung back, and in a flash the human figure was blotted out in a deluge that turned me sick. For a second—that seemed an hour—it played on the spot fiendishly, it seemed to me, standing horrified there, and then slowly it swept away.

And then there was a movement, a painful, crawling movement, down there on the slope, and I scrambled down the slippery rocks to help a blinking, creeping, much surprised youth, bleeding from a hundred cuts, up to where his clothes lay. He was still too dazed to speak. When his breath returned and his extra glasses were perched again on his nose, he said:

"The oceans fell upon me! For God's sake, come back to New England!"

And we went.

A Hospitable Heathen.

It was high noon and Monday. Worse yet, it was the thirteenth day of the month. A knock was heard at the kitchen door of the Burns mansion. The Chinese servant opened the door. A tramp of long and varied experience accosted him:

"I've been traveling and have played in mighty hard luck," observed the tramp. "I lost all of my money, and now I'm hungry—very, very hungry. Can't you please give me a little bite of something to eat?"

The Chinaman comprehended the situation at once. A benevolent, placid smile spread itself over his entire countenance.

"You likee fish?" he asked of the tramp.

"Yes, I like fish first rate. That will do as well as anything."

"Come Fliday" said the hospitable heathen.

Born and Died the Same Day.

"Born and died on the same day" is true of the following conspicuous men: Shakespeare was born April 23, 1564, and died April 23, 1616. Raphael Segio d'Urbino, the great artist, was born on Good Friday, 1483, and died on Good Friday, 1520, aged thirty-seven. Good Friday is a movable feast, so the day of the month may not have been the same. Sir Thomas Browne, author of "Religio Medici," was born Oct. 19, 1605, and died Oct. 19, 1682. Timothy Swan, composer, was born July 23, 1758, and died July 23, 1812. St. John of God, one of the most eminent of Portuguese saints, was born March 8, 1495, and died March 8, 1550. John Sobieski, king of Poland, who delivered Vienna from the Turks, was born June 17, 1629, and died June 17, 1696.

Urban Longevity.

That the country is the place to acquire and preserve health is a theory that has been exploded by the United States census statistics. We have heretofore been advised to go to the hills and vales, the field and woodland, the lake and river, where there is an uninterrupted prospect and the air of heaven has a free sweep, but now this advice must be changed and the pent up cities recommended for health, if the census authorities are right.

According to the official figures the city has a decided advantage over the rural districts in the matter of human longevity. The average age reached in the cities is 38.2 years and in the country 31.1. There the urban has an advantage of 7.1 years over the suburban. The advantage of pure air in the country is apparently more than offset by sanitary and food advantages in the city.

A Dumas Story.

The younger Dumas once went to Villers Cotterets, his father's native village, to the unveiling of a statue to the creator of "The Three Musketeers." At the banquet in the evening the younger Dumas sat next to one of the oldest inhabitants who, in perfect good nature, but without any tact, began to tell a story of Dumas pere.

"Ah," said he, "he was a gay soul, your father! How we loved him. He was so kind hearted and generous. The last time he came to Villers Cotterets he gave a banquet in the Hotel de Ville. He forgot for some time after to pay the bill. See that fat man over there? He was the butcher who furnished the feast. I should not be surprised if the meat were still owing to him. But that is nothing. He is proud to this day of being the purveyor to Alexandre Dumas."

The story was an ironical commentary on the set speeches of the afternoon. The son was anxious then and there to settle his father's score.

Lamb Gourd of Samara.

In a book called "The Duke of Holstein's Travels Into Persia and Muscovy," published in 1630, there is an account of a curious vine product called the "lamb gourd," which runs as follows: "In the neighborhood of Samara, Russia, there grows a gourd which closely resembles a lamb in all its members. It changes place in growing as far as the stalk will reach, and wheresoever it turns the grass withers and dies. This change of the gourd plant the Muscovites call 'feeding.' They further say that when it ripens the stalk withers and that the outward rind of the gourd is then covered with a sort of wool, which they use instead of fur."

Scaliger also makes mention of the lamb gourd and says that it grows until the grass fails and that it then dies for want of nourishment. He also says that the wolf is the only animal that will feed upon it.

THE WALL STREET MARKET.

Another Big Slump in Wall Street Prices.

C.P.R. Very Disappointing to its Friends—Heard Amongst the Bulls and Bears.

To-day was another disasterous day for any who were on the long side of the Wall street market. Prices without any warning broke from one to three points and did not show any signs of recovery. The feature of the market was the sudden drop of C.P.R., which fell from 156 to 132 3-4. U. P. showed further weakness and after its opening quotation of 103 7-8, ran down to 102 1-8. Sugar too was away off. It closed on Saturday at 124, opened to-day at 123 1-4, and went down to 120. P A's opening quotation was 162 1-2, and it too was sickly, falling off to 160 1-4. Reading could be had at 68 3-4, and Texas at 42, after opening at 45 7-8. Sloss was quoted at 57, taking a sudden fall of three points. B O was at 104, and BRT at 62 5-8. Local traders are looking on and wondering when the bottom will be reached. There is little or no buying. Sales at noon were 499,700. Money 12 per cent.

The following despatch has been received by E. M. Poussett & Co, from McIntyre & Marshall, of New York and Chicago:

To Messrs. Haight & Freese;

The most important news over Sunday has been the official announcement by St. Paul, through its President, of authorization of an issue of $25,000,000 new common stock. Of this amount, $10,000,000 will be used to replace money paid out of the gross earnings for new line extensions, etc. It is understood that the stock holders will be given right to subscribe for this stock on such terms as will practically give them a good stock dividend, something like 15 per cent. to 20 per cent. The terms of subscription of rights are expected to be made public to-day. This is bullish news and accounts for the steady accumulation of stock throughout recent panic by Standard Oil and other insiders. The stock sells dividends to-morrow, the regular 3 1-2 per cent. and 1-2 per cent. extra to participate in this dividend. The stock must be bought in the regular way to-day or for cash to-morrow before closing of books at 3 p.m. Shorts will do well to remember this to-day, or if they carry the stock short over to-night, they will practically have to pay the dividend. We look for an irregular market and possibly lower prices as the strike becomes momentarily grave and the money situation far from being clear.

M. & M.

THE LICENSING OF FACTORIES

Instructor Zufelt Continues the Discussion on the Subject.

Montreal News Letter—The Dairy Courses at Guelph—Results of Dairy Exhibits at Two Exhibitions.

At present we are experiencing one of those evolutions in the butter and cheese business which every industry sooner or later has to go through. As the country grows older new conditions are constantly presenting themselves and new methods must be employed to grapple with them. We cannot conduct our business to-day in the same way as our forefathers did, and hope to be successful. We must periodically reorganise and reconstruct so as to meet present day requirements and, as it were, keep our finger constantly on the public pulse, so that we may if possible anticipate their slightest desire.

Some have said that if left to itself nature will provide a remedy for every evil. If this be so, then why worry over the result? But are not these agitations for change which spring up from time to time, nature's first steps towards effecting a cure?

Coming down to the question, which is agitating the minds of the dairymen to-day, that of licensing or not licensing cheese and butter factories, to my mind there are but two courses to be pursued. Our present system of giving instruction and aiding the industry has to be abandoned. It is a sad thing to say but nevertheless true, that the average farmer is the hardest class of people to organize. They have so many petty little jealousies to gratify that they have not the time nor the desire to consider greater issues, which affect their common prosperity.

The question then arises, is the Government justified in taking control of an industry which may be conducted successfully by the people themselves, if they only will? If this is answered in the affirmative then the only way to carry it out successfully is to come out boldly and compel each factory to come up to certain requirements before being allowed to manufacture either cheese or butter. I say, if we are going to manage this industry let us do so, but employ no half-hearted policy. Be thorough or be nothing at all.

SHOULD HAVE MORE AUTHORITY.

The stand I take is this: If the Government is justified in spending money to employ instructors then these instructors should have the necessary authority to compel the improvements which are required and the only way to do this is to require each factory to take out a license and comply with the conditions necessary before being granted one. The result in a few years would be that we would have better buildings with curing rooms so constructed as to be capable of being maintained at a uniform temperature of from 60 degrees. Proper sanitation and cleanliness would also be strictly enforced.

PURE MILK ESSENTIAL.

Another line of work to be taken up at the same time would be to educate the farmer to the fact that fine goods cannot be made from impure milk and perhaps the best way to do this effectively would be to have makers reject all such inferior milk. The education of our makers could also be taken up by placing cheese and butter making on a professional basis and establishing a standard of efficiency, requiring each maker to take out a certificatee of qualification before being allowed to take charge of a factory. This would tend to weed out inferior and incompetent men and do away largely with the ruinous competition which exists among makers at present.

THE FIRST STEP.

Our first step then should be in reorganizing the whole system of instruction by forming the factories into groups with competent men placed in charge, whose duty would be not so much to instruct the makers as to see that they were doing their duty, and that they had the necessary equipment for turning out a first class article. These inspectors could also locate the cause of any inferior product being made, and place the blame where it properly belonged, and enforce the carrying out of the means, for remedying the defect.

There has been a suggestion made that in the appointing of the inspectors the cheese boards should have a say in the matter, but if this were allowed it would weaken very materially the whole scheme of improvement, and destroy to a certain extent the inspectors' independence. This is the one great drawback to our present system. We have been too dependent on the factories for support and no special authority to enforce necessary improvements. Our inspectors should be entirely free of the factories, so that they could do their duty without fear or favour. This grouping of factories would also serve a useful purpose in showing the farmers the value of co-operation and make it easier to get them to work together more in harmony. There are many improvements to be made, especially in the commercial end of the business, and which can only be accomplished by co-operation.

There may be doubts in some quarters as to the wisdom of putting this scheme into operation at once, but it has been before the public more or less for the past two or three years, and as far as my judgment goes there would be no more auspicious moment for its inception than the present.

THE SCHEME APPROVED.

At the several meetings of the patrons which I have addressed this season I have not heard a dissenting voice and all expressed a desire for its adoption. I think I am safe in saying, in this eastern section at least, fully 75 per cent. of all patrons would be pleased to see this put in operation. If this be so why should we wait. The time to strike is when the iron is hot.

If, on the other hand, the voice of the people is against the scheme of licensing the factories then I would say the only alternative to follow would be to drop entirely our present system of instruction and devote the money now spent for that purpose towards the improvement of our dairy schools and the establishment of dairy experimental stations, and take up only work of a purely educational character.

This would leave the field clear for privte enterprise. The factories then could combine together in any way they saw fit and employ their own instructor or manager. The tendency of all forms of industries at present is towards amalgamation, and the dairymen will be compelled to follow suit simply by the law of self-preservation. The whole question in my mind is narrowed down to this. If it is necessary for the Government to take charge of the instruction work at the factories then the only way for them to do it efficiently is to make it compulsory.

If, on the other hand, it is thought the Government is exceeding its rights or powers by doing this, then to drop the instruction at the factories altogether, and devote their attention to purely educational work, and leave the factories free for private enterprise.

RUGBY.

Ottawa should not crow until they are out of the woods. The Peterborough Club made a suggestion to the Ottawa club proposing that the local fifteen go down to Ottawa on Saturday next, and that the Rough Riders play here on Thanksgiving Day. The Ottawa club, on the plea that they had an open date on November first, suggested that the Peterborough club go down to the capital on that date instead of on October 11th. Peterborough, while knowing that there was a slight advantage to the Ottawa team in having the last game played in that city, but desiring to be reasonable to the Rough Riders, accepted the change. Scarcely had the message from the local club been sent to Ottawa before the Ottawa papers came out with a boasting write-up such as the follows;

"Word also came from Peterborough yesterday as an answer to the club's proposal to play there on Thanksgiving Day, in the event of Peterborough been willing to play the return game in the city on November 1st. A telegram from the secretary of the Peterborough Club announced their acceptance of the proposal. By this arrangement of things, the Ottawa Intermediates will profit considerably. Besides having what advantage there is in playing the final game at home, the Riders' seconds will be able to play the overflow of the seniors, as a senior game will have intervened, thus making all the seniors who played on the Rough Riders last year, and who failed to catch places on the first team this season eligible to participate in an intermediate game."

Similar items were telegraphed to the Toronto newspapers, giving the impression that Peterborough was "easy," so to speak. The fact of the matter is that Peterborough knew very well that they were making a slight concession to Ottawa, and did so in a sportsmanlike way, believing that they were accommodating Ottawa regarding an open date.

The practice match on the Nicholls oval on Saturday afternoon was well attended, and Capt. McPherson gave his men a good work out. The day was an ideal one for Rugby and a number of spectators were on hand to see the boys chase the pigskin.

The Peterborough II team will very likely go down to Port Hope on Saturday next to play the T.C.S. team. Peterborough can this year put a speedy second fifteen on the field, and next year will very likely put a team in the junior series. Of course the team which will go to Port Hope on Saturday, while playing under the name of of the Peterborough II, will most likely contain a number of T.A.S. men.

The local team are desirous of having a practice game on Saturday next and an effort is being made to get the Young Torontos down. Should this be found impossible they will endeavour to arrange a game with Lindsay.

THE RING.

Of all the lightweights now before the public, few deserve a chance of clashing with the champion more than Kid McPartland, who will box Joe Ganns at Fort Erie to-night. McPartland has long been a good boxer, long an ambitious one, but obstacle after obstacle has been found in his path when his steps were turn-towards the championships in the classes in which he fought. While until decisively defeated Gans must stand alone as the leader of the light weights of to-day. McPartland looks to be one one of the best second choices that could be picked to have a chance with him.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Notes Concerning the Movements of Peterborough People and Their Visitors

Miss Alma Francis McCollum left on Saturday for Boston, where she will continue her elocutionary studies.

Mrs. Wellington Boyce, of Peterborough, is the guest of Miss C. E. H. Choate, Walton street.—Port Hope Guide.

Mrs. F. O. Allison, (Miss Johnson) will receive on Thursday afternoon and evening at her residence, 110 Dublin street.

Mrs. W. M. Savigny left this morning for Toronto, where she intends spending two or three weeks as the guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. R. A. Savigny.

Rev. W. R. Young, D. D., pastor of the First Methodist Church, St. Thomas, formerly of Peterborough, has been invited to the first Methodist church, Omaha, Nebraska. He is at present in the west, and whether he will accept the invitation or decline, is not known.

Mr. Thomas Blezard, ex-M.P.P., for East Peterborough, was in town this morning on his way to New Ontario. It is Mr. Blezard's intention to make a personal inspection of the country there, and inquire into its advantages, not that he himself has any intention of taking up land in New Ontario, but in order that he may be able to give his friends in his neighbourhood a direct opinion on the wealth of that portion of the province.

Lindsay Post,—Ven. Archdeacon Casey, of St. Mary's, takes a deep interest in temperance work, and the labours of the late Mgr. Laurent in that behalf will be continued by the Archdeacon with all due zeal. He has announced that in the near future he will organise a Total Abstinence Society in connection with the congregation. St. Peter's, Peterborough, has a society with a membership of about 600, thanks to the energy and popularity of Rev. Dr. O'Brien, of the Cathedral staff, who is spoken of in the Catholic Register as the "Father Matthew of Ontario."

CHURCH CHIMES.

ALL SAINT'S CHURCH.

At All Saint's Church last night Rev. W. L. Armitage commenced a series of sermons upon the subject of "Common Things from the Sayings of Our Lord." The morning anthem was entitled "While the Earth Remaineth," in which Miss Rickey took the solo. In the evening the anthem was entitled "But the Lord is Mindful of His Own."

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

At the evening service there was a rainy night congregation, but the services were exceptionally hearty, especially the new or seldom sung hymns. The offertory anthem was given by a full choir. It was Dr. Bridge's exquisite setting of Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar." Its treatment by the choir, was in harmony with the character of the selection. The shading and expression were beautifully good, and the difficulties of the music, the involved time and close harmony, were well mastered and gave evidence of the musical finish the capable choirmaster exacts.

ELECTRICITY AIDS PLANTS.

Quicker Growth Shown in Experiments by Dr. Lemstrom.

London, Oct. 6.—Dr. Lemstrom of Helsingfors University, has been experimenting on the effect of an electrical discharge on the growth of plants. Four seeds of barley, wheat and rye were sown in pots, the soil being connected electrically with the ground. Above the pots was suspended an insulated network of wire, with a number of points of a Holz machine so connected that in some of the pots the electric current passed from the metal work to the earth, while in others it passed in the reverse direction.

For five hours daily electricity was caused to pass through the soil, which was kept damp. After eight weeks the height of the plants affected by the current was found to be 40 per cent. greater than those to which no current had been applied.

Cattle Died of Anthrax.

Ingersoll, Oct. 6. — The Provincial bacteriologist, Prof. Amyot, has proven conclusively that the deaths of a number of cattle on a farm near Beachville were due to anthrax. A guinea pig was inoculated, and it died after fully developing the disease. A second test was made, and it also succumbed. These tests remove all doubts about the outbreak. The Council of West Oxford proposes taking active steps to stamp out the disease. There appears to be no doubt that Harmon Cook is suffering from anthrax. His condition shows no improvement.

Cures Leprosy Now.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 6.—Dr. Razley, a United States army physician, who went from the Philippines to Canton to continue experiments on a leprosy cure, has been successful, according to a report brought by United States Consul McWade, who arrived here Saturday.

OUR STORE NEWS AND ITS CHRONICLING

It takes time to learn a store thoroughly, especially if the store is one that keeps moving.

The reason for the steady progress of The Fair Store is found in the ability to buy largely—judiciously—and distributing economically; as well as the spirit of aggressiveness that, in season and out of season, produces such exceptional values as to attract and hold the attention of the best households and most clever shoppers.

Past achievements are but stepping stones to those of the future.

Our store news chronicling and its underlying policy is—to tell the truth and stick to it. Back of our words are facts. Truthful ads. will develop a drawing power; and that's why the Golden Lion has earned and maintained the reputation of being "just a good, honest store."

Josh Billings once remarked:—"My son, observe the postage-stamp. Its usefulness depends on its ability to stick to one thing until it gets there." Sound advice. Sticking to to Dry Goods and to the truth is the secret of this store's success.

Watch this space every day. Keep tab on what's going on here. This space has been reserved for a chatty chronicle of this store's daily doings.

THE NATIONAL GUARDS

Entire Division of the State of Pennsylvania Ordered Out.

"WON'T MAKE THE MEN WORK."

So Said President Mitchell When Asked For an Expression Regarding the Calling Out of the Forces—Meeting Between Mitchell and Wright—President Roosevelt Still Taking a Hand In.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 7.—Governor Stone late last night ordered out the entire division of the National Guard of Pennsylvania to do duty in the anthracite coal regions. The soldiers will be in the field to-day.

The news of the calling out of the entire State Guard caused a mild sensation among those gathered at strike headquarters, but apparently the least perturbed were President Mitchell and the three district presidents. The miners' chief was asked for an expression on the action of Gov. Stone. He at first declined but a moment later he exclaimed: "If they call out all the troops in the United States it won't make the men go to work."

President Nicholls said: "Nothing has arisen to warrant the calling out of more troops, but if they are not used for any unlawful purpose, their presence in the coal fields cannot do us any harm."

District President Duffy said: "The troops are not needed. I protested to Gov. Stone when they were first ordered into my district and I am still of the same mind."

President Fair said: "I do not see the necessity for calling out more troops unless it be that of bolstering up the operators side of the struggle."

The news of the call for all of the troops was received so late that no opinions could be had from any of the officials of the coal companies living in this vicinity.

Mitchell and Wright.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 7.—President John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers of America slipped out of town before dawn yesterday morning for Philadelphia, where he met Carroll D. Wright, United States Commissioner of Labor, who is President Roosevelt's personal representative on matters pertaining to the anthracite coal strike. Mr. Mitchell returned here last night unaccompanied and unannounced and made the simple statement that he had met the Labor Commissioner. He refused absolutely to discuss his visit to Philadelphia, declined to say where in Philadelphia he met Mr. Wright, or what passed between them. Subsequently he informed a representative of the Associated Press that he saw other gentlemen while there, but declined to disclose their identity.

Because Mr. Wright is close to President Roosevelt, there is a general impression here that the Commissioner carried a message from the Chief Executive to Mr. Mitchell. A rumor also was in circulation here last night that President Roosevelt has appealed again to Mr. Mitchell to end the strike in the cause of humanity.

Before President Mitchell left for Buffalo he issued a statement calling on the unions to repudiate the statements of the operators' presidents, that the mine workers are restrained from going to work for fear of bodily harm; that acts of violence by coal and iron police and by strikers be denounced and that members of the union tender the local authorities their services to preserve law and order.

In conclusion he says: "Great care should be exercised that those on strike do not permit themselves to be provoked by the coal and iron policemen into the commission of overt acts. The operators failing to break the strike and deprive you of your well-earned victory, are now attempting to array public sentiment against you by making false claims that a reign of terror exists in the coal fields. Be steadfast and true while the struggle for living wages and American conditions of employment is going on, and we have no hesitation in saying that victory will be achieved in the not distant future. The heart of the nation beats in sympathy with you and all good citizens favor your cause."

President Roosevelt Active.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Walter Wellman, wiring The Record-Herald from Washington, says President Roosevelt's new plan for ending the coal strike is as follows:

Instead of a general arbitration covering the entire anthracite region, as was proposed by President Mitchell on behalf of the miners, and instead of having individual miners take their disputes with the coal companies to the judges of the Common Pleas Courts, as was proposed by President Baer and other railway presidents, both sides are to meet upon the following middle ground, namely:

An arbitration tribunal to be appointed to settle the questions at issue between each of the great mining corporations and its employes. That is to say, one board of arbitrators between the Reading Company and its employes. Another between the Lackawanna and its employes, and a third between the Ontario and Western and its employes, and so on throughout the region, including the Coxes, the Markles and other prominent independent operators employing a large number of men.

Before each of these boards of arbitration the miners are to appear and present their claims by such official representatives as they choose, the officials of the local unions of the United Mine Workers being acceptable in this role.

Both sides are to agree in advance to abide by the decision of these boards of arbitration when rendered, the men meanwhile returning to work.

And when the decisions are rendered they are to be incorporated in agreements for one year or a period of years, the agreements to be signed by the representatives of the coal companies and the presidents of the local unions.

England Supplies America.

London, Oct. 7.—A telegram from Newcastle announces that 100,000 tons of coal were sold on the Newcastle Coal Exchange yesterday afternoon for the United States and Canada.

Reports from Cardiff say that 25 steamers have been secured for early sailing from South Wales ports for New York and Boston, and the United States purchasers during the past week at Cardiff alone, totalled 100,000 tons of which 80,000 tons were for New York. The purchases at Swansea last week totalled 20,000 tons.

It is not expected that sufficient anthracite will be obtained to supply the United States demand.

Military Against Strikers.

Geneva, Switzerland, Oct. 7.—The Cantonal authorities have called out the military reserves to preserve order and prevent the strikers from interfering with the Street Car Company's employes who are desirous of continuing work. There are threats in some quarters of a general strike.

THE SHOVEL FACTORY.

Mr. Skelton Appeared Before the Committee of the Whole Council.

Previous to the regular monthly meeting of the Town Council last night, Council met in Committee of the Whole to consider the proposition of the Skelton Manufacturing Co. which desires to locate in Peterborough. The terms which this Company asks were published in the Examiner some time ago, the principal of which is a free site, with railway siding, fixed assessment and a suitable building for main shop—cost not to exceed $6,000. The Company agrees in consideration of the above to erect other buildings costing a like amount or more, to employ the first year 25 men and to have 50 men on pay roll by 1904. The entire property—land and buildings—to remain the property of the town, subject to the following condition: Every year during which the Company carries out its engagement in respect of the employment of men, etc., is to be held as equivalent of a reduction of $1,000, until, at the end of six years, the conditions having been carried out the town is to transfer the property free of charge to the Company. In case of default on the part of the Company during six years the entire property is to remain vested in the town.

Mr. Skelton was present himself and was accompanied by Mr. W. H. Meldrum and Mr. Adam Hall, Mr. W. G. Ferguson and Mr. Vincent Eastwood, of the Otonabee Power Company. The details of the proposed agreement were pretty thoroughly gone into and Mr. Meldrum assured the Council that his Company could supply 350 horse-power at $10 a h.p. providing the Council remit the pole tax.

The Manufacturers' Committee was authorized to prepare a bylaw to be submitted to the ratepayers of the town for approval.

A GRAND SUCCESS.

Murray Street Baptist Young People's Union Entertain Their Friends.

The Pie Social given last evening by the members of the Baptist Young Peoples Union of Murray street church, to the young people of the congregation and their friends, was a grand success, and was very largely attended.

The different committees are to be congratulated upon the way they carried out the work they had in charge. The decorations were beautiful and showed much preparation and good taste on the part of the Flower Committee. The Programme Committee also was not idle, as was shown by the excellent programme prepared by them. The chair was taken by the President, Mr. R. Merrill, who in a few words welcomed all present, especially those of the church congregation who had joined the ranks of late, and he expressed the hope that they might feel at home in the church, and assured them that he could speak for the pastor and say that they would receive a hearty welcome to any and all of the church services. Each item on the programme was well rendered, but special mention must be made of the number entitled "Our Soldier Boys" sung by Masters Hall, also the solos by Mr. Jas. Browne, which were excellent. Misses Hall and Clarke and Mr. Schneider presided at the organ.

After the refreshments were served everyone joined in singing the National Anthem, and the very enjoyable evening was brought to a close by a word of prayer by the Pastor, Mr. Bastow.

The Programme Committee wish to take this opportunity of thanking those who assisted in any way to the success of the evening.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION.

Miss Edith Strickland Moodie Addresses Herself to This Subject in Y. W. C. A. Rooms.

"Nor soul helps flesh more now than flesh helps soul."

The lecture on Physical Education given by Miss Edith Strickland Moodie in the Y. W. C. A. last evening, was thoroughly enjoyed by all those privileged to attend.

The object of the lecture was to prove that correct physical development is absolutely essential to the highest emotional and intellectual development. The lecturer spoke in detail of the effect of correct position upon the various organs of the body, and the necessity for physical education being begun in childhood and continued as part of the life education, that the life may be perfectly rounded, and all awkwardness and friction obviated.

Regarding the question of athletics the lecturer proved from examples that development of the muscles without a corresponding development of the vital organs which sustain them is a direct menace to health. The aid given by physical culture towards the cultivation of will power, self control, and endurance, were dealt with in detail.

The system recommended for such development was "The Emmerson System of Physical Culture," which, because of its highly beneficial physiological and sychological effects. This system is to form the basis of the training to be given in the Y. W. C. A. classes, supplemented by calisthenics, gymnastics, games, etc. The last of the classes will open this week. Students class on Saturday.

The Bible classes of the Association will meet this evening for the first work of the season. Those intending to take advantage of either of the classes are requested to be present. The subjects for study are "The Bible and Its Uses," and "The Gospel by Matthew."

NEW ONTARIO.

A feature of settlement on wooded land is the opportunity afforded for entering upon the work in the fall and clearing the land and cutting marketable timber during the winter. The timber on the land in new Ontario is no longer an encumbrance, to be removed by hard and otherwise unprofitable labour, but an important source of profit during the earlier and most onerous years of a settler's experience. In the early days of settlement in this Province the pine alone was valuable, but recent changes and discoveries in the manufacture of paper have made a demand for spruce, poplar and other trees at prices that give a fair return for the settler's work. They afford steady employment at cutting and hauling during the winter. Hardwood, too, is coming into use for flooring and finishing in buildings, and also in furniture making and cabinet work. It has become of late years a source of profit to the settler, who can sell at prices that pay him for his labour. These advantages are emphasized in in a pamphlet issued by the Commissioner of Crown Lands for the guidance of intending settlers. This pamphlet gives details as to the policy of the Government in dealing with settlers in the various districts of New Ontario, and also affords reliable information regarding the conditions to be encountered and the advantages afforded by this rapidly opening territory.

The explorations undertaken by the Provincial Government in 1900 resulted in the location of large tracts of excellent arable land, amounting in all to over sixteen million acres, which will soon be available through the opening of railway communication. From time to time townships containing good land are surveyed and opened for settlement. These are are selected with a view to their adaptability for farming purposes, taking into account the fertility of the soil, ease of access by rail or steamboat, and proximity to centres of industrial development. Settlers are now invited to these districts on terms which make it easy for men with no capital except strength and industry to establish homes for themselves. In the Rainy River and Thunder Bay districts land is offered in free grants of 160 acres to actual settlers. The conditions insisted upon include the clearing and cultivation of fifteen acres, and not less than two acres per year, the building of a habitable house not less than 16 by 20 feet, and also three years' actual residence. Heads of families have permission to purchase eighty acres, in addition to their free grants, at $1 per acre. In the Wabigoon, Algoma, West Nipissing and Temiskaming districts the land is sold at 50 cents per acre, but to actual settlers only, each purchaser being restricted to 160 acres. These sales are made subject to conditions which require the clearing of 10 per cent. of the land and the building of a habitable house not less than 16 by 20 feet. The only timber reserved to the Crown is white pine, and that is not reserved in the Rainy River district. Where the reservation is made the settler may cut it for his own use or to clear his land, and he receives one-third of the dues paid on timber cut on his land after the 30th of April next following the issue of his patent. The population of new Ontario has increased from 55,540 in 1891 to 100,461 in 1901, and as the real development of the country was scarcely begun when the last census was taken, the present decade will no doubt witness a far greater proportionate increase.—Globe.

Wilful waste makes woful want. A citizen was actually guilty of burning coal in his furnace on Sunday.

The Ontario Opposition won't suffer so much from lack of coal. They have been seasoned to low temperatures in the cold shades of opposition.

The Ontario Government is to be greatly commended for its action in withdrawing the authorization for use in the public schools of a primer issued by the Canada Publishing Company, on the grounds that the contract was broken by the failure to have every part and process of the books made and carried on in Canada. The primers in question were partially made in the United States. This course on the part of the Government proved two things — that it is bound to live up to its policy of Canada for Canadians, and that, contrary to what has been asserted by its enemies, the Government is not under the influence of any school book ring.

POLITICS VS. PATRIOTISM.

The Toronto World has shown its south paw patriotism. It prints a lot of growls of settlers in New Ontario, respecting the country. It is the experiences of all new settlements — and the condition permanently exists — that there will be a few who will not succeed according to their expectations; and if the Garden of Eden should by some miracle be revived in its pristine fertility, and opened to settlement, there would be found the disgruntled settlers who did not find apples of the quality that tempted mother Eve, on every bush. But what is the use of magnifying the grumbles of those unsatisfied settlers, as if they were a type, as they are not, of the prevailing conditions? If we should go back to the primitive days of the most fertile parts of what is now old Ontario, we should find the usual quota of dissatisfied settlers. We all know in everyday life that give ten men equal conditions in trade, or farming, or anything else, in ten years nine out of the ten might succeed, but at least one would go to the wall. It is well known that Mr. Whitney, in his New Ontario tour, during the late general provincial elections, made impossible promises to settlers, and it is shrewdly pointed out that as an additional inducement for votes in his favour, he made promises of giving away valuable slices of the provincial patrimony to serve this same elevated end. Now, that this scheme did not work as fully as expected, the grapes have become sour, and the World is no doubt voicing the sentiments of its party, who would ruin a portion of the province they may not rule. This is on a par with the old time slogan of the chief Conservative organ at one time, "so much the worse for British connection."

CORTICELLI HOME NEEDLEWORK.

The October issue of this excellent magazine is now being mailed to subscribers. It is one of the best issues yet published, containing, as it does, a series of beautiful coloured plates and hundreds of half tone illustrations. This number takes up extensively lace work, modern lace work, fancy reticules and pouches, Holiday needlework, Porto Rican lace work, centrepieces and doilies in numerous designs, sofa pillows, etc. Certainly any lady who has any pretentions at all of doing lace and fancy needlework should not be without the little school teacher. The Corticelli Home Needlework Magazine is published at great expense and no labour is spared to acquire the best article embracing the work the publication deals with. It is without doubt the best book of the kind published. Mailed on receipt of ten cents, or for 35c the book will be sent for a full year, four issues. After January first the subscription price is to be advanced to 50c a year or 15c per single issue, so lovers of art needlework should take advantage of the offer now being made. Address, Corticelli Silk Company, Limited, St. John's P.Q.

ANOTHER USE OF "WASTE."

The "burning question" of the hour has caused a good deal of attention to be given to the utilization of sawdust for fuel. But an advanced bulletin of a portion of the recent U. S. Census, dealing with the subject of "waste and by products," and the use they can be put to brings into relief the fact that the despised sawdust, which has been permitted to poison our rivers, and been too generally regarded as a useless incumbrance, and nuisance by those producing it, is of considerable value for purposes little thought of before. French ingenuity discovered the means. It is shown by the bulletin that French cabinet makers have found a way of preparing this material which gives it a value far above that of solid timber, by a process that has been in vogue for at least twenty-five or thirty years, combining the use of the hydraulic press and the application of intense heat. By this process the particles of sawdust are formed into a solid mass capable of being molded into any shape and of receiving a brilliant polish, and possessing a durability and a beauty of appearance not found in ebony, rosewood or mahogany. This product is known as "Bois durci." Artificial woodwork, therefore, seems to have a promising future. Alum, glue and sawdust, kneaded with boiling water into a dough, and pressed into molds when dried, is hard and capable of taking on a fine polish. Ornaments of great beauty can be made from it. That naptha, acetic acid, tar can be extracted from sawdust is sufficiently known. So also is the unfortunate fact that Canada does not seem to have awakened to the value of what, properly used, could be made a source of much profit.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Permanently Cures the Most Desperate Cases of Neuralgia.

At This Season the Marvellous Medicine's Saving and Making Happy Thousands of Pain-Racked Mortals.

It is no difficult undertaking to convince men and women who are open to conviction that many forms of disease are due to some weakness or trouble with particular nerves or whole sets of nerves.

Neuralgia, in the autumn season, one of the commonest of nerve diseases. It often touches every part of the body, but is usually located in the face, affecting the facial nerves and the teeth. Very often the disease attacks the nerves of the head, and fatal results follow when the brain is touched.

To those who suffer agonies at varying periods, and who have not yet found a cure, we urge with all honesty the use of nature's medicine, Paine's Celery Compound. It has rescued thousands from awful sufferings, grave dangers and fatal results. Mr. L. A. Belyea, Hampstead, N. B., tells how he was cured by Paine's Celery Compound.

"I was taken with a severe attack of neuralgia in the head and shoulders. It became deep seated, and I gave up the idea of ever being cured. I was induced to try a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, and before I had used the half of it I began to feel better. I have taken three bottles of this glorious medicine, and today I can say that it is the first time in eleven years that I have felt none of those piercing pains to which I had once been a victim."

Boers in Brussels.

Brussels, Oct. 7.—The Boer generals, Botha, Dewet and Delarey, arrived here last evening and were greeted by an immense crowd. In a speech from a balcony from his hotel, General Dewet reiterated that they had not come to Europe to seek vain support or to make efforts to regain their independence, but to obtain help in repairing the ravages of the war.

In a subsequent address, Gen Dewet said: "In the presence of this immense enthusiasm we ask ourselves why was there no intervention? God willed that we should lose our independence; we will remain faithful to our new country if the conditions of peace are observed."

Martin Durkin Crushed at London.

London, Ont., Oct. 7.—While pulling down the west side of the wall of his house on Waterloo street, where the new armory will be built, Mr. Martin J. Durkin was crushed beneath the structure yesterday afternoon and received injuries which may prove fatal. A heavy blast of wind is supposed to have struck the wall, and before he could escape he was buried beneath the debris. Mr. Durkin was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital in the ambulance. His left leg was broken at the ankle and is badly crushed, while his face was severely injured. He was also crushed about the chest. Mr. Durkin is about 70 years of age.

New Dredge, Sir Wilfrid, Sunk.

Port Hope, Oct. 7.—It is reported that the new dredge, Sir Wilfrid, built by the Polson Iron Works, Toronto, for W. J. Poupore Company, Montreal, while on the way down the lake last night, broke her boom and sank about eight miles west of Port Hope. The three men on board were rescued by the tug towing the dredge. The dredge sunk in about half an hour after the men abandoned her.

Malt Breakfast Food

Makes a Meal for Twenty-five People.

While the manufacturers of Malt Breakfast Food do not claim to give the public the most bulky package of food, they make the positive statement that one package of their celebrated food will make twice as many meals for the money as any other food on the market.

In addition to this economical feature Malt Breakfast Food is vastly more nourishing for young and old. Tens of thousands of users consider it the most delicious and appetising of all breakfast grain foods. Physicians and food experts say that it is a true health giver. Grocers everywhere in Canada find Malt Breakfast Food the fastest seller. If you have not yet given it a trial ask your grocer for it.

TO SELL FUEL AT COST

Toronto Council Appropriates $50,000 to Purchase It.

MOVES FOR PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

Full Wording of the Resolutions—Why Toronto Council Was Impelled to This Course—Montreal Wage-Earners Petition President Roosevelt in the Same Direction, But Would Pay For Mines.

Toronto, Oct. 7.—The coal question was discussed at length by the aldermen at yesterday's meeting of the City Council, and as a measure to provide for persons really unable to pay the present price of fuel the city decided to brave the Legislature and instructed the Board of Control to purchase $50,000 worth of fuel, to be sold to poor people. Ald. Burns said the existing situation was not a credit to coal dealers.

The Council decided to authorize a petition to the Dominion Government by passing this resolution:

Ald. Woods, seconded by Ald. Lamb, moved that in view of the serious loss and inconvenience caused to the public by the coal mines being private property and the inability of the owners of such mines to cope with the present difficulty arising out of the strike now pending in the State of Pennsylvania from which our city and Province is largely supplied with coal, this Council petition the Governor-General-in-Council and also the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council to ascertain definitely whether there is coal in paying quantities upon or under lands belonging to the respective Governments of Canada and Ontario, and, if so, to prevent the said lands or the coal therefrom being sold to any private persons or companies in order that such coal may be preserved, and the coal mined therefrom by the respective Governments for the use of the people generally as the needs of the people require.

Ald. Urquhart gave notice that he would move that the Council petition the Government of the Dominion of Canada that legislation be passed providing for expropriating coal mines for the benefit of the nation, or such legislation as may be sufficient for the purpose of so controlling the production and price of coal so that at no time hereafter the owners of coal mines will be able to take advantage of the necessities of the people and charge prices for fuel which are exorbitant, and thus place a necessity of life beyond the reach of many people, and that the union of municipalities be asked to co-operate in petitioning for and urging the adoption of the legislation referred to.

Montreal Council's Move.

Montreal, Oct. 7.—At a meeting of the City Council yesterday afternoon, an aldermanic committee was appointed to make arrangements with the railways for the cheap transportation of fuel to Montreal.

State Should Own Mines.

Montreal, Oct. 7.—Wage-earners of Montreal yesterday sent a petition to President Roosevelt. They express sympathy with the miners. The chief executive of the United States is asked to convene an extraordinary session of Congress and put forth the necessity of immediate bringing about legislation to settle the strike. In the event that a cessation of hostilities does not arrive, Congress is asked to take over the mines, paying full market value, and operate them as a Government enterprise.

TOO GREAT EXPENSE

Not the Reason.

It is not because Pyramid Pile Cure is so expensive that many people decline to give it a trial, but because they find it too great a tax on their credulity to believe that the published letters bearing testimony to the merit of this remedy are genuine and bona fide; especially to those who have realized the suffering incident to piles is it incredible that any one who has been afflicted twenty-five and thirty years with the worst forms of protruding and bleeding piles should be cured by the application of a simple remedy, when their physician has assured them that the only relief is in a surgical operation. This is rightly viewed with dread by all those afflicted, as it means at the least a great shock to the nervous system, with more than a possibility of utter collapse and death; in a majority of cases, too, there is a return of the complaint, owing to the fact that the cause is not removed.

The proprietors of Pyramid Pile Cure agree to forfeit one thousand dollars to anyone who will show a single published testimonial to be not genuine and unsolicited; this latter feature is most gratifying, inasmuch as these letters are written solely out of gratitude and with the hope that those who are afflicted as the writers have been may learn that relief is at hand, at a comparatively trifling expense. Pyramid Pile Cure is for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a package, or will be mailed by the makers to any address upon receipt of price.

Mr. Wm. Lichtenwalter, head of the largest printing house in Canton Ohio, says, "It is with the utmost pleasure and satisfaction that I can say I believe I am cured of protruding and bleeding piles after suffering more than twenty years. I have been in bed for two weeks at a time. I have not suffered in the least for over a year, and I used only three fifty-cent boxes of Pyramid Pile Cure. I advise every person suffering with this distressing and painful complaint to give this remedy a trial. I have every confidence in it." Write to the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for their book on the causes and cure of piles.

NOT CAPTURED YET.

Noah Hale, Who Killed Son and Wounded Wife, at Large Yet.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 7. — The crime of Noah Hale, who shot and killed his son will probably develop into double murder. Mrs. Hale who was so badly beaten with the butt of the murderer's gun, took an ill turn yesterday afternoon and is sinking rapidly. According to the stories of the daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Hale had always quarreled violently over the most trivial matters and Frank Hale, who was killed Friday, finally left and bought a home across the road where he could look after the welfare of his mother and sisters. Recently Hale had been so abusive that Frank asked his mother to live with him, and she was doing so when the shooting occurred.

About a week ago she went to Hale's house for her clothes but her husband refused to let her have them, at the same time saying, "Your days are numbered my fine woman."

Last Thursday Hale came to the Soo and bought powder and buckshot, and that night in the presence of his two young daughters, who still lived with him, carefully oiled and loaded the piece. Next morning he committed the crime. His daughters knew nothing of it.

He returned to the house, washed the blood from his hands, ate a hearty breakfast, then went into the sitting room and closed the door. It transpires that while there he burned some papers and put a new pair of shoes on. He also cleaned his gun and putting a box of cartridges and a bottle of carbolic acid in his pocket came out again and told his daughters that he was going for the cows. They saw him disappear in the woods, and he has not been seen since. The only trace discovered of him is footprints of the new shoes headed toward Garden River.

The suicide theory is exploded.

The theory now is that Hale will fight rather than be taken and when his ammunition is exhausted will take the carbolic acid.

A CATHEDRAL BRIDAL.

Wedding of Mr. William Pope and Miss Aggie Kelly.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized this morning at St. Peter's Cathedral when Miss Aggie Kelly and Mr. William Pope were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The bride entered the church on the arm of Mr. Ed. Crowe, of Campbellford, cousin of the groom, to the strains of Wagner's wedding march, rendered by Miss K. Hurley. The bride was attired in a beautiful travelling suit of olive green, trimmed with applique, and wore a picture hat to match. She was assisted by her sister Annie, who wore a pretty suit of navy blue lady cloth. Mr. J. Donoghue acted in the capacity of groomsman.

The presents were numerous and costly and showed the esteem in which the young couple were held. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful Persian lamb coat, trimmed with sable, and his gift to the bridesmaid was an elegant ring, set with pearls and turquoise.

After the ceremony the happy couple and their friends returned to the home of the bride, where they partook of a sumptuous breakfast, later taking the 11.45 train for Port Hope, and thence to Rochester.

A COTTESLOE WEDDING.

Mr. J. H. Tucker Takes as His Bride Miss Gertrude A. Bell.

The beautiful lawn of Mr. and Mrs. F. Bell, was the scene of a very interesting event at five o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, 23rd September, it being the occasion of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Gertrude A. Bell, to Mr. John F. Tucker, of Dummer. The nuptial knot was tied under a beautiful arch of evergreens, foliage and flowers, by Rev. A. T. Atkinson, pastor of the Warsaw and Cottesloe Presbyterian churches, in the presence of about two hundred of the relatives and friends of the contracting parties.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was handsomely attired in a gown of white organdie trimmed with lace and chiffon. She carried a bouquet of bridal roses and asters. The bride was attended by Miss Mary Tucker, who wore a gown of pale green organdie. The groom was supported by Mr. Will Bell, brother of the bride.

At the conclusion of the marriage ceremony, the wedding party sat down to a sumptuous dejeuner, after which a most enjoyable evening was spent in dancing and other amusements.

The bride is well known to a large circle of friends in Warsaw, and the surrounding country, and the beautiful array of presents she received testified to the esteem in which she is held. The groom's present to the bride was a beautiful diamond brooch. The groom is also very favourably known to the people of Dummer, all of whom join in wishing him and his bride many years of happiness and prosperity.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Notes Concerning the Movements of Peterborough People and Their Visitors

Rev. J. C. Phelan, of Young's Point, was in town to-day.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt went to Warsaw to-day to preach at the harvest Festival to-night.

Mrs. Ormond, who has been the guest of Mrs. J. R. Stratton for the past month, left for Smith's Falls to-day.

Mrs. E. Byshe and family of Bolivar street, have returned home, after spending two weeks with friends in Belleville.

Mr. Ed. Phelan, who has been in poor health for some time, is improving somewhat, his friends will be pleased to known.

Miss Clara Flood, of Toronto, has arrived in town, and will be available for lessons in painting on china, one of the most useful of modern accomplishments, while at the same time it gives wide scope for artistic culture.

TO-NIGHT.

Musical Recital by Mlle. Decrey, pianist, and Mr. Gilbert Markle, violinist, assisted by Mrs. A. G. Parker, of Belleville, in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Peterborough, this evening, at 8 p. m. Admission 25c.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mrs. M. Riley desires to take this means of conveying her warmest appreciation and thanks to those whose kindness she experienced on her return to town, on the sad mission of her husband's interment. On her departure from town, finding it impossible to meet and personally thank her many friends and bid them good bye, she does so in this way, assuring them that she will ever hold them and their kind deeds in grateful remembrance.

IN MEMORIAM.

At great personal inconvenience, Father Keilty drove to Warsaw on October 6th, to attend the funeral of Mr. Choate, an old and valued friend of his. He did so as a mark of personal esteem, and also to to accentuate the fact that during his lifetime, Mr. Choate had always been kind and neighbourly in all his dealings with the priest and people of St. Joseph's, Douro.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.

Canadian General Electric Company Handsomely Remembers Firemen.

The following letter, which has been received by Chief Rutherford, partially explains itself, but it may be added that on August 19th the company forwarded a cheque of $25.00 to the fire brigade, which, however, the latter failed to receive;

"Thos. Rutherford, Esq.,
"Chief Fire Department,
"Peterborough,—

"Dear Sir, — Enclosed please find a duplicate of our cheque which we mailed to you under date of 19th August, 1902, but which has been miscarried. Kindly accept this as a donation to the Firemen's Fund, with our regards, in appreciation of services rendered us at the various fires which occurred at our works.

"Yours truly,
"E G. PATTERSON,
"Canadian General Electric Co., Limited.
"General Superintendent.

"Peterborough, Sept. 30th, 1902."

Chief Rutherford desires to publicly acknowledge with heartiest thanks, the handsome gift of the company, and to express the hope that this acknowledgment may remove the impression of ingratitude on the part of the firemen, which the omission to acknowledge the original cheque, which miscarried, naturally tended to create.

RAILWAY GATES AGAIN DISCUSSED.

Town Council's Regular Session Last Night.

A MUNICIPAL WOOD YARD.

A Batch of Bylaws Rushed Through—Councillor Roger Asks re Alternative Water Supply—Accounts Passed.

The regular monthly meeting of the Peterborough Town Council was held last night. There were present, His Worship Mayor T. H. G. Denne and Aldermen B. Shortly, G. M. Roger, H. Rush, R. McGreggor, J. J. Turner, M. A. Morrison, J. Corkery and H. Best.

The atmosphere of the Council Chamber was rather cool and in order to expediate matters the reading of the minutes was dispensed with.

COMMUNICATIONS

were received and disposed of as follows:

From the Peterborough Light and Power Company, consenting to the General Electric Company, supplying power to the American Cereal Company.—Received.

From W. D. Lighthall, Hon. Sec.-Treas. of Union of Canadian Municipalities, asking that the annual fee to the Association be paid. —Upon motion of Ald. Best, seconded by Ald. Turner, the amount was ordered to be paid.

From Mary English, stating that she was endeavouring to earn a living by keeping an eating house, and asking that the annual license fee be refunded.—Referred to License Committee with power to act.

From George I. Roszel, Chief of Police, asking for winter uniforms for the police force.—Committee on Appointments with power to act.

From Mr. W. Henderson, Superintendent of Waterworks, stating that the first hydrant on 8 inch main past Cereal Company's buildings was charged with water on the 10th inst. —Received.

From T. Q. Quartermain, Sec.-Treas. of the Board of Trade, enclosing a resolution re the establishment of manufacturing industries in Peterborough.—Received.

From E. E. Lord and others, asking for a sewer pipe on Dalhousie street from Aylmer street and George street.—Board of Works.

From Alfred J. Cameron, C.E., re surveying and marking by durable monuments the reservation along the river front, recently acquired by the Town, and the streets intersecting the same. — Board of Works with power to act.

From E. H. D. Hall, Town Solicitor, enclosing a copy of letter from Mr. Bell of the G.T.R., re railway gates. —Received.

From E. W. Cox and others, asking that a sewer pipe be constructed on Babb's lane from Gilmour street to Homewood avenue.—Board of Works.

From W. A. Robinson and a number of others, asking that a granolithic walk be laid on the south side of Charlotte street from Water street to the westerly limit of Lot No. 2, south of Charlotte and east of George streets.—Board of Works.

From Mr. R. H. Bradburn, manager Opera House, asking that he be supplied with police protection for Opera House on nights of entertainments.—Received.

From W. J. Donovan, R. Clinkscale, B. Gibson, Jas. Judd, R. T. Biggs and Bert. Thompson, asking for the usual grant of $25 that was tendered to volunteers to South Africa.—Referred to Finance Committee with power to act.

From F. Sandy, G. T. R. station agent, stating that there was an obstruction in the sewer from the station to Aylmer street.

From J. E. A. Fitzgerald, drawing attention to the unsafe condition of the bridge at the corner of Brock and Aylmer streets.—Board of Works.

From F. Bartlett, applying for position of inspector on sewer construction.—Received.

From Richard Shearer, asking for a sidewalk in front of his terrace on Sherbrooke street.— Board of Works.

From S. R. Armstrong, Sec.-Treas. of the Water Commissioners, stating that owing to the fact that more applications for extensions of the water mains than were anticipated were received that the Commissionmers desire sanction of the expenditure of $2,500 in addition to the amount already authorized for extensions and construction work.—Received.

From the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, with reference to the accident to Mr. Comstock some weeks ago, and stating that the case cannot be recited ed as sufficient reason for placing gates at the crossing mentioned; also that they were considering the advisability of placing a pumping station near the crossing mentioned, and having men operating the same stationed near by.

From J. I. Tarte, Minister of Public Works, re dredging the Otonabee River at Peterborough, and stating that owing to the holiday season, they found it hard to get Cabinet meetings, but that Peterborough could rely on his active support.—Received.

From the manager of the "Star" Heater, asking permission to place one of his stoves in the market hall as a means of advertising. — Referred to the chairman of the Market Committee, with power to act.

From the Otonabee Power Co., consenting to the passage of the bylaw permitting the Canadian General Electric Co. to furnish power to the American Cereal Co.—Received.

From A. Wills, asking that his statute labour tax be refunded. — Received.

From the Auburn Power Co., consenting to the passage of bylaw permitting the Canadian General Electric Co. to furnish power to the Cereal Co.—Received.

Regarding the matter of railway gates at the G.T.R. crossings, His Worship Mayor Denne said that it was about time that the company was made to understand that the Privy Council's order must be complied with. They were trying to shirk the matter, and the law should be set in motion whereby the evil could be remedied. There would be someone killed before long if the matter continued as at present. He would like to see the Town Solicitor given power to commence an action against the company forthwith.

Ald. Roger moved, seconded by Ald. Rush, that the Town Solicitor and the Chief of Police be instructed to take immediate action to prevent the blockading of the streets by the G. T.R. trains, and also to enforce the order providing for the placing of gates, according to the order of the Privy Council some time ago.

The matter of the whistling nuisance was also discussed and was afterwards included in the motion.

His Worship then turned his remarks to the C.P.R. crossing, and referred to the accidents that had occurred there within the past few weeks. One of these accidents was to Mr. Aaron Comstock, and the other to Mr. Deyell, of Otonabee. An electric bell had been placed at the crossing, but the danger was even greater than before. It was the duty of the town to force the company to put gates at this crossing, as the citizens were demanding that they be placed there. The council cannot be compelled to pay for any extra expense connected therewith.

Ald. Best explained that it was with the side tracks and not with the main line that the chief trouble now arises. There was a lot of shunting being done on the side tracks, on which there was not an electric bell.

Ald. Roger then moved that the Mayor be authorized to instruct the Town Solicitor to proceed with the matter of forcing the C.P.R. to place guard gates at this point.

In addition to Mr. Bradburn's letter re police protection at the opera house, Mr. Bradburn addressed the council. He said that on the evenings on which he had entertainments in the opera house he was bothered with an army of young boys who behaved in such a manner as to obstruct the traffic to and from the opera house.

Upon motion of Ald. Batten, seconded by Ald. Turner, Mr. Bradburn's request was granted.

FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT

The Fire, Water and Light Committee, through its chairman, Mr. Jos. Batten, reported as follows:—

Gentlemen, — Your Fire, Water and Light Committee beg leave to report as follows;

1. That Walter Parnell be paid for the time he was absent through sickness.

2. We recommend that John Montgomery be allowed two weeks holidays, and that he be paid for the time on the certificate of the chairman of this committee.

3. As the present contract for electric lights will expire at the end of next year, and the whole subject will be considered in connection with the new contract we do not think that it would be wise to order any new lights at the present time.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOS. BATTEN,
Chairman.

The report was adopted, on motion of Ald. Batten, seconded by Ald. Corkery.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

The Committee of the Whole Council, through its chairman, Ald. Rush, reported as follows;

To the Council of the Town of Peterborough:—

Gentlemen, — Your Committee of the Whole Council beg leave to report that they have received an application to have a sidewalk at the corner and Aylmer streets moved out and raised, and the sidewalk on Perry street between Aylmer and Bethune streets raised, and recommend that these matters be referred to the Board of Works, with power to act, if they have the necessary funds.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

H. RUSH,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

FINANCE REPORT.

The Finance Committee reported as follows;

To the Council of the Town of Peterborough:—

Gentlemen, — Your Finance Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That the Town Solicitor be instructed to collect an item of taxes amounting to $144 for 1901 assessed to A. Williams, and remaining unpaid, if they are collectable, and if they are not collectable to report as to where the default lies.

2. That the Treasurer be authorized to issue cheques for the spikes purchased for the road roller and for duty and freight on them.

3. That as the appropriation for the Board of Works and the Property Committee are exhausted, the treasurer be authorized to pay future bills chargeable to these departments out of any excess or appropriation in other accounts.

4. That $100 provided for in the assessment for that purpose be granted to the West Peterborough Agricultural Society.

5. That the following accounts be paid;

COUNTY POLICE COURT.

Several Cases That Were up Yesterday Afternoon.

In the county police court yesterday afternoon, before His Honour Judge Edmison, Walter Hooton, of Havelock was sentenced to an indefinite term, not exceeding three years, in the Penetang Reformatory.

Young Hooton, it will be remembered, stole a sum of money from a resident of Belmont. He is about 16 years of age, and the extraordinary feature of the case was that he was very anxious to be sent to the Reformatory, as he thought that it would be better for him.

The case of Thomas McClure, on behalf of a number of residents of North Monaghan, against George Stevens, for having a manufacturing institution which is a nuisance, came up for hearing. About thirty witnesses in all were to be examined, and on the advice of His Honour the case was enlarged until the 17th, and it is hoped that in the meantime a settlement will be arrived at.

AERIAL POLO.

A Queer Kind of Amusement on a Pacific Ocean Island.

Writing on "Our Equatorial Islands" in the Century, James D. Hague says:

It became an amusing diversion to overturn the large flat stones beneath which the rats were hiding in solid masses and watch them as they scampered in all directions, pursued and quickly snatched up by the man-o'-war hawks. These crafty birds were apt to learn that the appearance of a man walking on the island, especially with a dog, meant rats for them, and any one thus going forth was usually followed by a hovering flock, ready and impatient for the sport they had learned to expect. A rat brought to hand by the dog was quickly tossed in air, where the birds were ready to snatch it, sometimes with a contest on the wing for the disputed possession. One form of this sport, a sort of aerial polo, which seemed to be as good fun for the birds as for the observers, consisted in tossing two rats into the air at the same moment, not singly and apart, but tied together with about six feet of strong twine.

Instantly the birds made a dash for the rats, and the successful winner of the first prize went sailing off with one rat in his bill and the other swinging in the air beneath until snatched by the second winner, when, after a quick, sharp struggle and a taut strain on the cord, the bird with the weaker hold was compelled to let go. This then went on as a continuous performance, with somewhat Jonah-like but rapidly repeated disappearances and reappearances of the little rats, swallowed and reluctantly disgorged by the birds in quick succession until the flock, thoroughly exhausted by their impetuous flight and extraordinary exercise, alighted on the ground for a short truce, when the two temporary stakeholders would be found sitting face to face, keenly eying each other from opposite ends of the string still connecting them, each anxiously on the sharp lookout for sudden jerks and unpleasant surprises, while all the other pursuers gathered around in a ring, waiting for the two prize birds to fly. The general aspect of all participants seemed to verify the familiar adage that the pleasure is not in the game, but in the chase.

SEVEN YEARS IN BED.

This Wonderful Case Borders on the Miraculous.

Nothing Like it has Ever Been Heard of—In Newfoundland, Where the Story Comes From, it has Created a Profound Sensation.

Cottel's Cove, New Bay, Newfoundland, Oct. 6.—(Special,) — This part of the island has been thoroughly aroused by the most miraculous cure of a man named Joseph Boon.

For eight years this man had been ailing and for seven years of this time he was unable to work. He had Back Ache and Kidney Complaint, in fact he was all pains and aches. He had been treated from time to time by several doctors and although he always carefully attended to their several prescriptions exactly as ordered by them, he got no relief, but was slowly growing worse.

Finally he went to the hospital where he remained for seven months, only to be sent home as an incurable case.

He has tried every remedy he could hear of, electric belts, liniments, oils and other medicines but all of no avail. No one ever thought he could ever be well again.

However, one day he picked up a newspaper containing an account of how Mr. Richard Quirk, of Fortune Harbour, had been cured of Lumbago by Dodd's Kidney Pills. After reading this Mr. Boon made up his mind to try this remedy and at once began a treatment.

He used altogether twenty-one boxes before he was able to go to work again, but now he is able to attend to his daily duties as strong and vigorous as any man along the coast.

Mr. Boon is a fisherman and is at present engaged at lobster fishing with no thought whatever of his old time Back Ache and other pains.

The people here regard this cure as little short of miraculous.

ST. LOUIS BRIBERY TRIALS.

R. M. Snyder Will Seek a New Hearing on Friday.

St. Louis, Oct. 7.—The case of Henry Nicholaus, charged with bribery, came up yesterday in Judge Ryan's court. The millionaire brewer was not present, but was represented by his counsel. The date for his trial, it was announced, would not be definitely set for a few days, but it would come soon after the Butler trial, to commence at Columbia next Monday.

Judge Ryan announced that the motion for a new trial, made by an attorney for R. M. Snyder, the banker and promoter, who was convicted Saturday of bribery, relative to the Central Traction deal, will be taken up next Friday.

The case of Charles Kratz, the councilman, charged with bribery in the Suburban case, was called, and Circuit Attorney Folk said that Kratz was a fugitive from justice, but he understood that he was desirous of returning to St. Louis. The case was continued to the next term of court by Judge Ryan, but the continuance can be set aside if Kratz appears in the meantime.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Oct. 6.—There were about 700 head of butchers' cattle, 50 calves and 800 sheep and lambs offered for sale at the East End Abattoir to-day. The wet muggy weather caused a rather dull market, there being very little doing for anything but the best animals and a considerable number of the common stock will not be sold to-day. A few of the best beeves sold at about 4½c per lb. Medium beasts at from 3¾c per lb. to 4¼c per lb., and the common stock at from 2c to 3c per lb., while small bulls sold at from 1½c to 2c per lb. Calves sold at from $2.50 to $12 each, or from 3c to 5½c per lb. Sheep sold at from 2¾c to 3½c, and the lambs at from 3½c to near 4c per lb. Good lots of fat hogs sold at about 6¼c per lb., weighed off the cars.

Want Education Bill Withdrawn.

London, Oct. 7. — The National Council of Evangelical of Free Churches has sent an identical letter to Premier Balfour, all members of the House of Commons and all the members of the House of Lords, appealing for the withdrawal of the Government educational bill.

At the same time the council has issued a manifesto to non-conformists offering to enroll the names of all those who are willing to refuse to pay the school rates.

Barnardo Boys Arrive.

Portland, Me., Oct. 7.—Of the 397 passengers who arrived yesterday afternoon on the steamship Colonian from Liverpool, 320 were boys and girls, ranging in age from 5 to 19 years, from the Dr. Barnado Home, who were forwarded to homes in Canada and the west.

Six Vessels Ashore.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 7.—A severe storm swept over Labrador last week. Six more vessels are ashore, and their cargoes of fish have been lost. The mail boat from Labrador is delayed. It is feared that she will bring reports of heavy losses in Northern Labrador.

Dr. Cowan Dead.

Guelph, Oct. 7.—Dr. W. B. Cowan died on Saturday, after a lingering illness. He was 62.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Sad End of Mrs. Jessie Chapman at Calgary, N.W.T.

Calgary, N.W.T., Oct. 7.—Mrs. Jessie Chapman was burned to death on Saturday night about 8 o'clock, in her house. The tragedy was a horrible one. The woman was completely burned up. She was aged 62 and lived alone. She went home shortly before 8 o'clock, and it is supposed was preparing for bed. In some way the lamp was upset and the unfortunate woman was dead before any alarm had been given. Two boys saw the flames, broke into the house, put out the fire by pouring some water on it, and informed the police. Mrs. Chapman was at one time a nurse. She has two sons in Calgary and two daughters, Mrs. Sullivan of High River and Mrs. J. G. Motion of Chicago.

Second of Digger Cases.

Toronto, Oct. 7.—The second case in which the Toronto Railway Company is trying to convict some seventeen conductors of thefts of money and tickets is on before Judge McDougall. It required more than an hour to secure a jury yesterday afternoon to try George Howland, and no further effort was made to hear the case. It will be continued to-day. The defence had used six peremptory challenges and the prosecution had exhausted its full twelve before a jury was placed in the box. Both sides seemed determined to exclude all Toronto citizens, each appearing to prefer farmers. The result shows ten men who give their vocation as agriculturists, one as gentleman and the twelfth as carpenter. The case will consume about one day.

Valuable Advice to Mothers.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness off any kind, the first thing get your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25 cents.

A Clever Pickpocket.

In Paris two police officers recently got upon the track of a pickpocket. They surprised him in the act at the omnibus bureau and followed him in hot pursuit. He was a thin, poorly clad young fellow. In the Rue Rochechonaut, however, he suddenly disappeared. Judging that he had slipped into one of the houses they set themselves to watch for his reappearance. The thief in the meantime had entered a bathing establishment, and after a refreshing bath entered the box of another bather and calmly clothed himself in the smart suit he found there, then passed proudly and peacefully out before the very eyes of his pursuers. The climax of humor came when the other bather, arrayed in the rags of the pickpocket, was grabbed by the officers of the law at the door and dragged off to the station house. With some difficulty the situation was explained; but the pickpocket is still laughing.

Make the Most of Your Gifts.

Personality has done wonders with both heredity and environment. It has made moderate gifts accomplish marvelous things. Men with moderate gifts, by patient and persistent application have put to shame the splendidly equipped, who have indolently frittered away their patrimony. Out of the most untoward surroundings men have found their way to the grandest achievements. The boy from the log cabin has outstripped the boy from the palace. The barefooted boy has outstripped the boy of pampered indulgence. The plodder has outstripped the genius. The tortoise has passed the hare. Whether a man be richly endowed or moderately endowed, his success will depend on the use he makes of what God has given him.

Stricken With Paralysis.

Could Scarcely Walk and was Given up by Doctors—An Extraordinary Case—Now Believes His Life was Saved by

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mr. James A. Deal, a respected resident of Bridgewater, N. S., writes:—"About a year ago I suffered a stroke of paralysis, which left me in a very bad state of health. To add to my troubles, last winter I took la grippe, which completely exhausted my nervous system. I could scarcely walk or talk, my legs and arms were partially paralyzed, my blood did not circulate properly, and I could not do any work. In fact, I was so bad that the doctors gave me up and thought I could not live through the summer.

"I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and persevered in the treatment, until now I am at work again. The change in my condition has been most remarkable. It is a surprise to everyone to know that I am able to be around again. My nervous system has been built up wonderfully by this remedy. I am able to rest well, my circulation is normal, and my general health good. My appetite is first-class, and I have gained considerably in flesh.

"The results I have obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food have been most gratifying, and I have no hesitation in stating that I believe I owe my life to this preparation. I am willing that you publish this letter, with the hope that it may be the means of helping others to regain their health."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 1

CURING A BALKY HORSE.

Simple Methods May Be Employed Without Using the Whip.

An expert states that the vice of balking in horses is almost invariably caused by improper breaking and handling of the animal while young, says the Chicago Chronicle.

It is only high strung and ill tempered horses that balk, and these are handled with more success by humoring and patience than by severe measures, which generally make matters worse. It is almost impossible to follow rules in a case of this sort. What will succeed in one case is useless in another, so that a driver must exercise good judgment—"horse sense"—in handling a case.

A very good treatment is to watch the animal closely in places where it would be likely to balk, and with the first sign of stopping the driver should say "Whoa," then get off and loosen or pretend to change the harness in some way; also take up a foot and tap the shoe with a stone. Spend a few moments leisurely in this way, and in nine cases out of ten the animal will forget its inclination to balk and will go on at the first bidding. It is also well to give a lump of sugar or a handful of oats or an apple. This will always produce better results than severe measures.

Neuralgia

is Rheumatism of the face. Uric Acid left in the blood by disordered kidneys lodges along the nerve which branches from the eye over the forehead, and across the cheek to the side of the nose. The cause is the same as in all Rheumatism— disordered Kidneys. The cure is likewise the same—

TRANSPLANTED TREES.

Why They Frequently Remain Dormant a Whole Season.

Certain kinds of trees frequently remain dormant all summer, following spring transplanting. To all appearances they are dead, and they are an eyesore to the owner till removed.

The writer of this has seen wistarias, horse chestnuts, ashes and tulip trees remain perfectly dormant all summer and come out safely into leaf the following spring. It seems contrary to nature that trees should live without the leaves, which we learn are their lungs and essential for evaporation and assimilation of food in the growing season.

Explanation of this peculiar action is had by studying for a moment the conditions that probably exist. The roots of such trees have been disturbed and their feeding powers suddenly checked. They are called upon to support the tops as formerly, yet their opportunity for the time being is gone. A struggle is going on. The tops make a feeble effort to put forth buds and draw on the roots for nourishment with poor success. The roots yield of their stored food, but are too weak or are not in a position to make new feeding fibers. If the tops have not been pruned, the drain is so much the greater. Where leaves put forth, transpiration would be more than the trees could stand, and they would gradually die away.

A Hard Luck Tale With a Sting.

It was not a new hard luck tale to the man to whom it was told. The young man, neatly dressed and dapper looking, was not out of work, had not lost his purse, was not poverty stricken at all, but he had come down from Rye to go over to Newark and in changing his clothes had forgotten to transfer his pocketbook to the trousers he put on.

"I hate to ask the favor of a stranger," the young man said, "but really it would save me much embarrassment if you could let me have a couple of dollars until tomorrow."

"Indeed I can't do it," said the man, for he believed not a word of the tale, and he left the disconsolate youth at the postoffice and, meeting a friend, invited him to luncheon and told him of his "gentleman beggar."

When the waiter handed him a check, the two had agreed that the story was highly improbable, but a moment later the doubting man gave a start.

"By Jove!" he exclaimed. "I've left my pocketbook in my other trousers!"

The Advance In Paper Making.

When Ulman Stromer long ago established paper making in Germany, he had no foresight of the important position paper was destined to assume in the civilization of man. In Stromer's time paper was a rare material, little used and only to be found in the offices of the learned, of scribes and of officers. The supply of Germany and of all northern Europe was brought from Italy and Spain—most of it from the factories of Fabriano, in Italy, where paper mills existed in the twelfth century, while a lively paper industry flourished in Spain, with its principle seat at San Felipe, in Valencia, as early as 1150.

The paper making art was introduced into both of these lands by the Arabs, who learned it in Samarcand and spread it through Europe. It was introduced into Samarcand in 751 by Chinese prisoners from their country, where it had been carried on from extremely ancient times.

A Snake Story From India.

A queer story of the cure of a snake bite comes from India. A young man bitten by a venomous snake was evidently dying. The mob called in resolved to try the most powerful remedy he knew. He tied a cowrie shell on to a piece of string and muttered incantations till it began to whirl round and round and finally disappeared. In a few minutes the snake that had done the damage appeared with the string and shell round its neck and was commanded by the mob to put its mouth to the wound for about ten minutes, after which it went away. The dying man speedily recovered.

The British Seas.

The seas around the coast of the British isles are mostly narrow. The greatest width of the English channel is between Portland Bill and St. Malo, 140 miles. It narrows to 20¼ miles at one point in the strait of Dover. The distance between Great Britain and Ireland is even less. Tor Head is only twelve miles from the nearest point of the Mull of Cantire. Between Carnsore Point and St. David's Head, in Wales, forty-seven miles is the least breadth of water.

A Model Fireman.

Mike O'Hagan had never been a success. He had been discharged from the service of a bus company for allowing his bus to be smashed by a tramcar and from the service of a tram company for bumping into a carriage.

Finally, however, he landed in the fire brigade, and all his friends expected that he was settled for life. He was not, however, for in less than a month he was again looking for a job.

"How did it happen, Tim?" said Mike's friend Pat to Mike's brother Tim.

"Oi'll tell ye, me bhoy," replied the latter. "Shure, there came a foire, an' Moike he wint. An' whin he got there there was a man on the top ov a blazin' buildin' scr'amin' for help. 'What'll Oi do at all?' says he. 'Hould on,' says Moike, an' he t'rows him a rope. 'Tie it round yer neck,' says he."

"And what did Mike do then?"

"He pulled him down!"—London Answers.

Good Points of a Mule.

Rightly used, kindly treated, given the same good care as a horse, the mule has always shown himself kind, good tempered, willing, docile and intelligent. Moreover, while he has none of the horse's graceful, sympathetic ways of showing affection and responding to appreciation, the mule is capable of genuine devotion to a kind master. Both the horse and the ass have affectionate dispositions, and the only reason the mule does not evince such is because nothing calls it out. Jack is not demonstrative, but he does respond visibly to kind treatment.

He makes, moreover, an easy paced, careful, kindly riding animal when well treated. Taken altogether, he is a useful, intelligent, much enduring, little appreciated brute, whose melancholy position is that of a dog with a bad name—his good qualities rarely mentioned, while his bad ones are credited at their full value.

A Bit of Travers' Wit.

Among the many stories told of the inimitable William R. Travers is the following:

A New York clubman whose reputation as a conceited and insufferable bore was a byword was attempting to impress a group of men as being a society pet.

"What a hospitable fellow Blank is," he said, naming one of New York's cleverest men. "I dropped in on him the other night, and he and his wife fairly insisted that I stay for dinner. Such a time as I had getting away! Why, when I started to leave, they came right out in the hall and backed up against the front door."

"After you'd g-g-gone out?" inquired Travers.

A Witty Pauper.

While walking through an old street in Stuttgart recently a man found a purse, and, thinking that it might contain something valuable, he stuck it hastily in his pocket and hurried home.

He examined it then and was disgusted to find that it contained nothing except these four lines in German on a slip of paper:

When you find this purse, refrain from joy;
I'll tell you why in a minute—
I only threw it away because
I hadn't a cent to put in it.

WE ECHISES.

The builders of cities, of worlds, are we,
The unnamed scribes, and of unknown worth;
For we are the kinsmen of Progress, and he
The one Prince we serve on the whole wide earth.
Nor gold, nor glory, nor name we claim—
We ask but the right, unfettered to fight;
To name a wrong by its shameless name:
To slay the wrong for the love of the Right.

The sentries of cities, of worlds, are we,
Each standing alone in his high watch-tower:
We are looking away to the land, to the sea:
We have only a lamp in the midnight hour.
Then leave us the right to fight or to fall,
As God may will, in the front of the fight,
Unchallenged, unquestioned for the good of all,
For the truth that lives, for the love of the Right.

The givers of glory to nations are we.
The builders of shafts and of monuments
To soldiers and great daring men of the sea;
But we are the homeless, strange dwellers in tents,
With never a tablet or high-built stone.
Yet what care we who go down in the fight,
Though we live unnamed, though we die unknown.
If only we live and die for the Right.

There are brighter things in the world than gold,
There are nobler things in this world than name—
To silently do with your deeds untold,
To silently die unnoised to fame.
Then forth to the fight, unnamed and alone,
Let us lead the world to its destined height;
Enough to know, if but this be known,
When we live and die in the ranks for the Right!

—Joaquin Miller.

They Father Consumption.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing germ-killing vapour. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headaches and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months treatment, $1; trial size, 25 cents. Druggists, or N. C. Two Remarkable Careers.

Sketch calls attention to a remarkable similarity in the careers of the Duke of Marlborough and Lord Kitchener. Kitchener was born exactly two hundred years after Marlborough. In 1671, Marlborough saw his first service in Tangier, and in 1871 Kitchener was appointed a Lieutenant in the Royal Engineers. In 1679, Marlborough went to Flanders, and two hundred years later Kitchener was sent to Cyprus, and in the following and corresponding years one was transferred to Scotland and the other to Anatolia. Marlborough, of course, got on faster, for, whereas he was made a general in 1683, Kitchener was only promoted Captain in 1883, and, while Marlborough was Ambassador to France in 1685, Kitchener was Commissioner at Zanzibar in 1885. In 1689, Marlborough was made an Earl, whereas in 1889 Kitchener had only got as far as the "C.B"; but matters were a little more equal a few years later on, for Marlborough was made a Duke in 1702, after his great campaign in Flanders, and in 1902 Kitchener was made a Viscount, after concluding the long war in the Transvaal. It will be interesting to see whether the parallel will continue and whether Lord Kitchener will have his Blenheim, his Ramillies, and his Malplquet in 1904, 1906, and 1909.

Four T's Makes Good Singers.

Many people when singing get husky, and this spoils the voice. Four T's is par excellence a lung and throat tonic, and cures chronic congestion of the bronchial tubes, making the voice clear as a bell. An ordinary cough is cured by a few doses of this marvellous medicine. Sold in 25 cent bottles at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

Tennyson's Tactlessness.

Several stories are told of Tennyson's thoughtless speeches. "What fish is this?" he once asked his hostess where he was dining. "Whiting," she replied. "The meanest fish there is," he remarked, quite unconscious that he could have wounded any one's feelings.

Yet his kindness of heart was such that when his partridge was afterward given him almost raw he ate steadily through it, for fear his hostess might be vexed.

On one occasion Tennyson was very rude to Mrs. Brotherton, a neighbor at Freshwater. The next day he came to her house with a great cabbage under each arm.

"I heard you liked these so I brought them," he said, genially. It was his idea of a peace-offering

If you have transgressed against the laws of nature, you must suffer. Self abuse, later excesses and private diseases have wrecked thousands of promising lives. Treat with scientific physicians and be cured. Avoid quacks. E. A. Sidney, of Toledo, says: "At the age of 16, I learned a bad habit and at 19 contracted a serious disease. I treated with a dozen doctors, who all promised to cure me. They got my money and I still had the disease. I had given up hope when a friend advised me to consult Drs. K. & K., who had cured him. Without any confidence I called on them, and Dr. Kennedy agreed to cure me or no pay. After taking the New Method Treatment for six weeks I felt like a new man. The drains ceased, wormy veins disappeared, nerves grew stronger, hair stopped falling out, urine became clear and my sexual organs vitalized. I was entirely cured by Dr. Kennedy and recommend him from the bottom of my heart."

Bears Still Playing With Listed Stocks.

"Sloss" Fell 8 1-4 Points—St. Paul's Took a Drop too—Other Quotations.

The bears did some more hard hammering on Wall street to-day, and there were signs of heavy liquidation. Stocks came down with a tumble, in some cases of 8 points, and traders looked on in an astonished manner. Soo preferred made a record, going back on its friends to the extent of 8 1-4 points. It opened at 122 1-4 and ran down to 114. Sugar, too, was away off, and dropped to 118, while St Paul, which sold ex-dividend 4 1-4 per cent., at 190, fell to 185; C P R came even lower than yesterday's prices and could be easily had at 131; Mop continued its downward flight, and touched 109 3-8; Reading opened at 69 and closed at 67 7-8; W P closed at 102 5-8. Sales to noon were 387,400. Money opened at 10 per cent. and closed at 5 per cent.

E. M. Poussett & Co. have just received the following wire from McIntyre & Marshall;

Yesterday's reports that the banks had practically given notice to the principle operators and bull pools that they were not to expect any accommodation in monetary market from them, and that their bears would be called as soon as matured was confirmed last evening. This was the principal cause of selling yesterday. At the close nearly all the trading element were inclined to cover shorts over night, and that with the report that the Governor of Penn. had ordered out the entire National Guard of Penna. caused the rallies of the last few minutes. Heavy short interest was created yesterday. London comes pretty strong this morning, and we would not be surprised to see some rally. There is a good deal of talk this morning about numerous deals which are pending, and which will take a vast amount of money to finance. Among these is the L. N., to pay $10,000,000 cash to-morrow, the Ship Trust under way, which calls for 20 per cent., or equal to $15,000,000, due about the end of the week, and payments on Band O new stock issue, the first of which is due the third week in October, involving $21,000,000. It is thus apparent that we need not look for easier money for some time to come.

McINTYRE & MARSHALL.

The Coal Situation.

New York, Oct. 6th.—The approach of the winter months calls attention to the coal situation, and the present coal strike. Common sense dictates that the trouble is bound to be adjusted. Whenever an aggravated situation exists due to differences between employer and employee, and it reaches a stage which causes the public to be an unusual sufferer, the public will see to it that it is adjusted. Its representatives are bound to give the matter attention, or hear something drop when election day comes around. With winter coming on and hard coal practically unobtainable, even at $20.00 per ton, something must and will be done. This is a certainty. If the Federal Government cannot bring about a settlement, public opinion will necessitate that the Government protect those that will work against the assaults of those who will not. It is consequently logical to look for a termination of the struggle in the mining region, and that very soon. If the various busy bodies had not from time to time given the strikers encouragement by their endeavours to interfere, the strike would have already fallen of its own weight. However, the matter is about to terminate, and when it does the industrial activity at the mines, with its consequent results to the anthracite carriers will start, and there will be an advance in this class of stocks this winter of some considerable magnitude, and it will be a sustained one. Therefore, it will appear to be unusually traditious just at present to some of the hard stocks right now. To buy them before the trouble terminates will be to secure them cheaper and possibly after the episode is settled there is no doubt as to this being a fact. We urge you to buy a little of the Reading issues, Erie issues, O.W., etc.

Another blue Monday—this day recently seems to be the bad one of the week. St. Paul, after an initial advance of a point, closely followed by Reading, afterwards weakened under a bearish drive of considerable magnitude, which was brought against the entire market. St. Paul fell 2 1-2 points, while sugar was specially active, declining from 124 to 120. Short selling was briskly carried on, and considerable long stock was also dislodged. A rally set in after one o'clock, which carried St. Paul back to its opening price, while the entire market improved. After the delivery hour the bear forces again attacked the market with renewed vigor, carrying prices in several instances lower than before. The short interest has increased, and upon any further decline the market should be bought, in order to catch the inevitable rally, which must be near. Money closed at 5 per cent. Sales, 900,000.

HAIGHT & FREESE CO.

THE CEREAL WORKS.

Their Importance in Relation to the Progress of the Town.

The importance of the works of the American Cereal Company, now in the initial stages of actual operation, in relation to the progress of the town, cannot easily be over-estimated. We have for long been trying to make Peterborough both a manufacturing and a market centre, and we have, to a large degree, accomplished both. The establishment of such industries as the Electric Works, the Cereal Works, and the Cordage Works, the two latter, in recent addition to the other important manufacturing industries we possessed, has given the town a prestige as a manufacturing centre which will doubtless be operative, by the law of industrial attraction, in bringing other industries here, especially in conjunction with the inducements represented by our traffic facilities, our facilities for developing powor, and the generous attitude of the town towards new industrial enterprises.

Then the operation of the Cereal Works will have a large influence in adding to the importance of Peterborough as a market centre for the district for the coarser grains of the farmers. A run through the Cereal Works, as now in partial operation, gives one an idea, doubtless far within the reality, of their capabilities, which even the massive and imposing exterior fails to give, and when it is added that between the present and Christmas, the works will convert into breakfast foods six thousand bushels of grain per day, which the farmers of this district have an opportunity of supplying, we see how the presence of the Cereal Works tends to improve Peterborough as a market centre. The capacious elevator, with storage room for over half a million bushels, is arranged so as to provide farmers with facilities for unloading grain, which represent, not only a saving of time in this opperation, but a corresponding saving of time in loading at their barns. The grain can be brought in in bulk — obviating the use and wear and tear of sacks—that is, in an ordinary wagon box. Driven upon the scales and weighed the load can be dumped somewhat in the way a teamster dumps a load of earth.

AT THE BEGINNING

it is not expected that the local farming district can supply continuously, the year round, 6000 bushels of oats per day, a quantity that will doubtless be doubled, or perhaps even trebled, or even more largely increased, when the works approach the capacity which the buildings, erected with the view of large extension, in the completed condition, will represent. Within a few weeks, at furthest, it is expected that the railway sidings on the east and west sides of the buildings respectively, will be occupied by eight cars each, the one octette unloading grain into the elevator, and the other loading with finished products for shipment abroad to the British and European markets, which absorb with such ease the products of the several works of the company, that capacity of production is severely taxed.

Reverting to the buildings, it may be of interest to those who, unlike many in town, have watched the progress of construction, and marvelled at the extreme solidity which characterizes the structural work proper of the buildings, to suggest some idea of it. The cyclopean foundation walls of Longford stone, laid in cement, rest on concrete footings, seven or eight feet in width, and in some places over thirty feet below the surface, are surmounted with walls of solid brick, two feet in thickness for the first story, with a graduated reduction of thickness up to the seventh floor level. The same massive structural nature pervades the whole interior. Steel beams, supported by ranks of sturdy columns of Georgia pine stand, suggestive of a detruncated grove of Douglas firs, sustaining the concrete floors, so solid that they are as unshaken by the operation of the machinery as the Rock of Gibraltar would be by the whirr of a sewing machine. The building is regarded as perfectly fireproof, all the interior, except here and there a small stairway, being of con-combustible material, and the means of quenching an incipient blaze arising from the taking fire of any of the partially inflammable fittings, preclude the idea of a fire gaining any considerable headway.

The works are equipped with the most highly improved and most

for the purpose of manufacture, made to-day. In fact the works in their construction and planning and mechanical equipment include and combine the improvements and advances of the last twenty years, and as these works are the latest constructed of those controlled by the company they are naturally the best.

The journey of the oats from the elevator bins to the perfected article is complicated but comparatively rapid and the various operations of placing of the finished product into the neat packages is like everything about the place admirably systemalized, of Quaker neatness and cleanliness and gives employment to scores and prospectively hundreds of deft-fingered girls. Apropos of the capabilities of Peterborough girls, Mr. A. P. Macdonald, the manager, is quoted as asserting that in all the works of the kind, he has been associated with the inauguration of, he never found girls so intelligent, so quick to "catch on" as the girls of Peterborough, all of which is pleasant to hear, but no news to those who know the girl population of the town as they are. The Cereal Company is in luck in another regard Their opening operations, coming coincidently with the coal famine, they can practically disregard the latter. They are profiting by the post-mortem utility of our departed northern forests of pine. We have been wont to regard the little mountains of saw-dust which have been accumulating on the river banks in the vicinity of the Dickson Company's mills for over a third of a century, as dead waste, but, to-day the Cereal Works find them a mine of fuel which, it is estimated, will supply them with heating material for six or eight years. Furnaces adapted to burning saw-dust, furnish steam for grain drying and other heating purposes. Another way in which these works benefit the town, apart from the general considerations mentioned and the employment of labour, is their responsibility for the speedier and more complete enjoyment by the town of the advantages of the Trent Canal. Included in the plan of campaign is the opening of the river to boats to come to and go from the Company's wharves at the Works, and this involves the deepening of the river by dredging, and and this in turn, involves the construction of a line of warfage extending from the Hunter street to the C.P.R. bridge on the west side of the river, with all the advantages its presence will give. Without this from the completion of the canal would be comparatively indirect. But with the canal completed to Lake Ontario, we shall be able to have coal, iron and steel and other bulky or heavy freight imports landed at our very doors, within stone cast of our market square and the business centre of the town.

As previously intimated the importance of the Cereal Works to the Town and County of Peterborough cannot well be over-estimated, and important as they are now, the present is merely a pledge of the future. They are bound to expand. The plans now entertained provide for the extension of the buildings to Hunter street. It is considered probable that the present capacious elevator building will have to be enlarged, if not duplicated. The completion of the new dam will mark the beginning of the complete development which these important works are bound to reach. While the enterprise is a private one, in its wide-reaching effects upon the public well-being, it is public property. The people of Peterborough have a deep moral interest in its highest prosperity. The enterprise cannot flourish without reflecting its success upon the community.

RAILWAY GATES AGAIN DISCUSSED

All of which is respectfully submitted.

G. M. ROGER, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

COMMITTEE ON APPOINTMENTS.

The Committee on Appointments reported as follows;

To the Council of the Town of Peterborough:—

Gentlemen, — Your Committee on Appointments beg leave to report and recommend as follows;

1. That Dr. McNulty be appointed a member of the Board of Health in place of Dr. Moher, resigned.

2. That the police force be furnished with two electric flash lights of a small size.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. CORKERY, Chairman.

The report was, on motion of Ald. Corkery, seconded by Ald. Morrison, adopted.

BOARD OF WORKS.

The Board of Works, through its chairman, Ald. Best, reported as follows;

Gentlemen—Your Board of Works beg leave to report as follows;

1.—Your Board of Works received an application from the Peterborough Light and Power Company for permission to place fifteen poles on the east side of Reid street, between Sherbrooke and Hunter streets, and fourteen poles on the east side of Park and Downie streets, and recommend that the request be granted, poles to be placed according to the approval of Town Engineer.

2.—The following tenders were received for the construction of a sewer on lane running from Inverlea street to Smith street, between Water street and Dennistoun Avenue, and on Smith street from the lane to Water street, and on Water street from Smith street to Dublin street;

James Bogue, on the lane, $1.15 per foot, connections $5.00, Water street, $1.16 1-2 per foot, Smith street, $1.18 per foot, connections, Water street, $17.50, on Smith street, $15.75, and R. Sheehy, on lane at 83c per foot, connections $3.75, on Water street at $1.97 per foot, Smith street $1.18 per foot, connections $16.99.

Samuel Kennedy, on the lane, $1.10 per foot, connections $2.90.

J Robson, on the lane, 81c per foot, connections $5.00; Water street, $1.96 per foot, Smith street, $1.40 per foot, connections $16.80.

John E. Hayes, lane, 79c per foot, connections $3.00; Water street and Smith street, $1.39 3-4 per foot, connections $16.50.

We recommend that John E. Hayes' tender be accepted for the whole work.

3.—We have examined a petition for the construction of a granolithic sidewalk on Charlotte street, in front of Lot 3, south Charlotte, east George, and found it sufficiently signed and recommend that it be granted, and that it be left in the hands of the Chairman to arrange with the contractors for the sidewalk on Walton street to do this work, provided the property owners consent to this arrangement.

4.—Having considered Mr. John McGrath's letter in reference to the sale to the Town for a piece of land at the corner of Antrim and Harvey streets for street purposes, we cannot do more than recommend the purchase at the price of $150.00 without any further conditions, and recommend that on Mr. McGrath's delivering to the town a deed of the property, approved of by the Town Solicitor, that he be paid that amount.

5.—We examined a petition from E. W. Cox and others for a sewer on Bab's lane, from Gilmour street to Homewood Avenue, on Homewood Avenue to Walton street, and on Walton street, and found it sufficiently signed and recommend that it be granted. We asked for tenders for this work and received the following;

J. E. Hayes, 97c per foot, connections, 33 feet, $16.50, 13 feet $6.50, 6 feet $3.00.

Richard Sheehy, 89c per foot, connections, 33 feet $17.00, 13 feet $6.00, 6 feet $3.00.

John Robson, 94 1-3c per foot, connections 33 feet $16.00, 13 feet $12.00, 6 feet, $3.00.

Samuel Kennedy, 84c per foot, connections, 33 feet, $14.95, 13 feet, $5.87 6 feet $2.70.

Wm. Henry and John Gibson, 70c per foot, connections 33 feet, $15.00, 13 feet $10.00, 6 feet, $6.00.

James Bogue, 88c per foot, connections 33 feet, $16.50, 13 feet $10.00, 6 feet, $10.00.

We recommend that the lowest tender, that of Wm. Henry and John Gibson, be accepted, and that Wm. Aldridge be appointed inspector of the work at a salary of $3.00 per day, to be paid on the certificate of the Town Engineer.

6.—Your Board authorized the Engineer to sell to the Peterborough Lock Mfg. Co. some crushed granite at $3.00 per yard.

7.—We recommend that the Engineer be authorized to construct a drain north from Mr. A. B. Choate's residence on Stewart street, provided Mr. Choate moves the earth taken therefrom.

8.—We examined a petition from E. E. Lord and others for a sewer on Dalhousie street, from Aylmer street to George street, and found it sufficiently signed. We recommend that it be granted, and that the Engineer advertise for tenders for the work.

9.—We recommend that the Engineer be instructed to lay extension of the sidewalk on Lock street, by W. J. Rundles' new house, a piece of sidewalk, and to do some repairs at R. C. Beau...s, on Park street, and lay a piece of sidewalk to Mr. Anglesye's house on Murray street, and that the sidewalk on London street at Thos. Wilson's new house be raised.

10.—That the Engineer's appointment of S. Belcher as Inspector of Sewers be approved, and that he be paid $3.00 per day on the certificate of the Engineer.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

H. BEST, Chairman.

Ald. Turner, brought up the matter of having a weights and measures office opened in Peterborough and moved a resolution to that effect, asking the Town Council to communicate with the Government with a view of having such an office opened here. The resolution was seconded by Ald. Morrison, and carried.

SOME BYLAWS.

The following bylaws passed their several readings and were duly signed by the Mayor:

Providing for the construction of sewers on Water, Smith, Babb's Lane, Gilmour street, and Charlotte street; the granting of $100 to the Peterborough Agricultural Society, and providing for the appropriation of $2,500 for waterworks extensions.

ALD. McGREGGOR'S SCHEME.

Ald. McGreggor introduced the matter of establishing in Peterborough a municipal coal and wood yard. He considered that this course was advisable in view of the exhorbitant prices of coal and wood. He moved that the Town make application to the Legislature at its next meeting for the necessary legislation in this regard.

Ald. Best and Ald. Roger took part in the discussion that followed, and all agreed that it was a matter that required due consideration, as it might be looked upon as an interference with private rights. The matter will be taken up by the whole council and fully concidered.

WATER SUPPLY.

Ald. Roger introduced the following resolution which was seconded by Ald. Rush and carried:

That the Board of Water Commissioners be, and is hereby requested to consider and report to this council at their early convenience, upon the matter of alternative provision for water supply for the town in the event of any failure of existing source of supply arising from interruption to motive power or otherwise, whether sufficient provision for service now exists, and if not to make a recommendation in regard to same.

Council then adjourned.

I Will Cure You of Rheumatism

Else No Money is Wanted.

After 2,000 experiments, I have learned how to cure Rheumatism. Not to turn bony joints into flesh again; that is impossible. But I can cure the disease always, at any stage and forever.

I ask for no money. Simply write me a postal and I will send you an order on your nearest druggist for six bottles Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure, for every druggist keeps it. Use it for a month and, if it succeeds, the cost is only $5.50. If it fails, I will pay your druggist myself.

I have no samples, because any medicine that can affect Rheumatism quickly must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs, and it is folly to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood.

My remedy does that, even in the most difficult, obstinate cases. No matter how impossible this seems to you, I know it and I take the risk.

I have cured tens of thousands of cases in this way, and my records show that 39 out of 40 who get those six bottles pay gladly.

I have learned that people in general are honest with a physician who cures them. That is all I ask. If I fail I don't expect a penny from you.

Simply write me a postal card or letter. I will send you my book about Rheumatism, and an order for medicine. Take it for a month, as it won't harm you anyway.

If it fails, it is free, and I leave the decision with you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 47 Racine, Wis.

Mild cases, not chronic, are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

AN OLD WOMAN'S LIFE

Apparently Counted as Nothing to $1,500 Insurance.

JOHN ROSE TELLS HIS STORY.

Collingwood Conspiracy to Murder Case Investigation Begun—Witness' Connection With the Affair, According to Himself, Was to Make Money Out of Brown and Incidentally Save His Mother.

Collingwood, Oct. 8.—Old men shuddered and women wept in the crowded court-room yesterday when the amazing plot to murder an aged woman was slowly unfolded in all its shocking details. It was the preliminary hearing of William Brown, charged with conspiring to kill his mother that he might secure her life insurance. Magistrate John Nettleton presided, Crown Attorney J. R. Cotter prosecuted, John Birnie, K. C., and W. T. Allan defended, while Police Chief Maiden and Provincial Detective Greer were present as the sleuths who worked up the case.

At the conclusion of the investigation Magistrate Nettleton announced that he would render his decision today. The prisoner was released on $1,600 bonds, signed by Robert Wright and William Best. The penalty is 14 years imprisonment.

Joseph Rose of Collingwood, nephew of the Toronto insurance agent, was the first witness. He is the engineer of the water works, where the prisoner was employed. He had seen his uncle and Brown in conversation five weeks ago at the works.

A. A. Bond, a lawyer of Collingwood, said the prisoner called at his office a week ago with Chief of Police Maiden. On cross-examination, Bond said he and Chief Maiden did tell Brown when he was with them that they were his friends, and asked him to tell them the story. Then the prisoner made his confession. The defence was anxious to bring out the point that Brown had not been legally warned, that his confession would be used against him. Bond testified that Brown told him that his mother was to be killed or spirited away.

John Rose, the insurance man, was in the box an hour. He said: I have known Brown six years. He got me to insure his mother in his favor.

Do you know about his insuring his stepfather's life? the Crown asked.

The defence roared an objection. After much argument the court allowed the question.

The witness continued: "Yes, he told me he had his stepfather insured and collected the insurance. This was five years ago. About the last of August Brown sent for me. I went to the waterworks. He said he had backed out of what he wanted to tell me. He said finally that the policy on his mother's life was about to run out. I told him I thought the policy had lapsed, but he said no. Couldn't we get the old woman out of the road before that time, he remarked. I asked him if he meant to murder his mother and he said yes.

"I then asked him what his plan was. He said she could be got to the lake and shoved in. I said I preferred to poison her. I asked him for $50, but he said he had but ten, and this Brown mailed to me the next day. I showed the envelope containing the money as I received it to Joseph Brown. Then I tired to squeeze more money out of Brown. I knew he had money, and I wanted to get at least $300 out of him. He gave me ten dollars more, and I told him I had a man who would do the job. I said I must have more money. He said I could take $500 when the old woman was killed out of the insurance, and he would pocket $1,000.

"He then left me and I went to Lawyer Bond and got him to write a letter purporting to come to me from a Toronto doctor demanding money. I concluded to take Mrs. Brown to Toronto before this, about Sept. 9, to make Brown think I was taking his mother away to kill her. Brown and his mother had not spoken for a year. I gave her the money to buy the ticket, and I met her in Toronto. I took her to the Power House, West King street, Toronto. The next day she went to the house of her friends. A week later she returned to Collingwood. Then Brown said: What do you mean by letting her come back. I told him she was taking poison in medicine a doctor had given and would soon pass off this mortal coil.

"He replied: 'I could give a person blow poison and kill them in time so that no one would know it, so I suppose she will die all right.' This ended my talk with Brown. I intended to give Brown some cream of tartar and let him give it to his mother as poison. I asked a druggist at Thornbury what substitute I could use for poison to deceive a man, and the druggist recommended cream of tartar, as it looked like arsenic."

On cross-examination Rose said he registered at the Power House as John Rose and wife, Barrie. He refused to say how much he earned as an insurance agent. He said he had money invested in Toronto real estate, but refused to say where it was located or its value. He said he lived wholly on his insurance business. No deception was practised on Mrs. Brown in securing the policy.

The witness emphatically believed that Brown wanted his mother murdered. He said Brown outlined his drowing plan thus: You take the old woman out for a drive. Go near the lake. Pretend to see a fish. Get her out of the buggy to look for it. When she gets close to the water, push her in. Hold her head under until she stops struggling and leave her. It would look as if she had fallen in and got drowned by accident.

Rose contradicted Bond's evidence by asserting that before he asked the lawyer to write the letter with which money was to be extorted from Brown, he told Bond all about the conspiracy. The lawyer swore he would not have written the letter had he known the truth. Continuing, Rose said: Lawyer Bond was to have half the money I got from Brown. If I got nothing, the lawyer was not to get a fee. Bond was to share fully with me in all the money I got from Brown out of the plot.

Mr. Bond was in the room, and, arising, declared: You are a d——d old liar.

Mrs. Jane Brown, the aged mother of the accused, went on the stand. She was attired in a dark suit and gave her evidence standing in front of her son. She looked the prisoner over carefully as she was sworn. He lowered his head and wept. The old lady did not show much emotion while testifying.

"My son promised me $200 if I would let my life be insured in his favor," she said. "This money was to come from insurance money my son collected on my husband's life. He failed to pay this money. I went to Toronto the first part of September. I met Mr. Rose. He gave me the money to go on and he met me at the depot and took me to a hotel. Later I went to a friend's house. He said he was taking me to his niece's place. I did not want to go to Toronto. Mr Rose urged me, until I concluded to go. Mr. Rose later saw me in Collingwood and wanted me to go driving with him. Mr. Rose did not treat me very nice. He insulted me."

Fred Maiden, the chief of police, in the evening, told the story of Brown's confession.

MINERS APPEALED TO

President Roosevelt Has Asked Them to Resume Work.

THE CONDITIONS ARE NAMED.

Investigation and Legislation Are Promised as a Result of the Report of This Commission—Its Fur Miners Are All Against It and Stand Firm For Tangible Concessions — On Calling Out the Troops.

Washington, Oct. 8.—The following statement was made public at the White House yesterday afternoon:

"On Monday, Oct. 6th, Hon. Carroll Wright, Commissioner of Labor, went to Philadelphia and gave to Mr. John Mitchell, the following from the President:

"'If Mr. Mitchell will secure the immediate return to work of the miners in the anthracite regions the President will at once appoint a commission to investigate thoroughly into all the matters at issue between the operators and miners, and will do all within his power to obtain a settlement of those questions in accordance with the report of the commission.'

"Mr. Mitchell has taken this matter under consideration, but the President has not yet been advised of any decision."

AGAINST ACCEPTANCE.

Sentiment Strongly Against President's Proposition in Present Form.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 8.—The two principal features of the anthracite coal strike which claimed public attention in the coal fields yesterday were:

Will the miners yield to the desire of the President of the United States for them to return to work and investigate afterwards, and will the mine operators be able to carry out their promise to produce enough coal to relieve the situation if given the full military power of the State?

After a most carefuly inquiry among district officers present, and the rank and file of mine workers, it was found that sentiment is strongly against accepting the President's proposition in its present form.

As to the other features of the situation as it existed last night, opinion is divided, and will remain so until the real test comes.

An officer of the union now in the city, who does not care to be quoted in the absence of President Mitchell, for fear that it would be construed as being official, said to the correspondent of the Associated Press yesterday:

"The anthracite mine workers of Pennsylvania appreciate the efforts being made by President Roosevelt to end the strike in the interest of the entire country, and they have only words of praise for him. However, they feel that after sacrificing everything for the last five months they consider it unfair for anyone to ask them to return to work without a single concession, especially when the miners see victory almost at hand. The hard coal diggers of Pennsylvania have gone into the fight to win, and they would not be doing justice to themselves or to the great body of organized workmen throughout the country, and other persons who have and are financially assisting them in the present struggle, if they returned. The meetings of the locals throughout the entire coal region to-morrow, when action will be taken in accordance with President Mitchell's statement issued last night, will bear me out."

This is the tenor of the remarks of most of the mine workers in this region.

Tremendous interest is manifested in the effect the presence of the entire division of the National Guard, 10,000 men will have on the strike. There is a wide difference of opinion as to the probable effect. Coal company officials welcome the soldiers and say that prospects are bright for the resumption of mining under the protection of the military. The strikers received the news in a matter-of fact way, and, in line with the comment of their national and district leaders, say the presence of the soldiers will have no effect on the strike. Citizens outside of the controversy are also divided in their opinion. There is one noticeable thing, and that is, the strikers now show a firmer stand than they did before Governor Stone acted Tuesday night.

National Board Member John Fallon, who was the highest in authority at strike headquarters, said the men will remain as they are—firm to the end.

No Necessity For Rushing.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 8.—The officers of the State National Guard, having decided that the situation in the coal region was not so serious as to necessitate rushing the soldiers from their various local headquarters no effort was made to move them yesterday. Gov. Stone's order for the entire militia of the State to be sent to the anthracite region, however, will be carried out to-day.

The militiamen will be divided in such manner as to have every colliery and every mining village under sufficient guard to prevent disorder.

By direction of President Mitchell all the local unions will hold mass meetings to give expression to their feeling regarding the operators' declaration at the Washington conference on Friday last that a large majority of the strikers would return to work if given military protection.

Some few locals held their meetings yesterday, each of which voted to remain on strike until concessions are granted.

THE SITUATION IN ONTARIO.

Speaking at Newmarket on the occasion of the demonstration in honour of Hon. E. J. Davis, Commissioner of Crown Lands, Premier Ross gave, as he always does, an important deliverance on public matters. He dealt in terms of unmistakable directness with the present political situation in Ontario.

* * * *

Premier Ross declared that he would neither resign nor consider the idea of a coalition, but fight to the end. Of course, it is only the frenzied partisans on the other side who demand his resignation. Somebody must govern the Province, and our constitution entrusts that duty to the person having a majority in the Legislature. It does not matter whether that majority is large or small; because, if it is contended that a majority of one is not enough, the obvious retort is that a minority of one is still worse. The question of the popular majority, again, has no bearing on the case. Our constitution does not recognise popular majorities except in individual constituencies. Without any unfairness in the arrangement of constituencies, it may happen that a party having a small majority of the votes may have a minority of constituencies. Mr. Whitney claims to be in this position. He is entitled to all the comfort that may arise from his belief; but even if that belief is well sustained, it does not entitle him to be Premier of Ontario. If he thinks the Premier ought to be elected by popular vote, his proper course is to move to have the constitution amended, so that a plebiscite or referendum could be taken as between him and Mr. Ross. But that is not at present our constitution, and therefore Mr. Whitney has no grievance, even if he has a small majority of the popular vote.

* * * *

The suggestion of a coalition rests on a different basis. It is not founded on the idea that it is a public wrong for Mr. Ross to hold office, or that Mr. Whitney has any right to take his place. It has nothing to do with claims to office. Politicians might, of course, come together and agree to divide the offices, and call that a coalition, and we suppose that is what has given the word an ill repute. But when a coalition was discussed by The Globe as a possibility it was with an entirely different view. We do not regard it as essential to the strength and good name of the Liberal party that it should hold all the offices or half the offices, or any proportion of the offices. Coalition based on a division of offices has no claim to consideration. Coalition based on the public convenience, and on the necessity of transacting the public business without coaxing and worrying over votes, is a very different matter.

* * * *

It is curious that the average man in Canada derives his prejudice against conditions from two very different sources. Disraeli, the author of a saying "England does not love coalitions," was an avowed opportunist, who believed that one set of politicians had a right to "steal the clothes" of another set in order to remain in office. After a series of deadlocks, which threatened to render government impossible, he himself entered a coalition for the purpose of breaking the deadlock and of carrying out a certain policy — the confederation of Canada. His action was perfectly consistent. He was a man who cared little or nothing for office, and everything for measures. He, therefore, denounced all coalitions for office, and he entered one for carrying a certain measure.

* * * *

At present the only question before the people of Ontario is good administration. We believe the province is now being well administered, but if the Ministers are to continue to give efficient service they must have a working majority in the Legislature. If the present Ministry can obtain such a majority by the will of the people, the conditions of good government will be fulfilled. If not, the working majority must be obtained for some Ministry; and we do not care whether it is called a coalition or by any other name, so long as the province is well governed.

* * * *

In the meantime, Mr. Ross says that his policy is simply "fight," and his pluck and resolution are to be admired. Only it is incumbent on all those who applaud his courage to support him with deeds. It will be useless to applaud and then to leave him with a majority so small as to keep him and his colleagues in continual anxiety as to their support in the Legislature. What we say is that it is absolutely necessary that there shall not be a deadlock. If that can be avoided by strengthening Mr. Ross so much the better. We see no possible Whitney combination that will give the province as good administration as it now enjoys. But there is no use in saying "No coalition" unless the people are prepared to give Mr. Ross a support that will make him independent of any such measure.

POLITICAL PHILANTHROPY.

The Mail and Empire lavishes fulsome praise on Messrs. Crawford, St. John, Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, Conservative representatives, for "their action in calling attention of the Ontario Government to the necessity of doing something to relieve the fuel situation." The idea suggested is, in the abstract, an excellent one, but it lacks an essential merit, is is impracticable. It is no wonder, that, as the Mail remarks, "Mr. Ross did not receive it enthusiastically." Before the proper measures could be taken to place the wood upon the market, spring would be well advanced, and the popular necessity of wood as a heating material, would have passed away. These gentlemen should have spoken sooner if they had been really solicitous of the welfare of the people. But the suggestion coming at an inopportune time, looks more like a bid for popularity than genuine philanthropy. It looks more like striving to put the Government at fault, by suggesting an idea, good in itself, but visionary and throretical, in that the conditions for its successful application are wanting.

Besides the proposition to the Government of these political philanthropists, was for the benefit of Toronto. The governmental machinery of the province was to be put in motion for the especial benefit of Toronto. Under the circumstances it was in order for Premier Ross to remind the Conservative members of Toronto that the city should make an effort on its own behalf. And it was a practical tribute to the energy of the Government when they answered that the city would be "too slow." However, the city has taken to heart the lesson of the fable of the lark and her young. They have decided to help themselves, and the city authorities have appropriated $50,000 to procure a supply of fuel for its citizens.

OUR PEAT BEDS.

Reference was made a few days ago to the numerous patents which are being taken out in Washington all having for their object the production of artificial fuel. The exercise of inventive faculty in this direction is very natural at the present juncture, but it is to be feared that no new invention is likely to be available to any extent at least, before the exigencies of climatic conditions call for warmth in some form or another. Canada is endeavouring to exploit her peat, and there is no reason why that commodity should not play a part in relieving the public from the pressure of the present coal famine. Across the lines every effort is being made to develop the utility of peat, and in Maine experiments are being made on a costly scale with results that may be watched with interest in Canada. A report by Professor Randall, with reference to the work of a certain manufacturing company, states that it has succeeded in manufacturing a fuel which for good reasons will equal coal, because it contains the same elements that coal contains. We call it synthetical coal, because it is formed by synthesis. This coal has a heating value slightly superior to soft coal. It will be found that in New England there are almost inexhaustible bogs of peat. Possibly there is no article that has received so little thought and attention from practical men as has this valuable material. For instance, from the Massachusetts report of the Geological Survey, I quote:—"In nearly fifty towns of Eastern Massachusetts, taken as a fair average of its quantity in other towns and other counties, it would follow that 80,000 acres, or 125 square miles, are covered with peat, having an average thickness of six feet. This area and depth would yield not far from 200,000,000 tons."

This is applicable to Canada, and the process should be ascertained without delay. We have great beds of peat only awaiting utilization and the reason that it has not been used has probably been the cheapness of wood and the ignorance of the valuable fuel which has lain at our doors. The situation is now changed, and to peat as well as to our Canadian soft coal the public may with advantage look.—Ottawa Free Press.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

On the night of the 26th ult., the Rev. J. G. Potter, agent of the U. C. Bible Society, delivered his address, the subject being "The Rock, the Stone and the Anvil," which was well received by those who heard him. We regret that the president was absent, also Rev. Mr. Mounteer, who was detained on account of the death of his mother, who had been visiting his home for some time past. We extend our sympathies to him in his time of trouble.

The anniversary services of the Presbyterian church here were held on the 28th ult. Rev. D. Best, of Beaverton, preached morning and evening. His sermons were full of thought and warning. The congregations were large, and many came to hear him because his early days were spent in our town and vicinity. The subject of his address was found in the second chapter of Lamentations — the destruction of Jerusalem and the captivity of Judah. This formed the subject of his sermon in the morning. At the evening service his text was taken from the 18th vs. of the 8th chapter of Romans. During the services the choir rendered two anthems, which reflected great credit on the members and the organist. The collections taken up were for the building fund.

Mrs. M. McLean of Toronto, formerly of this place, is visiting relatives here.

The new blacksmith, Mr. W. Greig, is receiving his fall stock of hardware, suitable for his business here during the winter season.

Our cheese factory will close in about a month from this, and will then begin to manufacture butter.

Farmers are receiving very high prices for cheese, cattle, butter, eggs and pork. Providence is favouring us in Ontario, with good crops and no signs of famine in our land. Should this not call for our thanks to the Giver of all our needs?

There are no complaints from the business men of our town. They are all highly pleased with the trade that has been done here during the summer season.

MURDERER NOAH HALE SEEN.

Overcarefulness of Provincial Constable Rush Allowed Him to Escape.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 8. — Noah Hale, the murderer of his son, was seen yesterday at Echo Bay, and through the overcarefulness of Provincial Constable Rush was allowed to escape. Hale, appeared, still carrying his rifle, at the door of one Foshey's home.

He explained that he was a cattle buyer and asked information concerning any cattle in that vicinity which were for sale. Foshey gave him the information and food. The man ate as if nearly starved. His behavior aroused suspicion, and Constable Rush was notified.

Instead of making the arrest Rush hastened to the Soo to ask the authorities if it was his duty to make the arrest. Rush has gone back with orders to take Hale dead or alive.

Mrs. Hale still lingers between life and death. Little hope is held for her recovery.

RODNEY MURDER CASE.

Evidence Taken Leaves No Doubt That King Will Be Committed.

Rodney, Oct. 8.—Yesterday, before Police Magistrate Glenn of Rodney, the preliminary investigation of Charles King, for the murder of William Freeman, was commenced. Crown Attorney Donahue prosecuting, and W. L. McLaws defending the prisoner. It will be remembered that, at first, King stated that Willie Freeman had shot himself; but, later, Inspector J. W. Murray secured a confession from King. Yesterday, the evidence went to show that the gun was not in the hands of Willie Freeman when the shot was fired. The nature of the wound, the shot having scattered in the boy's head, and the absence of powder marks, corroborated King's confession. The Court adjourned last evening, to be opened at St. Thomas this afternoon.

An Insurance Agent Arrested.

Windsor, Oct. 8.—Thomas Kilroy, who until six months ago, acted as general agent in this city for the People's Life Insurance Company of Toronto, was arrested here at noon yesterday on a charge of embezzlement in the amount of nearly $300. Manager Bell of the company, Toronto, is in the city to prosecute Kilroy. The prisoner alleges that the shortage is due to a misunderstanding between himself and the company with reference to the amount which he was supposed to have remitted in premiums collected.

DISCOURAGING NEWS.

Return of the First Sailing Seal Fleet to Victoria.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 8.—Somewhat discouraging news has been received from Behring Sea, through the return of the first sealing fleet. The Oscar and the Hallie, which took 280 skins in the sea, totalling 1,085 for the season of nine months off the coast, Copper Island and Behring Sea. Behring Sea, the crew report, was very tempestuous, almost from the beginning of the season until the time the schooner headed for home on the 20th of last month. For sixteen days a continuous gale blew, and during this time it was impossible to lower a boat. In the last fifteen days spent in the sea, the boats were lowered but four times. Only three of the sealing fleet were sighted, the Victoria, on Aug. 29, with a catch of 109 skins; the Silah May, on the previous day, with only 46 skins, and the Favorite, on Sept. 7, with 109 skins.

Mr. Fitzpatrick Banqueted.

Montreal, Oct. 8.—Five hundred guests attended the banquet at the Windsor Hotel last night, in honor of Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick, Minister of Justice. The function, which was non-political, was organized by the St. Patrick's Society, and was presided over by Mr. Justice Doherty. The speech of the Minister was purely patriotic.

Strikers Used Stones.

New Orleans, Oct. 8.—Violence broke out in the street car strike yesterday morning. Three cars were wrecked by stones. A non-union motorman was badly hurt.

SIR WILFRID SAILS.

But First He Opens the New Produce Exchange at Liverpool.

SEVERAL PROBLEMS DISCUSSED.

The Premier's Happy Eulogy of Canada's Resources and Her Value to the Empire as a Supplyer of the Grain She Needs to Feed Her Hungry Millions — Has Golden Key.

London, Oct. 8.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Lady Laurier, accompanied by Hon. W. S. Fielding and his family, and Hon. W. Gibson, sailed on the Lake Fate from Liverpool yesterday after a most cordial reception. The Liverpool authorities express themselves as well satisfied with the practical result of the Canadian Ministers' visit.

While in Liverpool Sir Wilfrid opened the new Produce Exchange. In his speech he alluded to the expansion of the Canadian produce trade, and dwelt on the success assured to men of muscle and business capacity who would go to Canada and occupy the vast territories there which were still unpeopled. The Premier also said that in the course of the next decade or two Canada would be able to meet Great Britain's total grain requirements, thus ensuring her against a shortage in war time.

The problem of a fast steamship service between England and Canada, the speaker further remarked, had been under consideration ever since he had been Premier. He hoped that Canada would be able to solve it, as she had solved others vastly more difficult.

The speaker emphasized his belief that the Empire ought in future to be built upon the arts of peace rather than war, said Canada was ambitious to excell Great Britain, both in population and wealth, and remarked that he was proud to take back the testimony of the Corn Exchange that the finest wheat in the world was grown in Manitoba.

Though Mr. Chamberlain has regretfully been unable to pledge the British Cabinet to a tariff preference in favor of the colonies, the Canadian Ministers believed that British public opinion is moving in the direction of an exemption of colonial wheat, flour and other products, as the British Government tax them for revenue purposes only. In a word they believe the idea of the Empire as a trade unit is growing among Englishmen, and believe also that the British Ministers only await this public sanction. The colonial Premiers stoutly denied that the United States and other foreign countries have any cause of complaint.

The Canadian Ministers had difficulty in making certain British Ministers, notably Brodrick, who elaborated his own scheme for Imperial defence, understand that Canada is so situated she must move cautiously. The British Ministry now, more especially Hon. Mr. Chamberlain, however, realizes how impracticable at the present it would be for Canada to make a money contribution to the Imperial army and navy. Concerted measures are to be adopted for the similar training of troops of the different parts of the Empire, so that when necessity arises they can act with greater cohesion. But the Canadian Ministers have discouraged all these suggestions, and limit in the smallest degree Canada's full management of Canadian forces.

Before sailing Sir Wilfrid expressed his heartfelt appreciation of the warmth of the reception by the Lord Mayor and the people of Liverpool. He carries back to Canada, as a souvenir, the golden key which he opened the doors of the new Liverpool Produce Exchange. After yesterday's speeches the Liverpool men are confident that Liverpool will remain the British port of the fast mail service.

Large crowds cheered the Canadian Ministers as the ship left.

Col. Morin Dead.

Welland, Oct. 8.—Col. Morin, registrar, died yesterday morning, after one day's illness. The cause of death was acute kidney trouble and uric acid poisoning. He was a member of the Legislature in 1883 and 1886. He leaves a wife, two sons and four daughters. He was born in Ireland in 1849.

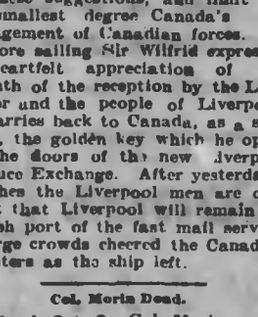
Russell Sage Ill.

New York, Oct. 8.—Russell Sage is seriously ill with bronchitis. Last night his temperature was 104, but his doctors think he will recover.

Probably Fatally Hurt.

Burk's Falls, Oct. 8.—H. S. May of Huntsville, while attempting to board a moving train, was seriously injured. Doctors say he canaot live.

Female Disorders.



For the past two years I have been afflicted with female troubles. I had serious bladder disorder; inflammation would set in and I would suffer intensely. Sometimes I could not urinate and the pain was so severe I could not sleep at night. I always had heavy bearing-down back and womb pains. I went to the hospital for three months, paid two visits a week but got no relief. I was advised to try Powley's Liquified Ozone and before I had finished the first bottle I began to feel better. I have taken in all three bottles and now I am quite well.

MRS. JOHN WAY,

There may be a better way of curing female ailments than by Ozone, we don't believe there's a quicker or safer method or one that gives such permanent beneficial results. Powley's Liquified Ozone is peculiarly adapted for disorders of the mucous membrane. If you try it once you will make use of it regularly.

A Remedy Which Has Revolutionized the Treatment of Stomach Troubles

The remedy is not heralded as a wonderful discovery nor yet a secret patent medicine, neither is it claimed to cure anything except dyspepsia, indigestion and stomach troubles, with which nine out of ten suffer.

The remedy is in the form of pleasant tasting tablets or lozenges, containing vegetable and fruit essences, pure aseptic pepsin, (government test), golden seal and diastase. The Tablets are sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Many interesting experiments to test the digestive powers of Stuart's Tablets show that one grain of the active principle contained in them is sufficient to thoroughly digest 3,000 grains of raw meat, eggs, and other wholesome food.

Stuart's Tablets do not act upon the bowels like after dinner pills and cheap cathartics, which simply irritate and inflame the intestines, without having any effect whatever in digesting food or curing indigestion.

If the stomach can be rested and assisted in the work of digestion, it will very soon recover its normal vigour, as no organ is so much abused and overworked as the stomach.

This is the secret, if there is any secret, of the remarkable success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, a remedy practically unknown a few years ago, and now the most widely known of any treatment for stomach weakness.

This success has been secured entirely upon its merits as a digestive pure and simple, because there can be no stomach trouble if the food is properly digested.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act entirely on the food eaten, digesting it completely so that it can be assimilated into blood, nerve and tissue. They cure dyspepsia, water brash, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive power which weak stomachs lack, and unless that lack is supplied, it is useless to attempt to cure by the use of "tonics," "pills" and cathartics, which have absolutely no digestive power.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be found at all drug stores and the regular use of one or two of them after meals will demonstrate their merit better than any other argument.

Government Will Investigate.

Toronto, Oct. 8.—Aubrey White, assistant Commissioner of Crown Lands, said yesterday that the department, when it sold 17 acres of land on Huckleberry Island, knew nothing about "the whole in the wall." The complaint of the citizens of Parry Sound, however, will be investigated, and to this end, T. W. Gibson has left for that place. The deed of sale has not yet been signed, Mr. White says, and the purchasers of the land have been notified not to do any blasting on the island. When Mr. Gibson's report is received it is likely that the Government will refuse to sell the island.

Broke His Neck Near Todmorden.

Toronto, Oct. 8.—A fatal accident occurred on the Don road, near the Thorneliss farm, about 4.30 yesterday afternoon, when E. Windle, a respected resident of Todmorden for five years, fell out of a buggy and broke his neck. He was turning at the foot of the Don Hill and lost his balance. The fall was witnessed by several of the neighbors, who ran to his assistance, but he was dead when they reached him. Mr. Windle was known locally as a naturalist and botanist. He was a native of Gloucestershire, England, and his age was 62. He had no relatives in this country.

Poisoning Is Suspected.

Parkhill, Oct. 8.—The latter part of August the remains of Thomas O'Rourke, who died in Manitoba, were brought to Parkhill for interment at Mount Carmel, about nine miles from here. There appears to have been a strong suspicion that the man was poisoned. Yesterday the remains were exhumed and brought to Parkhill. A post mortem was held in the morning and an inquest was opened in the afternoon, and adjourned for two weeks.

Toronto's Population, 211,735.

Toronto, Oct. 8.—The population of Toronto, announced by the Assessment Department yesterday, is 211,735, against 205,887, which was the estimate, as a result of the last assessment. These figures are not supposed to include tourists. The total assessment for the year 1902 as finally revised, was $133,965,547. The total assessment for the year 1903, now returned by the assessors, $139,307,929, an increase of $5,342,382.

E. H. Cleveland's Suicide.

Toronto, Oct. 8.—E. H. Cleveland, a bookkeeper, shot himself in a room in a hotel here yesterday. During the past week or two he has made other attempts on his life by gas and poison, but did not succeed owing to the vigilance of his friends. This time he was successful. The cause was his unrequited love for Miss Edith Crowe. Cleveland leaves a 17-year-old daughter in Toronto, and a son in South Africa.

Twelve Lives Lost.

Beaumont, Texas, Oct. 8.—Another great fire, more disastrous than the conflagration of a few weeks ago, swept over the fields here last night, causing the loss of twelve or more lives, and entailing a property loss of many thousand dollars.

Will Be Hanged Nov. 21.

Nelson, B. C., Oct. 8.—The jury brought in a verdict against Henry Rose for the murder of John Cole on June 4, near Nakusp. He was sentenced to be hanged at Nelson on Nov. 21.

Ottawa's Population.

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—Ottawa's population, as announced yesterday by the assessment commissioner, is 61,137, an increase of 448 over the assessment of last year.

BOSTON COAL FOR U.S.

Miners of Great Britain Contribute $5,000 to Their Striking Fellows.

London, Oct. 8.—The Scotch coal masters are in receipt of numerous urgent inquiries for the prompt shipment of coal to New York and Philadelphia, and they are arranging freightage for 40,000 tons. The most urgent demand is for anthracite, for which the United States buyers now have to pay $4.12 per ton, against $3.12, which they refused to pay a month ago. The demands for steam coal are also so numerous that some of the masters have withdrawn their current price list. The steel trade fears that there will be prejudicial effects on business from the higher prices created by the United States.

The Miners' Federation of Great Britain in session at Southport, yesterday, voted $5,000 from the Central Fund for the relief of the striking United States miners, and adopted a resolution in favor of the Executive Board and the different districts making further donations for the same purpose.

Crown's Case Concluded.

Toronto, Oct. 8.—The defence in the second "digger" trial, in the Criminal Sessions before Judge McDougall, will conclude to-day after the examination of three witnesses, including the prisoner, George Howland. The Crown's chief witness, John B. Caulfield, the Pinkerton detective, swore that on April 17 he first met the prisoner Howland in a Queen street car and saw him take fares from his box with a "digger." He made an engagement with and met him that night at the Toronto Opera House. That night Howland told Caulfield he had made $3 that day and in 12 months he had taken $300 with his "digger." Caulfield said he had met him again on May 19 and saw him take $2.50 from the box, and another time 30 cents.

Mr. Robinette called Mrs. Mary Howland of Pickering, aunt of the accused. She swore that her nephew saved his money and while stopping at her place he had loaned her $200. After he came to Toronto and while he was working for the railway company she had sent him $175, and still owed him about $25.

A Burden to Self and Others.

"Take care of your health; you have no right to neglect it, and thus become a burden to yourself, and perhaps to others." When the liver gets sluggish, the kidneys inactive and the bowels constipated, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will very promptly set your filtering and excretory system in perfect order, and insure good digestion and perfect health. There is no medicine so generally used and none so successful. One pill a dose.; 25 cents a box.

Ways of the Statesmen.

Many years ago, when England was engaged in foreign complications, the first lord of the admiralty sent Admiral Codrington a dispatch which was most peaceful as far as it appeared before the public. He told him not to take his ships into action and so forth, but in a corner he wrote this short private note, "Go it, Ned!" And Codrington went to Navarino and smashed up the Turkish fleet.

Same Old Story.

"Wonder why the grizzly bear isn't exhibiting himself today?" said the African lion gently.

"He's laid up. The tortoise bit him," replied the lioness.

"Well, that's what he gets for fooling with shell game."

Not Always Hard.

"Yes, he swindled us," said one of the victims, "and we considered him such a perfect gentleman; he had such a gentle, suave way about him."

"Proving," remarked the other, "that the way of the transgressor is sometimes soft."

Although the medicine business should, above all, be carried on with the utmost conscientiousness and sense of responsibility, the unfortunate fact is that in no other is there so much humbug and deception. The anxiety of the sick and their relatives are traded upon in the most shameful manner; impossible cures are promised; many preparations are absolutely worthless, and some are positively dangerous to health.

As a consequence, all proprietary remedies are regarded with suspicion by many people, and the good suffer for the bad.

CENTRAL BOOT and SHOE STORE.

Last week we told you about our Men's and Women's High-Class Goods. Now we lay special stress on our Boys' and Girls' School Shoes, made to stand the severest test that healthy, romping children can give them. Prices are the only insignificant feature about our goods, and run like this:

Boys' Boots, sizes 1 to 5	$1.00 to $2.75
Youths' Boots, sizes 11 to 13	.75 to $2.50
Misses' Boots, sizes 11 to 2	$1.00 to $2.25
Girls' Boots, sizes 8 to 10	.85 to $1.25

VERY ENJOYABLE MUSICAL EVENING.

Decrey-Parker-Markle Recital in the Y. M. C. A.

Pianoforte, Voice and Violin Constitute an Enjoyable Ensemble.

The damp evening was no doubt largely accountable for the fact that the audience assembled in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, last night, was not larger. If those who contemplated coming had known at seven o'clock as well as those who were present did at 9.30, what a delightful musical treat awaited them, they would have braved more than the autumn drizzle to have been in attendance. Mlle. Decrey, pianoforte, Mrs. A. G. Parker, voice, Mr. Gilbert Markle, violin, and Mrs. Wallis, as accompanist, contributed to the charming programme of high class music presented in a very creditable manner.

The programme embraced eleven selections, which were added to by several worthily won encore numbers. Mlle. Decrey gave a Chopin Impromptu in F sharp, a beautifully dreamy waltz by Stojowski, and, if the card was adhered to, Loreley, by Seeling, Sapellnikoff's "Dance of the Fairies." Without entering into details of the merits of the several selections, it is enough to say that Mlle. Decrey's work admirably sustained the well-deserved reputation she has achieved in Peterborough as a finished pianiste. Her style combines vigor of touch, delicate manipulation, richness of tone, clearness of enunciation and admirable taste. Her technique is excellent, her last number displaying in a very marked manner a veritable digital diablerie of execution. Every number was heartily applauded and her second won her a recall, which she was unable to bow out. Mr. Gilbert Markle, a new claimant for musical honours, created a deeply favourable impression, and his presence in town as a violinst, ie a valuable addition to the musical forces of the town. He was set down for four appearances, but enthusiastic encores increased them to six or seven. He opened with a romance by Ries, and in answer to a recall gave a fine performance of Raff's well-known Cavatina. A Romance by Swendsen was followed by a charming composition of Saint-Saens, "Le Cygne," which, if he had played no more would have been considered his best number, but his sprightly encore to his closing number, a Wieniawski Mazurka, was played in a very spirited and capable and perhaps superior manner. Mr. Markle, a young man of only eighteen, is a most promising violinist—the kind that is born, not made—and if his future studies are capably directed, and his striking natural talent developed under proper conditions, his place will be among the stars on the concert platform. His method is virile, his bowing decided and his interpretation shows that he has a decidedly musicianly grasp of his subjects. Mrs. A. G. Parker, an old Peterborough favourite, added new lustre to her laurels last night. It is no disparagement to her past to say that the varied and exacting programme she sang revealed marked improvement in her voice quality and general execution. She gave great delight in a Schubert gem, "Who is Sylvia?" a double number selected from Greig, "Autumn Song," and "Woodland Wanderings," both admirably sung, as was the little French song given as an encore. Perhaps her best work was found in Massenet's brilliant Serenade, "Du Passant." In response to an enthusiastic encore she sang, "O Dry Those Tears," by Teresa del Riego, in a key which developed the fullest range of her sweet voice. The duties of accompanist to Mr. Markle were very capably performed by Mrs. Wallis.

Altogether a most delightful evening was spent by those present. One point of suggestive criticism might be allowed, which by no means disparages the merits of the musical production. Many would have welcomed a longer pause between the numbers so that enthusiasts might discuss and digest the beauties of the renderings, and not have delightful impressions too soon displaced by succeeding ones. The merit of the programme last night consisted to no small degree in each succeeding number seeming to be better than the last.

THREE CHILDREN MET THEIR DEATH

A Horrible Happening in Chandos Township.

PARKS FAMILY DESTITUTE.

Full Particulars not yet to Hand—Warden Eastland Asks for Aid—Occurred on Saturday Night.

Word has been received in town, through a prominent county official, of a horrible occurrence that took place on Saturday night in Chandos township, the victims of the terrible affair being three small children of Mr. J. Parks, a settler of that township. Full particulars of the accident are not to hand, but from the only information to-day obtainable it would appear that on Saturday evening Mr. Parks and two of the oldest children of the family were attending a revival meeting about one mile from their home, which is only a few miles from Apsley. Mrs. Parks was called away to attend a neighbour woman who was ill. The other members of the family consisting of three small children, whose ages ranged from five to nine years, were left at home. The little ones were in bed for the night when the parents and other members of the family left house. Shortly afterwards a man and his son on their way to the meeting noticed the Parks house to be on fire, but all attempts to save the inmates were of no avail and they perished in the flames. The horrible affair has naturally created the deepest sympathy amongst the settlers in that neighbourhood as not only have Mr. and Mrs. Parks lost three of their children, but everything they possessed in the shape of a home as well. Warden Eastland is opening a subscription list in aid of the unfortunate family.

THE LIFT LOCK IS COMPLETED.

Messrs. Corry & Laverdure Celebrate the "Driving of the Last Spike."

Hang out the flag upon the outer walls,
The cry is still the "Lift-Lock's Done."
—Macbeth.

Flags streaming in the southerly wind from the soaring towers and battlemented walls of the lift lock, this morning, were a silently eloquent way of proclaiming to the world that the work of the contractors was completed. This morning Messrs. Corry & Laverdure, the contractors, arrived in town from Ottawa to signalise the completion of their contract on the Trent Canal reaching from Nassau to the Little Lake, and including the lift lock, the largest of its kind in the world, and the only one of its kind on this continent.

In honour of the occasion of "driving the last spike," the massive pile was gayly decorated with flags. From each of the three towers which rise majestically from the canal at this point, floated the Union Jack and three more were displayed on other parts of the lock. Between the towers hung streamers of small flags in festoons, blazing in parti-coloured brilliancy, till the massive and beautiful pile took on a festive appearance, becoming to such an event as its completion.

Roy, the photographic artist was present and took two views of the lift lock from different points, with a group of the contractors and the foremen in the foreground. This afternoon the contractors remembered the few workmen and employees who are attending to a little final clearing up by providing refreshments for celebrating the occasion.

This ceremony marks both the end of one more stage of construction, and the beginning of the end of final completion, ready for traffic. The workmen of Corry & Lavendure give place to the workmen of the Dominion Bridge Company, of Montreal, who are busy erecting the derricks to be used in placing the steel work, pontoons, etc., required in the working of the lock, which it is estimated, will take about a year to complete.

Though the work, so far, on the lift lock has taken longer than anticipated, the entirely new nature of the work causing necessarily slow progress, the workmen employed were extremely fortunate During the five or six years the work has been going on there have been no deaths of workmen by accident, and few, and no really serious, accidents to record.

A GIRLS' GUILD

In Connection With St. John's was Organized Last Night.

A meeting was held last evening in the Guild Room of St. John's church, for the purpose of organising a "Girls Guild." The following were elected officers;

President—Mrs. Rev. Davidson.
Vice-President—Miss M. Burnham.
Sec.-Treasurer—Miss Dawson.

It has not yet been definitely decided towards what end the efforts of the Guild will be directed, but this will be at the next meeting arranged.

MARRIED AT ST. JOHN'S

Rev. Frank Walker Wedded to Miss Clara L. Clark of Town.

A very quiet though interesting event took place at St. John's church at 8 o'clock last night when Miss Clara L. Clark, daughter of Mr. A. Neal Clark, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Rev. Frank Walker, until recently assistant rector of St. Ann's church, Toronto. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. J. C. Davidson, Rector of St. John's, in the presence of a small number of intimate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. The bride was gowned in a simple travelling costume, and was attended by Miss Lena Bourchier of town, whilst the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Harry Walker.

At the conclusion of the marriage ceramony Rev. J. C. Davidson spoke a few words on behalf of the congregation, in which he referred to the high regard in which the bride was held by the people of St. John's, all of whom would join in wishing her many years of happiness. The wedding party then repaired to the residence of the bride's father, No. 547 Water street, where a wedding breakfast was served and the newly married couple received the congratulations of their many friends. They left on the 5 a.m. C.P.R. train for Deloraine, Man., where they will reside in future, Mr. Walker having been appointed Rector at that parish.

The bride was one of Peterborough's most popular young ladies, and has been prominently connected with the work of St. John's, and was a member of the church choir. The groom is one of the rising young clergymen of the Church of England, and has been popular in the various parishes in which he has laboured.

Mrs. T. Dawson, Bonsacord street, was called to Toronto to see her brother who, it is feared, has been fatal y injured by a fall from a scaffold.

The Critical Time of Life.

Is between the years of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the progress of decay sets in. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigour is to take Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone keeps up the appetite, and in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, imparts clearness to the tiring brain, force, energy and spirits just when they are needed most. To take Ferrozone regularly means adding from ten to twenty years to life. Large boxes, 50 cents, or six boxes for $2.50. At druggists or Ormond & Walsh's. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are certain.

THE GUILD MEN ENTERTAINED

St. Paul's Young Men Paid a Visit to St. Andrew's.

A Very Pleasant Evening—Songs and Speeches—Refreshments Were Served.

The Young Men's Guild of St. Andrew's church last night entertained the members of the Young Men's Guild of St. Paul's church, when a pleasant and profitable evening was spent by all present.

The Guild of St. Paul's is a new institution, while that of St. Andrew's has been in existence for some years, and has taken an active part in the interests of the church. From time to time they have entertained the young men's societies from various churches, and have therefore done much to create a friendly social spirit amongst the young men's societies of the town.

After the regular business of the Guild last evening the installation of officers for the ensuing year took place. The officers installed were as follows;

President—W. Campbell.
Vice-President—H. H. Edmison.
Rec.-Secretary—W. Richardson.
Cor.-Secretary—C. Anderson.
Treasurer—R. M. Glover.
Councillors — Messrs. R. Elliott, T. G. Anderson, J. Lang and Lou Thornton.

Rev. Dr. Torrance, Rev. J. A. Wilson and Rev. J. G. Potter spoke of the excellent work that the Young Men's Guild was doing throughout the country, after which an adjournment took place to the dining hall where refreshments were served and a short toast list was run off.

The toast of the 'K'ing" was duly honoured, and was followed by the toast of "Canada," which brought forth a neatly worded speech from Mr. A. C. McCallum. "Our Guests" was proposed by Mr. Campbell and responded to by Mr. J. Connal. "The Ladies," proposed by Mr. F. Brown, drew forth replies from Messrs. R. Elliott, R. F. McWilliams and Jas. Gerrard. Songs were rendered by Mr. Jack Pease and Mr. Jas. Gerrard and altogether the evening passed off most pleasantly.

Engineers Slide Rule.

This is one of the new classes in the Y.M.C.A. evening school this year, and one in which a goodly number, who need the use of the rule in their work, have already sent in their names for. Mr. C. E. Brown, Assistant Engineer, Canadian General Electric Company, will instruct. The class will meet for the first time on Thursday evening at 7.30.

One thousand volumes of Henty's books at 23 cents each at Sailsbury's.

MR. PACKENHAM'S ROUSING SEND-OFF.

His Fellow Employees of the C. G. E. Said Farewell.

A VERY JOLLY GATHERING.

Mr. Packenham Leaves for Montreal With the Best Wishes of a Host of Friends—Speeches Songs etc.

Mr. Harry Long's handsome new palm parlours was the scene of a very jolly gathering last night it being the occasion of a farewell supper to Mr. Frank Packenham by the representatives of the various departments of the Canadian General Electric Company. Mr. Packenham, as is well known to the Peterborough public, has been on the office staff of the Canadian General Electric Company for the past seven years, and judging from the enthusiastic send off he was given last night he must have been a popular and much respected associate amongst the employees of the works.

The palm parlour looked very pretty indeed last night as the 60 or more employees sat around the festive board. The tables were neatly arranged and were decorated with flowers, etc., whilst an abundance of electric light shone forth from the handsome electrical fixtures. A piano was stationed in the parlour at which Mr. W. H. Fall presided and rendered a splendid programme of instrumental music during the evening. Songs and recitations were given, and short speeches in which Mr. Packenham was praised for his many sterling qualities were made by his fellow-employees. All joined in wishing him success in his new position with the Canadian General Electric Company at Montreal.

The chair was occupied by Mr. R. E. Layfield, the popular accountant of the works, whilst amongst those present were Messrs. F. Skitch, C. Wilhelmi, B. Watts, W. Lloyd, J. Wilson, C. McFarlane, W. Byers, F. Millard, W. Belcher, C. B. Robertson, G. McCrae, W. S. Robinson, A. Metheral, E. E. Lord, C. Huffman, W. H. Smith, F. A. Shannon, J. B. Duncannon, A. W. Paterson, T. Drew, E. Desautel, T. W. Wilson, A. F. Bookhout, R. E. Harding, R. H. Shepherd, W. A. Brundrett, F. Post, H. Burnham, J. Hyde, R. S. Soanes, R. W. Carson, A. Goodwin, W. Hodgson, W. O'Neil, M. Breckenridge, G. Tovey, Jr., R. O'Connor, R. Cottrell and W. Grady.

After a very excellent menu had been disposed of the toast list was proceeded with.

Mr. Layfield expressed the great honour he felt in being asked to preside on such an occasion and paid a warm tribute to the gentleman whom was about to sever his connections amongst them. He had been in close association with Mr. Packenham for a number of years and he felt keenly indeed the fact that he was to sever his connection at the works, but he joined in wishing him success in the more responsible position to which he had been appointed.

The toast of the King was honoured in the regular manner by all present singing the National Anthem.

OUR GUEST.

The chairman called upon Mr. W. S. Robinson to propose the toast of "Our Guest." In doing so he assured them that while the duty was a pleasure in one sense for him, he at the same time entertained feelings of regret. They could ill afford to lose such men as Mr. Packenham at the works. He had always proved himself to be genial and kind in the discharge of his duties and his departure from amongst them would be felt by all. They were parting with a jale fellow well met. Mr. Robinson's personal associations with him had been of the most pleasant nature, and in lodge matters and otherwise they would miss him. They were all pleased to know, nevertheless, that he was going to a more responsible position and they hoped that success would follow him to his new field of labour.

Mr. Packenham rose to reply amid much enthusiasm, and the singing of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow." He thanked his fellow employees for their kindness towards him, and for the congratulatory remarks they made concerning his connection with the Canadian General Electric Company. He could only express his feelings in a kindly by saying that he was sorry to leave Peterborough. It was his home, and he would always look upon it as such. He would never forget his associations with the men of the works in which he had been employed for the past six years. Should any of them ever go to Montreal, he would be pleased to have them call, and he would try and make their stay in that city pleasant. He was glad to know that his efforts on behalf of the company had been recognised in the manner that they had but he had received good tuition under the guidance of Mr. Layfield. In conclusion he assured them that he would always look back with pleasure to the send off he was so heartily given by the boys of the Canadian General Electric.

Mr. Fred Skitch then sang, "I'm off to Philadelphia in the Morning," which was heartily received.

The toast of the General Electric Company was given and the proposer briefly recited the history of the company since its establishment in Montreal sixteen years ago. To-day they had a large factory in Montreal, another in Toronto, while in Peterborough we find the largest factory of its kind in the Dominion. The goods of the Canadian General Electric Company are found in use in every town from the Atlantic to the Pacific Oceans.

Mr. C. B. Robertson, in replying to the toast, said that he had been connected with the company for the past ten years and had always found the associations most congenial. They had had many partings like the present one, when old associates left for new places of employment, but he knew of no employee of the company who had left under more favourable circumstances than Mr. Packenham.

Mr. R. E. Harding proposed the toast of Mr. Packenham's successor. He paid a warm tribute to Mr. Packenham's good qualities, and he felt sure that Mr. Shannon would make a worthy successor to the employee who was now leaving for a better position. He had had about seven years association with Mr. Packenham, and they were indeed sorry to lose him.

Mr. Shannon's health was heartily drunk, and the boys sang "He's a Daisy." Mr. Shannon predicted that he would have a difficult task in successfully filling Mr. Packenham's position. He was sorry to see Mr. Packenham leave Peterborough, as they had enjoyed his company at the works, and had found him to be a real good fellow.

Mr. Ed. Desautel gave one of Drummond's selections, which brought forth great applause. This was followed by a humourous story by Mr. R. E. Harding.

Mr. Jack Wilson proposed the toast of the ladies, which drew forth responses from Messrs. Jas. Hyde, Hal Burnham and R. Cottrell.

The Press was responded to by the local representatives present, after which Mr. Skitch sang in good form "The Boys of the Old Brigade."

Mr. T. W. Wilson paid a few complimentary remarks to Mr. Packenham, after which Mr. Harding mentioned to the gathering the fact that that the General Manager had told him that day that all vacancies on the staff would be filled by promoting present employees, a statemment that was received with great applause.

The toast of the Chairman, and "Our Host" were duly honoured, after which the gathering dispersed by the singing of Auld Lang Syne and God Save the King.

SEVEN YEARS IN BED.

This Wonderful Case Borders on the Miraculous.

Nothing Like it has Ever Been Heard of—In Newfoundland, Where the Story Comes From, it has Created a Profound Sensation.

Cottel's Cove, New Bay, Newfoundland, Oct. 6.—(Special,) — This part of the island has been thoroughly aroused by the most miraculous cure of a man named Joseph Boon.

For eight years this man had been ailing and for seven years of this time he was unable to work. He had Back Ache and Kidney Complaint, in fact he was all pains and aches. He had been treated from time to time by several doctors and although he always carefully attended to their several prescriptions exactly as ordered by them, he got no relief, but was slowly growing worse.

Finally he went to the hospital where he remained for seven months, only to be sent home as an incurable case.

He has tried every remedy he could hear of, electric belts, liniments, oils and other medicines but all of no avail. No one ever thought he could ever be well again.

However, one day he picked up a newspaper containing an account of how Mr. Richard Quirk, of Fortune Harbour, had been cured of Lumbago by Dodd's Kidney Pills. After reading this Mr. Boon made up his mind to try this remedy and at once began a treatment.

He used altogether twenty-one boxes before he was able to go to work again, but now he is able to attend to his daily duties as strong and vigorous as any man along the coast.

Mr. Boon is a fisherman and is at present engaged at lobster fishing with no thought whatever of his old time Back Ache and other pains.

The people here regard this cure as little short of miraculous.

A VETERAN'S JUBILEE.

Friends and Admirers Banquet Principal Caven.

A FATHER OF PRESBYTERIANISM

At Knox College, Toronto, Mr. Mortimer Clark Proposed the Principal's Health —Feeling and Modest Reply by the Guest — Eloquent Appeal For Church Unity—Speech by Hon. G. W. Ross.

Toronto, Oct. 7.—The alumni of Knox College and their friends generally united in signalizing the fiftieth anniversary of Rev. Principal Caven's entrance into the ministry by a banquet last night in the hall of the college. There were a couple of hundred or more present, and the occasion was of an extremely pleasing nature. The speeches were not by any means fulsome panegyrics, and had the true ring of sincerity about them.

W. Mortimer Clark was chairman, and among those present were: Premier Ross, Judge Moss, Principal Loudon, Chancellor Wallace, Chancellor Burwash, Dr. Kennedy, Rev. John Neil, Rev. Alex. McGillivray, Rev. Principal Shearaton, Dr. Reeve (vice-president Queen's University), Dr. P. H. Bryce, Rev. J. A. Macdonald, Rev. Dr. McClelland, Rev. J. M. Duncan, Dr. Somerville, Rev. Thomas Eakin and scores of others, both lay and clerical.

In proposing the toast to the guest of the evening, the chairman said it had been his personal privilege to know Dr. Caven for the last

REV. PRINCIPAL CAVEN.

22 years, and in that time he (the speaker) need not tell them of all the good that he had done for Knox. As a man, as a minister and as principal of Knox College he had earned for himself a reputation that any man might be proud of.

Dr. Caven's health was drunk amidst cheers and the playing of "The Cock o' the North."

In replying Dr. Caven spoke of the very great honor his friends had done him in thus celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of his entrance into the ministry. Speaking of his life's work, Dr. Caven said it was one of the hopes of his life to see the realization of church unity, and he thought that it was not far off.

"Our Country" was proposed by Rev. Dr. McClelland, and was responded to by Premier Ross. He, after speaking appropriately to the toast, said of Principal Caven that he had done his duty nobly and well in education, church government and the academic work of the church. He was a man who, the speaker did not think, even harbored a small or narrow idea, and certainly not on the question of education, for he had been a warm supporter of free schools.

Rev. J. M. Duncan proposed the toast "Educational Institutions," and Vice-Principal Watson of Queen's University responded.

The toast of Knox College had for its sponsor Rev. John Neil, and Dr. Somerville, Owen Sound. Rev. Thomas Eakin, Guelph; W. G. Wilson, M.A., and Dr. R. P. Bryce responded.

UNION MEMBERSHIP.

Has a Witness the Right to Refuse to Answer If a Member.

Toronto, Oct. 7.—A case of considerable importance to organized labor will come up at Osgoode Hall on Wednesday in connection with a strike in the furniture trade at Berlin, Ont. For over six weeks now a strike has been in force at the furniture factory of the H. Krug Furniture Company at Berlin. The firm last week took steps to secure an injunction to restrain the plaintiffs, the Berlin Union, No. 112, Amalgamated Woodworkers' International Union from unlawfully interfering with their business. The examination for discovery was blocked by the refusal of the witnesses to state whether they belonged to the union, on the ground that the answer might involve criminal proceedings. The legality of that refusal will now be argued before the Court of Appeal.

Longest Cable in the World.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 7.—The cable steamer Colonia completed her work yesterday morning, having buoyed her cable one mile off the Fanning Island Station, thus practically completing the largest cable in the world. The length of cable laid was 3,455 nautical miles. There is but 2,100 miles now between Fanning and Suva to complete the cable. The Anglia now at Honolulu will lay this and the Colonia is going home to load the American cable.

An Hour to Finish Yet.

A young man was waiting for a young lady at the church door. "Isn't the sermon nearly done?" he inquired of the sexton. "No sir; another hour of it yet. He's only on his 'lastly.'" "But will it take him an hour to get through his 'lastly?'" "No, sir," was the sexton's demure reply, "but there's the 'one word more and I'm done,' and the 'finally,' and the 'in conclusion' to come yet. Don't be impatient."—Sydney Town and Country Journal.

RAILWAY CASHIER ARRESTED.

Sydney F. Gordon, G.T.R., Toronto, Removed to Be Short in His Accounts.

Toronto, Oct. 7.—Charged with theft from the Grand Trunk Railway Company, his employers, Sydney F. Gordon of 4 Gilford street, was taken into custody last night by Detective James Forrest. The specific charge mentioned in the warrant is that of stealing the sum of $29.27 on Sept. 27, but it is understood that this does not by any means represent the alleged shortage in his accounts.

Gordon was employed as cashier in the freight department of the railway at the foot of Simcoe street, and, in this capacity, handled a large amount of money daily. On Thursday last the head of the department suspected that something was wrong with the books, and questioned the clerks closely. One of the clerks thus approached, it is stated, explained that Gordon had outlined a scheme to him by which they could work together and get plenty of the company's cash without being found out. The clerk would have nothing to do with Gordon's plan, and the matter dropped there. Upon hearing the story the head of the department suspended Gordon pending an examination of his books by an expert accountant, who was set to work immediately. As soon as the amount stated in the warrant was found to be missing the police were notified to arrest him. The officers learned that he had gone to St. Thomas, but on Monday Detective Forrest heard that he had been seen about his home. The officer lingered near the house, and caught his man when he stepped from a car.

Gordon is 42 years of age, and married. Prior to taking the position in the freight department he was employed on the G.T.R. pay car, and was always believed to be trustworthy.

Valuable Advice to Mothers.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness off any kind, the first thing get your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25 cents.

Why He Changed His Mind.

"I tell you, sir, civil service is a great thing.

The man addressed looked astonished.

"Coming from any one but you, that remark would not greatly surprise me," he said. "You didn't think so when I last saw you."

"No, I didn't."

"You considered civil service little short of a civic curse."

"That's right. But then I was on the outside and trying to get in, while now I am on the inside and trying to stay in. It makes a great difference."

An Opportunity.

Henry—There's one thing that can be said of poor Tom. He died without owing a dollar to any one in the world.

Dick—And think of the opportunities he must have had! It should be a warning to everybody still alive. You haven't got a couple of dollars about you that you can let me have until I see you again?

Not a Quack Doctor.

Merrill's System Tonic does not eminate from quackery, but, is a scientifically prepared and valuable prescription, curing all diseases having origin in Constipation and weak or vitiated blood. It purifies the blood, builds up the system, strengthens the nerves and regulates the bowels. Sold in 50c bottles containing 50 doses, at Ormond & Walsh's.

An Generous Empress.

It is said that one morning at breakfast a general related to the emperor the misfortunes of a brither officer who "because he had not 15,000 francs must be dishonored." While the emperor questioned further particulars Eugenie flew to her room and, returning with a package of banknotes, said, "Take them, general, and never tell me his name." And his name the generous empress never knew.

Annoying Symptoms of Kidney Disease.

Accompanied by Constipation and Shooting Pains in the Back.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Kidney disease is almost invariably accompanied by constipation and liver disorders. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are more effective than ordinary medicines, because they have a direct and combined action on kidney, liver and bowels. By this extraordinary power they entirely overcome complicated diseases of the digestive, filtering and excretory systems.

Mr. John Noyes, Ashburnham, Peterborough, Ont., states: — "Having used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills with success I can strongly recommend them. For considerable time I was a sufferer from kidney disease and constipation, and besides being tortured by the shooting pains through the back put up with the other annoying and often distressing symptoms of kidney disorders. Sometimes I would go three or four days without a motion of the bowels and could get no relief.

"After using a few boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills I was well again and feeling fine. This treatment seemed to be exactly what I needed and promptly brought relief and cure."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box. At all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 2

A HIGH PRICED AD.

The Real Reason That Was Made by a French Dentist.

During a recent festival at Neuilly a young woman attracted the attention of a large crowd by holding a heavy bar of iron between her teeth. Among those who watched her was a dentist, and at the close of her performance a luminous idea came to him, and he determined to carry it out.

Going to the young woman, he said: "Mademoiselle, I am a dentist, and therefore I am more impressed with the wonderful power of your jaws than any one else. Now, I am about to make a proposition to you. I will give you $250 if you will write a letter to me saying that you do all this work by the aid of a set of false teeth which I have manufactured for you."

After some thought the young woman replied: "I will accept your offer on one condition. You must first give me as many dollars as I can raise from the ground with my teeth."

The dentist hesitated a moment and then said that he would give her in dollars as many 25 cent pieces as she could raise. To this she agreed, and a few minutes later the dentist was almost stupefied when he saw her raise a weight which was equal to that of $10,000. It was a costly advertisement for the dentist.

PRAIRIE LIFE TOO LONELY.

Novel Experiment in Co-operative Emigration for Canada.

An interesting experiment is to be made by a group of intending settlers in Canada who have at their head the Rev. J. Barr, curate in charge of St. Saviour's Church, Crouch Hill, says The London Express.

Referring to a recent cablegram published in our (London Express) columns on the American invasion of Canada, the reverend gentleman expresses wonder that Englishmen are so willing to hand over "the splendid agricultural and commercial opportunities which Canada offers" to our American cousins.

"I venture," he continues, "to make a suggestion and to mention a movement which may be of interest to some of your readers.

"From conversations with not a few intelligent persons I have gathered that many who would otherwise be inclined to go to Canada are deterred by the dreaded isolation and loneliness of farm life on the prairie.

"People desire neighbors, and many, in short, would emigrate if they could join a company of desirable people who would settle closer together and be neighbors.

"This grouping of settlers would have many of the advantages of co-operative agriculture and would mean success from the start.

"Large reduction in the cost of transportation of the people and their effects from the mother country to their new home in Canada and also of farm machinery, animals and building material purchased there would be a necessary result.

"There might further be co-operative ownership and use of the heavier and more expensive kinds of farm implements, such as mowing, reaping and threshing machines. These are only a few of many obvious advantages."

Such a party, he concludes, is being organized, with himself at its head, and he is prepared to receive communications from any one who would like to join it.

Her Way of Putting It.

Mary was a young Irish maid fresh from the Emerald Isle.

Her mistress, who was a dignified, stately matron, called handsome, and was not unconscious of the fact, was in for an attack of la grippe, and was suffering with a red nose and swollen eyelids. She said: "Mary, if any one calls I am not at home. I am feeling miserable and am not fit to be seen."

An intimate friend called to see Mrs. —— Jones, and received this answer: "She's in, mum, but not fit to be seen."

Mixed Eggs.

Professor Edwin Ray Lankester was sitting in his office in the Natural History museum, London, when he was visited by an elderly woman, evidently from the country, who carried a parcel which she handled with the most exaggerated care. She was in a state of great excitement and exclaimed:

"I've got two of 'em."

"Two of what?" inquired the professor.

"Two 'awks' eggs," replied the woman. "I'm told they're worth a thousand pounds apiece."

The professor, much interested, looked at the eggs. "These are not auks' eggs," he said.

"They are 'awks' eggs," said his visitor. "My son Joe found 'em."

A light dawned on the naturalist. "The kind of eggs which are so valuable," he remarked gently, "are the eggs of an extinct bird called the auk—a-u-k."

"Oh, hauk!" said the woman. "I'll pay out that 'Enry 'Obhouse as told me it was 'awks' eggs as was wanted."

And she went away."

The Old Surf Bath.

It is not so many years ago when surf bathing of a very primitive kind prevailed at the eastern end of Long Island and, for aught I know, at other points. Every Saturday morning or afternoon, as the tide willed, throughout the summer big farm wagons trundled down to the beach and were swung around abreast of the line of breakers. Old fishhouses served the purpose of modern bathing pavilions, and the sea costumes were those of last year's village street. A long rope was drawn from under the seats and hitched to the wheel, and then some sturdy ex-whaler or life crew man in red flannel shirt and old trousers tied at the ankles slipped his waist through the loop at the end of this primitive life line and, wading out, kept it as taut as circumstances permitted, while the women and children hung to it and reveled and wallowed and shrieked, rejoicing in their "Saturday tub."—Outing.

Unexpected Success.

There are times when an honest confession of ignorance results to one's advantage. An examination of history was going on in a high school. The second row of the scholars looked supremely contented. They knew what was coming next and were confident of making brilliant recitations. The professor gravely put the question:

"What became of the Greeks who were slain at Thermopylæ?"

The first boy hesitated and then hazarded, "Burnt 'em."

"Next," was the icy answer.

"Buried 'em," came from the second promptly. "Oh, what an easy one!"

"Next."

"Don't know," drawled the third boy hopelessly.

"Right. Nobody does."

The successful one looked surprised; then he crowed a little. The other two looked sheepish.—London Tit-Bits.

Divers' Madness.

An Australian pearl diver says that one of the strange effects of diving is the invariable bad temper felt while working at the bottom of the sea. As this usually passes away as soon as the surface is reached, it is probably due to the pressure of the air affecting the lungs and through them the brain. The exhilaration and good temper of the mountain climber are contrary feelings from an opposite cause. A diver becomes so angry at some imaginary wrongdoing on the part of those in the boat above that he gives the signal to be pulled up, "with the intention of knocking the heads off the entire crew," only to forget what he came up for when the surface is reached.

Taking Out the Sting.

One day at a rehearsal W. S. Gilbert observed a girl crying and asked her the cause of it.

Between her sobs the girl declared she had been insulted by one of the costumers, who had said to her, "You are no better than you ought to be."

Gilbert immediately looked very sympathetic and said, "Well, you are not, are you, my dear?"

To which she replied promptly, "Why, of course not, Mr. Gilbert."

"Ah, that's all right," he said, and she went away perfectly comforted.

What Puzzled Him.

Sir Joshua Fitch told a story of the nature study exhibition in London illustrating the popular wonder at scientific knowledge. Sir John Avebury was showing the heavens through his telescope to some neighbors and servants when one exclaimed, "I do not wonder, Sir John, that clever people find out the sizes and distances of the stars and how they move, but what beats me is how you ever could tell their names!"

Friendly.

Myer—Slyker is a friendly sort of chap, isn't he?

Gyer—Yes; he's most too friendly.

Myer—How's that?

Gyer—He no sooner quits shaking your hand than he tries to pull your leg.

A Tug at It.

She—You must not kiss me until we are formally engaged.

He—Do you mean to say that you always insist upon that rule?

She—I' always tried to.

It is easy enough to restrain our wrath when the other fellow is the bigger.—New York News.

THE POET LAUREATE.

How He Is Described by the New York Comic Life.

New York Life gives the following satirical sketch of Mr. Alfred Austin, English poet laureate, in its "Dictionary of International Biography":

"An English trochaic, iambic, heroic and hot-air poet, deadly rival of Ella Wheeler Wilcox and Laura Jean Libby, and all around odemaker to the King. This gentleman was born at the ram. Westminster Abbey about fifty years ago. As a boy, Mr. Austin early evinced remarkable talent. At twelve years of age, in common with all geniuses, he became convinced of his own future greatness, and composed for the world the following lines to show his own confidence in his destiny:

" 'There was an old grandee of Spain,
Who constantly grinned while in pain.
These lines, don'cher know,
Are merely to show
I can write in a humorous vein.'

"Recognition came slowly but surely, and when Tennyson died it became evident that Mr. Austin was the worst man for the place. Algernon Swinburne's sense of humor being in total collapse.

"It was Shakespeare's privilege to make people weep. Mr. Austin does better. He makes the world smile, and sometimes swear. It is said that in another century no poetry will be written. It will be seen from this that Mr. Austin is a hundred years ahead of his time.

"As poet laureate he has achieved a remarkable success in binding together the two great Anglo-Saxon branches of humanity. Whenever he has written an ode we have felt drawn together by a common sorrow."

They Father Consumption.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhosone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing germ-killing vapour. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhosone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headaches and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months treatment, $1; trial size, 25 cents. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills are mild.

A Quick Witted Pastor.

In Germany a country preacher was preaching a sermon when suddenly he lost the thread of his discourse, and, do what he would, he could not find it again.

The congregation was greatly embarrassed and was wondering what the matter was when he startled it by exclaiming hurriedly, "Pardon me, my brethren, for pausing in my sermon, but it seems to me that I smell fire somewhere—and—and it might be well to see that it has not broken out in the church or in any of the nearby houses."

Before the words were all uttered the congregation was pouring out of the church, each family being anxious to make sure that its home was not on fire. It need hardly be said that the fire existed only in the pastor's imagination.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. How He Made Money.

Conversation overheard on a train for Monte Carlo. Two travelers unknown to each other chatting familiarly:

"On your way to Monte Carlo, sir, that delightful and exclusive home for all gamblers?"

"That is exactly where I am going."

"And you will play just a little, I suppose?"

"I do nothing else, sir. It is my business."

"Gracious! You don't mean to say you make a business of it?"

"Yes, sir; twice a day regularly, and I never by any chance lose."

"In that case perhaps you will explain your 'system' to me."

"Certainly, with pleasure. I play the violin."

Four Ts Makes Good Singers.

Many people when singing get husky, and this spoils the voice. Four T's is par excellence a lung and throat tonic, and cures chronic congestion of the bronchial tubes, making the voice clear as a bell. An ordinary cough is cured by a few doses of this marvellous medicine. Sold in 25 cent bottles at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

Spoke From Experience.

A man who tries to uphold all his statements with the prop of personal experience is pretty sure, sooner or later, to find himself in difficulties.

"What kind of posts should you say I'd better have for my piazza?" asked a summer resident of the oracle of Bushville. "Cedar?"

"No," was the instant reply; "not 'less you want to pay for poor stuff. Git pine. Pine will last you a hundred years."

"Are you sure?" asked the summer resident doubtfully.

"Sure!" echoed the oracle. "I never state a thing without I can prove it. I've tried 'em both. Tried 'em twice on my south porch, I tell you!"

Corticelli SPOOL SILK. For dressmaking and family sewing, Corticelli Silk is the best silk made. For hand or machine use it has no equal. Corticelli runs smoothly in the needle: it is always even in size, and always full length and full strength. Ask your Dealer for Corticelli.

Corticelli 3A WASH SILKS are put up in patent holders, which prevents waste by tangles or soiling; keeps each shade separate and automatically measures a correct needleful. It is recommended as the only proper way to put up filo and floss silk, and used by art societies everywhere.

Corticelli SKIRT PROTECTOR is of firm and even texture. When soiled a sponge or brush makes it clean again, and no damage done. It has peculiar wearing qualities, and perfectly straight selvage. Corticelli Skirt Protector is a great favorite with careful and fashionable dressers.

THE WALL STREET MARKET.

Stocks Show Some Strength To-day.

Copper Sold Off, But Prices Were Generally Higher—Money 7 Per Cent.

The market to-day was somewhat steadier, and prices closed, generally speaking, about from 1 to 2 points higher than last night's close. Copper was a weak issue, selling off to 62 1-2c. The following are a few closing quotations: P. A., 160 3-4; B.C., 105; N. Y. C., 154; L. & N., 35 1-4; M.O.P., 111 1-4; Sug. 120; Sloss, 61; Soo., prefd., 118 1-4; sales for the day, 610,400. Money closed at seven per cent.

The following despatch has been received by E. M. Poussett & Co. from McIntyre & Marshall, of New York and Chicago:

There is nothing new this morning to stimulate revival of confidence or that suggests that liquidation is progressing more sharply. News on the strike situation is very conflicting, and the end seems not nearer than a month ago. Meanwhile, scarcity of coal is becoming a very serious matter in all industrials centres, and there is a general complaint all over now, growing out of stringency of money and the high rates. London comes little better this morning, but foreign houses say money is tight. There is no bullish speculation expected. There is no doubt short interest largely increased on yesterday's selling movement. It looks as though advance in London is demonstration against it, and we may have a rally here. Think it will be slight and only temporary.

M. & M.

Situation in Stock Market seems to be like this:

Liquidation by common houses of weak accounts has been fairly through, but liquidation by pools and cliques has not yet gone far enough. The money situation should mend from now on. I think Keene is short of stocks, and he is a power on the bear side. There is some short interest in the market, and while I am not a bull in the situation, I think there will be two sides to it from now on.

J. J. MARSHALL.

Renewed coverings of shorts with some buying by brokers, who trade for Keene & Gould, stimulating the market. London is also a buyer.

M. & M.

Sub-treasury statement shows that banks gained $705,000 cash yesterday, making a net gain since last Friday of $219,000.

M. & M.

Sales to noon, 337,400. Money opened 8-9, went to 10, and is now 9 per cent.

To Messrs. Haight & Freese;

New York, Oct. 7th.—This is an unusually safe market to be interested in. Markets are usually good to trade in when many brokers are desirous of avoiding purchasing orders for their own benefit. They are oftimes dangerous when every broker in the land solicits a buying order, because money is easy, and it is profitable for him to carry stocks at a six per cent. margin. The present market will not, for the time being, be a wun-away one. Neither will it break seriously. It will have quick fluctuations, alternately strong and weak. One day it will look as if prices were going skyward, then sell. The next day it will appear as if the bottom would fall out of the market, then make your purchases. In this manner you will make frequent turns and profitable ones. This is always the course of the market after a shake up, and has been the way the present market has been working for the past two weeks. It will more than likely act in this manner for from two to three weeks more. In working your account in this manner, lean to the bull side in preference to the bear side. The heavily loaded condition of the cliques make their interests absolutely upon the bull side of the account. Some morning when things look propitious, they will become extremely active in advancing prices, and there will be no warning bells ringing before such operations are commenced. That time will be the breaking up of a market condition such as we expect for the short period of time just ahead of us. You don't want to get caught. Again the short interest is growing, and bearish sentiment increasing among the smaller traders. Once they all get in that frame of mind something will be done to take them into camp. When it occurs you don't want to be with them. Every railway in the land is reporting magnificent progress and a splendid outlook for the future. These conditions are bound to rule prices in the end, so act accordingly. Bear in mind at all times the present range of prices is brought about solely by the money situation. When that clears up, values will be made upon the other conditions, having a bearing upon them and all these conditions favour the bull side. It is dangerous to sell short a gold dollar for ninety cents, even if your neighbour is compelled to do so.

Summary—Stocks purchased around yesterday's low prices paid about as outlined in our persistent advice, not to realise your profits off the rallies, not waiting for two large ones, was good. This morning's openings prices afforded the opportunity. After the first hour, prices crumbled again. St. Paul, after an initial advance of about two points over night, fell about five points from its best prices, while values fell from 1-2 point to five points. On each pronounced weakness we continue to suggest purchases, selling out on the rallies. If they advance on your closing out prices, make a modest short committment, protected by a judicious stop order. As a trading market, we seldom have a better one. Stocks generally must be reaching pretty close to bottom prices. Our advices of the past ten days in these letters, if followed, would have yielded splendid profits, despite the declines. Money closed at four per cent. Sales, 900,000.

COMMITTEE ON APPOINTMENTS.

The Committee on Appointments, through its chairman, Mr. W. G. Ferguson, reported as follows:

To the Chairman and members of the Board of Education:

Gentlemen,—Your Committee on Appointments beg leave to report that according to instructions given at the last meeting of the Board, they have appointed Mr. Sorsoleil, of the South Central School, as assistant master of the Collegiate Institute staff at a salary of $700.00 per annum, and that the vacancy caused by Mr. Sorsoleil's transfer from the Public School staff to the Collegiate Institute, has been filled by the appointment of Mr. W. J. Stacey, who is very highly recommended and holds the necessary qualifications. The salary to be at the rate of $550.00 per annum.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. G. FERGUSON, Chairman.

The report was on motion adopted.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

The Finance Committee through its chairman, Dr. Caldwell, reported as follows:

To the Chairman and members of the Board of Education:

Your Committee beg leave to report and recommend the payment of the following accounts:

Ormond & Walsh	$ 2 34
C. B. Routley	5 50
Review Printing Co	4 50
Dickson Co	24 68
C. S. McClellan	60
Bell Telephone Co	10 08
George Hutchinson	11 20
Examiner	4 80
R. Hicks & Co	40 11
F. Mason	5 00

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. CALDWELL, Chairman.

The report was on motion adopted.

The chairman announced that Thanksgiving Day came on Thursday this year and it would be well to determine now whether Friday should be allowed to go as a school holiday as well.

The inspector in reply to a question from the Board said that it had been always the custom to give Friday as a holiday on such occasions.

Some little discussion followed in which all the members participated. Finally Mr. Langford moved, seconded by Dr. Burnham, that Friday be not declared a holiday.

Mr. Ferguson thought that Friday should be given the pupils and teachers as a holiday, and he moved in amendment to that effect. His amendment was seconded by Mr. Hayes and was carried on the following vote:

Aye—Messrs. Hill, Stevenson, Ferguson, Jameson and Hartley.

Nays—Messrs. Langford, Burnham Caldwell.

Mr. Hill announced that they were unable to procure a second assistant for the South Central School.

Dr. Burnham moved, seconded by Mr. Ferguson, that the matter be referred to the Supervision Committee. The Board then adjourned.

Get Lame Back or Lumbago.

No need of that now. That sort of pain can be knocked out in short order, for Polson's Nerviline, which is five times stronger than any other, penetrates at once through the tissues, reaches the source of suffering, drives it out and thus gives relief almost instantly. Not magic, but strength that gives Polson's Nerviline this power. You will think it magic however if you try it, pain goes so quickly. Sold by dealers everywhere, in large 25c. bottles.

HELD THEIR ANNUAL SHOOT.

Local Marksmen at Curtis' Ranges Yesterday.

Mr. W. H. Moore Made 16 "Bulls"—Mr. Joe Gibson's Score—Other Scores.

The annual shoot of the Peterborough members of the Dominion Rifle Association was held yesterday at the Curtis Ranges. A large number turned out and competition at all stages was keen, although owing to the absence of any tyros, the matches arranged for this class were not shot off. A strong and tricky wind blew across the ranges, but despite this drawback some excellent scores were put on, the best being that of W. H. Moore, who succeeded in winning th "Cox," "Stratten" and "Extra Series" matches. In the "Cox" and "Extra Series" matches Mr. Moore succeeded in putting on 16 "bulls" and one "inner" out of 17 shots. A number of the younger members showed up extremely well, Jos. Gibson winning the Banker's Cup, and coming second in the "Cox" and "Stratton" matches, while R. P. Watt and C. E. Whiten placed very creditable scores. The young shots deserve particular credit for the showing they made against such old and seasoned marksmen. The officers of the day were: Clerk—Jas. Stewart.

Scorers—E. Hartley, C. Seymour, H. Clagg and A. Kingscote.

The scores and prizes in the the different matches were as follows:

SPORTING PASTIMES.

RUGBY.

The executive of the Peterborough Rugby Club will meet this evening at 7.30 in the Y.M.C.A.

Y.M.C.A. GYMNASIUM.

There was a splendid opening of the Senior Gymnasium Class last evening, some twenty-five being on the floor for the first night. The work consisted of running, calisthenics and basket ball. On Friday evening there will be a test for squad apparatus work, and a full attendance of all members who intend using the gymnasium, is requested.

BASEBALL.

In a semi-final Midland League game played in Cobourg on Saturday, Cobourg defeated Port Hope by a score of 10 to 2. It was a close game up to the seventh innings, when Cobourg landed on "Giddy Burt, Port Hope's star twirler, and made eight runs in two innings. McKinnon, who is the youngest pitcher in the league, pitched a good game, and would have shut the visitors out without a run, only for two errors. Cobourg won in Port Hope on the Saturday previous—19 to 11. Features of the game were the heavy hitting of the Cobourgs, especially "My Man Dick Turpin," who got three hits out of four times at bat, two of them being three-baggers. The final game between Bowmanville and Cobourg will likely be played in Port Hope on Thanksgiving Day. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Port Hope	1	7	4
Cobourg	10	15	5

Batteries—Burt and Boney; McKinnon and Jake Brown.

Striking Miners Unanimously Vote to Continue the Fight.

PRESIDENT MITCHELL'S ANSWER

Miners' Chief Is Believed to Have Rejected the Suggestion For a Settlement of President Roosevelt—Manufacturers' Committee Fails to Draw the Operators—The Manufacturers Also Fail.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 9.—Every local union of the miners' organization throughout the hard coal belt held special meetings, either Tuesday night or yesterday and resolved to remain on strike until the mine owners grant them some concessions.

And while the reports of these meetings came pouring into Wilkes-Barre, President Mitchell dictated a letter to the President of the United States, in which he gave his answer to the proposition that the strikers return to work and trust to have their condition improved through an investigation commission.

What the answer of the miners' chief is he refused to divulge, but it is difficult to conceive that, with the replies of the local unions, piled around him, he could do otherwise than respectfully decline the President's offer. Mr. Mitchell sent his letter to Washington before he had heard from all the locals, and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, accompanied by the three district presidents, left for New York. His mission there is also a secret. As New York is the headquarters of the coal operators a rumor immediately spread that a settlement was in prospect, but Mr. Mitchell and his colleagues would not say whom they expected to meet.

It was a busy day for the miners' officials about headquarters. From early morning until late last night the returns came in constantly. Last evening the corps of newspaper correspondence stationed here were invited to examine the reports, and not one was found that was not couched in firm language. Briefly stated, the resolutions in these reports affirm the confidence of the men in the integrity and judgment of their president, praised Roosevelt for his efforts to end the strike, denounce the presidents of the coal carrying railroads for their alleged abuse of the chief executive at the conference in Washington, denounce the employment of the coal and iron police, thank all organizations and citizens throughout the country for financial assistance, and denounce Gov. Stone for sending troops here.

Nearly all the resolutions contained a sentence to the effect that the men will remain out, "though all the troops in the United States are sent here," until they are granted some concessions.

Additional troops for this region have not yet arrived and the general strike situation remains unchanged. The coal company officials have nothing to say beyond the fact that they are awaiting developments. There is no increase in the shipment of coal, very little of which is being produced. No violence was reported yesterday.

The Miners Are Stayers.

New York, Oct. 9.—President Mitchell arrived last night from Wilkes-Barre. He was accompanied by his lieutenants. Mr. Mitchell had the appearance of having been under severe mental and physical strain, but assured his questioners that he was in good health, though tired.

At 10 o'clock Mr. Mitchell called up Wilkes-Barre by telephone, the reason being that he had expected some telegrams which he did not find awaiting him. Shortly after this he turned to the newspaper men and said:

"Information has been conveyed to me by 'phone that a total of 260 local unions have reported unanimous votes against resuming work. The men are not deterred from going to work through any fear of bodily harm, but are resolved to remain out until the differences between them and the operators are arbitrated, or until they are ordered to return to work by their leaders. This leaves not more than 40 or 50 local unions to hear from yet. The unanimous action includes the votes of strikers not members of the union, but who were present at the meetings and voted with the union men."

At 11 o'clock President Mitchell and two of the district presidents went from the Ashland House to the Fifth Avenue Hotel, where Senators Quay and Penrose of Pennsylvania, and Louis N. Hammerling of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., were registered.

President Mitchell's conference with Senators Quay and Penrose lasted an hour and three-quarters. At its conclusion Mr. Mitchell returned to the Ashland House. He declined to say a word as to his talk with the Senators, and the latter would not see anyone.

The Manufacturers Fail.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The visit to this city of the committee representing the National Association of Manufacturers, for the purpose of consulting with the presidents of the coal carrying roads, who last week met President Roosevelt and the officials of the Miners' Union at Washington, appears to have been fruitless. The committee arrived here early yesterday morning and spent the greater part of the day at the Manufacturers' Club, awaiting the appearance of the presidents, but none of the presidents arrived. Last night the committee issued the following vague statement:

"The Committee of Manufacturers came to Philadelphia after meeting John Mitchell and his associates at Buffalo on Tuesday, for the purpose of considering measures by which the coal strike could be ended, and this committee will meet again Oct. 14."

Striker Fatally Shot.

Shenandoah, Pa., Oct. 9.—Martin McAndrew, a striking miner, was fatally shot near his home last night. Although told he would die before morning he steadfastly refused to tell who shot him.

All the Troops in Camp.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The entire National Guard of Pennsylvania was camped last night in the anthracite coal regions, the last regiments from the western part of the State having arrived late yesterday. Contrary to expectations, the troops were well received and there was no disposition on the part of the strikers to annoy the soldiers. There was only one instance during the day of any show of feeling and this was manifested at Bethlehem, when some boys stoned the second section of the train bearing the First Regiment from Philadelphia.

Will Back Up City.

Montreal, Oct. 9.—Premier Parent says he will fully back up any action of the City Council looking toward the purchase of coal.

MILITIA IN NEW ORLEANS.

A Score or More Persons Seriously Injured on Wednesday.

New Orleans, Oct. 9.—In consequence of riots resulting from the strike of the New Orleans Railway Company's employes, all the militia in this city were ordered under arms last night. A score or more persons were seriously injured yesterday. The injured included six policemen, one of whom is likely to die. The strike sympathizers employed pistols, clubs and bricks as weapons.

DROWNED IN THE LAKE

Five People Perish in a Wreck at Kincardine.

THE LIFEBOAT WAS SWAMPED.

One of the Volunteer Rescuers, Mr. William Ferguson, Was Among the Last—Capt. Gordon Drowned, Mrs. Kennedy the Cook, and Two Sailors Also Go Down—Wreck of the Anna Maria.

Kincardine, Ont., Oct. 9.—Captain Alex. Gordon, Port Dover; Percy Bond, Marine City; Stephen Ryan, Alpena; Mrs. Kennedy, Alpena; W.H. Ferguson, Kincardine. This is the list of fatalities in a most lamentable marine disaster which occurred at Kincardine on Tuesday in port.

The schooner Anna Maria was coming in from Cleveland with 450 tons of coal for the Kincardine waterworks. The night was dark and the weather rough and she stranded nearly opposite the G.T.R. depot.

The cries of the sailors brought assistance and a small boat was manned by Thomas, John and Walter McGaw and W. H. Ferguson. They rowed out to the wreck and got the sailors into the boat when a heavy sea swamped them, throwing them all into the water. Only those who managed to cling to the rigging of the schooner escaped.

Then the men on shore lit huge bonfires, and kept them burning until morning, when the two sailors and the three McGaws were taken safely off the schooner, only to learn that their comrades, whom they hoped had landed, had been drowned.

The saved sailors are Wm. Pemberton and George Scheyer, Alpena. Of the drowned sailors only Capt. Gordon is known here. He was here last winter in charge of the schooner McGee, which wintered in this port.

The death of W. H. Ferguson, who was one of the rescue party, is much lamented. He was a fine, young man, energetic, quick, and in all respects gentlemanly. He had been here for a year or two as lumber agent for Dearing Bros. His home was in Wiarton. He was about 30 years of age and unmarried.

The schooner will be a total loss. She was owned by A. W. Zims, of Alpena. The coal was also lost. It was shipped by the Ellsworth Coal Co., of Cleveland. The loss is theirs but is insured.

Two bodies have been recovered—Capt. Gordon and Mrs. Kennedy.

DUNDONALD ON THE MILITIA.

Gives His Impressions of the Work Done at Recent Camps.

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—The Earl of Dundonald was asked whether he cared to make any statement as to the result of the skeleton camps of instruction at Sussex, N. B., Three Rivers and Niagara. His Lordship said: "I have for years advocated the skeleton system of training as the best means by which peaceful and industrial nations could defend themselves at the lowest cost and the least interference with the liberties and occupations of the people. What I have seen at these camps of officers and non-commissioned officers at Sussex, Three Rivers and Niagara confirms me in the belief that a well-thought-out and thorough system of training of officers, non-commissioned officers and a few selected privates in every company and squadron, working hand in hand with a widespread instruction in rifle shooting, will give the utmost amount of efficiency at the lowest possible cost."

"What do you think of the behavior of the troops?"

"I was very much pleased at the fine spirit shown by the militia in the camps. Amongst them were men who had sacrificed lucrative salaries or who had left the care of their farms or business to others in order to come out and show themselves to be efficient soldiers. I consider that the militia deserve well of the country."

LISGAR ELECTION TRIAL.

The Hearing Resumed at Manitou—Evidence of Treating.

Winnipeg, Oct. 9.—The Lisgar election trial is again in progress, sittings having been resumed at Manitou. It is expected the hearing of the case at Manitou will continue until Thursday evening, and that on Friday the court will adjourn to Morden. The evidence to be given there can hardly be concluded this week. Hon J. D. Cameron, formerly Attorney-General in the Greenway Government, was in the box for several hours, but no important evidence was given. The fact was elicited from one witness that R. D. Foley treated at the bar once during the election, but as the treating took place in an entirely different place from that alleged in the bill of particulars the court stated that it attached no importance to this testimony. Alphonse Pleasess of Lourdes swore that Amoile Fiset, who was canvassing, offered him money to vote and work for Stewart. John Moreau swore to treating in Stewart's committee room at Somerset. All present were invited to drink. Mr. Talbot, M.P., gave the witness fifty cents and told him to go and have a drink at his expense. Eustace Hubert swore that W. Odine hired his team to carry electors to the polls on election day.

Christiania, Oct. 9.—Lucie Wolf, Norway's foremost actress, died in this city Tuesday night. She was 69 years of age.

Daily Examiner.

London (England) office—148 Fleet street, E C., Central Press Agency Limited, Special Agents.

THURSDAY, OCT. 9, 1902.

THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE VINDICATED.

The three County Judges who found that the 1901 amendment to the assessment law did not effectually repeal the clause in the Act on which the scrap iron interpretation was based, have handed out a decision to the effect that the 1902 amendment accomplishes this purpose and makes the land, buildings and operating plants of the companies concerned liable to taxation.

This means that the law-makers have finally succeeded in saying what they mean so clearly that the judges on the bench — who knew all along what the law-makers meant, although they could not understand what they said — can no longer fail to grasp the intention.

The result is that Toronto is to now receive about $28,000 per annum in taxes from various corporations that have hitherto managed to elude the taxgatherers by taking advantage of the trickiness of the English language — or, rather, the quaint and unwieldly Queen Anne English which law-makers throughout the British Empire persist in using in order to awe simple-minded folk.

Not only, as the Star points out, is the English language vindicated, but the bona fides of the Government in framing an amendment to the Assessment Act that would draw the sting of the "scrap iron amendment." The Opposition organs and political orators, charged the Government of being particeps criminis of the corporations, who were robbing the ratepayers, and that they passed the now celebrated amendment knowing it to be useless. Thus another Opposition swan turns out to be a goose.

EDITORIAL NOTES

When Hon. Mr. Ross, the Kingston Whig points out, became premier in 1898 there were 135 out of the 184 books used in the schools that were written in the United States and Britain. Now all our school books are of Canadian authorship and manufacture. The Liberal Government is working for the Canadian people.

The Grand Trunk report just issued at London shows that the gross receipts for the half year increased 3.90 per cent., and the expenses of operation increased 3.81 per cent. The train milage decreased 7.96 per cent. In the report the directorate compliment the shareholders of the company on the steady prgress. Inoreased dividends are available.

The difference between Mr. Ross and Mr. Whitney, in one regard at least, is that Mr. Ross claims and holds power by virtue of a constitutional majority, while Mr. Whitney claims office by virtue of a popular majority. Mr. Ross' majority of one is a small one, but it means something. Mr. Whitney's claimed majority is relatively smaller than Mr. Ross', while as a matter of fact, it isn't worth a rush.

THE LARGEST BLACK BASS.

What the Toronto Star Says of Mr. Laing's Prize Fish.

The Second Prize Bass to be Caught in Peterborough County Waters —22 Inches.

(Toronto Star.)

Arthur S. Laing, of the teaching staff of the St. Catharines Collegiate Institute, and a former Peterborough boy, (as announced in the Examiner several days ago) is the winner of the prize rod offered by the Star for the largest small-mouth black bass caught with rod and line in Ontario during the present season, the competition closing on the 15th of September. The prize fish was caught by Mr. Laing in Rice Lake on August 8th, was brought home to St. Catharines, and handsomely mounted by a taxidermist. As it was the best fish entered in the competition we notified Mr. Laing that, the facts having been properly attested by himself and witnesses, including Mr. George Read, J. P., Keene, Ont., he was entitled to the prize, but that we would like to place the fish on exhibition for the satisfaction of local competitors, and for the edification of fishermen generally. The prize bass was brought over by Mr. Laing, who had business in the city, on Saturday, and to-day placed on view in The Star window in Yonge street, together with the $15 split bamboo rod which goes to the owner of the fish.

"One never can tell when he goes fishing," said Mr. Laing, "what he will catch. I generally use a pretty good rod and reel, but when I caught this fish I was not seriously fishing, but had hold of an old bamboo rod, with a thick line tied to the end of it. We were in a boat when I hooked the big fellow, and I knew he was a good one. I had no line that I could play out or reel in, and felt sure I would lose him. He got the line tangled with the rope of the boat three times, but I managed to hold him, and finally landed him. I did not even have a landing net or a gaff, and had to wear him down until I could lift him aboard."

But he got him. The fish was not weighed until ten hours after being caught, and turned the scale at 5 pounds 13 ounces. Mr. Laing reported him as being 21 inches long and 14 3-4 inches in girth, but as mounted he measured 22 inches even. This fish does not weigh as much as the one that won The Star's prize rod last year—that caught by Mr. J. King of Havelock, weighing 6 pounds 4 ounces, but that it is a very fine bass those who see it will admit.

Last year the prize fish was caught in Belmont Lake, and this year in Rice Lake.

The length of a bass does not bear a positive relation to its weight, because they seem to attain something like full growth before putting on weight. Until he is about seventeen inches long he remains comparatively slender, therefore gaining in thickness all the way from head to tail, and adding to his length until he is 22 or 23 inches long. The longest bass reported to us in two years was 23 1-2 inches. We doubt if the small mouth bass ever reaches two feet in length although the surprising size of some recently seen makes it unsafe to say anything positively, for there may be bigger ones "in the sea than ever were caught."

They Father Consumption.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing germ-killing vapour. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headaches and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months treatment, $1; trial size, 25 cents. Druggists, or N. C. Apsley	55
Norwood	190
Total	5,816

The bidding opened at 10 1-4 by Mr. Mr. Whitton, and closed at 10 7-8 by Mr. Fitzgerald.

He called Keene, Central Smith, Lakefield, Fraserville, Fleetwood, Buckhorn, Myrtle, North Smith, Trewern. They all accepted.

Mr. Kerr opened the second bidding at 10 7-8, but Mr. Brown for Mr. Wrighton offered 10 15-16. He picked up Warsaw, Warminster, North Dummer, Pine Grove and Peterborough.

Mr. Whitton on the third bid offered 10 7-8, but Mr. Kerr brought the price to 10 15-16 again. He called as his selections Melrose Abby, Norwood and Ormonde, which sold and Mr. Kerr offered 10 7-8 for further selections. In this lot he took, Percy, Brickley and Dartford.

Mr. Rollins at 10 7-8 took Oak Dale, Daisy D., Maple Leaf, Young's Point, Stony Lake, South Burleigh and Cedardale.

Mr. Whitton added Villiers, Westwood, Shearer, Oak Leaf and Apsley at 10 7-8.

Mr. Kerr added to his selections Ballyduff at 10 13-16, (Montreal Inspection.)

Mr. Cook then bid 10 7-8, taking Otonabee Union, Laing, Indian River.

Mr. Kerr renewed his offer of 10 13-16, but Bensfort, Missing Link refused; Mt. Pleasant and Cavanville accepted.

Mr. Fitzgerald brought up the matter of the dampness in the factories at the present season of the year, and the factorymen should see that there are stoves in the factories from this time of the year. This was endorsed by all the salesmen.

The Board then adjourned.

VICTORIA CHEESE BOARD.

1685 Boxes Boarded at the Last Regular Sale.

Buyers Flavelle and Fitzgerald Secured the Lot at 10 3-4c.

Lindsay Post.

The Victoria county cheese board met on Monday last in the council chamber, commencing at 10 o'clock. The meeting was attended by a number of salesmen and others interested in the industry. Messrs. Flavelle and Fitzgerald were the only buyers present.

The following factories boarded the number of cheese set opposite;

Maple Leaf	120
Palestine	75
Red Rock	102
	1685

Mr. Flavelle was the first bidder. He called 10 1-2c., and Mr. Fitzgerald went a point better, making it 10 9-16c., Mr. Flavelle then raised to 10 5-8c, Mr. Fitzgerald to 10 11-16c., and Mr. Flavelle to 10 3-4c. As Mr. Fitzgerald refused to go higher, Mr. Flavelle called Cameron, Fenelon Falls, North Verulam, Mariposa, Janetville, Bobcaygeon, Red Rock and Palestine, which accepted. Mr. Fitzgerald then took Star, Dunsford, Omemee, Pine Grove, Reaboro, Maple Leaf and North Ops at the same price. The next sale will be on Monday, October 20th.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Excursion party No. 2 that left Omemee station on the 22nd Sept., have had their trouble in the camp at Magnetawan. The party was full of life and vigour on leaving Omemee station, anticipating a time even better than party No. 1. However, human calculations sometimes miscarry. On the return of the party full information will no doubt be given as to the cause of the accident, and how the patient is progressing.

In the meantime we can only sympathise with the party in trouble, and hope that recovery will be soon.

On the 30th at the home of Mrs. C. Rutherford there were gathered ninety guests to do honour to her on the marriage of her daughter, Miss Sophia Rutherford, to Mr. Blalock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Kannawin, after which the guests partook of a splendid wedding supper. The menu was all that could be desired. The future home of the bride will be in Emily. We wish them a happy and prosperous journey through life.

Our merchants and mechanics are highly pleased with the business done during the summer season.

Just now the coal famine is causing trouble but we can't blame Ross for scarcity of coal, and the high price of wood, depending, as we are, on a foreign country for a supply of coal (which should not be) as we have sufficient bogs or swamp land that sufficient peat fuel could be manufactured from to supply the whole Dominion.

No fault can be found with the Government of Ontario on the fuel question. Times were never better than they are now—almost the ushering in of the millenlium, so that we desire no change of Government; we don't want to return to Egypt.

Regular Monthly Meeting of the Village Council.

Personal Mention—The Great Fall Fair —Other Notes of Interest.

Mrs. John E. Roxburgh spent Saturday in Peterborough visiting her father, Mr. H. B. Meharry.

Mr. J. C. Brown, Public School Inspector of Peterborough, gave our schools a call on Monday.

Mrs. W. A. F. Campbell, of Georgetown, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Pearce.

The McGregor House has again changed hands. Mr. White of Peterborough, who recently purchased it has disposed of the business to Mr. D. King of Hastings.

Mrs. W. E. Roxburgh and Mrs. W. Houston, are spending a few days in Peterborough visiting Mr. G. B. Cameron, the former's son.

The council has greatly improved Queen street by grading it.

Messrs. Buck and Walsh shipped four cars of hogs from here to-day to Peterborough.

The Government Weights and Measures Inspector is in town again on his annual tour of inspection.

Mr. A. J. Robertson has disposed of his dentistry business here, and has decided to quit the business for a time.

The entries for Norwood's big fall fair are coming in fast now and the directors are looking for a record breaker this year. Remember the dates, October 14 and 15, and be sure and take it in.

Mrs. A. J. Robertson is visiting friends in Toronto.

Mr. Jas. Calder has a sample of the potatoes grown in the Temiscaming district.

The village council met on October 6th. Members present, Messrs. Cuffe, Ackerman and Fry; the Reeve and Councillor Robertson were absent.

Moved by Messrs. Cuffe and Ackerman that in the absence of the reeve Mr. Fry take the chair.

Minutes of the adjourned meeting of Court of Revision on assessment re street watering and also of regular meeting, read and on motion confirmed.

D. Mahoney appeared before the council re bondsmen of collector of taxes, and submitted the names of Ed. Fitzpatrick and Philip Fitzpatrick. The above names were satisfactory to the council.

The following accounts were read from the chair;

Mrs. Kellett, 1-4 year's salary	$ 5 00
J. D. McLean, rep. engine	1 70
J. W. Rork, nails	15 42

W. C. Harrison, electric light	144 00
Jas. Jotcham, work on street	8 65
Jas. Miskel, work on bridge	1 72

Moved by Messrs. Ackerman and Cuffe that the above accounts be paid and orders drawn on Treasurer for the same.—Carried.

Messrs. H. Scott and A. Cunningham appeared before the council and asked that the electric light on the corner of Colborne and Spring streets, and the one on the corner of Pine and Peterborough streets be removed to opposite corners.

Moved by Messrs. Ackerman and Cuffe, that the council be a committee of the Whole to investigate the removal of the lights on the said streets, and report at next meeting. —Carried.

Messrs. Keefer and Cunningham waited on the council to see what that body would do in the way of a grant to the Mechanics Institute.

After discussing the matter at some length it was decided to have it laid over till the next meeting, when all the members of the council will be present.

The council then adjourned.

THE FRENCH MINERS.

A General Strike to Be Declared by the Federation To-day.

42,000 HAVE ALREADY STRUCK.

Issue an Appeal to Other Countries in Which They Say They "Are Pushed to the Last Extremity, in Fighting to Obtain a Slight Improvement in Our Miserable Condition" —Appeal to the Soldiers.

Paris, Oct. 9.—The National Committee of the French Miners' Federation has decided to declare a general strike this morning.

It is now estimated that forty-two thousand men have already struck in the northern coal fields, and that five thousand men have struck around St. Etienne.

The committee has issued a manifesto addressed to the miners' comrades in the United States, England, Germany, Belgium and Australia, which declares in part:

"The cause we are defending is common to all. We are pushed to the last extremity in fighting to obtain a slight improvement in our miserable condition, more equitable remuneration with the regulation of our work for the present and legislation sheltering us against the strict needs of old age. We are sure you understand your duty; we leave to you the initiative in such measures as are most convenient to you in aiding us in this struggle."

The manifesto then appeals to the troops mobilized against the miners to remember the conduct of Col. St. Remy in refusing to obey orders, during the Brittany school troubles, which, were contrary to his conscience.

More Troops Ordered Out.

Geneva, Switzerland, Oct. 9. — In view of the threatening general strike, the Government has ordered additional troops. The public prosecutor yesterday morning summoned Sebastian Faure, the well-known French agitator, who in a speech at a workmen's meeting Tuesday evening urged a general strike, and warned him that he would be expelled from Switzerland if he continued the agitation.

Welsh Miners to Strike.

New York, Oct. 9.—Another dark cloud in the horizon is a possible strike in Wales, on the 1st of January, William C. Atwater, the agent of a number of mines of the Pocahontas region, who has just returned from Wales, declared yesterday that all the British mine owners with whom he had spoken on the subject were unanimously of the opinion that 100,000 men would go out on that day. "The agreement under which the miners are getting out the coal in Wales," said he, "will terminate on Jan. 1, and they have already made known their intention of demanding more liberal terms. The operators consider the strike as inevitable and are preparing for it even now. The Welsh union sent £1,000 to President Mitchell in August, just as bread upon the waters, which they expect will return to them when they decide to go out."

JOHN KENSIT DEAD.

Interruptions of Life of This Great Anti-Ritualist Will Cease.

Liverpool, Oct. 9.—John Kensit, the anti-Ritualistic crusader, who was seriously injured Sept. 25 at Birkenhead, near Liverpool, by being struck with a chisel thrown at him after he had addressed a meeting, died yesterday morning of pneumonia, supervening from the wound.

His son, who is participating in the anti-Ritualistic campaign and who was recently imprisoned for refusing to find bail to keep the peace, by abandoning holding meeting, was permitted by the Home Secretary to visit his father Tuesday. Young Kensit was escorted by police to the hospital here, where the elder Kensit had been under treatment since the day he was injured. After an affecting meeting the son returned to prison. The elder Kensit's protests against the confirmation of Ritualistic bishops on several occasions caused sensational scenes.

Government Appointments.

Toronto, Oct. 9.—The Ontario Cabinet yesterday afternoon appointed Frank Ford solicitor to the Treasurer's Department, the position formerly held by Mr. McDougall. For some years Mr. Ford has been private secretary to the late Hon. A. S. Hardy, and to Hon. J. M. Gibson.

The appointment was also made of John A. McAndrew, junior registrar of the High Court of Justice, to the position of inspector of legal offices, which was made vacant by the death the other day of James Fleming. Mr. McAndrews was once a member of the Ontario Legislature.

The position that Mr. Percival, the Premier's secretary will take, is clerk of bonds.

Grievances of Trainmen.

Montreal, Oct. 9.—Forty-two members of the adjustment board of the Brotherhood of Engineers of the Grand system from Chicago to Portland are in the city in triennial session under the chairmanship of Mr. Cameron of Allandale. Among the grievances to be considered are the big engines, heavy trains and long hauls. The session will continue for thirty days, and it is expected then satisfactory adjustments will be made.

Squandered a Fortune.

How often we hear the expression, notwithstanding the fact that those who use it are perhaps spending their money foolishly in medicines which only give relief without removing the cause. Merrill's System Tonic cures heart, stomach, kidney, nerve and liver troubles—because by purifying the blood, regulating the bowels and toning each of these organs the cause of disease is removed. Price 50c. per bottle, at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

BROMN GETS CFF.

Magistrate Would Not Send Him For Trial—Accused Was a Weak Tool of Insurance Agent Rose.

Collingwood, Oct. 9.—William Henry Brown was discharged from custody yesterday morning. Magistate Nettleton concluded the novel case with a novel verdict. He said:

"I have carefully considered the case, wherein the prisoner is charged with having conspired to kill his mother in order to secure insurance on her life. I have reviewed all the evidence. I cannot see my way clear to hold Brown, for I believe he was the dupe of Rose in this case. I, therefore, declare the prisoner discharged."

Though the court convened at 9.30 the room was well filled at that early hour to hear the magistrate's decision. The prisoner did not appear very anxious, in fact, he knew an hour before that the investigation in the magistrate's opinion, had failed to develop such a case as could cause his conviction before a jury. The magistrate had been in conference with Crown Attorney Cotter until late Tuesday evening, and when he asked that gentleman's opinion he told him candidly that he did not think he could secure a conviction, even if the grand jury indicted him.

"I am unable to credit this man Rose," observed Magistrate Nettleton.

"I don't believe him either and I don't believe I could make a jury believe," replied Crown Attorney Cotter.

When the prisoner received the official announcement of his freedom, he jumped up and grasped the hands of his bondsmen, Messrs. Wright and Best, and then thanked his attorneys.

In spite of the extraordinary nature of the case the conclusion of the magistrate appeared to meet the general views of the Collingwood public.

AURORA MAN SUICIDES.

Former Toronto Street Car Motorman Takes His Own Life.

Toronto, Oct. 9.—J. D. Foulds, at one time a street car motorman in Toronto, committed suicide at Aurora by taking a dose of laudanum. He had been living in Aurora for several years, and owned a small farm of 27 acres.

For some time back he had been brooding over losses on investments made in England, and on Monday his wife was very suspicious about his movements, and late in the evening found a bottle of laudanum had been opened and some of its contents removed, and it was not long before she ascertained that her husband had taken enough of the poison to end his life, and although three doctors worked with him all night and all Tuesday morning he died Tuesday at noon.

Foulds was a very respectable man of forty years of age, and leaves a wife and an adopted son. He was an Englishman, and owned some property in England.

Woman of Weak Mind Takes Her Life.

Mrs. Jos. H. Eakins, a middle-aged woman, living at 59 Callender street, Parkdale, committed suicide at her home at 10.30 yesterday morning. She first took carbolic acid and then slashed her throat with a razor. She has not been just right in her mind for some time back, and has made three or four attempts to kill herself.

SHAFT PENETRATED TEMPLE.

James McBride of Port Credit Probably Fatally Injured.

Cooksville, Oct. 9.—The 35th annual Fair of the Toronto Township Agricultural Society yesterday was marred by a distressing accident, which happened to James McBride of Port Credit. He was run into during one of the ring events, and so badly injured that he will probably not recover. He is now lying in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto.

McBride attempted to cross the track in front of the judges' stand, when he was struck by the shafts of a sulky, one of the points penetrating his temple and fracturing his skull.

Went Down Four Minutes After.

London, Oct. 9.—The North German Lloyd steamer Kron Prinz Wilhelm ran into and sank the British steamer Robert Ingham during a dense fog, off Beachy Head yesterday. The Robert Ingham went down about four minutes after the collision, but the Kron Prinz Wilhelm saved all of her crew of 13 men, with the exception of the mate, and the only passenger she had on board. The Kron Prinz was uninjured.

Sure of Their Seats.

Toronto, Oct. 9.—W. L. McCart, Liberal M.P.P., for Stormont and John Reid, Conservative M.P.P., for Addington, are assured of their seats. The last day for filing the necessary particulars has elapsed.

Donald Sutherland has given notice that he will apply to have set aside many of the particulars filed against him in the South Oxford case.

A Right to Judge.

Persons who have used Dr. Chase's Ointment have the best right to judge of its merits and there is no preparation on the market to-day which is backed by such a mass of testimony. It cures eczema, salt rheum and piles so promptly and thoroughly that people feel it a pleasure to recommend it to others. See testimonials in the newspapers.

Mr. Tarte at Chatham.

Chatham, Oct. 9.—Hon. J. Israel Tarte opened the West Kent Fair yesterday afternoon, speaking in English and French, touching the fusion of the great races in Canada. He alluded briefly to the questions of transportation and the tariff. In the evening he was the guest of the Board of Trade at a banquet.

Another Missing Man.

St. Catharines, Oct. 9.—Ed. O'Malia is missing since Tuesday night. It is feared he has fallen into the new canal.

Jim Dumps had been for weeks so cross,
'Twas plain he'd met with some great loss;
But since once more these ads. make clear
That what he missed at last is here,
And "Force" can be supplied to him,

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

Murderer of Willie Freeman Given His Preliminary Hearing.

St. Thomas, Oct. 9.—The hearing of Charles King for the murder of Willie Freeman at Aldborough on Sept. 9 was concluded at the court house here last evening. After the evidence of Doctors F. O. Lawrence and Charles Duncombe, corroborating the statements of previous witnesses had been heard, Magistrate Glenn committed King for trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction.

A Disastrous Wreck.

Washington, Penn., Oct. 9.—One of the most disastrous wrecks in the history of the Washington branch of the Panhandle Railroad occurred last night, at Van Emens Station, near Canonsburg. The wreck resulted in the loss of five lives and the serious injury of many persons, of whom one may die. The killed were all foreigners. The wreck occurred at a siding at the Van Emens Station.

Reid Gets $854,000.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 9.—The arbitrators in the Reid railroad case against the Colonial Government filed a unanimous award yesterday, giving Mr. Reid $854,000, which amounts to one-third of his whole claim. The other two-thirds of Mr. Reid's claim were rejected. The award virtually represents the matters for which the Government admitted liability.

Queen Virtually in Exile.

Madrid, Oct. 9. — The newspapers announce that the health of Queen Christina is poor and she will therefore go to the Royal Palace in Seville.

It seems, however, that her departure is the outcome of King Alfonso's anger at his mother's morganatic marriage, and that he insists that she retire to the provinces with her husband, Count Escosura.

The Other One.

Two brothers in Paris were remarkably alike. A gentleman meeting one of them on the boulevard stops him, saying, "Pardon me, but is it to you or to your brother that I have the honor of speaking?"

"Sir," was the reply, "you are speaking to my brother."

His Hard Luck.

Jones—Brown is an unlucky dog.

Smith—How's that?

Jones—His object in marrying was to get out of a bourding house.

Smith—Well?

Jones—Now his wife is running one to support the family.

An Easy Task.

St. Andrew's Preparatory Service.

The service preparatory to Communior will be held in St. Andrew's church to-morrow (Friday) night, at 8 o'clock. The Rev. A. E. Camp, B.A., will preach. Free-will offering for Session and Poor Fund.

Canadian Foresters.

A mass meeting of the members of the Canadian Order of Foresters will be held in the rooms of Court Littlejohn, No. 92, (S.O.E. Hall) on Monday evening next, when a representative officer of the High Court will address the meeting. A full attendance is requested. Walter Hooper, D.D., H.C.R. 2d

Guy Bros.' Minstrels.

A crowded house greeted Guy Bros' Minstrels last evening and the entertainment provided appeared to give general satisfaction. The feature of the entertainment apart from some really excellent solo work, was the acrobatic feats and ring and trapeze work, which was considered the best seen in Peterborough for years.

Non-Com's Meeting.

A meeting of the non-commissioned officers of the 57th Regiment was held in the drill shed last night, there being a fairly good attendance. The business of the meeting was chiefly in regard to the opening of the new mess rooms on Simcoe street, which will be ready for occupation in the course of a week or two. The next meeting of the mess will vey likely be held in the non-coms.' new home. The rooms will be a great source of comfort to the boys throughout the winter months.

A "Shadow Social."

The Daughters of England are preparing to hold a novel entertainment in the form of a "Shadow Social," on Friday evening, October 10th, in the Sons of England Hall. No admission will be charged, but it is a condition that each lady shall bring a lunch box containing refreshments for two. During the evening the shadow figure of a lady will be reflected on a canvas, and the gentleman bidding the highest secures a partnership in the box and contents. An interesting programme has been arranged, and a pleasant evening may be looked for.

RECTOR PLAINFIELD PARISH.

Rev. E. V. Stevenson Chosen for the Position.

A Former Peterborough Clergyman's Promotion.

The many friends of Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson will be pleased to learn that his qualities as a pastor and preacher have been recognized since his departure from St. John's for New York, three years ago. His zeal as a pastor, and his eloquence as a preacher, whereof his old time hearers can testify, has attracted the attention of the Parish of Plainfield, near New York, which has offered Mr. Stevenson, and he has accepted, the position of Rector, as will be seen from the following extract from the New York Tribune of October 5th;

"Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 4th. — A call has been extended to the Rev. Edward Vicars Stevenson, now senior assistant rector of St. Michael's Parish, of New York, to become the Rector of Grace Episcopal Church, of Plainfield, to take the place of Rev. E. M. Rodman, who resigned several months ago. The vestry has the assurance that he will accept the call. Mr. Stevenson is a graduate of Trinity University, Toronto, Canada, class of '90, and he received a degree of Master of Arts from the same institution in 1892. The Right Rev. Arthur Sweatman, Bishop of Toronto, ordained him deacon in July, 1892, and priest in Advent in 1895. He was curate of St. Stephen's church, Toronto, from 1892 to 1895, and he held a similar office in St. John's church, Peterborough, Canada, from 1895 to 1899. He went to St. Michael's parish, New York, in 1899, and was appointed curate in 1900. For the last year, in the absence of the Rector, the Rev. Dr. John P. Peters, he has had charge of St. Michael's Parish."

Rev. Mr. Stevenson will be remembered in Peterborough for the excellence of his pulpit ministrations, and for his interest in the work among men, and not in the least, as the football season comes in, as a no mean exponent on the gridiron of muscular Christianity, and an example of the fact that there is no incompatibility between muscular strenuousness and robust morality. The Examiner joins Mr. Stevenson's many friends in Peterborough in congratulations on a promotion whose wisdom they have reason to feel he will amply vindicate.

ANOTHER SUPPER

To Mr. Frank Packenham by a few of the Boys.

Mr. Frank Packenham, who left for Montreal to-day to assume his new duties in connection with the Canadian General Electric Company, was the recipient of another small banquet in Mr. Harry Long's last evening. It was a quiet little affair, only a few of Mr. Packenham's personal friends being present to bid him good bye. The chair was occupied by Mr. Will Higgins, and among those who sat down to the sumptuous little spread were Messrs. R. M. Glover, Dr. Tate, Jack Gemmell, Jack Comstock, Manson Comstock, W. C. Ackerham, H. Waram, and R. Matchett.

Short speeches were made by the boys, who expressed the hope that Mr. Packenham would meet with success in his new position.

ST. JOHN'S GIRLS' GUILD

Re-organized for the Season of 1902-3.

In a paragraph appearing in yesterdays's issue the incorrect impression might be drawn that St. John's Girls' Guild was a new organisation, whereas it has been for some time in existence. As a result of last year's labours the Guild has to its credit in the bank the sum of $91, for the Sunday school pianoforte, and enters upon work this year with the following officers;

Hon. President. — Mrs. (Rev.) J. C. Davidson.

President—Miss Maggie Pratt.

Vice-President—Miss Mabel Bradburn.

Secretary-Treasurer—Miss Dawson.

THE LATE MRS. ROSE.

She Passed Away at Her Home Last Night—Aged 68 Years.

This morning about half past one, Mrs. Alexander Rose passed away at her home, corner of Hunter and Downey streets. Mrs. Rose has been gradually failing, and for the past year has been very feeble, showing evidences of heart trouble. She seemed however to be somewhat better lately, and last evening took tea with her family. Her maiden name was Miss Jane Dickson. She was born near Belfast, Ireland, almost 82 years ago, coming to this country and settling with her parents at Greystock, Otonabee.

In 1844 she married the late Alex. Rose, and resided in Keene for a number of years. In religion she was an ardent Methodist, and will be greatly missed by her many friends on account of her bounteous hospitality. Six children mourn her loss. They are Messrs. Alexander, Jas. and Stuart, Misses Isabella and Mary Rose and Mrs. John Gillespie, all of Peterborough.

The funeral will be private, at 1 p.m., Friday.

DIED IN ROCHESTER.

Thomas Bradley a Peterborough Boy Dies Suddenly.

Mr. Jas. Bradley, Aylmer street, this morning received a telegram announcing the sudden death in Rochester, of his son, Thomas Bradley, a young man about 22 or 23 years of age, who has for some time been a resident of that city. Notice of arrangements for the funeral and particulars of the last illness of deceased will appear later in these columns.

WANTED FIREWOOD.

Is it a Crime to Keep Warm by Stealing Plank?

The scarcity of fuel in Peterborough, as well as in other places, will be keenly felt; as a matter of fact it is well known that there are homes in Peterborough that have not yet obtained their winter's supply of coal or wood, and some of these, of course, cannot afford to pay the prices now demanded. There is a possibility then of some of the poorer people resorting to various means of obtaining firewood, and there has been one case brought to the notice of the Chief already of a small boy in a certain family who brought to his wood shed a number of good plank that would have been consigned to the stove, but for the timely arrival of the Chief. Good plank is too expensive to be used as firewood and if families can really not afford to buy firewood or coal at the present high prices they will have to apply for relief in the regular manner.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—St. John's choir will practice to-night at eight o'clock.

—The Victoria County Riflemen are shooting their annual matches to-day.

—Rev. W. J. Jolliffe is the speaker at the Y.M.C.A. next Sunday, and Mr. Wildgust, of St. Paul's will sing.

—Messrs. Gibson and Henry have begun their contract on the sewer from Charlotte street to Weller street.

—A meeting of the Dan Spence Memorial Fund Committee will be held in the Town Clerk's office this evening.

—A number of children left the Barnardo Home this morning for Ivanhoe and other stations along the C.P.R.

—Other lakes may breed bigger fish stories, but it seems that the Peterborough lakes lead the Province in big bass.

—There's wisdom in the advice of the Montreal Herald. Coal is becoming so valuable that householders are advised to bank it.

—The Murray street Baptist church choir rehearsal will be held on Friday evening of this week. A full attendance is requested.

—An important meeting of the George street choir will be held to-night. Every member is requested, and expected, to be present.

—A popular corsage ornament with the modern girl is a stick pin set with dusky diamonds. They cost high but the girls must have them.

—By reference to the Examiner's stock column it will be noticed that Messrs. E. M. Poussett & Co., have received word of the settlement of the coal strike.

—A total eclipse of the moon is booked for Oct. 17th, beginning at 12.19 a.m. and ending at 1.48 a.m. Though poets talk about the "inconstant moon," the wrinkled old dame, generally keeps her engagements in the matter of eclipses and getting full once a month.

—The dog poisoning fiend is again at work. Last night a fine large dog belonging to Mrs. Innes, 466 George street, was given a strong dose of strychinine, and would probably have died had it not been for services rendered by Dr. Poole, Water street.

—Peterborough marksmen allowed Capt. Williamson and Private Oliver, Lindsay, representing the 45th Batt., to carry off two good prizes from the Curtis ranges. That's right too—a sportsman is entitled to all the game he brings down, even if he is poaching a little on another's preserves.

—Joseph Smith, a young man employed by Bradley, Garreston & Co. of Brantford, had his hand so badly burned by a switch in the works of the Canadian General Electric Company this morning that he is compelled to a period of enforced idleness, and will very much need the means which his inability to work will deprive him of.

Direct from the glorious service in Westminster Abbey and inspired with the beautiful and historic ritual in which their voices assisted at the crowning of King Edward and Queen Alexandra, Mr. Edward Brancombe and the Coronation Choir party arrived in Quebec on August 21st, and will be here to sing during the first week in November. There will be presented a most delightful programme, in which the beautiful boy sopranos, the wonderful male altos and the splendid tenors and bassos of the Abbey will be heard to great advantage. The date has not been definitely settled on but will be made known in a few days. 1d

LAST NIGHT'S WEDDING.

Mr. A. F. Saunders United in Marriage to Miss Lottie Kindred.

Last evening at eight o'clock guests to the number of about one hundred, gathered at the Temperance House, Hunter street, to witness the marriage of Miss Lottie Victoria, daughter of Mr. William Kindred, to Mr. Frank Saunders, of Toronto. Rev. Mr. Thompson, of the Mark street Methodist church officiated.

The bride wore a cream brocaded silk pardegon dress trimmed with silk applique, chiffon and ivory silk, and was assisted by her sister, Miss Jennie, who was attired in a gown of blue ladies' cloth trimmed with silk applique, chiffon and ivory silk.

The groom's present to the bride was a handsome pearl crescent, and to the bridesmaid a fine pearl pin. Mr. Saunders of Toronto, performed the duties of best man. The young couple left this morning for Toronto, where they will reside in future.

GOING TO LAKEFIELD.

Mr. Roland Johnston has Bought out Madill Bros.

The many friends in Peterborough of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Johnston, will regret that they are about to leave Peterborough. Mr. Johnston, who is well and favourably known here, and who has been an employee of Messrs. Richard Hall & Son's for some time, has purchased the old established business of Madill Bros., Lakefield. Mr. Johnston will leave Peterborough on November 1st to take over his new business. His friends here will all join in wishing him success in his new home.

THE CENTREVILLE FAIR.

It was Held Yesterday and Passed off Quite Successfully.

The annual fall show of the South Monaghan Agricultural Society was held yesterday at Centreville, and passed off quite successfully. The number of entries were quite up to those of last year, while the quality of the exhibits were of a superior class. The attendance may not have been quite as large as last year, but altogether the show was up to the expectations of the officers of the association.

During the afternoon a lacrosse match was played between Mount Pleasant and Centreville, which attracted much interest.

The exhibit of horseflesh was excellent, and the first prize for the best team of carriage horses was won by Mr. Robert E. Leary of town.

The exhibit of ladies' work, etc., inside the agricultural hall was a most creditable display, and a list of the prize winners in the diferent classes will appear later.

AN HOSPITAL TENT.

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons Shipped one to Cleveland To-day.

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons are today shipping a large hospital tent to the Cleveland, Ohio, health authorities for use in a small-pox outbreak there. It is a double tent, built in the same style as numerous other tents which this firm have been supplying to the province for some years. It is 15 x 30 feet outside, and 14 x 20 inside. It speaks well for the firm to be called upon for this order from the United States, in spite of the keen competition there.

ENTERTAINED THEIR FRIENDS.

Park Street Young People had a Very Pleasant Evening.

The social given last Monday evening by the Park street Young People's Society, proved to be a great cess, and was much enjoyed by all present.

The Flower and Social Committees did their part well, and the Programme Committee was not idle as was seen by the excellent programme prepared by them.

The chair was taken by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Hannah, who after a few words of prayer, assured all present they were cordially welcome.

Each part of the programme, consisting of a solo, readings, and recitations, and a dialogue entitled "Why Mrs. Gaskell didn't Hire a Cook?" were all well rendered. The choir also gave two selections. Refreshments were then served and all enjoyed a social time before separating for the evening.

The Programme Committee wishes to take this opportunity of thanking any who assisted in any way in the evening's entertainment.

SEVENTY-THREE 'LUNGE

Was Mr. Bennett's Record at Stony Lake This Season.

Mr. E. A. Bennett, of town, who has been spending the summer at Stony Lake, arrived home to-day after a delightful outing. Mr. Bennett went up to Stony Lake on June 3rd, and made his home at Gemmell's cottage. Yesterday he paddled down to Lakefield, and hooked on to several fine lunge. During his stay of four months at the lakes Mr. Bennett spent much time in fishing, and his record for the season is 73 lunge. He never fishes for bass but can catch lunge with anyone.

THE FUEL SITUATION.

Wood Scarce now but Probability of a Supply Later on.

Soft Coal More Plentiful Than Hard—Pointers as to its Use.

While there is reported all over the country a scarcity of hard coal, there seems no present probability that the settlement of the strike will ease the situation. The duration of the strike is a matter of speculation as much as whether there will be a cloudy or clear sky Thanksgiving Day. Those who have little or no coal in their cellars think the strike will be over in a few days, while the few who have well stored cellars fear it may last all winter.

As to the local wood supply there does not seem to be so much scarcity of wood as of money, in many cases to buy it. However, the wood situation promises to relieve itself. When farmers are over the rush of autumn work the high prices will tempt them to bring in enough wood to meet the demand for a time, and when good sleighing comes wood will probably come in with a rush.

If the worst comes to the worst in the matter of hard coal we can fall back on soft coal, which it seems can be used, but with some drawbacks. However, it is better than no coal at all. A gentleman who has been evidently experimenting says:—

"For the past two weeks I have been using soft coal in a furnace according to the directions given below and with capital success. No gas, no smoke, no dust. Place the required amount of coal in furnace. Open draught until the fuel has reached a full blaze, then cover over with a light layer of wet ashes (soft or hard coal.) Judgment should be used as to the thickness of covering. Temper draught the same as in the use of anthracite. Fire may be retained for a period of twenty-four hours and even longer by an increase in the thickness of the covering and proper adjustment of the draught. Leave draught in top door constantly open.

"As to soft coal as a matter of fact, practically no other fuel is used, or has been used, for domestic purposes in Great Britain, and while the cooking ranges differ somewhat in design from those used in this country for anthracite coal, it will be quite possible for the householders, by using a little judgment, to burn soft coal to advantage in the ordinary Canadian cooking stove.

The most important fact to remember is that the great quantities of gas thrown off when soft coal is first ignited render it necessary to supply considerably more air above the bed of fuel than in the case of anthracite coal. Thus, in replenishing the kitchen stove, it will not do to fill the grate entirely full of fresh fuel, since this would result in the rapid lowering of the oven temperature, which would not be restored until the mass had become ignited and the gasses had been somewhat burned off. It will be found that the best method is to feed small quantities of fuel to the fire at frequent intervals, keeping the lower drafts closed more than would be in burning anthracite coal, and keeping the upper draft constantly open. For use in the heating furnace, soft coal will be found to give good results when once the proper manipulation of the furnace has been learned.

"There is one feature connected with the use of soft coal, however, which, unless it be carefully safeguarded, may introduce an element of danger. We refer to the heavy deposit of soot in the flues which will occur when soft coal is used. This soot, unless it be swept out at stated intervals, will accumulate, and being inflammable would be liable to ignite and produce a fierce fire in the chimney, with a consequent risk to the dwelling. It sometimes happens that the ends of rafters or beams are, by careless or ignorant construction, allowed to project into the chimney flues. These might become ignited and carry fire to the interior of the house. There is further danger that the shower of sparks from a burning chimney would ignite the shingle roofs."

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Notes Concerning the Movements of Peterborough People and Their Visitors

Rev. Mr. Armitage left this afternoon to preacch at the harvest festival at Buckhorn to-night.

Mr. C. E. Johnston, who has been on the ledger of the Canadian Bank of Commerce here, has been removed to Dundas. Mr. Johnston leaves tomorrow morning.

Rev. Mr. Armitage has removed to 193 Aylmer street, and has also installed a telephone, No. 401. This will be a great convenience to the members of the parish.

Mrs. W. W. Huycke and family left on Tuesday for Peterborough where they will reside. Mr. Huycke has already been employed there for several months.—Hastings Star.

THANKSGIVING DAY MATCHES

List of Prizes to be Offered for Competition.

A New Feature to be Introduced in This Year's Shooting—A Moving Man—The Officers.

At the 57th Regimental Match this year an innovation representing a man running, will be introduced, that should be appreciated by all the men. A target six feet by four feet, will be hung from a cable so arranged that the incline can be very easily changed. On this target a silhouette figure of a man, five feet tall, is placed. As the target and figure cross an open space of about 25 yards each marksman may take at 300 yards two shots as the target travels one way, and one on the return, and may have in all six shots, the best three consecutive to count. Should this figure be hit anywhere above the waist, the competitor counts four, while a shot below the waist counts 3, and on the target, 2. This will be the only series in which magazine firing will be employed and it should furnish an interesting and instructive match.

There is to be another new feature in this year's shoot that will be of great encouragement to the younger members of the regiment. Hitherto the young marksmen felt themselves handicapped in the open regimental matches because they had to shoot against the best shots in the whole regiment. This year, however, fourteen prizes will be offered for each company so that a tyro will only have to shoot against the good marksmen in his own company.

Four of these prizes go for a competition between members who do not win prizes in the company shoot.

The following is the prize list;

EXTRA SERIES MATCH.

At running man target, open to all members of the Regiment, range 300 yards; competitors may fire any number of scores up to five each, consisting of 3 shots, but no competitor shall fire more than two scores, if others who have not fired, are waiting; best scores to count. Prizes, 1, $3; 2, $2.50; 3, 4 and 5, $2; 6 to 10, inclusive, $1; 11 to 20, 50c.

COMPANY MATCH.

Open to non-commissioned officers and men of each company; ranges, 200, 400, and 500 yards; 5 shots at each range; the score in the general match to count. Prizes, 1, $2; 2, $1.50; 4, 5, and 6, $1; 7 to 10, 50c.

GENERAL MATCH.

Open to all members of the regiment; ranges 200, 400, 500, and 600 yards; five shots at each range; Prizes, 1, $4; 2, $3; 3, $2.50; 4, $3.50; 5, 6 and 7, $2; 8 to 12 inclusive, $1.50; 13 to 20 inclusive, $1; 21 to 30 inclusive, 75c.

TYRO MATCH.

Open to all members of the regiment, who have not made a score of 60 points or over at any regimental match. Ranges 200, 400 and 500 yards. Five shots at each range, the same score to count as in the general match. Prizes, 1, $3; 2, $2.50; 3, 4 and 5, $2; 6 to 10 inclusive, $1.50; 11 to 16, $1; 17 to 25, 75c; 26 to 35, 50c.

Prizes for the Tyros who do not win a prize in the above company match, 4 of 50c each.

RULES.

1. Position any, with head to target.
2. One sighting shot at each range.
3. No two competitors shall shoot with the same rifle.
4. Scores, bulls 5; inner 4; magpie 3; outer, 2.
5. On running man target, hits on body and head, from waist up, 4; remainder of figure, 3; all other hits on target, 4 feet by 6 feet, 2.
6. All competitors must appear in uniform.
7. All disputes to be decided by the range officers.
8. Any competitor who shall fire when the danger signal is up, or who shall discharge his rifle on the range except in accordance with regulations, or who shall be found with a loaded rifle off the firing point, or who shall act in any way that may prove dangerous, shall in the discretion of the range officers be excluded from all further competition and shall forfeit all prize money.
9. In matters unprovided for Association Rules shall govern.
10. All men not actually engaged in firing shall keep at least 20 feet in rear of the mounds.

A. STEVENSON,
Major,
Chairman of Rifle Committee.

RANGE OFFICERS.

The Range Officers are;
Lieut.-Col. Edwards, Major Miller, Captain Walker, Captain Clegg, Lieut. Cameron.

Matches will commence at 8 a. m., sharp. Lunch will be provided at the ranges free.

CIVILIZATION.

These That Have Vanished Move in Mysterious Procession Across the Mirror of the Mind.

We see, as in a glass darkly, the civilizations that have vanished. The misty images of Asiatic, of African, of Grecian, of Roman social organization move in mysterious procession across the mirror of the mind, and each vanishing casts a deeper gloom over the spirit of the beholder. Is your civilization doomed likewise to pass away? * * * Deep melancholy, as we survey the success of civilizations, seems inseparable from contemplation. When we behold an Egyptian society that thousands of years before our era revelled in ecstacies of art that possibly even Greece herself did not surpass; when we regard Greek art and thought—inseparable twins of excellence—when we watch a Roman civilization that evolved methods of law and government that made the Eternal City the heart of the world; when we gaze upon a mediaeval Renaissance that brought learning and art to a new and an undreamed perfection; when we see these visions pass across the mirror of the mind and vanish, the sense of tears and sadness comes. * * * Is Egypt to-day the better for her catena of civilization? Is Greece, Rome, Italy, nay, is the world itself advanced at all in proportion to the stress and storm that accompanied the evolution of successive societies? Is there, on the whole, any advance? Is not our civilization growing towards ripeness, not doomed likewise to natural decay? Is not civilization like an annual garden plant that rises and flowers in beauty, fades and casts its seed—seed that will in due time rise in glory and cast its seed, and so on year by year until at last exhaustion or the gardener's hoe ends all?

Pessimism is apt enough to take such a view, and not the less so perhaps because of the fact that analogy is more convincing than analysis. But even by the use of analogy another and a more cheering aspect of the question may be shown. Let us take it that the earth is a garden, that civilization is a slowly flowering plant, a great aloe, bitter in leaf, exquisite in bloom; that the Gardener is One who neither slumbers nor sleeps. From such premises one would expect to happen exactly that which has happened. A process of selection would go on, experiment after experiment, millennium after millennium—for with this Gardener a thousand years are but as yesterday—would be made, until at last there would be evolved, out of inn merable apparent failures, a flower of such transcendent glory that it would remain a joy for ever—the final and sempiternal type at which the great Gardener aimed.

There is not necessarily, therefore, a sense of hopeless despair involved even in the idea that our own civilization must fade away, if we are only convinced that we are playing a part in the evolution of civilization that will fully realize in the ripeness of time the potentialities of the race. To be so convinced introduces into the life of the race a new factor that will hasten the day of gladness. The sense of personal responsibility arises in each optimist, and the belief that something of final importance turns on his or her every action drives the mind forward to accomplish something that will hasten the end.—London Spectator.

THAT TROUBLESOME GAS.

One of the Most Unpleasant Forms of Stomach Trouble and how to Cure it.

The failure of the stomach to properly digest the food manifests itself in many painful and distressing symptoms.

One of the most troublesome and difficult results of undigested food remaining in the stomach is the formation of gas.

This gas distends the walls of the stomach to a painful degree and frequently presses upward interfering with the action of the heart, thus causing palpitation and faintness.

The gas is the result of the decomposition of undigested food, and there is but one way to correct the evil and that is by restoring to the stomach the ability to digest all the food perfectly.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are a specific prepared for one purpose only and that is the correction and cure of all Stomach Troubles.

They digest the food, all of it, without the aid of the stomach, thus allowing that organ an opportunity for rest.

Rest is nature's only way to restore the tired organ.

That this theory is a correct one and that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are the remedy best adapted and most successful in carrying out the successful rest cure of the digestive organs has been proven by many of Canada's best people.

Among these may be mentioned Mr. W. H. Harmer, Postmaster at Avonmore, N.B., who for a long time suffered very severely with gas on the stomach. Often the food would rise in his throat and these unpleasant symptoms caused him no end of annovance and distress, but having heard of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, he decided to try a treatment and in a short time was completely cured of both the difficulties which had troubled him.

He is completely cured. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure all forms of Stomach Troubles.

Divers Get Angry.

An Australian pearl diver says that one of the strange effects of diving is the invariable bad temper felt while working at the bottom of the sea. As this usually passes away as soon as the surface is reached, it is probably due to the pressure of the air affecting the lungs and through them the brain. The exhilaration and good temper of the mountain climber is a contrary feeling from an opposite cause. A diver becomes so angry at some imaginary wrong on the part of those in the boat above that he gives the signal to be pulled up—"with the intention of knocking the heels off the entire crew"—only to forget what he came up for when the surface was reached.

EVICTIONS BY THE WHOLESALE.

Lord DePreyne Applies For 300 Ejectment Writs.

Dublin, Oct. 9.—Lord DePreyne applied at Castlerea (Roscommon County), yesterday, for 300 ejectment writs in tenants' cases. They are all undefended. The friends and neighbors of those who have already been evicted are caring for the homeless in outhouses and stables.

All the tenants on the Ellis estate, at Abbel Feale, Limerick County, have decided to submit to eviction, and are building huts on land adjacent to the estate.

"Pewee" Johnson Sentenced.

Buffalo, Oct. 9.—"Pewee" Johnson, the negro who shot and killed "Yellow" Robinson, also a negro, at the Kenilworth Racetrack, was last night found guilty of murder in the second degree. The verdict carries with it a sentence of life imprisonment. Johnson and Robinson quarrelled over a game of dice. After the shooting, Johnson fled to Canada, where for three days he led the frontier police a lively chase, frequently exchanging shots with his pursuers. He was finally captured near Suspension Bridge.

Guilty of Stealing Fares.

Toronto, Oct. 9.—The second case in which the Toronto Railway Company is prosecuting seventeen of their conductors for robbing their fare boxes by extracting fares with a digger was concluded in the Criminal Sessions at 5.30 p.m. yesterday, when the jury found George Howland guilty, with a strong recommendation to mercy. The jury occupied a little over an hour in considering the evidence. Howland will be sentenced at the end of the sittings.

Sir John Surely Dying.

Ottawa, Oct. 9.—Sir John Bourinot's hold on life is something that surprises all his friends. Since May 20 he has been in bed critically ill, and his end expected at almost any time. He takes a little nourishment, and is able to read the papers and magazines.

TWO STORIES TOLD.

Colored Witnesses at Franks Inquest Contradict One Another.

Niagara Falls, Oct. 8.—Coroner McGarry's jury resumed the inquest into the death of Mrs. Jessie Franks at Chippewa yesterday morning. Only three witnesses testified, the first being one of the negroes, named "Yansey" who, with another negro, named Roy, lived in two rooms on the south side of the house, situated about 40 feet north of Mrs. Franks' house, and worked at the Canadian Power Company's tunnel works. Yansey testified that he and Roy played cards in their rooms from 8 to 11 o'clock the night of the murder, with two colored women, named Lillian Ruffell and Mrs. Gibbs, and did not hear any unusual disturbance in or around Mrs. Franks' house. The two women above named testified that they were not at the rooms of Yansey and Roy on the evening of the murder, but were at their own home. This ended the inquiry, and the jury brought in a verdict that Mrs. Jessie Franks came to her death by the hand of some person unknown to the jury. A great deal of importance is placed on the contradictory testimony given by the colored witnesses.

Valuable Advice to Mothers.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness off any kind, the first thing get your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25 cents.

Wild Brook Trout.

Hawthorne describes an ideal breakfast as consisting of hot cakes, brook trout, roast potatoes, fresh boiled eggs and coffee. The piece de resistance of this breakfast is the brook trout. In spite of all the efforts of fish culturists, the wild brook trout remains the finest morsel the epicure can seek. Cultivated trout taste too perceptibly of liver to be a food greatly desired. The wild trout that springs in his native mountain stream is far superior to any cultivated fish. Cook it in the simplest manner, dipping it in oil, salt and pepper and broiling it over hot coals. Serve it simply with butter and slices of lemon.

Benefits of Traveling.

Proper recreation prolongs life. This fact is now better appreciated by busy people than ever before. Of all the forms of recreation the best perhaps is traveling. The benefits to be derived from it cannot be exaggerated. A journey, whether brief or long, is sure to relieve the mind of business or domestic cares by directing it into pleasanter channels. Thousands can testify that traveling has improved their health, lengthened their lives, brightened their mental faculties more than anything else.

Not a Quack Doctor.

Merrill's System Tonic does not eminate from quackery, but, is a scientifically prepared and valuable prescription, curing all diseases having origin in Constipation and weak or vitiated blood. It purifies the blood, builds up the system, strengthens the nerves and regulates the bowels. Sold in 50c bottles containing 50 doses, at Ormond & Walsh's.

Philadelphia's Mint.

Before a burglar could tunnel into the money vaults of the Philadelphia mint he would have to pierce a solid rock so full of veins of water that the smallest opening is immediately flooded. The gold vaults are of steel seven inches thick, and the silver is protected by one inch of steel.

A Curious Cemetery.

The most curious cemetery is situated at Luxor, on the Nile. Here repose the mummified bodies of millions of sacred cats. Their remains are side by side with the bodies of kings and emperors in mausoleums.

Our First Cotton Mill.

The first cotton mill in this country was established in Beverly, Mass., in 1787. It was designed to manufacture cord and bedticking.

Annoying Symptoms of Kidney Disease.

Accompanied by Constipation and Shooting Pains in the Back.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Kidney disease is almost invariably accompanied by constipation and liver disorders. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are more effective than ordinary medicines, because they have a direct and combined action on kidney, liver and bowels. By this extraordinary power they entirely overcome complicated diseases of the digestive, filtering and excretory systems.

Mr. John Noyes, Ashburnham, Peterborough, Ont., states: — "Having used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills with success I can strongly recommend them. For considerable time I was a sufferer from kidney disease and constipation, and besides being tortured by the shooting pains through the back put up with the other annoying and often distressing symptoms of kidney disorders. Sometimes I would go three or four days without a motion of the bowels and could get no relief.

"After using a few boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills I was well again and feeling fine. This treatment seemed to be exactly what I needed and promptly brought relief and cure."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box. At all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co, Toronto.

THE STUDY OF NATURE.

First Thing Needed Is the Right Kind of Person for Leader.

In most cases it is the want of good teaching, not the lack of willingness to be taught, which makes youth turn aside in weariness from the first pages of an unexplored sphere of science, says The London Daily Telegraph. That is the greatest and deepest want, to train and provide, namely, the right kind of persons to see little hearts aflame with the thirst for learning the secrets of Nature, and with a spirit to study her ways with an evergrowing gentleness toward the lower creatures and an ever-deepening sense that nothing has been created except for a Divine object and a far-reaching reason. Such is the temper in which the study of Nature must be approached and sustained. The naturalist or physiologist who explores her secrets from the old motive of curiosity, or for profit, or in emulation of rivals, or to maintain a cherished thesis, has not learned, and never will learn, the ultimate delights which close observance of the wonderful world of Creation can impart. He will grow to be an Agnostic, or Pantheist, or something still more undesirable, but will never taste the joys with which such men as White, of Selborne; or Lord Avebury, of great Darwin, enrich existence. It has been well said by the poet that "Nature never did betray the heart that loved her," and certain it is that none derive a loftier and more enduring pleasure from studious hours than those who have given them to the patient pursuit of the hidden revelations which Nature, finger by finger, allows her favored votaries to unlock from her willing, but tightly-closed hands. But the ultimate secret is that she must be loved. She will yield to the hard-hearted, to the unbelieving, to the selfish and irreverent man little beyond dull catalogues and masses of gloomy, unfruitful facts; but she reserves for those who will share with her her grand mystery of the Divine Love which governs the universe discoveries that often lift the thoughts of men to heights undreamed of and to large generalization which can fill the most ambitious hearts with noble thoughts and anticipations of splendid hopefulness. If we come down from these heights to the lower ground of utility, of amusement, of expansion of mind, and examples of exquisite invention and adaptation. Nature, in any one of her vast compartments, can satisfy the intellect with vistas of infinite development, and lead the student of new estimates of the value and beauty of life, alike in lower and higher planes. Moreover, how different does the world of sense become to those who pass through it with opened eyes and hearts attuned to admit and to revere the wisdom that is more or less clearly revealed in all its phenomena!

Besant's "Stolen" Chapter.

When Sir Walter Besant was writing his story, "For Faith and Freedom," he needed to send his characters to Barbadoes, as political convicts. But he did not know what to do with them when they got there. Nothing that he could find showed him the daily life of such unfortunates.

One evening he received half a dozen catalogues of second-hand books. As he was idly turning them over his eye fell on a title that electrified him: "The Journal of A. B., some time Chyrurgeon to the Duke of Monmouth, with his trial and sentence to the Plantations of Barbadoes, his Captivity there and his Escape."

The very book! The next morning the eager novelist took a cab and drove at once to the bookseller's. The book was gone. An American had picked it up the day before. But he had at least the title, and armed with that he went to the British Museum where, in the vast ocean of pamphlets, the thing was found. He had it copied out bodily, and had the material for a chapter of his novel that is warm with truth and vividness.

But it remained for a literal man, years after, to reprove him for this historic faithfulness. Sir Walter had told him the story of his "find," and the man said coldly, "Then you stole that chapter!"

The Queen's Horses.

Her Majesty Queen Alexandra used to be extremely fond of riding; she had a most graceful seat, rode about the lanes continually with her children, and occasionally appeared at the hunt meets. But she is not so keen a rider now, having given that exercise up a great deal in favor of driving, or the more recent motor-car runs.

Her Majesty drives single horse or a pair, four-in-hand, or tandem. She has, among others in her stables, a very pretty team of Hungarian ponies, a smart little mare used for the "Blues" cart, and a beautiful creature, named Louvima, the latter presented to the Queen by her daughters, its name being a compound of the first letters in the names of the princesses. Whenever Her Majesty appears on horseback Louvima is the animal she rides.

TEST DRINKING WATER.

Two Methods by Which You May Determine Its Quality.

The supply of drinking water for the family should be tested at least once a year. Water that at one time is pure and wholesome may become too impure for use, yet it may be without color, and have no odor or taste to show its dangerous qualities.

A simple test of drinking water is the Melsch sewage test. Fill a clean pint bottle three-quarters full of the water to be tested, and dissolve in it half a teaspoonful of granulated sugar. Cork it and set it in a warm place for two days. If during this time it becomes cloudy or milky it is unfit for domestic use. If it remains perfectly clear it is probably safe. Be careful that the bottle is absolutely as clean as you can make it and the sugar pure.

The second test is also a simple one. Obtain from a trustworthy druggist 5 cents' worth of saturated solution of permanganate of potassium. Add about five drops of this to a pint bottle of water. This will turn the water a beautiful rose purple. If there is any considerable amount of organic matter the color will give place in the course of a few hours to a more or less dirty reddish brown. If the color of the water in the bottle remains for twelve hours unchanged from the rose purple it assumed when the permanganate of potassium was first added, it may be considered free from organic contamination.

The Hawaiian as a Diver.

The working crews of the Hawaiian Islands were quartered in suitable camps near their field of labor. They were natives, good fellows, willing workers, admirably adapted to the duty required of them, which was largely in boats and in the water. I well remember one who excelled in diving. On a certain occasion, when the placing of a deep water mooring had just been accomplished, it became necessary to detach under water the end of a hawser, which had been made fast to the submerged part of a spar buoy about forty or fifty feet below the surface of the sea. The man was told to take his sheath knife down with him and cut the hawser as near its end as he could, so as to lose as little as possible of the valuable cable. Taking his knife in his teeth, he disappeared beneath the water and remained out of sight so long that he was almost given up for lost, when he suddenly reappeared, and on being asked if he had cut the hawser as he had been told to reported that he had unbent it without cutting off any part of it whatever.—James D. Hague in Century.

Arm In Arm With a Tigress.

It is related of Sir Edward Bradford that he once walked arm in arm, so to speak, with a tigress. He was out shooting and, always a fearless sportsman, had come to close quarters with his quarry. He fired, and either the ball failed to take effect or but slightly wounded the animal. She sprang at him and seized his left arm above the elbow. The pain must have been terrible, but Sir Edward kept cool, and, realising that it would be death to drag his mangled arm away and allow her to spring afresh at him, he deliberately walked a few agonizing paces until his comrade was able to take aim and kill the brute. Thus his courage saved his life, though the amputation of his arm at the shoulder proved necessary.

Soft and Warm.

The latest device of girlhood is a fancy for stuffing pillows with old love letters. There is one thing about the contents of these pillows that can be depended upon with a marked degree of certainty—they are sure to be soft.

SCIENCE SIFTINGS.

While volcanic eruptions are usually restricted in area, earthquakes are not.

If all the mountains in the world were leveled, the average height of the land would rise nearly 250 feet.

The face of Jupiter presents a considerable number of markings, notably one great scarlet patch covering nearly 400,000 square miles.

The amount of heat produced by an average man in a day's work would be sufficient to raise sixty-three pounds of water from freezing to boiling point.

Cirrus clouds were once observed at a height of 43,800 feet. This is by far the greatest height at which cloud vapor has ever been noted above the surface of the earth.

Experiments made while in a balloon show that when a height of 15,000 feet has been reached the number of corpuscles in the human blood have increased by one-third.

The atmospheric pressure upon the surface of an ordinary man is 32,400 pounds, or over fourteen and a half tons. The ordinary rise and fall of the barometer increases or decreases this pressure by 2,500 pounds.

His Offhand Manner.

"Dan," said a contractor to one of his trusted employees, "when you are seeing about that lime this morning, I wish you to mention to Dempsey that I would like to have that bill paid. You needn't press it, you know, but just mention it to him in an offhand manner."

"Yes, sorr."

"I got the money from Dempsey," said Dan on his return.

"I'm very glad. You merely alluded to it in an offhand way, I suppose?"

"Yes, sorr. I handed him the bill and told him if he didn't pay it I would let off my hand and give him a black eye that he wouldn't forget for a month, and he paid it at wunst."—London Answers.

The Critical Time of Life.

Is between the years of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the progress of decay sets in. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigour is to take Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone keeps up the appetite, and in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, imparts clearness to the tiring brain, force, energy and spirits just when they are needed most. To take Ferrozone regularly means adding from ten to twenty years to life. Large boxes, 50 cents, or six boxes for $2.50. At druggists or Ormond & Walsh's. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are certain.

His Off Day.

There were six or eight men talking about a dogfight when I entered the drugstore in a Dakota town and asked for epsom salts, and the druggist seemed deeply interested. He fussed around and put up a package and was giving no further heed to me when I asked:

"Did you put up salts or arsenic for me?"

"Salts, of course," he replied.

"You'd better be sure."

He opened the package, touched his tongue to the contents and said:

"Yes, it's arsenic, but I'll have the salts in a minute."

"I don't think I care for any."

"No? All right. Beg your pardon for the mistake, but, you see, we've just had a dogfight and my dog got licked, and I'm interested in learning if he had a fair show or if somebody kicked him as he had just got a good hold!"

Not For Him.

"I don't see the sense in paying $50 for a panama hat."

'No, of course not; you're a politician."

"What has that to do with it?"

"Well, the weave of a genuine panama is so exceedingly close it would be almost impossible to talk through it."—Philadelphia Press.

Filial Sympathy.

"When I was your age," said Mr. Goldbags sternly, "I earned my own living."

His son looked uneasy, but was silent.

"Well, have you nothing to say for yourself in that connection?"

"N-nothing, sir, except that I sympathize with you, and congratulate you on the fact that it's all over."—London Tit-Bits.

Not as Considerate as He Might Be.

"He's a good friend of yours, isn't he?"

"Oh, only medium."

"What do you mean by medium?"

"Oh, he listens while I tell him all of my troubles, but he also wants me to listen while he tells me all of his."

He Had It.

"Yes; it's Fullerton's hobby that advice is cheap and within the reach of every person."

"What does he mean, anyhow?"

"What he says, I suppose. He's a confidential divorce lawyer.'

An Æsthetic Soul.

"Well, did she buy the book?"

"No," replied the clerk. "She said she didn't like the cover design."

THE WALL STREET MARKET.

Reported Settlement of the Great Coal Strike.

As a Result Stocks Were Somewhat Stronger To-day—Some Closing Quotations.

The Wall street market was fairly strong this morning, owing to the expected settlement of the coal strike. The Pacifics were particularly firm and made gains of from 1 to 1 1-2 points. P.A. was also strong, making a gain of 2 points over last night's close. To-day's close was 103. Erie gained a point and closed at 39 1-4. Rdg. gained 2 points also, and closed at 70 3-8. C. P. R. was somewhat stronger and was quoted at 135 1-4. M.O.P. closed at 111 1-4; U. P. at 105; L. and N. at 88 1-4, and sugar at 23 1-4, and A.C.P. at 63 1-4.

The feature of the market was the advance in "Soo" Pref., which was as low as 113 yesterday, and which opened at 125 1-2 to-day, and reached 126.

Sales to noon were 372,000. Money closed at 12 per cent.

Reported Settlement of Coal Strike.

London.—(Special to E. M. Poussett & Co.)—President Mitchell left Ashland House at 10.10 a.m. That the strike settlement is approaching a crisis there seems to be no doubt, but leaders want to keep settlement from public until something definite is done. Sharp advance at 3.30 p.m. in coal stocks in London. Rumoured here that coal strike is settled. J. W. Gates reiterates statement that settlement will be made before Saturday.

The following despatch has been received by E. M. Poussett & Co. from McIntyre & Marshall, of New York and Chicago:

New York, 10 a.m.—Strike news today is rather encouraging, though nothing definite has transpired and conditions in Wall street much improved from a sentimental standpoint. Chances are that the market to-day will be a repition of yesterday. The presence here of John Mitchell and the other strike leaders, conferring with Senators Quayt and Penrose, of Pa., supposedly on a call to confer with operators, has led to the impression that there has been a break in decision in labour, and that there will be something done to-day which will indicate the possibility of early settlement of the strike. The Journal, in a long article and big head lines, refers to the above and says indications are that the end of the strike is near, and that there were rumors at midnight that Erie and O. W. had broken away from other companies in the Trust and were in favour of granting minor concessions. As a result, to-day's market will undoubtedly be dominated to a great extent by rumors of settlement. It is probable that the Bank statement will make a favourable showing. This may cause a steady and perhaps improved market. We do not look for any extensive bull speculation to develope, however, owing to continued inability to secure time money and the continued great uncertainty of the call money market as a consequence.

M. & M.

Stock market dominated almost entirely by reports about strike being settled. Persistent rumors abroad that coal operators have yielded to political pressure, and the strike has been practically settled. No confirmation of this, but the market is strong on it, and there has been no official confirmation of the above. Our Washington office says the Washington Post has a bulletin out to the effect that the strike is settled. Sub-Treasury statement this a.m. shows banks gained yesterday $3,742,000, mostly on transfer of credits against the gold arrived at San Francisco.

This makes the total gain of banks since last Friday of $8,942,000. Despatch as per bulletin board—"Market had a little break about 2.30 on a rumor that Russell Sage is dead." Sales to noon, 872,000. Money opened at 10 per cent., went to 15 per cent., and is now at 12 per cent.

McINTYRE & MARSHALL.

To Messrs. Haight & Freese;

New York, Oct. 8th.—Straws show how the wind blows. A market such as we are now passing through oftimes exposes the inside operations of a clique in some particular share, in such manner as would indicate what is ahead of a stock issue, and when it does, is it not a good idea to take advantage of the suggestion. It is plainly evident the past two days that someone is busily engaged in securing quite a large line of C.F.I. They are taking advantage of the depressed market to pick up a large quantity of the shares. We will endeavour to make this plain to you. In the first place before the recent setback in values, C.F.I. fell to below 74, when most of the list with possible exception of St. Paul and Pressed Steel, were materially higher than they are at present. Yet within the past ten days C.F.I. barely touched 78, with depressed markets most of the time, and within that period, actually sold above 86. In the market of the past 10 days C.F.I., if it had been given its natural market course, should have sold well below 70. No stock is more scrutinized in times of close money by money lenders than C.F.I. It has been a period of close money no stock is more of a fright to the public, when in their possession with unpleasant markets raging, than C.F.I. We have just gone through a period of unpleasant markets, yet this stock is acting as it does. Who is buying it? Someone is doing so, and liberally too. From present market indications, outlined briefly above, we will hazard the opinion that this stock will again shortly sell above 100, and advise its purchase. We, however, advise buying only with liberal margins behind the purchase. If you can buy such a stock within five or six points of the bottom price recorded, then shortly afterwards succeed in selling it at from 15 to 20 points above your purchase price, you have made a judicious and profitable stock deal. It looks now as if such an opportunity were presenting itself. The reasons for the present action of the insiders are at present cloaked in mystery, yet their market action clearly presages that something beneficial is on foot.

Logical and studious examination of the market movement of a stock oftimes shows what the speculator should do in its shares, though it does not at the time reveal the reasons.

Summary.—Practically seven days' decline in the share market, with many stocks down from 10 to 20 points through the list, should greatly benefit the financial situation. Syndicate payments, or preparation therefore, undoubtedly aided in creating the money stringency, settlement of these matters will soon be made, and $5,000,000 in gold from Europe and Australia will be at the markets' disposal in a day or so. The market should soon commence to reflect these facts by improvement. The market opened at an advance, and though erratic, kept well above the figures, some stocks, notably, U. Pac., selling above yesterday's best prices. The buying of the past three days far exceeded in quality the calibre and quality of the selling. We would not be surprised to see the bear forces shortly treated to a disastrous rout. They are getting considerable company. Money closed at 7 per cent. Sales 616,400.

Some News From the Golf Links—Peterborough Rugbyists at Practice—Other Notes.

RUGBY.

The London News says: — "The London Rugby Football Club play in Toronto on Saturday with the Argonauts. The Argonauts play here on Thanksgiving Day. The local players are practicing hard for the game and are confident of the result.

"Dr. Scott will be seen on the back line in the remaining games to be played. The speedy half was out of the game on Saturday, but will be in uniform henceforth at the championship matches. This will be pleasing news to Londoners who believe that Dr. Scott is in a class by himself.

"Another addition to the team on Saturday will be "Billy" Stratton. He is at present attending the University at Toronto, and will be seen on the forward line."

* * * *

The members of the Peterborough II fifteen, who intend going to Port Hope on Saturday, are urged to turn out to practice every evening. The team will likely be picked this evening.

* * * *

The Ottawa Free Press says: "The Peterborough team will be a hard proposition for the Ottawa Seconds this year and already the Rough Rider juniors are beginning to get a line-up in shape for the first match. There is plenty of material to choose from and a splendid fifteen should be selected. Among those available are Morgans, Wood, Factor, Schwitzer, McCuaig, O'Hara, Fagan, Jackson, Aylmer, Ingram, McKinnon, Hawken, Walsh, Letraille, Pope, Gaisford, Hobart, Kempt, Powell, Dickson, Musgrove, Baskerville, White, Rankin and Hutton. A captain will be selected this week."

* * * *

There was a very encouraging turn-out at the drill shed last evening. About twenty turned out, and a good practice, consisting of running, catching and scrimmage work, resulted. The scrimmage, Dennaird, Thornton and Hurtubise, are working together splendidly, and getting the ball out quickly and clean. Mr. Assalstine, a member of the Champion Granites, turned out and should be a valuable acquisition. Among those who turned out were Burnham, McPherson, Dennaird, Thornton, Hurtubise, Crowley, Rickey, Bell, Watson, Moore, Assalstine, Kearney, Collins, Noble and Morden. The team will practice in the drill shed again to-night, and will endeavour to be in good shape for its first match on Thanksgiving Day.

* * * *

A meeting of the executive of the Peterborough Rugby Club was held in the Y.M.C.A. last night, the President, Mr. Hal. Burnham, presiding. A number of minor matters were disposed of and arrangements for the II team to go to Port Hope on Saturday were discussed. An effort is still being made to get the Young Torontos here for a game on Saturday.

GOLF.

Our Golf Editor was asked the other day if the game of golf was won or lost by the number by holes won or lost, or was it by strokes. The answer, so far as we have been able to learn, is that the real game of golf is won or lost by the number of holes. The Scotch say that stroke records are made against poor players usually, not against good ones, and that the reason is on account of the personal element in the game—pluck, generalship, etc. The best player is the one who is successful against the best players and not against the worst, although he may go round in a good score of strokes.

* * * *

The Executive Committee of the Golf Club has planned to make next Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, a general field day at the golf links. In the forenoon, beginning promptly at 10 o'clock, a match game will be played, embracing all members of the Club that are present, in which the bankers and lawyers will be arrayed against the remaining members of the Club. As the two sides are pretty evenly balanced a very interesting contest may be expected.

The next event of importance will be the final contest between Messrs. Burnham and Burnett for the Club Championship. The 1st 18 holes will be played in the forenoon and will serve also as a part of the Bankers' and Lawyers' vs. Town contest.

In the afternoon the final 18 holes of the championship match will first be played and thereafter the Annual Club contests in driving, clocking, approaching and putting will take place in order to ascertain which of the members excels in each of these strokes.

If the day be pleasant a large turnout may be looked for.

* * * *

The Haskell and Kempshall, or rubber-filled golf balls are becoming popular on our golf links. Mr. Myles Hamilton, using one of these balls this week, lowered all previous records for the present on the Peterborough links by making the 18 holes in 80.

The London Golf Illustrated, recently requested the opinions of twelve prominent golf players on the American rubber-filled balls, and in reply to the questions asked, found that all agreed that the new ball enabled the player to get greater distance than with the ordinary gutta ball. The increase in distance being given as from 10 to 20 yards. Mr. H. A. Hutchinson remarked that "it adds very much to the length of ladies' drives."

Mr. H. H. Hilton, ex-amateur champion, says: "When both balls are struck truly, the Haskell has a slight advantage over the gutta, but in the case of a stroke which is not struck quite correctly, the advantage is decidedly more marked; whilst when a stroke is really missed, there is no comparison between the two balls, the American travelling infinitely farther than the gutta. I may say that continued experience only goes to confirm my opinion that the rubber-cased ball appears to be the ball of the future. One cannot afford to go slogging around with a solid gutta-percha ball when your opponent is armed with a Haskell."

Ten out of the twelve players referred to admitted that they could play a better all round game with the rubber-filled ball than with the gutta.

To-day we have gained and retained what we have striven for—The Confidence of the Buying Public.

ENORMOUS STOCKS IN OUR NEW STORE.

Never before, in all the years we have been in business, have we laid in such enormous stocks of Superior Ready-to-Wear Clothing, Cloths, Hats, Underwear and Furnishings for Fall and Winter wear, as is now displayed in our New Store. The high character of all our stocks is guaranteed. There is but one way to hold the trade we have and win the trade we will have, and that is by offering at all times GOODS THAT WILL NOT ONLY SELL, BUT SATISFY.

CLOTHS.

Our Fall and Winter selections of Imported and Domestic Suitings and Overcoatings for our Merchant Tailoring Department is the largest between Toronto and Montreal. We offer the best choice that gentlemen can possibly have for their Made-to-Measure orders. Our new cutter, Mr. Williamson, is a practical artist in fashioning garments, and will allow nothing to pass through his hands that does not satisfy the most exacting and exclusive dresser.

HIGH-CLASS READY-MADES.

The standard of our Ready-Made Clothing has, is now, and always will be carefully guarded. What we buy comes from only the most reliable makers; and what we make up ourselves is done by high-priced skilled labour. No defective garment will leave this establishment if we know it.

MEN'S and BOY'S OVERCOATS

Reefers, Ulsters, Raglanettes, Box Coats, Fine Suits, Business Suits, etc., are all so reliable, so up-to-date and so moderately priced that we are sure they will win us staunch friends and customers.

UNDERWEAR.

We have double the stock of Underwear usually carried, and we do not know where you can get so large a stock to choose from or such solid value as we are offering. We can supply you Underwear from 20c to $3.50 a garment. Anything you want in wool and cotton, fleece-lined, cashmere, Scotch wool, natural wool, and fine silk or wool.

FINE UP-TO-DATE HATS.

We are right up-to-date with our Hats, as with everything else we sell. The settled styles are here. Popular Derbys, softs and stiffs. As good hats at $2.00 as you can buy anywhere for $2.50 and $3.00.

SWELL FURNISHINGS.

The top notch of fall and winter styles in Gentlemen's High-class Furnishings. Every new thing in fine Gloves, Shirts, Collars, Cuffs, Ties, Braces, etc.

ALWAYS HAPPY TO SEE YOU, and don't forget that you'll find nothing nobbler, swaller or better in town at any time for any price than at H. LeBRUN & CO'S.

TARIFF QUESTION AND AMERICAN INDUSTRIES.

Mr. Culverwell, Peterborough, Seeking Branches for Peterborough.

(Toronto News)

Mr. J. Alex. Culverwell, of Peterborough, who is largely interested in water powers in Peterborough and Campbellford district, while in Toronto yesterday, said to the News:—"I am busily engaged at present negotiating with several large American manufacturers who are preparing to establish branches in Canada, that I may secure their location in Peterborough. We already have benefitted immensely in Peterborough by the emigration of branch American factories and hope to induce more to come to Canada. I am informed by American manufacturers I have met that they are generally making preparations to the end of either building Canadian branch works, or else losing their Canadian trade altogether, feeling that in course of time a higher tariff will eventually shut them out.

"I think that the farmer does not look far enough ahead when he argues for a lower tariff. I belief myself that the true solution of the tariff question is to enforce such a high tariff that the American manufacturer will, of necessity, have to make his goods here, and, of course, by Canadian labour. Then we shall not have hurt competition, but rather have created a better competition, and thus the farmer will even buy his manufactured goods in a cheaper market than now, and also by the building up of our country have a large market for his farm products. Then, too, our Canadian manufacturers will be satisfied with a fair competition by Canadian-made goods, even though with American capital. He certainly has a right to kick at this country being at present made practically a slaughter market by American manufacturers."

Fined $5.00.

At the Police Court this morning a man was up before Police Magistrate Dumble charged with raising a disturbance in the Opera House last night. He was placed under arrest by Special Constable Archie Moore, and this morning was fined $5.00. In passing sentence on the accused, His Worship said that he was determined to see that any person who raised a disturbance in the Opera House should be punished accordingly. He said that it was a place the people of the town went for entertainment, and he would do his part in seeing that there should be no interruption. The police too, it might be added, will hereafter keep the sidewalk clear in front of the Opera House on evenings of performances.

THINGS PROGRESSING.

So Says Mr. Lauterbach, and Mr. Nichols Mentions Monday.

DAY OF HOPING FOR SETTLEMENT

Many Conferences on the Strike Situation—These Will Be Resumed—Interested Parties to Meet Again—President Mitchell Replies to President Roosevelt, and Declines to Advise Men to Go to Work.

New York, Oct. 10.—Replete at its opening, with promise of a solution of the long-drawn-out struggle between the United Mine Workers of America and the presidents of the anthracite properties in Pennsylvania, yesterday was closed without apparent appreciable progress toward an agreement upon the issues in the controversy. Most noteworthy of the day's events was a conference at the office of Senator T. C. Platt, at which there were present, among others, the two Senators from Pennsylvania, the Governor of New York and nearly all the presidents of the big corporations controlling the anthracite fields.

In all seeming, the conference had a contrary effect to that which had been hoped from it, and the operators departed, declaring adherence to the policy they have followed from the first, of resisting the demands of the miners' union to the bitter end. There were conferences during the day in which President Mitchell and men of more or less consequence in the industrial world participated, but these, so far as information obtainable goes, were barren of result.

In brief, there has been no change in the situation to-day, so far as it might have been affected by the gathering in New York of labor leaders, mine operators and public men.

Late yesterday afternoon, President Mitchell and the district presidents had a conference at the Ashland House. Mr. Nichols said that his associates had not considered any formal or informal proposition from the operators. He said that the strike might be settled by Monday, but intimated that this was improbable.

Late last night there was a conference in the rooms of the Republican State Committee between Gov. Odell, chairman, G. W. Dunn of the State Committee and Edward Lauterbach. Concerning this conference Gov. Odell would only indicate that the talk was along general lines. About this time Edward Lauterbach, and David Lamar drove up to the Ashland House, and went in to see President Mitchell. They remained in conference about twenty minutes. On leaving Mr. Lauterbach said:

"Things are progressing. That's all I can say at this time."

He and Mr. Lamar drove away. President Mitchell would not be seen by representatives.

MITCHELL'S REPLY.

Miners' President Informs President of United States That He Cannot Advise Men to Return to Work.

Washington, Oct. 10. — The text of President Mitchell's letter, which was made public at the White House yesterday, follows:—

"Hotel Hart, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 9, 1902.

"Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, Washington, D.C.

"Dear Sir,—Hon. Carroll D. Wright has, no doubt, reported to you the delivery of your message to me last Monday and my statement to him that I should take your suggestion under advisement, although I did not look upon it with favor.

"Since that time I have consulted with our district presidents, who concur fully in my views.

"We desire to assure you again that we feel keenly the responsibility of our position, and the gravity of the situation, and it would give us great pleasure to take any action which would bring this coal strike to an end in a manner that would safeguard the interests of our constituents.

"In proposing that there be an immediate resumption of coal mining upon the conditions we suggested in the conference at the White House, we believed that we had gone more than half way and had met your wishes.

"It is unnecessary in this letter to refer to the malicious assault made upon us in the response of the coal operators. We feel confident that you must have been impressed with the fairness of our proposition and the insincerity of those who maligned us.

"Having in mind our experience with the coal operators in the past, we have no reason to feel any degree of confidence in their willingness to do justice in the future, and inasmuch as they have refused to accept the decision of a tribunal selected by you, and inasmuch as there is no law through which you can enforce the findings of the commission you suggest, we respectfully decline to advise our people to return to work simply upon the hope that the coal operators might be induced or forced to comply with the recommendation of your commission.

"As stated above, we believe that we went more than half way in our proposal at Washington, and we do not feel that we should be asked to make further sacrifice.

"We appreciate your solicitude for the people of our country who are now and will be subjected to great suffering and inconvenience by a prolongation of the coal strike, and we feel that the onus of this terrible state of affairs should be placed upon the side which has refused to defer to fair and impartial investigation.

"I am respectfully,

(Signed) "JOHN MITCHELL.
"President U. M. W. of A."

No Developments Yet.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 10.—There were no developments in the mine workers' strike in this valley yesterday. The entire community remains quiet, and the troops had nothing more to do than go through their daily routine.

No strong effort has been made since the troops arrived to induce strikers to return to the mines, and it is not believed any attempt will be made until the soldiers get settled in their camps.

Soldier Shot in Shoulder.

Shamokin, Pa., Oct. 10.—Theodore Viouz, first sergeant of Company B, 10th Regiment, was standing in the kitchen mess tent yesterday, when a bullet from a revolver pierced the tent and lodged in his right shoulder. Comrades of the wounded soldier rushed from the tent and saw four men, one holding a revolver, run from the top of a culm bank close by and disappear in the mountain. A number of soldiers gave chase, but the men escaped.

Striker Killed by a Soldier.

Tamaqua, Oct. 10.—James Burnham, a striker, was shot and instantly killed by a soldier on guard duty at Brownsville, near here, early yesterday morning. The place is the scene of several dynamiting outrages, and Burnham is said, to have been loitering in the vicinity of a non-unionist's house, which was partly destroyed by an explosion last week. The soldier called upon Burnham to halt, and this order is said to have been disregarded. Thereupon the sentry fired, and Burnham fell dead in his tracks, with a bullet through his heart.

An unsuccessful attempt was made last night to dynamite a breaker owned by Slattery Bros. at Tuscarora. Only slight damage was done.

Ammunition Seized.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 10.—One thousand rounds of ammunition were seized and confiscated at the Delaware and Hudson freight station in Olyphant yesterday by order of Col. Watress of the 10th Regiment. This makes 2,500 rounds of ammunition which have been confiscated in the anthracite district guarded by Col. Watress within the past two weeks. The ammunition was consigned to Bastiano Passano, a leader among the Italians in Upper Lackawanna County. Passano was placed under arrest, as he was about to sign a receipt for and remove the ammunition from the freight station. Col. Watress was informed that bodies of men have been drilling in the woods almost daily.

Coal Production Thursday.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 10.—The amount of coal mined yesterday was a slight increase over that of Wednesday. The Royal Colliery, near Shamokin, was closed by a strike after working for three weeks at an eight-hour rate. Men were placed in the Mount Lookout Colliery, and work is to be resumed there as soon as the troops arrive. The estimated production yesterday was:

	Tons.

Federation Will Aid.

Washington, Oct. 10.—The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor is considering the anthracite coal situation, and will issue an appeal, probably to-day, to the public for aid for the strikers. It is said that Presidents Gompers and Mitchell were in communication yesterday, though the former refused to answer questions along that line. Mr. Gompers said:

"We will furnish the miners all the assistance, financial and otherwise, to the extent of our power, and you can depend on it that they will not give in unconditionally by any means."

THE FRENCH STRIKE.

Strikers Number 60,000, and Iron Works Are Already Closed.

Paris, Oct. 10.—Despatches received here from the coal mining regions indicate that the strikers numbered about 60,000 men this morning, the departments affected being the Nord, the Pas de Calais and the Loire and the Carmaux coal field. The Government has issued rigorous instructions to prevent disorders.

The lack of coal has already caused a number of iron works to close, and increased quantities of coal are being received in France from Belgium and Germany.

General Swiss Strike.

London, Oct. 10.—A despatch to a news agency from Geneva, Switzerland, yesterday morning, announces that the Workmen's National Committee has declared a general strike throughout Switzerland in sympathy with the strike of the street car employes here. Troops are held in readiness to deal with any disorder.

Mr. Michael Snetsinger Killed.

Cornwall, Oct. 10. — Mr. Michael Snetsinger, one of the most widely known farmers in Stormont County, was killed at the Grand Trunk station yesterday afternoon. Mr. Snetsinger was on his way home, when a westbound freight came along. He waited until the freight passed, and started to drive across the track. A house immediately adjoining the railway crossing obstructed the view of the approaching express. The horse was struck and killed. Mr. Snetsinger was thrown forward, striking on the cowcatcher of the train and instantly killed. His body was carried from the crossing to the railway station, about two hundred yards. Mr. Snetsinger was about 68 years of age, and a brother of Mr. J. G. Snetsinger, ex-M.P. for Stormont, and Mr. N. D. Snetsinger of Colborne

Whitewashes Everybody.

London, Oct. 10.—A blue book, published yesterday, contains the report of the Court of Inquiry, which has investigated charges brought against the remount establishment of the British army. With the exception of a couple of minor cases, the report not only "whitewashes" all concerned, so far as the alleged irregularities are concerned, but finds that the unprecedented demands on the remount establishment were met with extraordinary success.

Five Rioters Shot.

Gibraltar, Oct. 10.—The compulsory loading yesterday afternoon of a British ship with the Spanish mob, resulted in a riot, in which five of the rioters were killed and several wounded.

Metric System Will Come.

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—Hon. M. T. Bernier, Minister of Inland Revenue, states that he is in favor of the metric system of weights and measures. "It will be introduced ultimately in this country," the Minister observed, "but the people must be educated up to it."

THE READY REVOLVER.

The insane freak of a crazed school master shooting six of his pupils with a revolver, as took place in Vienna, is rather an extreme practical demonstration of teaching the young idea how to shoot. It teaches, however, a serious lesson — the folly of having firearms too convenient. The law of Canada very properly forbids the carrying of concealed firearms, and no great calamity would befal the country if a stricter limit would be placed to the possession of revolvers. There are tens of thousands of recorded instances of killings, by both accident and malice, which would not have happened if the ready revolver had not been within reach. As a rule, a revolver is as useless and unnecessary to a person as it is dangerous. It is safe to say that in civilian life the cases where the possession of such a weapon has been useful and necessary, can be counted on one's fingers and toes, and that the instances in which it has been injurious and fatal to life, can be counted by the hundreds of thousands.

CANADA'S CAPABILITIES.

The following, from Hon. Sidney Fisher's address at the St. Patrick Society's banquet at Montreal, on Wednesday night, is an eloquent tribute to the natural and other capabilities of Canada;

When a little while ago the nations of the Empire were assembled to do honour to their King at the Coronation, Canada erected an arch, on which was inscribed, "The Granary of the Empire." It was the true motto of the country. Last year they had had the most extraordinary production of cereals known in the history of the country. As Minister of Agriculture he had ventured to say that never in its future records would they have a lesser crop than this to boast of. The present year had justified that boast. He ventured then and there to say that as the years went on in the development of the great Western country, and the great Eastern country of Canada, in very fact Canada would become the granary, and would be able to feed the sons of the Empire in all parts of the world.

But let them not dwell on that. Canada occupied a northern position in the temperate zone, a latitude sometimes thought to be inhospitable; but the products of her fields, her orchards, her dairies, all of them the best in the world, were proof to the contrary. And, as was naturally to be expected, Canada's soil had been able to produce the best quality of men and women in the world. This was not strange that Canada should shine in this respect. They had but to look at the rest of the world, and see that the people of the north had always invaded and overcome the people of milder climes. He trusted and believed that the northern people would eventually be the controlling element on this continent, as their forefathers had been in the old lands. In this better, more advanced, and civilized age they would not invade their neighbours by force. They would only come down on them in the competition of the arts and sciences and challenge them to a struggle upon these lines.

It was not wonderful that the young Canadian, whether he be at home or abroad, could look the world in the face and be proud of his country and the name of Canadian.

He wanted to address one word to the guest of the evening. As the colleague of Mr. Fitzpatrick, he was proud of this splendid demonstration in his honour. Knowing him in the intimacy generated around the Council Board, perhaps the closest and the strongest intimacy possible, he knew that it was but a just tribute to a really great man. He had shown himself to be a thoroughly cultured Irish gentleman, which they all knew to be the best type of that product extant. Great lawyer as he was, he had shown himself to be as great a statesman. We in Canada had need of statesmen quite as much as of lawyers. We had a great country to govern, and it required the greatest patience, and the greatest diligence, as well as the greatest capacity, to govern it. In the short time that Fitzpatrick had been at the nation's council board the speaker had seen that he was well fitted to take part in its deliberations. He was proud of his fellow member from Quebec province in the House and the Government, and proud to take part that night in this splendid demonstration in his favour.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The pull-ettns displayed on the strength of telegraphic despatches, reporting the strike settlement, seem to have been a continuation of a bull expedient to stiffen stocks—a mere stock jobbing fake.

Lord Dundonald is advocating the skeleton mode of making soldiers. Perhaps this is not untimely. We have been drilling soldiers so that the enemy made skeletons of them, so that it is perhaps better to take our dose of skeleton in the beginning.

When General Hutton speaks of "the prominent and brilliant share taken by our gallant Canadian comrades in the recent South African campaign," it is fair batting, says the Montreal Star, that he does not refer particularly to the deeds of the mighty man of valour recounted so feelingly in the columns of the Victoria Warder by one S. Hughes.

There are some things said that are very doubtful good sense. There are other things said that are sheer, blank, dead, hard and fast idocy. In this latter class is the drivel of the Hamilton Spectator in this wise;

Canada wants a tariff high enough to give the Canadian market to Canadian manufacturers — even if it requires a thousand per cent. duty.

That is to say, that the consumers, who are tens of thousands to one of the manufacturers, must be willing to pay for all the manufactured articles they use, a thousand per cent. more than the cost of production and handling, for the benefit of the manufacturers, who have in the past shown themselves not disinclined to form a combination which would enhance the selling price of their wares a handsome margin beyond the protected figure. There are two classes to be considered in dealing with tariff adjustment — the consumer as well as the producer, and as the consumers enormously outnumber the producers, their claims should have, perhaps, prior consideration. There are many manufacturers who will be content with a protection represented by free raw material, and the present moderate tariff. The moderate view should find favour, but such rabid advocates of high tariffs as the Spectator, overdo the thing entirely and defeat the end which a moderate course might help to reach.

TOO GREAT EXPENSE

Not the Reason.

It is not because Pyramid Pile Cure is so expensive that many people decline to give it a trial, but because they find it too great a tax on their credulity to believe that the published letters bearing testimony to the merit of this remedy are genuine and bona fide; especially to those who have realized the suffering incident to piles is it incredible that any one who has been afflicted twenty-five and thirty years with the worst forms of protruding and bleeding piles should be cured by the application of a simple remedy, when their physician has assured them that the only relief is in a surgical operation. This is rightly viewed with dread by all those afflicted, as it means at the least a great shock to the nervous system, with more than a possibility of utter collapse and death; in a majority of cases, too, there is a return of the complaint, owing to the fact that the cause is not removed.

The proprietors of Pyramid Pile Cure agree to forfeit one thousand dollars to anyone who will show a single published testimonial to be not genuine and unsolicited; this latter feature is most gratifying, inasmuch as these letters are written solely out of gratitude and with the hope that those who are afflicted as the writers have been may learn that relief is at hand, at a comparatively trifling expense. Pyramid Pile Cure is for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a package, or will be mailed by the makers to any address upon receipt of price.

Mr. Wm. Lichtenwalter, head of the largest printing house in Canton Ohio, says, "It is with the utmost pleasure and satisfaction that I can say I believe I am cured of protruding and bleeding piles after suffering more than twenty years. I have been in bed for two weeks at a time. I have not suffered in the least for over a year, and I used only three fifty-cent boxes of Pyramid Pile Cure. I advise every person suffering with this distressing and painful complaint to give this remedy a trial. I have every confidence in it." Write to the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for their book on the causes and cure of piles.

A. R. M. BIBLE CLUB.

Organization Meeting Held Wednesday Night at the Y. M. C. A.

There was a good attendance and interest at the organization meeting of the A.R.M. Bible Club at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night.

The club will be led by Mr. M. A. Sorsoleil, who outlined the programme for the season, which will not only include Bible study on Life Questions, and their answers, but social and literary features. In order to save the multiplication of organization, it has been decided to include the work of the debating club as well.

With the following list of officers elected last night, the club should have a most successful and highly profitable season.

Hon. President—R. J. Kidd.
President—B. E. Jackson.
Leader—M. A. Sorsoleil.
Secretary—M. Blewett.
Librarian—W. Oswald.
Pianist—H. Meehan.
Executive—Officers and chairmen of committees.

The committees are as follows, the first named being chairman in each case;

Literary and musical — F. Turner, N. Jolliffe and Dr. Hall.

Social — R. Dobbin, W. Richardson and W. Oswald.

Study — A. B. Cunningham, A. Drummond, A. Upton and H. McNellis.

The first regular session will be held on Wednesday, October 15, at 7.30 p.m. The club is open to all men.

KEENE SIFTINGS.

Indians Held a Picnic on Sugar Island —Mr. Tully's Misfortune.

Our fair was a success.

The Indians held a grand picnic on Sugar Island on Tuesday afternoon. This is an event which terminates every successful rice harvest. This year the crop was bountiful and the rice, which is becoming more popular every year, demanded a good price, and was pretty well picked up, though I believe our local store keepers have quite a supply.

Mrs. Dr. Harrison and Mrs. Dr. Shaw attended a missionary convention at Campbellford last week.

Quite a number are preparing for the fall duck hunting, although as yet no fall ducks have put in an appearance.

Mr. Thos. Tully had the misfortune to fracture two of the bones in his left leg last week.

Mr. Dave Moore, our local pea merchant, has completed his shipments.

Mr. J. J. Crowe, license inspector, was in the village on Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Joe Elmhirst lost his fine grey mare last week. She was gored by a bull in the pasture field.

Mr. Thos. Laing, who was seriously ill last week, is recovering.

Mr. J. Campbell, who spent the summer with his uncle in Michigan, has resumed his studies at the Toronto Medical College.

Alvin Dawson, who left here two years ago for England, is renewing old friendships here.

Mr. William Newton has removed to the village. He will become a burgher.

Mr. Burnett, it is reported, has sold his farm overlooking the river to Mr. T. Mulcahy.

Mr. David West and family will remove to Oregon this week.

We are sorry to learn that our popular blacksmith, Mr. William Pullyblank, has decided to quit the burg. He intends following his profession, veterinary surgeon, in the Territories.

Our main street is now a credit to any village. The cement walk is laid, and the unsightly ditch filled in. Should every citizen enter heartily into the scene the whole village will soon be in a similar condition.

Negotiations are completed for the preservation of the mounds. The grounds will be devoted to a village park, and the historical value of the mounds insured for all time.

LIQUID LENS IN PHOTOGRAPHY

The Wonderful Discovery of an English Physician Which is Rendering Possible Much More Rapid Work.

The "liquid lens" has not come to America yet, but from all accounts it is revolutionizing photography abroad, making possible achievements in rapid work that hitherto have been thought to be out of the question. In fact, the new development in photographic art is being hailed as no less a wonder than the Rontgen rays.

For, by using certain oil between the parts of a rectilinear lens, the refraction is so increased that instantaneous photographs may be made in the ordinary light of a theatre. This is but one of the photographic feats possible. Another is to take a photograph at midnight on a pitch-black night with no apparent light in fifteen minutes. A third is to make a photograph at midnight, with a fair moon, with one minute's exposure.

Other tested possibilities of this new lens are no less extraordinary. A photograph may be taken in a theatre, the footlights only being used, in a quarter second of exposure. In an ordinary room, with an exposure of but five seconds, a photograph may be made, with an illumination of but forty-eight candle power.

Never before in photographic history has there been a lens so rapid as this. To the ordinary amateur photographer it will all seem to be fiction, but it is none the less an undoubted scientific fact. The liquid lens is an English invention, the device of Dr. Edward F. Grun of Brighton, England, who has been working on it for several years, and was led to the experiments that have resulted in its perfection through his work with the microscope.

Dr. Grun's early experiments were made with the idea of being able to photograph stage performances at night. He found that the fastest lens he could get was not quick enough to photograph a play in action; that there must be a halt for an instant, posing the figures and losing the time effect, or else the picture would show movement and blur.

A speedier lens became necessary, and finally Dr. Grun devised it, discovering an oil which, placed between the glasses of the combinations of the lens (and not in the air spaces, as first tried) shortened the focus materially. What this oil is the inventor will not say, his success, however, has been proved by many extremely fine photographs that the doctor has made. It works at a very large aperture and is thoroughly practical, though in actual operation it can only be used for small plates.

PIG IRON PRODUCTION IN CANADA.

The American Iron and Steel Association has received direct from the manufacturers the statistics of the production of pig iron in Canada in the first six months of 1902. The figures show a slight increase as compared with the last half of 1901, but a very great increase as compared with the first half of that year.

In the first six months of 1902 the production of all kinds of pig iron in the whole of the Dominion amounted to 157,894 gross tons, as compared with 149,952 tons in the last half of 1901 and 95,024 tons in the first half of that year. The increase in the first half of 1902 over the last half of 1901 was 7852 tons, or over 5 per cent., while the increase over the first half of 1901 was 62,780 tons, or over 66 per cent. Of the total production in the first half of 1901, 12,000 tons were Bessemer and low phosphorus and 57,209 tons were basic pig iron. The coke furnaces made 147,892 tons, and the charcoal furnaces 9,912 tons. Neither spiegeleisen nor ferromanganese has been made in Canada for several years.

The unsold iron held by Canadian pig iron manufacturers on June 30, 1902, none of which was intended for their own consumption, amounted to 37,781 gross tons, as compared with 59,472 tons on Dec. 31, 1901, and 28,711 tons on June 30, 1901. Of the unsold iron on hand on June 30, 1902, less than 2,000 tons were made with charcoal, the remainder being coke iron.

On June 30, 1902, Canada had 14 completed blast furnaces, of which 8 were in blast and 6 were idle. Of this total 9 were equipped to use coke for fuel, 4 to use charcoal and 1 to use mixed charcoal and coke. In addition three coke and two charcoal furnaces were being built on June 30, 1902, but work upon two of the coke furnaces was temporarily suspended.

A Right to Judge.

Persons who have used Dr. Chase's Ointment have the best right to judge of its merits and there is no preparation on the market to-day which is backed by such a mass of testimony. It cures eczema, salt rheum and piles so promptly and thoroughly that people feel it a pleasure to recommend it to others. See testimonials in the newspapers.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

In the matter of the estate of John s. Milne, late of the Town of Peterborough, Painter, deceased.

Notice is hereby given pursuant to "The Revised Statutes of Ontario," 1897, chapter 129, that all creditors and others having claims against the estate of the said John S. Milne, who died on or about the 1st day of August, 1902, are required, on or before the 15th day of October, 1902, to send, post prepaid, or deliver, to Roland F. McWilliams, of the said Town of Peterborough, Solicitor for the Executor of the estate of the said deceased, their Christian and surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims, the statement of their accounts, and the nature of the securities, if any, held by them.

And further take notice, that after such last mentioned date the said Executor will proceed to distribute the assets of the deceased among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which he shall then have notice, and that the said Executor will not be liable for the said assets or any part thereof to any person or persons of whose claim notice shall not have been received by him at the time of such distribution.

Dated the 17th of September, 1902.

SUBSTITUTES FOR HARD COAL.

Illustrating the "Any Port in a Storm" Principle—Bricks Saturated With Coal Oil Recommended.

All over the continent people are discussing possible substitutes for hard coal. Hard wood and soft coal, corn-cobs and peach-stones are favoured in the localities where they are respectively plentiful. The trouble with nearly all the substitutes is, that in many places they are as scarce as anthracite. The Utica Observer has discovered one substitute, however, that is not so subject to geographical limitations. Our esteemed contemporary says:

"Here is the manner in which one house-wife has to a certain degree overcome the pressing question of fuel:

"She took four common bricks and placed them in a pail. Over the bricks she poured a gallon of kerosene oil and let them stand until the bricks had absorbed all of the oil they would take up. Then she took out two of the bricks and placed them in the kitchen range and set fire to them. They burned fully two hours, and the fire that they made was one by which it was possible to do any kind of cooking or other work requiring considerable heat. The lady says in this way it will be possible in her home to get along with the cooking, washing and ironing without resort to gas. There was no unpleasant odour or any trouble whatever, for the oil just blazed away like a stove full of good wood."

A similar experiment is reported by a correspondent of the New York Sun. He writes:

"I procured some kerosene oil, and taking a porus hollow brick, 8x3 3-4x2 1-4 inches, soaked it in the oil for a few seconds; then ignited it. The brick burned for fully forty minutes, giving out a bright flame and emitting great heat. One such brick should be sufficient to cook a meal and heat the boiler, at a cost of less than one cent. These bricks being fireproof can be used over and over again by simply resoaking."

It is just as well to remember, though, that experiments with coal oil and kitchen stoves can scarcely be conducted with too much caution. One of the briefest poems in the English language epitomizes the result of too many experiments with this dangerous combination. It reads as follows:

Girl oil
Kettle boil
For rest
See inquest.

Burning an oil-soaked brick with proper care ought to be no more dangerous than burning oil in a lamp, always provided that the coal oil can is never taken near the stove. The trouble generally comes from somebody foolishly pouring oil into the stove. We repeat, that too much care and common sense cannot be used in experiments with coal oil.—Montreal Star.

THE PUBLIC, LABOUR AND COMBINES.

It has been demonstrated that the public is wholly at the mercy of combinations of labour and combinations of capital. This applies not only to the necessities of life, like anthracite coal, but to street railway travel, steam railway travel, telegraph service, telephone service and other cases where public service corporations may by controversies with their employes interfere seriously with public convenience. Some action, therefore, should be taken to do away with even the possibility of the interruption of business of this kind. To do this requires legislation along new lines. Such legislation ought to be enacted, not in a time of popular excitement over some grave wrong, but when measures can be calmly discussed and plans adopted calculated to produce a minimum of hardship to those affected thereby.

It is probable that public service corporations will oppose such action and it will probably be opposed also by trade unions, but the fact that both oppose it is a reason why measures of this kind should be adopted in the interest of the public. The coal strike has afforded clear evidence that the conditions which formerly gave public protection have changed to an extent which leaves the public without protection of its interests. Every day that the coal strike continues will strengthen the feeling that the time has come when there must be legislation arranged expressly for the control of corporations carrying on public service as distinguished from corporations engaged in private business.—Wall street Journal.

FIVE PEOPLE TO DIE.

Teacher H. J. Toews Runs Amuck in Altona Village.

SHOOTS SIX PEOPLE AND HIMSELF

He Had Quarreled With the Trustees of His School and Proceeded to Exterminate Them and Their Families—Crimes Committed as He Went to School—Suicide and Four Will Die.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 10.—One of the worst tragedies in the history of Western Canada was reported last night from the small village of Altona, on the Manitoba side, near the North Dakota boundary line.

A school teacher named H. J. Toows had had some difficulty with his trustees, and meeting them on the road while going to school drew a revolver and shot A. Rompel, J. Hiebert and P. Kohlers.

Toows then returned to the school and shot two of Kohler's girls and a daughter of Rompel's. He then pulled the revolver on himself and will die. Rompel, Hiebert and two of the girls are also fatally injured.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP GROWS.

Toronto Engineer Rust Says City Should Own Its Lighting Plant.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 10.—The convention of American Society for Municipal Improvement opened yesterday with the report of the committee on electric street lighting, presented by Charles H. Rust, City Engineer of Toronto, Ont.

Mr. Rust said in part, as follows:

"In the interests of the citizens municipalities in granting franchises for street lighting should use great care in not extending the franchise for too long a period, and in all large cities should insist upon the wires being placed under ground, particularly in the central districts. The lamp posts should be of iron and of the most improved design, and all the work should be done under the direction and approval of an electrician to be appointed by the corporation. Frequent tests should be made for the purpose of ascertaining if the lamps are giving the light provided for in the agreement.

"It would be in the interests of the citizens if all street lighting plants were owned by the municipality, but when the street lighting is carried out by a private corporation the city should receive a percentage of the gross receipts.

"A large number of cities and towns in Europe now own electric lighting plants, and we believe that the lighting of the streets could be done more efficiently and more economically by the municipality than by a private company, providing party politics could be eliminated from our municipal government."

Mr. Rust gave a table showing the cost of street lighting in the cities of the United States.

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

A Remedy Which Has Revolutionized the Treatment of Stomach Troubles

The remedy is not heralded as a wonderful discovery nor yet a secret patent medicine, neither is it claimed to cure anything except dyspepsia, indigestion and stomach troubles, with which nine out of ten suffer.

The remedy is in the form of pleasant tasting tablets or lozenges, containing vegetable and fruit essences, pure aseptic pepsin, (government test), golden seal and diastase. The Tablets are sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Many interesting experiments to test the digestive powers of Stuart's Tablets show that one grain of the active principle contained in them is sufficient to thoroughly digest 3,000 grains of raw meat, eggs, and other wholesome food.

Stuart's Tablets do not act upon the bowels like after dinner pills and cheap cathartics, which simply irritate and inflame the intestines, without having any effect whatever in digesting food or curing indigestion.

If the stomach can be rested and assisted in the work of digestion, it will very soon recover its normal vigour, as no organ is so much abused and overworked as the stomach.

This is the secret, if there is any secret, of the remarkable success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, a remedy practically unknown a few years ago, and now the most widely known of any treatment for stomach weakness.

This success has been secured entirely upon its merits as a digestive pure and simple, because there can be no stomach trouble if the food is properly digested.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act entirely on the food eaten, digesting it completely so that it can be assimilated into blood, nerve and tissue. They cure dyspepsia, water brash, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive power which weak stomachs lack, and unless that lack is supplied, it is useless to attempt to cure by the use of "tonics," "pills" and cathartics, which have absolutely no digestive power.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be found at all drug stores and the regular use of one or two of them after meals will demonstrate their merit better than any other argument.

Children Cruelly Treated.

Montreal, Oct. 10.—At a meeting of the directors of the Society for the Protection of Women and Children, which was held yesterday morning, a report was received to the effect that children were cruelly treated in the reformatory schools of Montford and Arundel, in Argentued County. The report stated that a boy of 7 had received 20 lashes from a strap studded with nails, all on account of a childish failing, and, also, that other children have been abused. A committee will wait on the Mayor to request redress.

The steam barge Alberta, owned by Capt. Smith of Belleville, Ont., was burned at the dock at Trenton Wednesday night.

THE EDUCATION BILL.

If Measure is Defeated the Government Resigns.

CHAMBERLAIN'S PLAIN LANGUAGE

Birmingham Conference Dominated by the Masterful Colonial Secretary—His Address to His Constituents—Advised Them Against Having Anything to Do With the "Little Englanders."

Birmingham, Eng., Oct. 10.—The much-discussed conference of the Liberal-Unionists, which was called by Colonial Secretary Chamberlain to formulate the attitude of the Birmingham Liberal-Unionists toward the Education bill, was held here last night.

Mr. Chamberlain presided at the meeting, and enunciated his views in a lengthy address. He said he had always been in favor of the Government providing only secular education, but rightly or wrongly, the majority of the country required that religious instruction of some kind be given it. If the country could not get what it wanted from a Unionist Government, it would not get it from the Radical Government which would follow the Government it might smash.

Mr. Chamberlain advised the Liberal-Unionists to do nothing to assist the intrigues of those who would hand over Ireland to the Home Rulers, who would transfer South African problems to the discretion of the pro-Boers, and would leave Imperial interest in the hands of "little Englanders," and domestic reforms to the framers of the Newcastle program.

The Colonial Secretary said he could promise that one thing was definitely certain, namely, that the bill would not be withdrawn. He said the Government could not withdraw it without a tremendous loss of prestige, and that the only logical alternative to the acceptance of the bill would be the expenditure necessary to replace the existing denominational schools.

In conclusion, Mr. Chamberlain announced that if the Government was defeated on this bill it would resign. He warned his hearers to mark that, and to remember the consequences.

An official report issued to the press of a private conference which followed Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's speech says that 105 persons attended the meeting. The speeches indicated considerable divergence of opinion, but the general tone of the meeting was entirely loyal.

A prominent delegate, upon leaving the conference, said Mr. Chamberlain had completely dominated the meeting, that several speakers had said they would rather swallow the bill whole than embarrass the Government, and that, in short, by the threat the Government would resign in case the bill was defeated, Mr. Chamberlain appeared to have played a trump card, and to have stopped effectually any incipient revolt.

TARIFF OF THE TRANSVAAL.

Existing Duty on Dynamite Is Left Unaltered—Wine Duties Increased.

Pretoria, Oct. 10.—The Gazette says: The duties are abolished on machinery, building materials, metals and agricultural implements. As it is imperative, to replace a portion of the loss, the duties on wines and spirits are increased. The existing duty on dynamite is left unaltered. The duty of six cents each on poles, two cents a pound on sulphuric acid, six cents a pound on copper wire are cancelled. All iron will be admitted free, and the cost of building will be greatly reduced by the removal of the duties on cement and timber. The alteration of the duty on cigars and cigarettes from $3.75 per hundred cigars, without distinction of size to $1.50 a pound, and on cigarettes from $3.75 per thousand cigarettes to $1 a pound is considered equitable. The special duties on jams and confectionery of $10 per hundred pounds will be reduced to three cents per pound; the special duty of $2.50 on oats, $1.25 on cut hay and the special duty on coal will be abolished. Anomalous duties will be amended. Many of the changes to be made have been agitated for years, especially with regard to matches, which were specially taxed $1 per gross for the benefit of the company owning the concession. This tax will be now reduced to 50 cents per gross."

Election Protests.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—The Liberals of North Grey will ask the court next Tuesday to postpone the trial of Mr. Boyd's protest against Mr. McKay, which had been fixed for Oct. 28.

An order was taken out on Thursday for the examination of J. S. Gallagher, member-elect for Frontenac.

Particulars of two more alleged corrupt practices against South Oxford Conservatives were filed at Osgood Hall on Wednesday. They related to two alleged votes being paid for at the rate of $2 each.

Worse Than Christian Science.

Cleveland, Ohio., Oct. 10.— Frank Buettner, a wealthy contractor, awoke yesterday with a sore throat, and, missing his false teeth, thought he had swallowed them. He sent for a surgeon, who had him taken to a hospital, and the X-ray was used. It was thought that the plate of the teeth was located in his stomach and physicians began to cut him.

While they were at work a sister-in-law of Buettner found the teeth under the bed and rushed to the hospital. The doctors were just sewing up the incisions.

Buettner will probably die.

Squandered a Fortune.

How often we hear the expression, notwithstanding the fact that those who use it are perhaps spending their money foolishly in medicines which only give relief without removing the cause. Merrill's System Tonic cures heart, stomach, kidney, nerve and liver troubles—because by purifying the blood, regulating the bowels and toning each of these organs the cause of disease is removed. Price 50c. per bottle, at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

Mr. Tarte at Dresden.

Dresden, Oct. 10.—Hon. J. Israel Tarte's private car arrived here yesterday afternoon. He went direct to the sugar factory, where he was met by the Dresden City Band, which escorted him to the Hotel Clifford, where he addressed several hundred people in a very pleasing manner. Following him were short addresses given by Capt. John Davidson, George Stevens, M.P., Mr. McCormick, David Gordon, George E. Weir and Mayor Ribble. The hon. gentleman then closed a very pleasant hour with three cheers for the King, Mr. Davidson and the ladies.

British Trades Union Discipline.

The story of a Spanish Princess being allowed to burn to death in the presence of her attendants because for them to have touched her would have been a breach of etiquette is generally regarded as the example, par excellence, of old-time idiocy, but a recent example of trade union methods would appear to run it closer. A workman, engaged in guiding a cable into a conduit, got his fingers caught between the cable and conduit. The men at the other end continued to pull, being unaware of the mishap, but an apprentice, seeing the serious state of affairs, rushed up and pulled back the cable. A delegate of the union having witnessed the affair, reported the workman for having broken the rules of the order. The injured man had to go before the executive to explain his conduct, and although his damaged hand was a strong witness in his defence, he was fined "for allowing an apprentice to do helper's work—to wit, assisting a journeyman drawing wire into a conduit." Discipline is all very well in its way, but with such master minds at work one need not wonder that we suffer so much from intelligent competition.—Pall Mall Gazette

Said Farewell.

Last night after the usual practice the members of George street choir took the opportunity of saying farewell to one of their number, Miss Daisy Yenney, who is severing her connection with the choir. Brief remarks were made by Messrs. Mulligan, Chowan and Hill and a musical programme contributed by several of the members, after which refreshments were served, and a half hour of social intercourse ensued.

Birthday Party.

A very enjoyable time was spent last night at the home of Mrs. Thos. Jobe, 43 Ware street, it being the anniversary of Miss Edith Jobe's thirteenth birthday. About twenty of her schoolmates and friends were invited, and after partaking of all the good things at supper, they adjourned to the parlour where games, recitations and songs were given in excellent style. As the party was about to disperse Miss Jobe thanked her friends for their company, and assured them of the pleasure she felt in their being present.

Soft Coal! Soft Coal!

We have received about 250 tons of best quality Pittsburg "three-quarter" soft coal. This is the best coal procurable at present as a substitute for hard coal, and has been found to work very satisfactorily, especially for furnaces and domestic use. We still have 200 cords of prime four foot maple wood, which will be sold at present prices in orders not exceeding two cords. Telephone, 48. R. Hicks & Co.

NEWS NUGGETS.

ANOTHER G. T. R. WRECK.

A Double-Header Grain Train From Midland Met With an Accident Yesterday Morning.

Another double-header grain train from Midland met with a serious mishap yesterday morning about three o'clock, but fortunately it was not accompanied with any loss of life.

Soon after leaving Lorneville, and when about four miles from the scene of the fatal wreck on Sunday, Sept. 21st, the rails spread under the heavy train and seven cars were thrown into the ditch and a number of others damaged by the sudden application of the brakes. The crews jumped when they felt the first heavy jolt, and it is understood that everyone escaped injury.

The wrecked cars after leaving the rails pounded along for a considerable distance, and ruined a long stretch of track.

Word was sent to Lindsay as soon as possible, when Foreman Price left for the scene with the auxiliary train and crew. The auxiliary from Barrie arrived later, and it is expected that the track will be cleared this evening. The Coboconk train had to go around via Blackwater to reach Lindsay.

Yesterday at the Police Court a man was fined $5.00 for creating a disturbance at a performance in the Opera House. This bill will be repeated as often as necessary.

THE FUEL SITUATION.

The Council Will Take Action in the Matter at Once.

The fuel situation in Peterborough is becoming more serious each day, and it has become evident that the Town Council must take some steps in the matter, and if possible, arrange for a supply of fuel at a reasonable price.

In view of this fact, a meeting of the Town Council will be held tomorrow night, at which there will also be present the various wood and coal merchants of the town. The matter will be thoroughly gone into and if possible a way out of the present predicament will be found.

Toronto has moved in the matter to good purpose, and already a good deal of wood and coal is in sight. The action of Mr. W. H. Cook in offering to the city the wood on 380 acres of land, the city to cut and ship it, is worthy of much praise. It is said that soft coal has been obtained for $3.23 a ton. If the civic authorities of Toronto have done so well there is no reason why our own mayor and aldermen should not achieve a corresponding success.

OUR SHARP-SHOOTERS.

Mr. Joe Gibson's Splendid Work at Lindsay Yesterday.

A number of Peterborough's best marksmen journeyed to Lindsay yesterday to compete in the Victoria County Rifle Association matches held in connection with the 45th Regiment. The Peterborough representatives consisted of Messrs. Geo. Fitzgerald, W. H. Moore, Jos. Gibson, Charles Curtis and F. Bartlett. Captain King of Bowmanville, a member of the Bisley team for two years, won out in everything, but he was very closely pressed by Mr. Joe Gibson.

All those who went from here succeeded in putting on excellent scores and, in fact, were always among the first few. In the competition for the Fox Cup, the winner, who must be a resident of Victoria County, came fifth on the list. The same score was made in this match by both Capt. King and Joe Gibson, but as the Captain had the better score at 600 yards he was given first money.

Too much credit cannot be given to a young marksmen such as Joe Gibson for the showing made against such a crack shot as Capt. King, who has been twice a member of the Bislet team, and is eligible for another year.

THE SPENCE MEMORIAL.

A Meeting of the Fund Committee was Held Last Night.

A meeting of the Dan Spence Memorial Fund Committee was held in the Town Clerk's Office last evening. His Worship T. H. G. Denne, Reeve John H. Smith, and Messrs. G. M. Roger, Jos. Succee and D. W. Dumble were present.

As the money was raised for the purchase of an ambulance, and as at meeting of the subscribers held some time ago, it was decided to do nothing else with the money other than that which was originally intended, the committee last night had nothing further to do than to look into prices, styles, etc., of ambulances. It will cost at least $800 for an ambulance, and as there is only $400 subscribed, the committee decided to meet the Ashburnham and Peterborough councils in order that they may learn whether or not the two municipalities will make up the balance.

A representative of one of the leading ambulance firms will be in attendance at the next meeting.

WEDDING BELLS.

Miss Eliza Switzer of Cameron, Married to Mr. Thomas McMullen of Peterborough.

(Lindsay Post.)

A very pretty church wedding took place in the Methodist church, Cameron, on Wednesday, Oct. 1st, the contracting parties being Miss Eliza Switzer, of Cameron, and Mr. Thomas McMullen, Peterborough. Their popularity was evidenced by the presence of a church full of admiring friends awaiting to witness the interesting ceremony.

The bride, who wore white organdie trimmed with muslin de soie and lace, and carried a bouquet of roses and nasturtiums, entered the church on the arm of her brother, Mr. G. H. Switzer. She was attended by Miss Melissa Switzer, sister of the bride, and Miss Minnie McMullen, sister of the groom, wearing white organdie and white organdie over blue respectively, and also carrying beautiful bouquets, Messrs. R. McMullen and W. H. Day, cousins of the groom and bride respectively, supported the groom.

After Rev. Mr. Terrill had performed the ceremony the party returned to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Noris Switzer, where the customary congratulations were extended, and the guests, numbering some forty couples, partook of the most inviting wedding supper. Early in the evening Mr. and Mrs. McMullen, attended by quite a number of friends, drove to Lindsay and took the night train for Napanee. Mrs. McMullen's travelling costume was of gray broadcloth, with hat to match. She will be much missed in Cameron, where she was prominent in both church and choir. The many valuable presents attest the esteem in which she is held.

THE NEW RINK.

The Buildings on the New Site are Being Removed.

A start has been made towards the erection of the new rink, and the progress from now on till completion will be closely followed by those interested in hockey. Mr. Allen McCarthy, of Ashburnham, has the contract for moving the buildings on the site. They will be taken to Kirk street, north of St. Andrew's church, and should be out of the way in a day or two. The barn and sheds will be left where they at present stand until after the completion of the cement work, and will be used as workshops. In all probability the first sod will be turned this afternoon. This start should enable Peterborough to have the rink ready for use in time for the early matches.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Notes Concerning the Movements of Peterborough People and Their Visitors

Mr. J. A. Vance, of Millbrook, spent yesterday in Peterborough.

His Honour Judge Edmison went down to Havelock at noon to-day to hold a session of the County Police Court.

Mrs. Haslitt, Miss Dickson and Miss M. Dickson, left yesterday for Buffalo, New York and Clifton Springs

Mrs. T. C. Hynes, Saganaw, Mich., left last night, after a visit of three weeks, with her sister, Mrs. John Primeau, Ashburnham.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Langfeldt, of St. Luke's, will be at home this evening in the school room, to the members and adherents of St. Luke's.

In the golf match with Port Hope on Tuesday Mrs. Campbell had the misfortune to strain a ligament in her ankle rendering walking very painful.

Mr. James Adams, of Toronto, one of the shrewdest and jolliest of Belfast Irishman afloat, was in town yesterday booking his Thanksgiving orders for handkerchiefs.

Miss C. C. Flood, Toronto, is a guest at 284 Hunter street. Miss Flood is an accomplished artist, and contemplates starting a class in china painting, burnt work, and the other branches of the fine arts.

The Port Hope Ladies' Golf Club arrived in town this morning to play their return match with Peterborough. Those representing Port Hope are,—Mrs. Barton, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. T. Peplar, Mrs. Seth Smith, Misses H. Burn, V. Hudspeth, G. Burnham and J. Clark.

Speaking of Mr. Joe Halpany's appearance at a concert held in Uxbridge recently, the Uxbridge Journal says; "Mr. Joe Halpany of Peterborough, amused his hearers by his witty songs. This is the third time that Mr. Halpany has appeared before an Uxbridge audience, and he seems to be a general favourite with all. His accompanist, Mr. Staples, of Peterborough, filled the position admirably and played an exceptionally good piano."

ST. PETER'S T. A. S.

The Literary Committee in connection with the T.A.S. open the entertainment season on Monday evening with a first-class concert in the rooms.

The officers for the Literary Society this year are, R. J. Begley, chairman, and Alphonse Delaire, secretary.

The membership tickets have been issued and will be on sale at the rooms. They can also be procured from members of Literary Committee.

Rev. Father Murphy, of New York, has again shown his warm interest in St. Peter's T.A.S. by donating several fine volumes to the library of the society.

Mr. Fred Cook and his staff of painters have given the finishing touches to the concert hall, and the society are now in possession of an ideal hall for entertainment purposes.

The Athletic Section of the Society will give an evening in the rooms on Thanksgiving night.

This week's Catholic Register contains a strong letter from Rev. Father Minehan, of Toronto in reference to the organization of Total Abstinence Societies throughout the country. He quotes from an encouraging letter received from Rev. Dr. O'Brien in which that gentleman promises to lend every assistance, and Rev. Father Murphy, of New York, promises to give his services gratuitously in order to promote the cause. As a result of Rev. Father Minehan's appeal, it is expected that a mass meeting will be held in Toronto in a fortnight's time in the interests of Total Abstinence.

IN LATEST SPORTING CIRCLES.

To-morrow's Game With T.C.S., Port Hope, is Off.

The Seniors Will Hold a Practice To-morrow Afternoon—Other Notes of Interest.

RUGBY.

Bills are out announcing the game on Thursday afternoon between the Rough Riders, of Ottawa, and the Peterborough fifteen. The game is the first in the championship series of the O.R.F.U., and should bring out a large crowd of enthusiasts.

* * * *

General regret will be felt in the fact that the Peterborough II fifteen have had to cancel their game with T.C.S., Port Hope, which was to have been played there to-morrow. The juniors have not been any too enthusiastic this season and it is no fault of the management of the club that the game had to be called off. The plain reason why the II fifteen is not going to Port Hope to-morrow is that there could not be 15 men got together.

* * * *

There will be a grand field day at the Nicholls Oval to-morrow afternoon. It will be the last practice game of the locals before they meet the Ottawa Rough Riders. Every man is supposed to turn out for practice. Two teams have been picked and a rattling good practice should be the result. The game will start sharp at 4 o'clock, and the teams will be as follows:

Backs.
Lee.....Hogg

Half backs.
Armstrong.....Morden
Burnham.....McGrath
McPherson.....Doris

Quarter.
[illegible].....Bell

Scrimmage.
[illegible].....McClelland
Dennaird.....O'Brien
Hurtibise.....Crough
Thornton.....

Wings.
Dillon.....Cavanah
Asselstine.....Kearney
Meagher.....Noble
Collins.....Craig
Crowley.....Bradburn
Cameron.....Watson
Perks.....Walker

With Gordon Crawford as captain, Frank Hobbs, as coach, and plenty of good material, London expects to have as good a team as ever tried to play straight football in a crooked community. And right here be it said, that if the material is as good as the coach and the captain the team will be right in the all-right class.—Telegram.

* * * *

Ye Rugby Season!

Preparations for the fray
On the grid are under way;
Husky fellows doing stunts
As they practice plays and punts.

They have donned the padded clothes
And the shields for ear and nose,
On their heads big crops of hair
Thay are raising with due care.

They are tearing up the dirt,
Running, falling, gettting hurt,
Legs they're twisting, arms they sprain,
But they're heedless of the pain.

Back and forward, here and there,
All around the field they tear;
Down they tumble, up they rise,
Picking mud from ears and eyes!

Panting, puffing, still they race,
And the pigskin fiercely chase.
In the mud they often roll
As they're striving for the goal.

LACROSSE.

Peterborough threatens to be a factor in next year's intermediate lacrosse race, but, unless [illegible] fails, the town-that-is-going-to have-a-rink started to play lacrosse just about this time last fall, and quit shortly after the snow left this spring.—Toronto Telegram.

The young man who penned the above paragraph must have picked up some coal in the vicinity of a saloon long on liquor and short on fuel. Peterborough has had a splendid lacrosse season this year—a City League, with three cracking good teams. The fact that they were not affiliated with the Canadian Lacrosse Association is prima facie evidence of their amateur standing. As to the rink, we will have a thoroughly first-class rink, and we will put two or three teams on the ice this coming winter, who will be able to show some visiting teams not only a good rink but a few rinkles about the game.

HOCKEY.

The first sod of the new hockey rink will, it is expected, be turned with elaborate ceremonies or—a spade—to-morrow. It is said that His Royal Highness the President, is having a hockey stick sharpened for the purpose. Mayor Denne is expected to be present during the latter operation to catch the chips as they fall for the use of the fuel department of the Charity Board, and aldermen and sporting enthusiasts will hockeypy positions on the forward line of interested spectators.

* * * *

There's surely a hoodoo on Port Hope. First Oshawa beat them at lacrosse and now that despised nine from Cobourg has downed them at baseball. This last blow may stop work on the new rink.—Toronto Telegram.

Yes, and Peterborough put them under the table in hockey last winter.

* * * *

In the old days the Granite Rink, Toronto, used to be the home of the hockeyists. An effort will be made this year to revive the old order of things. One of the big curling rinks will be set aside for hockey and seating accommodation provided, and it is expected that at least one of the senior city teams will use the ice.

MISCELLANEOUS.

That Galt is a great sporting town was demonstrated on Saturday, when the most extensive athletic programme in the town's history materialized. Galt champion baseball team of 1892, met the winners of the present year, 1902, winning by 26 to 25. Jimmy Cockburn, the Milwaukee professional, and Dr. Burnet, of Ingersoll, at one time one of the foremost athletes in Canada, were on the veterans' line up. Burnett pitched ten years ago, and again Saturday. He weighs 208 pounds, but can do a hundred yard dash in 11 seconds.

THE TRIP TO ENGLAND.

The Local Rugbyists Receive an Important Communication.

An all Canadian Rugby Team to Cross the Ocean—Peterborough may be Represented.

The time is almost at hand for the All-Canada Rugby team to gather in Montreal for a few practices before taking ship for England. The final details are now being arranged. Messrs. A. C. Jack and J. H. S. McClure, of Montreal, who have worked up the scheme, have sent out a letter, which will result in the selection of a team. The letter which has been received by the Secretary-Treasurer of the local team reads as follows:

Dear Sir.—We have pleasure in submitting to you information regarding an All-Canadian football team which it is hoped may be organized to visit Great Britain during the coming winter.

This information is communicated to you with the request that you will submit any suggestions you may care to make, as well as the names, and full particulars concerning any players whom your club would desire to have given a place on the team. As arrangements must be perfected very shortly, we ask the favour of your reply at the earliest possible moment.

Finances.—Guarantees totalling $3,000 have up to the present been received. It is estimated that the entire cost of the trip for a team of eighteen or twenty men will be $5,000, and, making a reasonable allowance for the team's proportion of the gate receipts, it will probably be necessary for each member of the team to furnish $50, either personally or as a contribution from his club. It will be necessary at first for each member of the team to furnish the sum of $115 to finance the team at the start, also as a guarantee of good faith, such sum to be used for transportation and such sum to be refunded to each member of the team as the trip progresses in ratio to the guarantees and the gate receipts. This is obligatory owing to it being an All-Canadian team, therefore the wide distribution of the players makes it impossible to raise by popular subscription the initial expense.

Schedule of games.—It will be necessary for the members o fthe team to be in Montreal not later than November 25, about which date it is hoped an exhibition match may be arranged to take place here. It is also anticipated that a match may be arranged to take place in Halifax prior to sailing, which will be the 30th of November, or as near thereto as possible.

It is proposed to start via Halifax or New York, thence to Londonderry, to Belfast, to Dublin, then across to Glasgow, then to Edinburgh, from there to Swansea and Cardiff, in Wales, and from there to London, and the Universities' playing clubs along the route as per schedule.

A good schedule has been provided, and the secretaries of the different unions in the Mother Country have the matter now in hand and are arranging the details.

English Rugby rules shall govern all matches.

The team is expected to go under the auspices of the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union.

It is expected that the trip will be finished by February 4, 1903, and that the team will be back in Canada by at least February 14, 1903.

We will be obliged if you will put us in communication with any player your club deems fit to represent you. For further particulars write direct.

Yours sincerely,
A. CLIFFORD JACK,
J. H. S. McCLURE.

The schedule, as far as it will be known till the team arrives, is given below, intermediate dates being in the hands of the secretaries of the British unions:—

Dec. 27	Edinburgh Wanderers.
Dec. 29	North of Scotland.
Jan. 1	Howick.
Jan. 3	Jed Forest.
Jan. 5	Harrowgate.
Jan. 7	———
Jan. 15	Llanerly.
Jan. 17	Swansea.
Jan. 21	Albion.
Jan. 24	London Scottish.
Jan. 28	Oxford.
Jan. 31	Blackheath.
Feb. 4	Cambridge.

There is every prospect of an enjoyable time for the players. Invitations are already on hand for social events.

Arrangements are being made for a reduced rate for any lovers of the game who wish to go with the team.

There is no reason why Canada should not send a very strong team—a team that can win a fair percentage of its games. Canada came to the front and held her own in the South African war, and she ought to be able to do the same thing on the great battlefield in times of peace. One thing is certain, and that is that the tour of the team will do a lot of advertising for Canada.

An effort will be made to have the Peterborough Club represented on the All-Canada fifteen. Peterborough holds a prominent place in Rugby circles in Canada, and has players fast enough for any company.

LIGHTNING DRILLED A HOLE.

Bored Through a Mowful of Hay and Quantity of Grain.

An extraordinary experience with lightning was that which occurred at the farm of Mr. Theophilus Kelly, town line Saugeen and Bruce, recently. During the storm lightning struck the barn gable, but instead of passing down the building, as it usually does, the electric current took a header into the well-filled mow, and shot right through to the bottom of grain and hay, burning quite a large hole all the way down, and thence to the ground. Because of the fact that there was not a free supply of air to fan the flames the fire thus started was only a smoldering one, and made very slow progress. About thirty neighbours turned out to help Mr. Kelly save his property, and right well they succeeded. The sheeting was knocked off the end of the barn, and that portion of the contents most in danger thrown outside, the fire being kept in subjection in the meantime by pouring water down the hole made by the lightning. And it required a large quantity, which was obtained from a tank at the barn, and later from wells. It was a continual fight with the fire for some hours.

FEARS OF TORONTO QUIETED.

Already 7,000 Cords of Wood Are Available, and Premier Bans Premises Legislation and All.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—Fears of a coal famine in Toronto have been much allayed during the past few hours. Seven thousand cords of wood have been made available for the people of this city, and the civic supply contracted for has cost about $25,000.

The first dry hardwood for the civic fuel pile will begin to arrive in Toronto Monday morning, and will be delivered the same day in any part of the city. No family will get more than one cord at one time.

Mayor Howland and his colleagues of the Board of Control interviewed Hon. G. W. Ross at noon yesterday and secured from the Premier an assurance of cordial co-operation in the city's efforts to mitigate the perils of the fuel famine.

The Mayor placed the situation clearly before Mr. Ross.

"You want the Legislature to authorize you to spend $50,000, to be applied for coal and wood, as I understand it," said Mr. Ross.

"Precisely."

"Well, we shall be glad to give you that legislation. We must take care of the people. We have been concerned ourselves about fuel for the public institutions, but we begin to see our way out."

His Worship then suggested that there be co-operation between the municipalities and the Government, so that they would not compete against each other.

"We have had an application from the city of Brantford," said Mr. Ross, "asking for permission to cut wood on the Crown lands. We willingly granted that request, and waived the matter of fees."

"That holds good then in regard to other municipalities," observed Mayor Howland.

"Yes, but of course the lands to be cut upon will have to be designated. It would not do to absolutely strip any portion of the land, but you only require the big timber."

Mayor Howland said the railways would be asked to make special rates for the transportation of wood. He asked that the Provincial Government co-operate in this request by virtue of the charters, bonuses and other favors that have been conferred upon these railways. In this request also Mr. Ross concurred

"The railways should make these concessions," said Mayor Beck, "and I think they will as soon as the situation becomes critical. They do not want to discriminate against regular dealers until the situation urgently demands it."

"I think they might make a special rate for the municipalities, as against individuals operating for profit," remarked Mr. Ross.

The railroads stand in the position of obstructing in a measure the plans of the municipality to enter into the fuel business. Rates are not being quoted promptly, and little headway has been made in the way of securing special rates for the city. In fact, the rate on coal quoted from Montreal to Toronto is higher in proportion than the rate on the same fuel from Buffalo to Toronto. Premier Ross's promise may aid in remedying this trouble.

Mayor Howland received the following offer of wood for the city yesterday and hastened to send a letter of thanks and acceptance.

Toronto, Oct. 8.

To the Mayor: I own the north half of lot 3 and lot 7, in the 13th con. of the Township of Mara County, and North Ontario, comprising 300 acres of hard wood land. This I will gladly give to the good of the city to be distributed by the Council, provided that the Council cut and ship it to Toronto for delivery. This offer will be open for this fall and winter.

The lands are on the Midland Railway, and the delivery would be made at a station this side of the Town of Orillia. The land being in fee, the timber is free from all charges. I have no doubt the Council can make such arrangements with the railway people that they will deliver fuel to the city at a reduced rate, taking into consideration the dire distress that may follow a famine for fuel in the inclement season.

These lands are the nearest to the city of any I own that are not encumbered by government charges.

THAT TROUBLESOME GAS.

One of the Most Unpleasant Forms of Stomach Trouble and how to Cure it.

The failure of the stomach to properly digest the food manifests itself in many painful and distressing symptoms.

One of the most troublesome and difficult results of undigested food remaining in the stomach is the formation of gas.

This gas distends the walls of the stomach to a painful degree and frequently presses upward interfering with the action of the heart, thus causing palpitation and faintness.

The gas is the result of the decomposition of undigested food, and there is but one way to correct the evil and that is by restoring to the stomach the lost ability to digest all the food perfectly.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are a specific prepared for one purpose only and that is the correction and cure of all Stomach Troubles.

They digest the food, all of it, without the aid of the stomach, thus allowing that organ an opportunity for rest.

Rest is nature's only way to restore the tired organ.

That this theory is a correct one and that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are the remedy best adapted and most successful in carrying out the successful rest cure of the digestive organs has been proven by many of Canada's best people.

Among these may be mentioned Mr. W. H. Harmer, Postmaster at Avoamore, N.B., who for a long time suffered very severely with gas on the stomach. Often the food would rise in his throat and these unpleasant symptoms caused him no end of annoyance and distress, but having heard of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, he decided to try a treatment and in a short time was completely cured of both the difficulties which had troubled him.

He is completely cured. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure all forms of Stomach Troubles.

$75,000 FIRE AT GODERICH.

The Goderich Organ Company Burned to the Ground Wednesday.

Goderich, Oct. 9. — The Goderich Organ Co.'s factory was totally destroyed by fire at noon yesterday. A fierce gale was blowing, which rendered the efforts of the firemen quite ineffectual. Only about $500 worth of stock and the lumber in the yard was saved, and the loss will exceed $75,000.

The origin of the fire is said to have been a young boy's lighting a match in the finishing room during noon hour. The fire is a severe loss to the workmen, about 82 being employed at present, and the factory working overtime to catch up with their order list. In the loss is about 90 organs, which were to have been shipped to Liverpool to-day, and about 400 sets of bathroom woodwork. The total insurance on the Goderich Organ Company's premises is $37,000.

They Father Consumption.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing germ-killing vapour. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headaches and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months treatment, $1; trial size, 25 cents. Druggists, or N. C. Mail Steamer Saves Crews of 18 Vessels Wrecked Off Labrador.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct, 9.—The mail steamer, the Virginia Lake, brings reports that the whole coast of Labrador has been swept in a fearful gale. Eighteen vessels were driven ashore and are total losses. Some of the wrecks had cargoes of fish.

The Virginia Lake had 139 shipwrecked fishermen on board, who composed the crews of the lost vessels. The present gale, with regard to results, is the worst which has been experienced since 1888.

The steamer Kite, with 225 persons, ran on the rocks, but was refloated. The disasters would have been greater but for the fact that the gale occurred during the neap tides.

Her Way of Putting It.

Mary was a young Irish maid fresh from the Emerald Isle.

Her mistress, who was a dignified, stately matron, called handsome, and was not unconscious of the fact, was in for an attack of la grippe, and was suffering with a red nose and swollen eyelids. She said: "Mary, if any one calls I am not at home. I am feeling miserable and am not fit to be seen."

An intimate friend called to see Mrs. —, Jones, and received this answer: "She's in, mum, but not fit to be seen."

DISTRESSING ITCHING PILES

Especially Disagreeable During the Warm weather—Mr. Hewson Cured by

Dr. Chase's Ointment

If you go to a physician for a cure for piles he will probably tell you that a surgical operation is necessary, or else that there is no cure for piles. Physicians who are not prejudiced will recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment.

We believe that the best testimony to the powers of Dr Chase's Ointment is that of cured ones and the newspapers of this country are filled with evidence such as the following;

Mr. Thos. H. Hewson, blacksmith, Orangeville, Ont., writes, "I find Dr. Chase's Ointment the best thing I ever used for itching piles for whenever I have been troubled with this disagreeable and distressing ailment it has brought prompt relief and cure. It is also excellent as a treatment for burns and sores, such as a person receives in my trade. I can fully recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment for itching piles and burns and sores."

ALICIA'S COWBOY

By E. S. WINTHROP

Copyright, 1901, by E. S. Winthrop

It needed no lurid posters spread with bucking broncbos and rough riders of the world to announce that Buffalo Bill was coming to town.' The small boy betrayed an almost pathetic eagerness to render small services to the heads of the households. The family clothesline disappeared under the barn to emerge later as a lariat and to violently choke the youngest hopeful employed as a target in default of real wild horses in the family back yard.

The older folk were not above being interested in the matter. Paterfamilias told how in his younger days he had known a man who could shoot all around Colonel Cody. The mother recounted, with a faint blush on her faded cheek, how she had crossed the plains in 1873 and during a blizzard had been saved from an untimely death by the ministrations of a young lieutenant. In fact, the very blue blanket under which her husband now took his Sunday afternoon nap in the library was a souvenir of her narrow escape.

Between the two extremes the show was at once a bait and a reward. It was the peace offering when Strephon fought with Phyllis. It was a merit badge when Phyllis would not quarrel.

Even Edward, Thurston and Alicia Peyton were interested in the gaudy pictures as they strolled silently along in the mild spring air. Yet Thurston had just asked a certain fateful question, and Miss Peyton's "No" had been very decided.

"I like you better, perhaps, than any man I know," she had said. "Still, liking isn't love, and the man I love must be some one I can respect. You are a nice boy, a good talker and have all the advantages of birth and position. That is not enough. I want to marry a man—a real man, strong, reliant—like that man there." And she pointed to the lithographic reproduction of the Rosa Bonheur painting of Cody.

"But, Alicia," he urged, "this is so foolish, you know. A chap can't ride a broncho and wear chaps and spurs when a street car or a cab is the proper thing and patent leathers and black cloth are preferred. Let me show you"—

She raised her hand in protest.

"Please," she said, "don't argue. It hurts me to say this. Don't make it worse by continuing a conversation that is painful."

So he held his peace, but as they walked slowly back to the house from the park each fresh "stand" of bills and Alicia's evident interest in them increased the twinkle which had come in Thurston's eye despite the blow to his hopes.

When they reached her door, he would not enter, but as he took her hand he asked: "May I send you seats for the Wild West? I have friends with the organization, and while I shall not be able to be with you it would give me pleasure to know you were admiring the 'real man.'"

"Don't," she urged. "You are not kind. I didn't mean that I wanted to marry a cowboy, merely that I was tired of the effeminate men of the cities, men who never do things, who are content simply to exist. It is not your own fault that you are not other than you are. It is the fault of our modern training."

He laughed. "I didn't mean to question your judgment," he said. "I will send a box over for the matinee. Then you can take the little ones. Good night."

He held her cool, slender hand for a moment longer than was strictly good form, then turned and went down the street with a springy stride that argued more strength than was made apparent by the modern tailor's arts.

Thursday afternoon the "show lots," as the vacant field generally used for exhibition purposes was called, were crowded. Those who could afford to patronize the entertainment were for the most part already inside. Those without the gates were those who, lacking the price, lived in the hope that some philanthropist would suddenly happen along and invite them all inside.

Failing that, there was always the noise of the shooting, and the year before three clay pigeons had fallen outside the fence, and portions had been cherished in pocket museums of small boys for weeks thereafter as an offset to the cartridge shells obtained by the fortunate ones who had seen the show.

In a box affording an unobstructed view of the field sat the Peyton family, from Grandpa Peyton to Harry, the four-year-old.

The younger ones were all impatient for the performance to commence. The band was something. But bands were more common than cowboys, even though this was a cowboy band. What they wanted were men who rode horses. Harry in particular was on the ragged edge, and his nurse had difficulty in keeping him from breaking away in search of his hero. The year before he had been adjudged too young to attend.

The first band of Indians came dashing into the arena, turning the upper curve just beyond the Peyton box, and wheeling smartly into place. Harry was transported. Here were the Indians at last, and their painted, half naked bodies were even more fascinating than the images he had been able to conjure up during his sleepless moments in the dimly lighted nursery.

Band after band came on, each followed by its chief, and each succeeding body drew Harry nearer to the front of the box. The nurse, fresh from Irish soil, was too much interested to watch her charge. The others trusted to the nurse.

At last came the cowboys, better mounted even than their associates. Six abreast they swept into the arena and came tearing down the stretch. Suddenly a groan went up, a great volume of tone like the voice of one mighty man. There, directly in the path of the riders, stood a fair haired child. The sun glanced from its dainty white dress and lit up the long flaxen curls till they seemed to form a halo about its head.

Alicia sprang up with a fearful scream.

"Harry!" she cried. "Oh, my darling, come to sister!" Then she covered her eyes, not daring to face the awful horror she knew must come.

The instant he did so some impulse compelled her to look again, and a ray of hope lit up her strained face.

The riders on the inside had turned aside. The one nearest the child stooped and caught him up, and as a mighty shout went up from the crowd he swung the little fellow to the pommel of the saddle. The six moved on. They drew into their places, and the child shouted with delight at the novelty of his position, never giving thought to the danger he had faced.

As the horseman stood there waiting for the end of the entree Alicia sought his face, her eyes dimmed with grateful tears. Like his fellows, he wore the regulation blue shirt with its scarlet kerchief. The brown leather chaps were much like those worn by the others, and a huge sombrero threw the face in shadow. He was in nowise different from his fellows, yet it seemed to Alicia as if there was something familiar in the figure—something that suggested some one she had known.

It was absurd to imagine that she numbered a plainsman among her acquaintances, yet try as she would she could not take her eyes from him. Even when Colonel Cody passed on his splendid horse the graceful, well built figure and the tiny white form of her brother were all she saw.

The colonel had made his little speech. He had introduced his congress of rough riders of the world with a sweep of his hat, all inclusive. The riders had advanced to the barrier, had retreated and were beginning the musical ride which finishes the entrance.

At first the cowboys were within the circle. Gradually, however, the ranks thinned out, and on the last circuit they would have to pass the box. Harry's rescuer reined up as the box was reached and, drawing out of line, leaned forward to restore the boy.

Alicia started forward to receive him, fully occupied with her little brother. Not until the rider was in motion again did she look into his face. Then she sank down, crying and laughing all at once. Mild hysterics, woman's universal panacea, had come to her relief.

After the siege of Peking had been raised and the emblem of Christianity had replaced the banners of paganism, according to the programme, the Peyton family were interviewing a young man who now wore the khaki uniform of a private soldier. His face was flushed with embarrassment.

Peyton pere regarded him with benevolent good will and suggested that he had better come up to dinner. Peyton mere tried to say something suitable and wept quietly instead. The younger Peytons regarded him with awe, much as one looks upon a neighbor who suddenly achieves national greatness. All this was of interest, but there was a look in Alicia Peyton's eyes that made him wish the rest of the family would go away and leave him alone with her.

But when this wish was granted a few hours later Thurston was suddenly tongue tied and distressingly self conscious.

Alicia raised her eyes, brimming with tenderness, to his. "Since you won't take advantage of your bravery, sir," she said, "I suppose I will have to propose to you myself."

"It's not gratitude I want; it's love," he said gently. "You feel now that I must be repaid for picking up Harry."

"It is love I offer," she said proudly, "I didn't know it then. You seemed as alert as the rest of our men. How was I to know that you had ridden the range for three years after your health broke down in college if you didn't tell me?"

He answered with a kiss. "At any rate," he said, "you have won a cowboy. That's why I wouldn't argue the point with you the other evening. I have ridden with Cody's show every time it has come to town since I came back from the west. It's like visiting old friends."

Secrets.

There are those who hold that a singular and prime friendship, such as marriage, for instance, dissolves all other obligations whatsoever and that secrets betrayed are the greatest sacrifices possible upon the altar of love. Montaigne says, "The secret I have sworn not to reveal to any other I may without perjury communicate to him who is not another, but myself." There are few friendships nowadays so close as his with Etienne de la Boetie, who himself "would not so much as lie in jest." Theirs was one of the great friendships of history. But there is much casuistry used by those who would manifest their importance in knowing mysterious things. They obey the letter of the law of honor and tell without really telling, letting the truth leak out in wise hints and suggestions, or they tell part of a tale and hoodwink themselves into thinking that they have violated no confidence. Yet nothing is so dangerous as half a truth. Sooner or later it is inevitable that the hearer will come across the other side, and the cat is out of the bag.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Critical Time of Life.

Is between the years of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the progress of decay sets in. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigour is to take Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone keeps up the appetite, and in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, imparts clearness to the tiring brain, force, energy and spirits just when they are needed most. To take Ferrozone regularly means adding from ten to twenty years to life. Large boxes, 50 cents, or six boxes for $2.50. At druggists or Ormond & Walsh's. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are certain.

The Hyena's Ingratitude.

Long ago there lived a man named Nemi, who was very kind to all the animals. All through the winter, when food was scarce, he feasted them from his well-filled barns. The sound of the great drum in Nemi's courtyard was the signal for the gathering of animals of almost every species. The elephant came with the buffalo, the lion and the antelope, the hyena, and the rabbit—all for the time laying aside their mutual hatred of one another, and joining in honoring Nemi with a chorus of praise as they partook of his bounty. One day Nemi said to his wife, "I should like to put the affection of these animals to the test. I often wonder whether there is any real gratitude in their hearts for all my kindness, and whether after my death, they will any longer hold me in honor. Let it be given out that Nemi is dead; then I will lie upon my mat in front of my house, simulating a corpse ready for burial, and will see whether they will come to mourn over me." So it was reported that Nemi was dead, and soon, from all directions, the animals came to mourn over their benefactor. Among them came the hyena, who, when he saw the corpse of Nemi, was seized with an overmastering desire to devour it. So after the other animals had all taken their departure, he returned to the courtyard, and, with a growl of satisfaction, ran to the body, and was just about to commence his horrid feast, when Nemi sprang to his feet, and seizing a heavy wooden pestle, hit the hyena such a blow on the back that it was almost bent double. The hyena never fully recovered from the effects of the blow, and the deformity which bears record to his ingratitude and greed has been transmitted to all his children.—London Standard.

H. LeBRUN & CO.

(ESTABLISHED 1873.)

The Splendid Success of Our Splendid New Store.

We take great pleasure in announcing the Splendid Success attending the Opening of our Splendid New Store. We had a good store before, but nothing like our new one. To-day we have a store with a frontage of 40 feet on Hunter Street and 25 feet on George Street. It is more convenient, better lighted, more commodious, and better ventilated, with every up-to-date facility for displaying and selling Clothing and Furnishings of the highest possible order.

Thirty years of straightforward business building stand behind this evidence of success. For thirty years we have been giving the most satisfying value in both Made-to-Order and Ready-Made Clothing in Peterborough. And it is gratifying to know that we have had a string on our customers that has made them keep coming back for more. To-day we have gained and retained what we have striven for—The Confidence of the Buying Public.

ENORMOUS STOCKS IN OUR NEW STORE.

Never before, in all the years we have been in business, have we laid in such enormous stocks of Superior Ready-to-Wear Clothing, Cloths, Hats, Underwear and Furnishings for Fall and Winter wear, as is now displayed in our New Store. The high character of all our stocks is guaranteed. There is but one way to hold the trade we have and win the trade we will have, and that is by offering at all times GOODS THAT WILL NOT ONLY SELL, BUT SATISFY.

CLOTHS.

Our Fall and Winter selections of Imported and Domestic Suitings and Overcoatings for our Merchant Tailoring Department is the largest between Toronto and Montreal. We offer the best choice that gentlemen can possibly have for their Made-to-Measure orders. Our new cutter, Mr. Williamson, is a practical artist in fashioning garments, and will allow nothing to pass through his hands that does not satisfy the most exacting and exclusive dresser.

HIGH-CLASS READY-MADES.

The standard of our Ready-Made Clothing has, is now, and always will be carefully guarded. What we buy comes from only the most reliable makers; and what we make up ourselves is done by high-priced skilled labour. No defective garment will leave this establishment if we know it.

MEN'S and BOY'S OVERCOATS

Reefers, Ulsters, Raglanettes, Box Coats, Fine Suits, Business Suits, etc., are all so reliable, so up-to-date and so moderately priced that we are sure they will win us staunch friends and customers.

UNDERWEAR.

We have double the stock of Underwear usually carried, and we do not know where you can get so large a stock to choose from or such solid value as we are offering. We can supply you Underwear from 25c to $3.50 a garment. Anything you want in wool and cotton, fleece-lined, cashmere, Scotch wool, natural wool, and fine silk or wool.

FINE UP-TO-DATE HATS.

We are right up-to-date with our Hats, as with everything else we sell. The settled styles are here. Popular Derbys, softs and stiffs. As good hats at $2.00 as you can buy anywhere for $2.50 and $3.00.

SWELL FURNISHINGS.

The top notch of fall and winter styles in Gentlemen's High-class Furnishings. Every new thing in fine Gloves, Shirts, Collars, Cuffs, Ties, Braces, etc.

ALWAYS HAPPY TO SEE YOU, and don't forget that you'll find nothing nobbier, sweller or better in town at any time for any price than H. H. LeBRUN & CO'S.

WAS PRE-VICTORIAN

LATE PHILIP JAMES BAILEY BELONGED TO A FORMER AGE.

Passing of the Famous English Poet, Author of "Festus"—Poem, Published in 1839, Was Regarded by Lytton, Tennyson, Thackeray and Others as One of the Great Poems of All Time.

Philip James Bailey, the noted poet, author of the classic poem "Festus," which was published in 1889 and which was regarded by Lytton, Tennyson, Thackeray and others as one of the great poems of all time, died at his home in Nottingham, aged 86 years, on the 6th September, 1902.

Mr. Bailey belonged to a pre-Victorian age, and there were few persons in England but believed that he had long since passed away. The poet put all the genius of a lifetime into his one work, polishing the lines, changing the conceptions here and there, and adding voluminously to the text up to a comparatively few years ago. In 1899 a jubilee of the publication was celebrated, and the jubilee edition, considerably expanded, presents the poem in its ultimate form.

"Festus" appeared in 1839. It was published anonymously at first, and its unknown author was hailed by the best English critics as the fellow of Milton and Goethe. Tennyson said of it: "I can scarcely trust myself to say how much I admire it, for fear of falling into extravagance." The poem ran through numerous editions rapidly. In 1889 eleven editions had appeared in England, and in 1877 thirty editions had already been published in the United States. Bailey was born at Nottingham in 1816. His father was an editor, who sent his brilliant son to Glasgow for an education, but he left the university without a degree to take up the law. He soon abandoned his studies, however, for poetry. For a long time he lived in Jersey, but in 1885 he removed to England, and in 1892 to his birthplace to spend his old age. He retained his clarity of mind in a remarkable degree, but was singularly retiring and diffident—a trait which accounted for the fact that he was so little known personally to the public. His wife died in 1896.

An Intelligent Shark.

A huge shark seized the anchor rope of a boat in which children were fishing off Parenzo, on the Adriatic, and pulled the craft about, evidently trying to upset it, while another shark swam around. The children escaped by cutting the rope and rowing ashore.—London Mail.

Trees as a Monument.

Trees are to be planted and a general monument erected by the municipality in the quarantine harbor at Odessa, where several British seamen are buried.

Britain's Great General.

Viscount Kitchener has done his work well, and he has accomplished even more in the just and honorable peace he has arranged than in the brilliant military skill with which he made it possible. The British have good reason, therefore, to be proud of their general, for he is both able in diplomacy and brilliant in the field.—Le Temps, Paris.

Prices Opened a Half Point Down From Yesterday

But Remained Steady During the Day Money Closed at Four Per Cent.

To-day's market opened about 1-2 point down from yesterday's close, and remained steady throughout. Sales at noon were 237,400, and money opened at 10 per cent., went to 14, and closed at 4 per cent.

A few closing quotations were, Pa 161 1-2; B & O, 105; N Y C, 53 7-8; C P R, 134 1-8; St P, 85 1-2; Texas, 43 1-8; U P, 104; Mop, 110 3-8; Sug, 21 1-8; A C P, 63; Mt, 38 1-4 and Sloss 60 3-4.

New York, Oct. 8th.—Buy United States Steel and do so immediately. To-day there is not a better business proposition offering, either in Wall street or in the mercantile world, than to purchase the shares of the United States Steel Corporation. During the recent market unpleasantness they have been the strongest stocks in Wall street, admirably supported by both insiders and investment purchasers. Their tremendous strength under such trying conditions plainly indicates a goodly rise to be just ahead of them once the money market adjusts itself. Their earnings are increasing prodigiously, and they have absolutely all the business on hand that they can possibly attend to. The issuance of the new bonds will reduce out-going annual obligations for them to the extent of one million and one-half dollars, and at the same time furnish them with fifty millions of additional working capital. It is predicted that they will get control of C. F. I., which will make them the dominant from Atlantic to Pacific, and the best equipped to reach out and retain the trade of the world of any going concern. The company earns over twice the amount it expends in dividends and its earnings are constantly increasing. It is one of the few of the world's industrials that from the start of the raw material, which it is able to provide for itself, to the finished article, it provides everything and every part for itself. Consequently it is absolutely independent of any other concern or combine. It even transports its own raw material from the mines to its furnace with its own fleet. The shipping now forming will be its most powerful and potent ally. To purchase the stock outright, around 40, it pays the buyer ten per cent. upon the investment. To purchase it on 20 per cent. margin it pays upon the money invested 14 per cent. If bought on 10 per cent. margin, it yields the buyer 22 per cent. It is in our opinion as certain to pay its present dividends as is the Government to pay its interest, and it is more than likely that dividends on the common will be increased. It sold as high as 55, and is worth much more to-day than it was then. By purchasing now you secure a stock that returns you all the time a good profit, above paying its own board as well as securing a stock at 40, which in comparatively few weeks should be able to sell above 50.

Summary.—U. S. S. net earnings for the last three months, $30,[illegible]; for nine months, $301,142,158; for the past six months at the rate of $149,[illegible] per annum, though Pres. Schwabe estimate for one year was but $140,000,000. All this despite inactivity for some time of American Tin Co., whose workmen for some time failed to accept such scale of wages as would permit acceptance of contract from Standard Oil Co. The Company's report shows it to have a surplus from undivided profits aggregating nearly $[illegible]. These figures need no comment. To-day's market looked better for a more decided upward movement than it has done for some time past. Advances are better sustained and dullness now accompanies set backs. It looks for the first time since the decline like a discontinuance of the 24 hour markets in each direction which we have recently steadily advised as probable. We now advise holding some of your purchases, selling out only part on strong spots, taking the chance of recovering later. Money closed at 15 per cent. Sales were 709,700.

HAIGHT & FREESE CO.

Messrs. E. M. Poussett & Co. have received the following despatch from McIntyre & Marshall, New York and Chicago:

General market sentiment somewhat depressed this morning by frustration of yesterday's expectations of settlement of strike. Conferences yesterday turned out to be more in nature of political coercion and conducted in such a way that they were not even conducive of results hoped for; and then again so much misrepresentation was made to President Mitchell and Mr. Morgan by those who undertook to act as emissaries that this in itself left a bad impression on both these gentlemen, and as a consequence no definite results were reached. The result of this will be a disappointment to the street, especially to operators who bought yesterday. We think there will be some selling for both long and short accounts to-day, and general reactionary movement. We do not look for any extensive set back, however, as the conferences are to be continued to-day and to-morrow, and some progress may develop, and also in view of the fact that to-morrow's bank statement is almost certain to be fairly good. Mr. Sage's condition seems to be improved.

M. & M.

The sub-treasury statement shows that banks gained $446,000 additional yesterday, making since last Friday, $4,468,000. It is still too early to get any information regarding net movement of cash, but it is believed that loss has been small.

M. & M.

The New York Evening Jornal claims the highest authority for statement that unless the strike reaches a settlement or operators succeed in mining sufficient coal with the next six days to relieve present famine Governor Stone will call a special session of the Pennsylvania Legislature to pass a law creating coal committee to seize mines under right of eminent domain, and proceed immediately with coal producing until public demand is adequately supplied. It further states that J. P. Morgan now controls Reading R.R.

M. & M.

Sales to noon 237,400. Money opened at 10 per cent; went to 14 per cent.; now 8 per cent.

McINTYRE & MARSHALL,
E. M. Poussett & Co.

New York, Oct. 10th, 3 p.m.—To-day's stock market reflected the very keen disappointment over the failure of conference of yesterday and to-day to settle the coal strike, and also the continued stringency and scarcity of money. There was very material contradiction in volume of business, and dull and sagging conditions predominated. Straggling liquidation was the feature of trading with reselling by operators who covered their shorts yesterday. The sharp flurry in call money rate to 15 per cent. late yesterday, and that rate being again reached this a.m., showed the continued unwillingness of the bankers to accommodate the market with other loans on call or for any length of time. It developed that coal operators were again subjected to further political pressure by combined influence of executive committee of Penna., as well as this state, representing the party now in power, and this in itself created such a bad impression among operators that no definite results were obtained looking to an immediate settlement. Under these circumstances we see little, if anything better than a continued narrow and professional traders' market, and we believe the tendency of prices will be gradually lower and we therefore still feel inclined to discourage purchases.

McINTYRE & MARSHALL.

IN LOVING REMEMBRANCE

Of James Gillespie, who died January 30th, 1902. Aged 30:

We miss you sadly in our home, dear Jamie,
And oft our hearts are filled with bodefears,
As in our sorrow, thought goes drifting onward
Towards the coming years.

Without thy loving presence for to cheer us;
Thy willing hand to help us on the way;
That gentle smile that filled our home with sunshine
Through all the livelong day.

In the early dawn of manhood thou wast stricken,
When life to thee seemed beautiful, and fair,
Yet uncomplaining, and without a murmur
Thou all thy pain did'st bear.

And through the long, long nights, and days of suffering;
Our loving Father still was watching o'er
To guide thee gently through the deep cold waters
Safe to the other shore.

When oft we gazed upon thy wasted features
That seemed to tell us of the parting near,
'Twas hard to bow our will in meek submission,
Thou then seemed doubly dear.

But God in mercy drew us closer to Him,
And we can say, Thy Holy will be done;
We know that is well with thee, dear Jamie—
Thou endless bliss hast won.

And when the cares of life weigh heavy on us,
Although we may not know the reason why,
That God has deemed it wise to so afflict us,
We feel that Christ is nigh.

And when our weary waiting time is ended,
And we shall hear the call that bids us come,
With dear ones gone before thou will be watching,
To bid us welcome home.

Valuable Advice to Mothers.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness off any kind, the first thing get your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25 cents.

COAL STRIKE YET ON.

But Governor Odell Submits Proposal to Operators.

THEY REJECT IT WITH SCORN.

Governor of New York Calls Mr. Baer to Order, and Tells Him That the Position of the Operators Is Untenable From a Public Point of View—Says He Won't Postpone Settlement Till Tuesday.

New York, Oct. 11.—After two days of conference between the anthracite coal mine operators on one side, and the Government senior Senator of New York and the two Senators from Pennsylvania on the other, the strike of the United Mine Workers' of America is apparently as far from a settlement as the day it was declared. Gov. Odell laid before the operators yesterday the proposition that if they would concede to the miners an advance of five cents a ton in the price paid for mining coal, he would promise that the miners would resume work. Being told further that the concession would carry with it recognition of the miners' union, the operators promptly refused to entertain the proposal and took their leave. Later in the day the Pennsylvania Senators departed from the city, the latter going to Harrisburg. John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers' of America, announced his intention of leaving the city early this morning, his destination being Wilkes-Barre. Mr. Mitchell took no part in any of the conferences yesterday.

Baer Called to Order.

"What do you mean by politicians? I want you and all the other operators to understand that I am the Governor of New York, the chosen representative of seven million people, and that I am here in this matter solely in that capacity, and to relieve, if possible, an intolerable situation. What is more, I intend to use every power in my command to do it."

Gov. Odell made this statement yesterday to President Baer of the Reading Road, in the presence of United States Senators Platt of New York and Quay and Penrose of Pennsylvania. It was the culmination of a rather heated interview in the office of Senator Platt, and the result of the first meeting between Governor Odell and President Baer.

Mr. Baer was accompanied by E. B. Thomas, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Erie Railroad. The conference was opened by Senator Penrose, who said the situation was becoming so serious that some solution must be found at once. He suggested that the operators should incline to some concessions.

"If you mean by that," said President Baer, "that we are to recognize the existence of a labor union, I tell you right now that the operators will consider no such proposition."

Gov. Odell was on his feet in an instant. White with excitement, he said: "Are we to understand that no kind of a conciliatory proposition will receive consideration at the hands of the operators?"

"I did not say that," answered Mr. Baer; "what I do say, and I reiterate it, is that we will not accept political advice, or allow the interference of politicians in this, our affair."

Then it was that Gov. Odell made the statement quoted above.

Operators Against Public.

President Baer bowed to the Governor, and said: "Governor, I beg your pardon. No personal affront was intended, and we will listen to any suggestion you may have to make, but, again, I repeat that we must refuse to recognize the union, as represented by Mr. Mitchell."

"I believe," said the Governor, "that your position, from a public view, is absolutely untenable. If coal operators, railroad men and other business men can combine for mutual profit and protection, there is no reason why laboring men should not."

"What is the proposition?" said Mr. Baer, coldly.

"Just this," said Gov. Odell.

"I am sure that the labor organization of which Mr. Mitchell is head desires him to be fair with the general public. If the operators will consent to give the men five cents a ton increase, I will personally present it to the miners, and I believe they will accept it. it is a fair proposition."

"Does this mean, Gov. Odell, that we are to recognize the Miners' Union?" Mr. Baer asked.

"It certainly does," answered the Governor, quickly; "and there is no reason why you should not."

Postponed Till Tuesday.

Mr. Baer and Mr. Thomas rose to go. Mr. Thomas remarking that the matter would be presented to the other operators, and that an early answer would be forthcoming. Mr. Baer said: "We are to meet a committee of the Manufacturers' Association on Tuesday, and we may have an answer then."

The conference broke up, Mr. Baer and Mr. Thomas withdrawing.

Gov. Odell was not in talking mood when he left the conference. He went directly to the Fifth Avenue Hotel, and during most of the afternoon received callers. Mayor Low, Anson G. McCook, Edward Lauterbach, Congressmen Lessner and Littauer and Senator Platt was among the callers.

Gov. Odell's Determination.

To one of these the Governor said: "The coal operators may postpone this matter until Tuesday, but I don't propose to postpone it. They are not acting fairly towards the people. I believe I shall find some remedy."

About 5 o'clock John Mitchell, accompanied by L. N. Hammerling of Wilkes-Barre, called and had a long talk. While this was going on, a despatch announcing that the operators refused to consider the terms offered by the Governor was received.

When the conference was over, Gov. Odell refused to say what had occurred, and Mr. Mitchell was equally reticent. It is believed, however, that Gov. Odell presented his proposition for settlement to the leader of the miners' union, and that Mr. Mitchell said he would present it to the district presidents in the hope that it would be accepted.

Gov. Odell said: Mr. Mitchell was eminently fair, and showed every disposition to adjust the serious situation.

Morgan Urges Peace.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Walter Wellman, one of the best informed newspapermen in the United States, wiring The Record-Herald from New York, says that Morgan is moving to have the coal strike settled. He has told the railway presidents:

"You must now make good or settle. It is up to you to mine coal or make concessions and stop the strike."

Morgan's continued statement that he is not interested is merely a play to save the pride of the railway presidents. Secretly he is urging them to make peace.

Let the State Seize Mines.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 11.—After sessions of wrangling and bitter debate, radicals battling with conservatives to the last ditch, the "coal famine" convention, with its 300 delegates from 56 municipalities of the United States, determined on the demands by which relief will be sought from the anthracite coal famine. Demand is made, and will be carried to President Roosevelt at Washington, that:

"The State of Pennsylvania proceed at once, by a special session of its legislature, to condemn at a fair compensation, the coal-carrying roads of that State and sufficient of the coal lands to enable the public to be supplied—the State to operate the mines.

"The President of the United States to assemble the Lower House of Congress and have that body appoint a commission to investigate all charters, stock books, and all properties of the coal-carrying roads, with a view to secure such information as shall indemnify the State of Pennsylvania in any litigation over the handling of the mines.

"The Attorney-General of the United States at once to bring criminal proceedings against the coal-carrying roads for violation of the inter-State Commerce Law, in their high-handed and arbitrary fixing of rates, and for the violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, in that these roads have an ironclad combination which practically vests absolute control of the coal fields in their hands. It is demanded that these criminal proceedings lie against managers, directors and all officers of these corporations.

"That President Roosevelt take steps at once to have a receiver for the mines appointed, for the public good. It is further asked that, should the Chief Executive of the nation find this plan impracticable, that he call an immediate session of Congress, and urge the passage of legislation to this end."

"Whom the Gods Would Destroy," Etc.

Washington, Oct. 11.—David Wilcox, vice-president and counsel for the D. and H. Railroad Company, and one of those present at the recent conference called by President Roosevelt at Washington, has sent to President Roosevelt a letter demanding that the Federal Government proceed against the miners' organization in the courts, on the ground that it is a conspiracy to prevent inter-State commerce. Mr. Wilcox, it is said on authority, represents all the coal operators in this action and was elected as spokesman.

Non-Unionists Stoned.

Shamokin, Pa., Oct. 11.—A Reading Company coal and iron policemen and four non-unionists were driving from town to Henry Clay shaft yesterday when a crowd stoned them. The policeman fired at the crowd while a Hungarian emptied a shotgun at the policeman. Two companies of the 10th Infantry then put the crowd to flight, whereupon the non-unionists went to work.

School Children Sent Home.

Schenectady, N. Y., Oct. 11.—The 4,000 pupils in the Public schools of this city were sent home yesterday by their respective teachers, because of the coal supply giving out. There are 11 schools affected.

Murder Under Orders.

Shenandoah, Pa., Oct. 11.—A warrant was sworn out yesterday for the arrest of Private Wadsworth for the killing of William Durham Thursday, but Col. Hullings of the 18th Regiment refused to allow the constable to serve it. Deputy Coroner Lee was also refused permission to serve subpoenas on the soldiers who were wanted to testify at the inquest. The coroner has referred the matter to the District Attorney. Col. Hullings says Wadsworth was justified in shooting when Durham refused to halt when challenged for the second time, and that he acted under orders from State headquarters.

Jumped From a Train.

Burk's Falls, Oct. 11.—Alex. King of Perth, a shantyman, one of a gang of sixty men, bound for the Turner Lumber Company's camps, near South River, got off the evening [illegible] here Thursday and boarded it again in error. Finding out his mistake, he jumped off the car about a quarter of a mile north of here while the train was going at full speed. He was found at midnight lying beside the track, his collar bone broken and suffering from severe internal injuries. He is in a critical condition.

Took His Own Life.

Tilsonburg, Oct. 11.—Mr. Redmond, an old man, about 70 years of age, who had been an invalid for a number of years, committed suicide shortly before 6 o'clock yesterday at the home of his son by cutting his throat with a razor. He leaves a family of two sons and two daughters.

Nationalize the Mines.

London, Oct. 11.—The Miners' Federation in conference at Southport yesterday, adopted a resolution urging the nationalization of land mines, minerals and railroads.

FIRST VICTIM DEAD.

Girl Aged Eight Dies of Shot Wounds by Henry Toews.

THE OTHERS AT POINT OF DEATH

The Teacher-Murderer of Altona, Manitoba, Has a Gaping Wound in His Head, and His Recovery Is Doubtful—Has Always Been Considered as Mentally Deranged—Other Mishaps.

Altona, Man., Oct. 11.—One death has so far resulted from Thursday's terrible tragedy, Anna Kehler, aged eight years, being the first victim of Henry Toew's revolver. She died yesterday, after suffering terrible agony. Three others, John Hiebert, aged 46, Abraham Rempel, aged 56, and Helen Kehler, aged 10, lie at the point of death, and their recovery is considered hopeless. Susana Rempel, aged 10, is seriously injured, being shot through the arm and shoulder. Peter Kehler, father of the two little girls, was shot in the hand.

Henry Toews, the murderer, was taken to Winnipeg by the afternoon train to receive attention in Winnipeg General Hospital. His recovery is doubtful. His mother is with him. He was able to walk from the train to the ambulance, but has a gaping wound in his head.

It appears Toews, who taught school in the old Altona school, was a morose individual, generally considered a crank. On account of these characteristics the Kehler and Rempel families refused to have him board with them, and the consequence was he commenced abusing their children at school. The culminating point was Thursday's affair.

There was no threat of lynching, as some reports stated. The people are nearly all Germans or Mennonities, and while deeply shocked, they view the tragedy with natural stolidity and are quite content to allow the law to take its course.

Toews has made no statement whatever since he committed the terrible crime. He is a man of 35 years of age and has always been considered as mentally deranged. He has frequently disappeared at long intervals.

Son Kills His Mother.

Pittsburg, Oct. 11.—While laboring under mental aberration, the result of strain of perfecting an appliance for patents on an air brake, which are pending at Washington, D.C., Charles Cawley, a 17-year-old boy of Homestead, Pa., early yesterday, killed his mother and one sister, and fatally injured four other children. He also tried to kill his two other brothers, but was overpowered and turned over to the police. The weapon used was an ax, with which he crushed and hacked his victims beyond recognition. The injured are in a hospital.

Arrested For Murder.

Buffalo, Oct. 11.—Ernest Stanton, colored, the alleged murderer of Frida McGregor, also colored, in a Broadway saloon, Thursday night, has been arrested at Niagara Falls and brought to this city. Stanton's home is in Hamilton, Ont., and he came to this city about a year ago.

LEAPED FROM A CAR.

A Daughter of Mr. David Walker, Toronto, Killed.

Toronto, Oct. 11.—The fifth day of the annual tourney of the Ladies' Branch of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, was marred by a fatal accident, which befel one of the competitors, Mrs. Alice Maud Cameron, wife of Alfred Birrell Cameron of the legal firm of Cameron & Crooks. Mrs. Cameron leaped from a car at Queen street and Jones avenue, a little after 6 o'clock, and died at her home, 26 Madison avenue, four hours afterwards.

With two acquaintances, returning from the golf grounds, Mrs. Cameron stood in the front vestibule with Motorman W. Madill. The car was passing Jones avenue, and was going at a good rate of speed, when a fuse blew out, causing a flash. Being of a nervous temperament, Mrs. Cameron thought that something serious had happened to the car, and jumped from the platform. She alighted on her head, causing severe injuries to the brain, and rendering her unconscious.

As soon as possible, the ambulance was summoned, and Mrs. Cameron was taken to her home. Mrs. Cameron did not regain her senses. Death was due to the severe laceration of the brain.

Mrs. Cameron was 38 years of age, and a daughter of David Walker, proprietor of the Walker House. She is survived, besides her husband, by her parents, and four sisters.

COLLISION AT OWEN SOUND.

Engine and Two Cars Ditched, Engineer and Yardsman Hurt.

Owen Sound, Oct. 11.—A collision occurred about 3 o'clock yesterday morning on the C.P.R., opposite the Imperial Cement Works, and Keenan Bros'. Sawmill, an incoming freight running into some cars that were being shunted by the yard engine. The freight engine was ditched and two cars of marl for the cement works demolished. Engineer Cooper and Fireman Bittle of the freight escaped by jumping, while Engineer Booth of the yard engine, received some bruises, and Yardsman Bennett, one of his ankles sprained. There is a long and heavy grade above this point and the rails being slippery the engineer was unable to control his train.

Petitions and addresses to the sovereign or to members of the houses of parliament, if not over two pounds in weight, are exempt from postage.

CANADIAN TRADE WITH THE ORIENT.

As mentioned in these columns recently, there is a fine opening for Canadian trade in the East, particularly in Japan, Great Britain's new ally. The articles suited to these markets consist principally of breadstuffs, but the range of commodities which would be acceptable to the Japanese, might be, no doubt, greatly enlarged. There is to be an extra effort of the steamship lines to capture this trade. The Canadian Pacific has increased its Chinese-Japanese fleet, and is still building. At the same time additions are being made to the United States' Pacific fleet trading to the East. The Canadian Pacific can't do it all, and it will be the duty of producers of export articles to co-operate, and the more promptly action is taken the better for the future of the Eastern trade. There is a great advantage in getting the first foot hold in a market. If these persons would follow up and second the enterprising lead given by the Canadian Pacific Company, the outlook for a large and increasing Canadian trade with Japan would be good.

ARBITRATION BUT NO SURRENDER.

Andrew Carnegie, the millionaire, former citizen of the United States, speaking the other day at Perth, Scotland, said:—

"There now exists for the first time among men a permanent tribunal of arbitration, which is now sitting to determine a dispute between the republics of the United States and Mexico. Not a drop of blood will be shed through this dispute. It is to bring a victory which will cause no tears. In my opinion the grandest achievement of the twentieth century was the creation of this tribunal. Shame to the nation which refuses to submit its difference to the arbitrament of this high court of humanity."

Mr. Carnegie's words could not have a more pointed application if they had been specially directed to his own country, the United States, which refuses persistently to consent to submitting the Alaska boundary to arbitration. They doubtless fear that their loudly asserted claims will be negatived if the matter is passed upon by an impartial tribunal. They also perhaps think that, if they persist in keeping the question open long enough, Canada will weaken and surrender the territory, which she is willing to have disposed of by an arbitration court. But Uncle Sam will be mistaken. He has not a Lord Ashburton, but a Laurier to deal with.

UTILIZING WASTE.

Several newspapers are urging the farmers to cut up and haul to market the fallen trees and other waste in their woods, for which there would be no demand, except in a season of coal famine.

The St. Thomas Times in a late issue says; "Old limbs and odds and ends of fallen timber that are never brought in for sale, but are left to decay on the ground or burned up in a pile to clear the ground, might well be brought to the city and sold at a dollar or so a load to people who are at their wits' end to know what they are going to do for fuel this winter. The farmers have ever been loud in their denunciation of the trusts and combines. Now would be a good time for them to show a decided contrast by gathering up all the loose wood that lies in the forests as a useless incumberance, haul it to the city, and it would have a ready sale at a fair and reasonable price. This is a time when people should endeavour to act justly by each other, and thus many will escape much suffering and distress."

Anyone who will take a walk through any of the patches of wood land throughout the country by the most careless observation will see large quantities of what could be made good fuel, going to waste in various stages of decay. It is safe to say that thousands of cords of wood in this county—that is, what would, if collected and saved, make thousands of cords — are going to waste and decay. It is surprising, when our fuel supply is so rapidly disappearing, that more care is not taken to preserve and utilize what is simply going to sinful waste.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Hamilton Spectator demands that Dundurn Museum be open all day Sunday. Is the Dundurn thing worth breaking the Sabbath Day over?

Mr. Frank Ford has been appointed solicitor for the Ontario Treasury Department, and one may well hope that in every sense no matter into how deep water the Department may get, a Ford will always be found.

Toronto might ease the fuel shortage strain by digging up and turning over several miles of its execrable block pavements, which have provoked enough hot-place execration to justify their being converted into domestic heat producers.

The report of the Immigration Department that in the last fiscal year no less than 25,000 persons came into the Northwest from the United States to reside permanently will afford some idea of the land-of-promise view of our Northwest taken by the most enterprising of our American cousins.

When, says the Hamilton Times, Premier Ross told Toronto to help itself to wood, because it was a municipal and not a provincial affair, there was nothing more to do be said. Toronto had no more claim upon the Government than Stony Creek had, and just as soon as it was made plain that no sponging would be permitted, Toronto took effective action, which has already removed all danger of a fuel famine there. The Conservative M. P. P's. who rushed at Premier Ross should go 'way back and sit down."

An exchange tells about a woollen mill in Ontario, whose output is about to be doubled. No shoddy or inferior stock is used in that mill, and unremitting attention is paid to the smallest details of management. The product includes lambs' wool underwear, knitted hose, Mackinaw cloth which is completely waterproof and so warm that it is specially adapted for miners' and lumbermen's overcoats, blankets, flannels and horse covers. The firm's trade is with the city department stores and large retailers throughout the province. Men who make the goods the people want, says the Hamilton Times, and make them honestly, do not need to look to Ottawa for their profits.

The Wall Street Journal quotes a man of "authority" (doubtless an interested capitalist) as saying that any settlement of the coal strike which involves even incidental recognition of the union will be fraught with danger to the state. He says "We already see the persistence of the strike, and the public sentiment and sympathy it has aroused for the course of the strikers, a spark of danger which needs but little nursing to provoke a flame of great trouble in this country." All this may be very well from the standpoint of the speaker, but others will be inclined to look a little beyond the union for the real and primary source of danger, and to conclude that the greed of capitalistic combinations, their disregard of the rights of working men and their indifference to the interests of the public, have something to do with the "peculiar" public sympathy with the strikers.

WHERE THE PREACHERS MEET.

Toronto Star.

The Ministerial Association yesterday debated the causes of the small attendance and poor enthusiasm at its meetings. Various reasons were advanced. One reverend gentleman ascribed it to the fact that reporters were allowed to be present, who jotted down whatever struck their fancy, and not the important points in the discussion. To this another clergyman replied that it was not the fault of the reporters, but of the papers which sent reporters who were unfit for the work — an example of the kind of reasoning that does not attract and hold listeners.

Now that the clergymen have raised this question, it, were a pity to let it drop with the truth undiscovered. Why is it then that the preachers do no flock to these meetings, and why are the meetings lacking in interest? Simply because these spiritual doctors do not take their own medicine. Simply because fifty preachers do not like to sit in pews under the dictatorial deliverances of one of their number. Simply because preachers do not like to be preached at and are bored by their brethren, who talk to them on Mondays the way they talk from their pulpits on Sundays.

But if preachers have not the power to attract each other, if they have nothing to say that their brethren of the cloth have the patience to listen to, if they can secure auditors only when they stand in pulpits and address those who come because of their Christian duty—is there not immediate and great need of a ministerial gathering to decide wherein preachers are deficient? They cannot escape the significance of their avoidance of th places where they talk with each other for an audience. The attendance is limited, roughly speaking, to those who are invited to speak, and those who intend to wedge in a few words if they can get an opening. Of listeners there are few. What is the matter with the preachers that they cannot listen to each other? And if they cannot do it, have they no sympathy with the great church-going classes, who must do it, or unchurch themselves?

CHRISTIAN SCHISMS.

Three of the largest religious bodies maintaining missions in China are making plans looking towards co-operation in their educational work in Pekin. A meeting held in the Presbyterian Building, New York, recently with this end in view, was attended by representatives of the Methodist Missionary Society, the American Board of Foreign Missions, and the Presbyterian Foreign Mission Board. Plans were discussed and the matter put in such shape that it can be prebe presented to the bodies named for action. The time is probably not far off when the general missionizing of the world will be co-operative. The present system of denominational work entails an unnecessary waste of money, and leads to serious confusion in the minds of the people among whom the various missionaries go. The minds of the simple heathen find it hard to realize that the rival missionaries are working for the same God.—Ottawa Journal.

FINISH YOUR CATTLE.

Mr. Denis O'Leary writes the Farmers' Advocate as follows; Should the British Government remove the embargo placed on Canadian cattle it would be the worst blow the live-stock industry of Canada could receive. Doubless it would benefit a few who at this season of the year would have some cattle to sell which had not done well on pasture; but far better feed them here and enrich this country. The trade for our cattle in Great Britain had been as bad and even worse before the embargo was placed on them than it has been at any time since, with the exception of one year, viz., 1896. Too many "short-keep" steers — in other words, cattle which should have been kept a while longer and finished — were shipped this year, partly on account of the high price of grain feed. Feeders were well paid this year; prices were higher than at any time since '82. In June of that year, Montreal butchers paid me 6 3-4 cents per pound live weight for ordinary cattle. During the spring of '84 I paid 7 cents per pound for several lots of cattle. They netted me about 5 1-2 cents from the British markets. Ocean freights were higher then than of late years, and cattle are shipped much cheaper now.

Father's Cruelty to Son.

Montreal, Oct. 11.—David Harrison, a Point St. Charles laborer, is under arrest on a charge of extraordinary cruelty to his fourteen-year-old son. It is claimed that the boy was tied hand and foot for five days in a back shed, without anything on but a shirt, and that the parent was in the habit of beating him with a rope with a buckle attached to it. The father claimed he was in the habit of running away from home, and he had tied him up until he could send him to a reformatory.

Sabbath Breaker Stoned to Death.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 11.—Word was received here yesterday of the brutal murder of an octogenarian millionaire Jew named Kolissher, at Staro-konstantinoff, for breaking the Jewish Sabbath laws.

Kolissher lighted a fire in his home fifteen minutes before sunset on Saturday. A rabbi, seeing the smoke, gathered a mob of Jews about him, and they attacked the old man, and stoned him to death.

"77"

Scarcity of coal and the high prices of fuel mean cold homes and much sickness.

"While I don't mean to recommend the use of '77' instead of firewood, I do know that its use prevents and breaks up Colds, prevalent even now, and promise to be more so as the season advances."

Your office or shop may be cold, your home poorly heated, but if you take "77" you will be freer from sickness, and recover sooner than your neighbor.

The use of Dr. Humphreys' "77" restores the checked circulation, starts the blood coursing through the veins, and breaks up a cold.

At all druggists, 25c, or mailed, on receipt of price. Doctor's Book Mailed Free.

THE STUDY OF NATURE.

First Thing Needed Is the Right Kind of Person for Leader.

In most cases it is the want of good teaching, not the lack of willingness to be taught, which makes youth turn aside in weariness from the first pages of an unexplored sphere of science, says The London Daily Telegraph. That is the greatest and deepest want, to train and provide, namely, the right kind of persons to see little hearts aflame with the thirst for learning the secrets of Nature, and with a spirit to study her ways with an evergrowing gentleness toward the lower creatures and an ever-deepening sense that nothing has been created except for a Divine object and a far-reaching reason. Such is the temper in which the study of Nature must be approached and sustained. The naturalist or physiologist who explores her secrets from the old motive of curiosity, or for profit, or in emulation of rivals, or to maintain a cherished thesis, has not learned, and never will learn, the ultimate delights which close observance of the wonderful world of Creation can impart. He will grow to be an Agnostic, or Pantheist, or something still more undesirable, but will never taste the joys with which such men as White, of Selborne; or Lord Avebury, of great Darwin, enrich existence. It has been well said by the poet that "Nature never did betray the heart that loved her," and certain it is that none derive a loftier and more enduring pleasure from studious hours than those who have given them to the patient pursuit of the hidden revelations which Nature, finger by finger, allows her favored votaries to unlock from her willing, but tightly-closed hands. But the ultimate secret is that she must be loved. She will yield to the hard-hearted, to the unbelieving, to the selfish and irreverent man little beyond dull catalogues and masses of gloomy, unfruitful facts; but she reserves for those who will share with her grand mystery of the Divine Love which governs the universe discoveries that often lift the thoughts of men to heights undreamed of and to large generalization which can fill the most ambitious hearts with noble thoughts and anticipations of splendid hopefulness. If we come down from these heights to the lower ground of utility, of amusement, of expansion of mind, and examples of exquisite invention and adaptation, Nature, in any one of her vast compartments, can satisfy the intellect with vistas of infinite development, and lead the student of new estimates of the value and beauty of life, alike in lower and higher planes. Moreover, how different does the world of sense become to those who pass through it with opened eyes and hearts attuned to admit and to revere the wisdom that is more or less clearly revealed in all its phenomena!

Tell Me a Friend Who is Sick.

No Money is Wanted—Simply Let Me Send Him My Book.

You have a friend who is sick.

Write me his name. That is all—just a postal card. Send it to me as an act of humanity.

Tell me which book he needs.

I will either cure that friend or pay all the cost of his treatment.

I will at least do the utmost that medicine can do. I will give the best advice in my power. I may fail; but there will not be a penny of cost if I do.

I will do this at the start;

I will send the sick one an order on his or her druggist for six bottles Dr. Shoop's Restorative. I will tell that druggist to let him test it for a month at my risk. If it succeeds the cost is $5.50. If it fails I will pay the druggist myself.

I will leave the decision to you.

Don't say that this is impossible, for I do just as I say. I have done it for years—done it with hundreds of thousands.

I will do it in any case, no matter how difficult. I only ask the sick one to be fair with himself and me.

I cannot always succeed. There are conditions like cancer, for which I know no cure. But I alone am the loser when I fail.

My records for five years show that 39 out of each 40 who accepted my offer paid for the medicine taken. That means that 39 in each 40 are cured. That fact alone makes this offer possible.

There are 39 chances in 40 that I can cure your friend.

My success is due to a lifetime of effort, in learning how to strengthen the inside nerves. It is this nerve power alone that operates the vital organs. No organ is weak when it has sufficient power. I bring back the nerve power—that is all. It is just like giving more steam to an engine that is weak.

My book will explain it all.

Every soul who needs this knows some sick friend. You know somebody who will never find another way to get well.

Let me tell that friend my way.

I must be successful. My remedy must do what I claim.

If it did not, such an offer would bankrupt me in a month.

The sick one is your friend—a stranger to me. If I am willing to do so much, won't you write a postal, that he or she may get well?

Simply state which book you want, and address to Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

TO EXTEND TO CANADA

Startling Proposal for a Continental Coal Strike.

MITCHELL URGED TO THIS WAY.

Canadian Minister Does Not Fear This Trouble, Which Would Mean Paying Strike Dues to 40,000 More Men—Dominion Cabinet Decides to Permit I.C.R. to Aid in Keeping Down Coal Prices.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 11.—Telegrams have passed between the officials of the Western Federation of Miners and President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers, looking to a complete tie up of all bituminous coal mines in the United States and Canada. The telegram of President Moyer and Secretary Haywood of the Western Federation read:

"Exigencies demand that no coal of any kind be mined in the United States until the anthracite strike is won. The Western Federation of miners will co-operate to this end."

Mr. Mitchell responded:

"Telegram received. Shall give careful consideration to your suggestion. Many thanks for the proffer of co-operation and assistance."

"The significance of this correspondence," said President Moyer, "is far reaching. It means that if President Mitchell will call out all his men in every soft and hard coal mine in this country and Canada, the Western Federation will immediately co-operate with them, and withdraw every man we have in the coal mines of the west, northwest and Canada. And this will mean that the stubborn mine operators in Pennsylvania will have to bring this long strike to an end, as the people throughout the country will know the reason why. This is the only way to end the trouble."

REBATE ON COAL.

Cabinet Decides to Permit Intercolonial Railway to Aid Consumers.

Ottawa, Oct. 11.—The Cabinet yesterday afternoon discussed the effect of the coal strike upon Canada, and it is understood decided to grant a rebate of freight rates on the Intercolonial Railway to Canadian municipalities which purchase coal in Nova Scotia and will sell it at a cost. The decision was communicated by telegraph to Hon. A. G. Blair, who is at present in British Columbia, and whose approval as the administrator of the Government Railways will be heartily given. The Intercolonial freight rate on coal is three-tenths of a cent per ton per mile. The course adopted by the Cabinet will prevent the coal companies or the coal dealers from gobling up the concession. The idea of the rebate is to facilitate, so far as lies in the Government's power, the coal reaching the poorest consumer at cost. If no improvement in the coal situation takes place, the Government may consider the advisability of temporarily reducing or removing the duty on bituminous coal. The question will not be dealt with, however, until the return to Ottawa of the Premier and the Ministers of Finance and Customs.

Won't Borrow Trouble.

The attention of a member of the Government was yesterday afternoon drawn to the report that the Canadian miners were to be called out in order to show their sympathy with the strikers in the United States, and his opinion was asked as to what would be done by the authorities here should the strike extend to Canada. "There is no need to borrow trouble," was the reply. "It will be time enough to deal with any such difficulty as that when it arises. I do not apprehend, however, that the miners in this country will go on strike. The strike fund is doubtless sufficiently taxed already to meet the demands upon it without adding 40,000 more."

C.P.R. and G.T.R. Falls Into Line.

Montreal, Oct. 11.—Traffic managers of the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk announced at the conclusion of the conference with civic officials yesterday afternoon that a reduction of 33 1-3 per cent. would be granted on fuel hauled to Montreal.

TAPS FROM THE WIRES.

Tao Mu, Viceroy of the Provinces of Kwang Tung and Kwang Gi, is dead.

Twenty kegs of powder exploded at Seloam Springs, Ark., on Friday and killed three men.

The C.P.R. traffic for the week ending Oct. 7 was $873,000; for the same week last year it was $795,000.

McQueen and Grossman, the Anarchists, who were arrested in connection with the disturbances at Paterson, N. J., in July last, were released Friday under $17,000 bail each.

The Minister of Education announced on Friday that a more advanced course in domestic science would be made compulsory on all Normal School graduates.

The employes of the gas, electric light and water works, after a prolonged discussion olf the strike situation have decided to continue work at Geneva, Switzerland.

Major Robertson, secretary of the Veteran's Locating and Colonization Society, thinks it will cost about $75 of $100 for the veterans to secure their property if they go up individually.

Latest Russian Ruse.

London, Oct. 11.—"An extraordinary rumor is current here," says the Paris correspondent of The Standard, "that private negotiations are proceeding between Russia and Turkey, which, if successful, will result in an agreement to close the Dardanelles to all but Russian war ships."

Says Whalley Was Murdered.

Toronto, Oct. 11.—George Whalley was murdered.

That is the verdict of the coroner's jury which has consumed three months investigating the mysterious death of the Evans' warehouse employe. Last night the closing chapter of the hearing was written briefly: "That the said George Whalley came to his death at the hands of a party or parties unknown."

He came to his death the afternoon of July 19, and seventy-five witnesses have been examined since then during a dozen sessions of the jury with a view of unravelling the singular circumstances surrounding the case. The Crown says this ends the famous warehouse mystery.

P. R. Daly Drops Dead.

Belleville, Oct. 11.—P. R. Daly, a prominent Thurlow farmer and public man, dropped dead yesterday morning of heart disease at his residence, 8th con. of Thurlow. He had been deputy reeve of the county, member of both township and county councils, and was at the time of his death treasurer of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association. Deceased was a prominent politician.

Manchester a Terminal.

Manchester, England, Oct. 11.—The Guardian, in an article on the Atlantic shipping combine, yesterday says: "Manchester has been definitely chosen as one of the terminal ports. Arrangements have been completed with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad for the establishment of a direct service of first-class British steamers between Boston and Manchester."

Jail-Breaker Surrendered.

Washington, Oct. 11.—The Secretary of State has issued a warrant for the surrender to the Canadian authorities of Robert Thompson, held under arrest at Lincoln, Neb., as a fugitive from justice. He was convicted of burglary in Sarnia, Ont., and sentenced to ten years' imprisonment, but escaped from jail last July.

A Fibrous Tumor Removed

(Mrs. Kell's Experience).

Mrs. J. G. Kells, Toronto.

"I was so reduced and emaciated I was sure that I could never get well. My physician said I would have to go under an operation, but thought I was too weak. I was still growing weaker, and felt that the disease would soon end my life. My disease was a fibrous tumor, which had grown to a great size. I had been sick for a year and had had three doctors.

"A friend advised me to try the new treatment, Powley's Liquified Ozone, which I did. It made me very sick at first and I felt like giving it up. But I read in the pamphlet that this was a good sign, so I kept on.

"I am pleased to say that in about two months Powley's Liquified Ozone entirely removed the tumor and I began to gain flesh again. I weighed one hundred pounds when I commenced Powley's Liquified Ozone. I now weigh one hundred and fifty-four pounds, and feel as well as I did in my youth."

(Signed) Mrs. J. G. Kells,
561 Church St., Toronto.

Everybody who has tried Powley's Liquified Ozone for female ailments calls it the very best product for such disorders. Its stimulating action on the membranes; its cleansing and disinfecting properties, are just the thing to keep the delicate female organs in an healthy condition and relieve the worn out woman of all her aches and pains. MR. TARTE AT BERLIN.

He Proposes to Continue His Course and Stands by His Utterances—A Great Reception to Minister.

Berlin, Oct. 11. — Hon. J. Israel Tarte was honored in royal style by the citizens of this town last night with a splendid banquet in the Walker House.

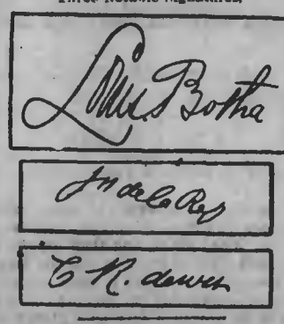
After the toast of the King had been duly honored, Mayor Eden proposed the toast of Mr. Tarte's health, in introducing same, saying that he felt confident if sugar was protected by a reasonable tariff that Canada would soon be supplying Great Britain with sugar as well as wheat.

After some preliminary, Hon. Mr. Tarte referred to transportation as a question of business, and not as a problem difficult of solution. It would not be long before we would have a Canadian shipbuilding policy. Was it not a national shame for us to have to admit that we were not in a position to handle our trade, when we had a route 500 miles shorter to England, from the West, than our American friends had? He would warn them that, without transportation facilities, and a proper commercial tariff, Manitoba and the Northwest Territories were bound to become American. The proper course was to have a united policy from one end of the country to the other. "There must not be any East or West," he emphasized, "but Canada, and Canada for the Canadians." (Cheers.)

"I am very sorry to have been assailed by my Liberal friends," he continued; "I have given them ten years of loyal service, I followed for twenty years the greatest statesman in the history of Canada, Sir John A. Macdonald. (Applause.) And this great man, Sir Wilfrid Laurier. (Applause.) But I am not going to be put down in the way that some of my friends have been trying to do. Official life has not that charm for me to keep me from enunciating publicly and individually the policy that I think best for the country. (Applause.) If in my utterances I have been regarded imprudent, I am prepared to take the consequences. I have advocated a policy that the country will stand by, transportation and tariff revision. (Applause.) Unless I read incoreectly the signs of the times, 90 per cent. of the public of this country share in my views. The time is past when there was so much party spirit in this country. There is widespread feeling to-day that we Canadians are old enough to stand upon our own strength and energy. (Cheers.)

The banquet was afterwards brought to a close with the singing of the national anthem.

Three Notable Signatures.



Ways of a Professional Beggar.

M. de Blowitz in the Paris Matin tells an amusing story of how a subscriber to the "Encyclopaedia Britannica" used to work. He was a professional writer of begging letters, and in them he represented himself to be now one sort of a person and then another, "getting up" from the pages of his encyclopaedia the necessary historical knowledge to give his letters plausibility. Thus, he explained, that having written a letter in which he was a potter who had been chemically poisoned and unfitted for work, he used the encyclopaedia for details of his pottery trade, of which he himself was entirely ignorant. The one word, 'kaolin,' which he used in his letters, and the explanation of the use of the material made every one believe in the genuineness of his appeal and brought him a perfect harvest of bank notes and postal money orders."

AN INTERESTING PICTURE.

The King Introducing the Boer Generals to the Queen.

The Boer Generals, Botha, Delarey and Dewet, have expressed themselves as extremely pleased at the opportunity afforded them of visiting the King on board the Royal yacht Victoria and Albert at Cowes. An illustration of the interesting occurrence is reproduced. When they reached the Royal yacht the King was on deck, and on their ascending the gangway His Majesty came forward, and, after being introduced, shook hands with each of the Generals. His Majesty then conducted the three Generals to the royal group and introduced them to the Queen. After a brief interview with the King, the Generals were taken for a trip round the fleet at Spithead, and then they returned to town highly gratified at the kind manner in which the King had received them.

HIS MAJESTY INTRODUCING THE BOER GENERALS TO THE QUEEN ON BOARD THE VICTORIA AND ALBERT.

American Federation of Labour.

The regular meeting of the "outside workers" Union No. 9240, was held on Friday evening. The meeting was an interesting one, several local labour matters being discussed. Mr. John Newall was appointed one of the delegates to the Trades and Labour Council in the place of Mr. J. Murphy. A matter affecting a corporation employee in the Fire Department was referred to the Trades and Labour Council for its decision.

A BOX OF MONEY

In Bradley's Window That Someone Should Win—A Novel Scheme.

To-day at noon two local newspaper men locked a sum of money in a small box which from now until Christmas night may be seen in the window of Messrs. H. E. Bradley & Co. The very fact that the contents of the box was money was prima facie evidence that it did not belong to the newspaper men. However, the newspaper men were doing merely what was asked of them, and a piece of paper was sealed over the key hole of the box. The key which locked the box (and there is supposed to be only one that will do so) was deposited in another box with several hundred more keys and mixed up amongst them. With every dollars worth of goods sold by Bradley & Co. from now until Christmas a key will be given and on Christmas eve an opportunity of trying the lock will be given to each party holding a key. The owner of the key which opens the box will be entitled to the contents thereof. Should, through any accident the right key become lost, the contents of the box will be given to some charitable institution. The scheme is indeed a novel one and should arouse much interest.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

It is with especial pleasure that we announce to our readers that the Edna Sutherland Concert Company will give one of their most pleasing programmes on Thanksgiving Day, October 16th, in Bradburn's Opera House.

This company is most favourably known, and highly spoken of throughout the Dominion, and we are glad to see our own Canadian artists honoured, not only in their own homeland, but by our American neighbours.

The New York Musical Courier says; "Miss Merilla Patton is a young Canadian girl possessing a powerful contralto voice of good range and quality, particularly pleasing in the lower register, and we cannot but admire her distinct enunciation and dignified stage presence. Her songs were well contrasted and sung in a finished and artistic style."

Of Miss Edna Sutherland and her wonderful entertaining abilities, ther is so much to be said that one scarcely knows where to begin. The Montreal Witness says; "Miss Sutherland, a distinguished graduate of Emerson College of Oratory, Boston, is considered one of the ablest, most brilliant and most accomplished elocutionists in the country. She has fine sensibilities and genuine dramatic power. She wins smiles and tears from her audience as only those can do who are born with the sacred gift of feeling, and all her work bears the stamp of perfection."

Mr. Frank Smith, the solo violinist, is by no means the least in this trio of artists, as one can easily judge by hearing his musicianly interpretation of some of the most difficult solos of renowned composers.

We trust the Peterborough people will take advantage of this opportunity to be pleasantly and profitably entertained. Plan opens Monday at nine o'clock, at Ormond and Walsh's drug store.

Don't miss the best concert of the season. Remember the date, — Thanksgiving night, October 16th.

For Men Only.

Mr. W. J. Jolliffe will for the first time address the men's meeting at the Y.M.C.A. on Sunday at 4.15 p.m. He should be greeted by a large crowd. His subject will be "Looking after No. One." Mr. Wildgust, the new organist of St. Paul's church, will sing.

Dan Foley's Big Catch.

Mr. Dan Foley, the big hearted and popular lessee of Jubilee Point Hotel, brought to town to-day a fine maskinonge which weighed 20 3-4 lbs, caught by himself yesterday in the prolific fishing grounds near his hotel. He presented the fish to Mr. M. L. Henry, who is prolific in his praises of Mr. Foley's Carnegie-like generosity. All are invited to lunch.

Have Gone North.

Hunters and those who enjoy good fishing are beginning to move to the north country. Yesterday Messrs. H. C. Winch, D. J. Lundy, E. A. Peck and J. D. Collins went up to Lake Ketchecum, being the advance guard of a large party that will be located at Ketchecum Lodge for several weeks. To-day Messrs. H. LeBrun, Dr. Bradd, R. B. McKee, Alex. Elliott, Jas. Brooks and John Crane will follow.

SHADOW SOCIAL

In Sons of England Hall Favoured With Rather Small Attendance.

The Shadow Social, under the auspices of the Daughters of England, in the S.O.E. Hall, last night, was not favoured with a very large attendance. Possibly those who might be expected to have been patrons, feared that the shadow would predominate to the detriment of the substance, especially in the eating line. But that fear was groundless; not only were excellent refreshments served under novel conditions, but an excellent programme was provided.

Mr. M. A. Sorsoleil was chairman, and "opened the ball" with a humourous little speech loaded with a good deal of meat in the form of references to the benefits of fraternal associations. The ladies' branch of the S. O. E. Society was, he said, in a flourishing condition, which was to be expected with so many blooming daughters connected with it. He then introduced a pleasing programme of vocal and instrumental music and recitations, contributed by Miss Elliott, Mr. Ives, Miss Petty, Miss Patterson and Miss Scott, and sonophone, Mr. Sorsoleil in a very happy manner conducted the auction in connection with the shadow department. Each lady had come with a well filled luncheon basket, brightened with tissue paper swathings, and armed with this she stood in front of a screen in such a way as to throw her shadow upon it. The audience were then invited to bid upon the substance of the shadow, and the substance (with the basket) was confided to the successful bidder and the contents of the basket, which the auctioneer had kept "going," "going," were indeed "gone," and speedily at that, between the purchaser and the purchasee. Thus the various "parcels" of "substance" were disposed of amid much merriment at the auctioneer's jokes, which were voted the best part of the programme.

WHITE ROSE CLUB.

The Dance Held by Them a Great Success.

Last evening the White Rose Club held their first dance of the season in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street. On account of numerous counter attractions the attendance was not as large as anticipated, but those who came numbered about eighty and all seemed to enjoy themselves very much. The music was furnished by Miss Butcher and the Wilson Bros., while the catering was superintended by Mr. M. McGregor. That both the music and lunch were appreciated is evidenced by the lateness of the hour to which the former was continued and by the relish with which the latter was consumed. Another factor that contributed not a little to the success of the evening was the fact that Mr. Joe Duffis was director for the occasion. The members of the club feel highly encouraged by this season's prospect and are making arrangements to give other dances during the winter months.

MRS. McGREGOR'S FAREWELL.

Her Port Hope Friends Joined in Wishing Her Success in Peterborough.

Mrs. W. McGregor, of Port Hope, is moving to Peterborough, and before leaving the Lake Ontario town her friends gathered at her home to present her with an address and a silver pudding dish.

The address was as follows;

Port Hope, October 9.

Dear Mrs. McGregor, — Having learned that you are about to take your departure from our midst, we, your neighbours and friends, could not let the opportunity pass without expressing our sincere regret at your removal, but what is Port Hope's loss is certainly Peterborough's gain.

We have spent many pleasant hours together, and regret that the same is not to be longer continued.

We cannot allow this separation to take place without showing in some tangible way the high esteem in which you are held by us, and ask you racceptance of this piece of silver as a memento that will remind you when absent from us of the many happy hours spent together.

May prosperity attend you and yours in the future, and if you should ever take up your abode with us again, you may expect a hearty welcome.

Signed on behalf of her friends, Mrs. Bradburn, Miss Nixon.

JUNIOR GIRLS' GUILD

Of All Saints' Church has Re-organized for the Season of 1902-3.

The Junior Girls' Guild of All Saint's church re-organized yesterday afternoon. There was a very encouraging attendance and a new feature was introduced, that of electing the officers from among the members. The officers elected were:

President—Rosa Mulholland.
Vice-President—Mabel Hooper.
Secretary—Pearl Bullen.
Treasurer—Grace Crowe.
Dorcas Committee — Olivia Cuffe and Electa Strong.

The Guild is under the superintendency of Mrs. Hickey, who is ably assisted by Mrs. Smeaton, Mrs. Blois, Mrs. Hooper, Mrs. Moldon and others, and a very promising year's work is before them.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

A Man Who is Charged Under the Charlton Act.

In the County Police Court this morning, before His Honour Judge Edmison, John Falon was charged with an offence under the Charlton Act. The offence was committed upon a girl about 12 years of age. The prisoner this morning elected to be tried by jury, and he was accordingly committed to stand his trial at the next sitting of a court of competent jurisdiction.

PECULIAR FATALITY

That Occurred to a Young Man at Deloro Mines.

A fatal accident occurred at Deloro Mines, near Marmora, on Thursday last by which William Young lost his life. He was driving with a young lady, one of the lines broke, and the horse turned sharply to one side, throwing Young back in the buggy with his companion on top of him. The injuries produced peritonitis, from the effects of which he died after great suffering.

At St. Andrew's Church.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be celebrated to-morrow at 11 a.m. Subject of morning sermon. "The Source and Security of Christian Liberty." In the evening the pastor will give an address on "Spiritual Lessons from Surrent Events."

TO DREDGE THE RIVER.

The "Trent" Will Start Operations on Monday.

The Work Will be Pushed Forward From now on—A Big Contract.

It will be pleasant news to Mayor Denne, as to the citizens of Peterborough generally to know, that the work of deepening the river, from the C. P. R. bridge to the Cereal Works, will begin on Monday morning.

The dredge "Trent," in charge of Mr. Clement Gordon, which has been working in the lower waters this summer, will be brought up and put to use upon a work which will be of the utmost importance to Peterborough. The dredge will have to be dismantled to a certain extent in order to permit it passing under the C.P. R. bridge, but its restoration to working order will be a short matter.

The water in the river here will be lowered as soon as the boats go out this afternoon in order to increase the space as much as possible underneath the C.P.R. bridge for the passage of the dredge. Mr. R. B. Rogers will have general supervision of the work, which is being carried out under the Department of Public Works, showing that Hon. Mr. Tarte is true to his promises in that regard.

THE LATE MR. BRADLEY.

Particulars of the Accident Which Cost a Life.

The remains of Mr. Thomas Bradley, son of Mr. James Bradley, town, who lost his life through an accident in Rochester, N.Y., on Wednesday last, arrived on the 5.35 Grand Trunk express yesterday evening. Mr. Will Bradley, of Rochester, brother of deceased, accompanied the remains.

It appears that the deceased was engaged in painting a church, and, with a companion, was working on scaffolding 55 feet above the pavement. When noon hour came, on the fatal Wednesday, the two men decided to climb over the wall and descend by a ladder on the other side. They were in the act of doing this when the hook holding the ropes supporting the scaffolding gave way, and Mr. Bradley fell, striking on his head, causing instant death. His companion managed to hang on to some ropes, and was saved.

The deceased was a member of the Mystic Circle, who sent a superb wreath of flowers. Many other wreaths from friends in Rochester, where Mr. Bradley was very popular and greatly esteemed, accompanied the remains.

Mr. Bradley was 27 years of age and was unmarried. The funeral will leave the family residence, 625 Aylmer street, on Sunday, at 2.30 p.m.

The bereaved parents and family have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community in their great sorrow.

THREE BEARS BAGGED.

Mr. M. Cadigan, of Ennismore, Turns up and Mr. Jas. Tracy Turns Down Three Bears.

The other day Mr. M. Cadigan, of Ennismore, was on the other side of Gannon's Narrows ferry, coming to the Township when he saw a grown bear and two cubs take cover in a clump of bushes. He crossed the ferry and reported his discovery to Mr. James Tracey at the ferry. Mr. Tracey, who is a crack shot, as he showed, loaded himself with a gun and the gun with buck shot. Mr. Cadigan acted as beater and as the bears emerged from cover, Mr. Tracey brought down the old one with the first shot. He tried to despatch the two cubs with the other barrel. He killed one and wounded the other and going home for more ammunition returned and finished master bruin. The fur of the old bear was not of so much account, but that of the cubs which were well grown, was first-class.

A NEAT WINDOW.

Mr. J. T. Stinson's Novel Display of Shoes.

Sometimes, if even the most commonplace things are taken from their accustomed place, and then arranged artistically, where they are the least expected, the result is most charming and pleasing to the eye. This may be proven a fact by a glance in the window of the J. T. Stenson shoe store, George street.

By a happy selection of maple leaves, which at this time of the year have all their brilliant fall colours at the full, and by a still happier arrangement of the different shades, a result has been reached that is pleasing to the most artistic eye. Amidst all this colour are placed samples of dainty footwear for women and comfortable boots for men, the whole making a picture of usefulness and beauty that is a credit to the originator.

COUNTY POLICE COURT.

His Honour Judge Edmison was at Havelock Yesterday.

David McAdams of Belmont, lost a pocketbook containing $22.00 between North River bridge and Havelock, on Sept. 18th. On Thursday last he had Stephen Davis of Belmont, appear in the County Police Court at Havelock on a charge of finding the same and failing to return it. Davis owned up to finding a pocketbook, but claimed that it was his own. The case was adjourned until yesterday afternoon, when His Honour Judge Edmison went down and heard a portion of the evidence. The case was further enlarged for one week.

PETERBOROUGH WON.

Port Hope Ladies' Golf Team was Here Yesterday.

The Port Hope Ladies' Golf Club team played their return match here yesterday afternoon, when the Peterborough ladies succeeded in defeating the visitors by a score of 19 to 3. The day was an ideal one for golf and there was a large attendance of spectators. Luncheon, with garniture of autumn leaves, was served at the Club House and a very enjoyable time was spent by all.

The scores were as follows:

Port Hope.		Peterborough.
0	Mrs. Brown v. Mrs. Denniston	0
0	Mrs. Poplar v. Mrs. Campbell	6
0	Mrs. Burton v. Miss Halliday	8
0	Miss Born v. Miss Clementi	0
3	Miss Burnham, Mrs. Sanderson	0
0	Miss Hudspeth v. Miss K. Hall	2
0	Miss Clarky. Miss Denniston	3
3		19

Peterborough thus wins out in the round by a score of three.

ACTIVITY IN FREIGHT.

The Local Freight Sheds Find Business Somewhat Brisk.

The freight departments of the Grand Trunk Railway are at present very busy. The merchants getting in their winter supplies have enormous quantities of freight in the sheds, while the Cereal Company add not a little to the work of this department. At present the G.T.R. is bringing from eight to twelve carloads of grain per day for this Company. As matters stand now these have to be sent across the transfer and up the C.P.R. spur line. When the bridge from the McAllister siding across the river to the Cereal Company's building is completed then grain coming via G.T.R. will be sent over their own line by way of Auburn.

WONDERFUL ENDURANCE

Of a Hound Which was Lost in Pit for 20 Days.

A most remarkable incident happened lately near Belmont Lake, which illustrates the astonishing powers of endurance possessed by animals. On the 12th of August a hound belonging to Mr. N. King, disappeared and was given up as lost or stolen. However, 20 days later a party of children were picking blackberries near a deep hole at Burnt Dam and curiosity prompted them to look into the pit, which is an abandoned quarry; in doing so one of them discovered an animal lying at the bottom, which upon investigation proved to be the lost hound. The poor animal was still alive although prostrated with weakness, but it is now in as healthy and strong condition as ever.

The estate amounts to $25,000, and consists principally of mortgages and money in the bank.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Notes Concerning the Movements of Peterborough People and Their Visitors

Mr. J. Lundy, of the Bank of Toronto here, is at present unable to continue his duties owing to illness.

Mrs. Angus McPherson returned this morning from a two weeks' visit with friends in Detroit and Bay City, Michigan.

The Havelock Standard says : The Misses Flynn left this week for Peterborough, where they will reside in future. The good wishes of their many friends will follow them to their new home.

The Trinity College School Rugby Team, and a few ardent supporters, in charge of Mr. F. J. Sawers, arrived in town this morning via G.T.R. Those who came were Messrs. F. J. Sawers, H. O. Lawson, K. M. Holcroft, P. J. McKeand, G. U. A. Chowne, J. Scott, F. H., McPherson, W. H. Peterson, H. R. Berry, F. D. Wilkins, C. Boyd, J. I. Grover, C. E. Kidd, B. Davidson, D. Hammond, W. G. Hagarty, G. Rogers. Shortly after their arrival the boys took a drive around town, and this afternoon are playing Peterborough on the oval.

St. John's Sunday School.

Last night the teachers and officers of St. John's Sunday School, were entertained at tea by Rev. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Davidson at their residence, Hunter street, and they afterwards presented Mr. W. H. Walkey with a handsome hymn book, as a recognition of his services on behalf of the school. Mr. Walkey is retiring from the superintendency of the school, for a while at least, after fulfilling the duty of that office for four years.

Mr. R. M. Dennistoun's Bible Class for young men will resume its fall and winter course to-morrow and all young men of the congregation are invited.

TURNER'S NEW BUILDING.

Handsome Srtucture at Corner of King and George Streets.

The Growth of Business Required Larger Premises—A Model Establishment.

Turners' the tent makers are eternally camping on the trail of progress. The latest evidence of this is the handsome and substantial new brick building which they have recently erected on the north east corner of King and George streets, and which adds greatly to the appearance of that business portion of the town. A large sign on the north brick wall with the name of the proprietors of the establishment thereon can be seen a considerable distance off, whilst the large flag that waves from the flagstaff on the top of the new building intimates to the public that Messrs. Turner and Sons are still to the front and signifies another triumph in the march of prosperity.

For many years back the well known firm of Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons have worked under disadvantages, for the want of room, in their old quarters just across the street from where their new establishment is situated. It was nothing extraordinary then when they announced their intention of erecting a three storey building upon the latest designs so as to suit the requirements of their trade. As a guarantee of success in this direction they engaged the services of Mr. J. E. Belcher, Architect, who prepared plans and specifications for the model establishment which Messrs. Turner & Sons now call their home. The contractors were Messrs. Finnie & Gordon, who rushed the construction work along at a most remarkable rate, considering the state of the labour market this summer. The factory is 45 by 100 feet, three stories high, in addition to a large commodous and well lighted basement. The first floor contains the show room, general office, vault, stenographer's office besides a handsome private office for Mr. J. J. Turner, Sr. There is in addition a well fitted out lavatory. The show room is a handsome apartment with a 13-foot ceiling and well lighted and shows off to perfection the complete stock of goods that the firm constantly carries. It is at present handsomely stocked with the latest styles of tents, awnings, camping supplies and a beautiful assortment of flags. To the rear of the show room is the elevator which proves a great convenience in conveying goods and material from one floor to the other.

The second floor is all one room and is occupied by the operators on the sewing machines. These machines are driven by electrical power and have a marvellous capacity. A busy staff including a number of women is engaged on this flat, whilst the third story is where the waterproof goods are manufactured and where the sign writing is done. Messrs. Turner & Sons are, it might be stated, branching out into the sign writing business at a rapid rate and are becoming leaders in this line.

A noticable feature in connection with the entire structure is the excellent manner in which it is lighted. There are, as a matter of fact 160 windows in the building which admit an abundance of light during the day time while at night electricity is used.

To the rear of the main building is a complete stable, capable of housing three horses. This structure is 20 by 32 feet, and is a handy auxiliary to the establishment.

The new factory is heated by two large furnaces in the cellar and is fitted out with lavatories on each story. It is, in fact, a building which is modern in every sense of the word, designed to suit Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons' rapidly increasing trade, but if this keeps leaping forward in such proportions as it has in the past few years, it will be only a matter of time until they will require an addition to their already commodious premises.

TO UPSET RESOLUTION.

Labour Union of Lindsay Up in Arms Arms Against the Council.

(Lindsay Watchman-Warder)

It looks as if council will find hiring a driver for the fire wagon a somewhat formidable task. Already it has occasioned some of the hottest debates and closest votes in the history of the chamber; and now, when only by the repeated casting vote of the mayor, the present policy of council has been sustained, the labour union declares war on that policy, and in session assembled, decides to take legal steps to overthrow the legislation employing Mr. Thos. Free by tender, and at $180 a year.

In these times of labour unrest and sensational situations in the labour world, this is dramatic enough. It at least is a bold and radical position for the labour organization to assume; it courageously and definitely challenges the powers that be, and ushers labour, as an active factor, into municipal affairs. This is the beginning of what will be watched with interest.

The resolution adopted at a meeting of the labour union held last night is as follows:

"Resolved that the Federation of Labour do disapprove of the action of council in calling for tenders for a driver of the fire team, as it is detrimental to the labouring cause and against the laws of Ontario. Therefore, the president is hereby instructed, to consult Solicitor O'Leary to take such action as he deems best against council to squash such an act . . ."

A GOOD RECORD.

Mr. John Doherty Retires From the Hotel Business at Westwood.

Mr. John Doherty of Westwood, was in Peterborough to-day. He has just disposed of his hotel business, which he has conducted in that village for 17 years, and will reside for the present in Norwood. Mr. Doherty is one of the best known hotel men in this section of the country, and he has a record of which any license holder might well feel proud. During his 17 years of hotel keeping he was never once fined, and more than that, he never had a charge laid against him.

His successor is Mr. J. Hefferman, Asphodel, who steps into a well-established business.

WERE AT HOME LAST NIGHT

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Langfeldt's Reception

In the Sunday School Room of St. Luke's —A Social Evening Which was Well Attended.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, Rector of St. Luke's, and Mrs. Langfeldt, were at home to the members and adherents of St. Luke's in the Sunday school room of the church yesterday evening. The reception was largely attended and Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Langfeldt made the evening very enjoyable for everyone. The school room in which the guests were received, was decorated in a most becoming manner with flags, etc., whilst the members of the church and their friends sat around in an informal manner and participated in social intercourse. They had been heartily welcomed at the entrance to the school room by Rev. Mr. Langfeldt, who during the evening addressed a few words to this parishioners relative to church work. In the course of his remarks he said that he thought that it was about time that they were laying their plans for the winter work, and that the present was the opportune time to lay a few facts before them. There were various directions in which they could assist in the work of the church. First and foremost they should be regular in their attendance at Sunday service, although he had no very great complaint to make in that regard in the past, as St. Luke's members were, generally speaking, noted for their faithful attendance at Sunday worship. However, they should also attend the mid-week services as well and the complaint in this regard was with the men. Speaking as to the services, the Rector impressed it upon his church members that it was desirable that they should join heartily in the responses and that while he appreciated the value of good music he did not wish the service to be attractive through that feature alone.

There was an opening in the Sunday School for workers, and Rev. Mr. Langfeldt extended a hearty invitation to the young ladies and the young men to assist. He mentioned also the work of the Men's Guild, and the Woman's Auxiliary, and is speaking of the value of having the boys of the church taking a greater interest therein, he intimated that he purposed organizing a Boys' Brigade in connection with St. Luke's, preparatory to making a move towards opening a reading room for the boys where they could spend their evenings together.

In conclusion he urged upon his people to enter with renewed energy the work of the church, and to try and make St. Luke's an influence for God in the community in which they live.

During the evening Mr. Walter Wesley rendered several vocal selections and Miss Lizzie Scott rendered a piano solo. Refreshments were served and the affair was formally closed by the singing of the National Anthem. However, upon the cry of "Three cheers for Mr. and Mrs. Langfeldt" the gathering responded in a most enthusiastic manner, and then dispersed well pleased with the happy social evening.

MATTERS MILITARY

BY SENTRY.

It will be welcome news to the Veterans of '66 to know that there is every probability of their receiving their Government land grants in the course of a very short time. There are many who have received a circular from a syndicate which offers to locate the grant of land or purchase the same for a nominal sum of money. The local association believes that this is not a wise scheme as when the papers arrive, in the course of a week or two, the local association will likely send a man up to the townships that are still open for settlement, and the individual claims can be selected in this manner. The claim papers will be here in the course of a week or two, as stated before, and there will be nothing then to prevent the acquiring of the 160 acres of land by each veteran who has taken the necessary steps in that direction.

It is understood that the Government contemplates allowing veterans of Peterborough County the privilege of selecting their 160 acres of land in the townships in the north of this county which are not yet all taken up, if so required. Further information in the matter will be forthcoming in the course of a few days.

On Wednesday the annual sports in connection with the Royal Military College were held on the broad, smooth campus. The day was not a fine one —but the cadets and their friends are getting accustomed to that now. A cold wind from off the lake swept across the campus, and made the spectator sorry that he did not shake the moth balls out of his furs before he left home. The cadets, when stripped for the various contests, suffered most. In one race a cadet attempted to start at the firing of the pistol, but was unable to do so. While waiting for the delayed signal, he had become so cold that he could not run.

The friends of Lieut.-Col. John Duff, ex-Commanding Officer of the 4th Hussars, Kingston, will regret to learn that he is seriously ill. He was last week stricken with paralysis.

It is probable that the 14th Regiment of Kingston, will be forthwith increased to the full strength of eight companies. There is an agitation on foot to secure the necessary supply of officers by promoting deserving and qualified non-commissioned officers. Peterborough Rangers might keep this policy in mind when raising the extra two companies of the Regiment.

• • • •

Drill, as generally interpreted—the practice of various movements, so as to attain regularity and precision—cuts a comparatively small figure in the new military training. The soldier of to-day must be a man of good judgment and and decision, not a mere machine to depend altogether for directions upon his officers, who are now guides, rather than commanders. In the recent war it developed that with modern weapons the fight narrowed down eventually to a man-to-man fight, a single-handed engagement between two men firing from behind sheltering mounds at variable distances—1,000, 800, 600 yards, or less. Zip-whiz-phut, until one or another was killed or bereft of ammunition, or night closed in on the long range duel and the struggle took a new phase. So, the new book of instruction, which is compiled on these lines, demands immediate attention.

The latest number of the Queen's University Quarterly contains a most interesting article on the Canadian Militia by Mr. F. C. Hamilton, the Globe's special war correspondent on the First Canadian Contingent. Mr. Hamilton's article is a valuable contribution and should be read by every military enthusiast in Canada. It deals with the manner in which the Canadian Militia should be organized to be of material assistance in case it were called upon for active service.

PAINTING THEIR POLES.

The poles of the Bell Telephone Co. in Ashburnham have been treated to a new coat of paint, giving the streets a much cleaner appearance. The painting is of that description used on the poles of this company throughout their service, red on the bottom for about five feet, and the remainder white. It is understood that the poles of the company in Peterborough are soon to be given similar treatment, in fact it has been done as far west as Water street.

This with the numerous new store fronts should give the village a much cleaner and neater appearance.

POTTING AND RE-POTTING.

This is the season for potting and re-potting the flowers. Nothing in the line of house decorating during the winter gives such life and cheer to the rooms as flower-filled windows. Whatever you want to help you with your "garden in the window" you will find in excellent bloom and foliage at the West End Greenhouses, 465, Park street, residence of G. M. Roger. Telephone 21b. A. WELL UNDER WAY.

The Work for the Coming Season of the Y. W. C. A.

The work of the coming season in the Y.W.C.A. is now well under way in all departments. The enrolment in the various educational classes gives promise of much being accomplished during the year, that of the physical culture department being exceptionally good.

The Bible classes opened last Tuesday evening, the enrolment proving equally as good as in the other departments.

The I.W.Y. Club elected the following officers;

President—Miss M. Godfrey.
Vice-President—Miss M. Robson.
Secretary—Miss A. Scott.
Treasurer—Miss E. Hall.

The association wishes to acknowledge the following kind gifts towards the furnishing of the reading room—A handsome floor oilcloth, from Mrs. Wm. Walsh; and from St. Paul's Y.P.S.C.E., a beautiful floor rug, a Boston fern and the Century Magazine.

The first of the regular Sunday afternoon Gospel meetings will be held to-morrow at 4.15. The meeting will be led by the secretary, who will speak on the question, "What is your Life?" All young women are cordially invited.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors, will be held on Monday, October 13th, at 3.30 p.m. A full attendance is requested.

All Saints' Church.

The subjects of the sermons tomorrow will be "Filling up what is behind of the sufferings of Christ" in the morning, and "Common Things spoken of by our Lord — Gates and Roads." The anthems will be "Gently Lord, O Gently Lead Us," and "O that I had wings like a dove."

MAN AND HORSE.

Some Remarkable Cases of Endurance on the Part of Both—Military Ride From Brussels to Ostend.

There is a very general discussion going on in the European press regarding the unnecessary cruelty to horses attending the military ride from Brussels to Ostend, which recently brought together contestants from most of the European armies. The London Chronicle gives some remarkable cases of endurance on the part of both men and horses. Charles XII. of Sweden rode from Demotica in Turkey to Stralsun on the Baltic, a distance of 1,300 miles in a fortnight, during which he thus kept up the pace at the tremendous rate of 90 miles a day. Nearest akin, perhaps, to this relay riding by Charles Boure are the "pony express" performances of Captain Cody, better known as "Buffalo Bill," who once covered an "extra distance" of 322 miles in one continuous ride at an average speed of fifteen miles an hour; while from Fort McPherson to Fort Kearney—a distance of 95 miles—he rode in twelve hours one day, and did the return ride the next day in the same time on the same horse.

In the annals of English history there is the record of a fine performance. This was the feat of Sir Robert Cary—afterwards Earl of Monmouth—who had private reasons of his own for being the first to announce to James VI. of Scotland the death of Queen Elizabeth, to whose throne the "British Solomon" was called to succeed. From London to Edinburgh the distance is now 400 miles, and at that time it may be said to have been even more, by reason of the wretchedness of the roads. Starting from Charing Cross on a Thursday morning (March 24, 1603), Sir Robert reached Holyrood on the following Saturday night. The first day he rode to Doncaster, 155 miles (presumably on relay horses); next night he slept at a house of his own in Witherington, in Northumberland, about 180 miles further, and on the evening of the following day he reached Holyrood, covered with blood from a fall on his horse in the last section of his tremendous ride. Thus Sir Robert—who spent two nights in bed—had done an average of about 133 miles a day for three successive days—a splendid instance of personal endurance.

Captain Charles Townley, a Queen's foreign service messenger in 1849, was sent to Constantinople by Lord Palmerston with despatches of momentous urgence and importance. The captain could get no further than Belgrade, by rail, and thence it behooved him to spur across the Balkans to Stamboul—a distance of 820 miles. Every moment was precious. His orders were "not to spare himself nor others." He did neither. His way lay through mud, mountains and darkness. An old musket wound opened in his wild career, and drenched him with blood, and he repeatedly fainted in the saddle. Twice his horse fell with him. Thirty minutes to change horses was all the rest he took—apart from one "blessed sleep of six hours," and so, after five days and eleven hours in the saddle, he rode, or rather reeled, into the courtyard of the British Embassy at Pera, after having covered an average distance of 150 miles a day for five and a half days—a finer case of personal endurance even than that of Sir Robert Cary, who had done his average 133 miles per diem for three days. The "voice of honor and humanity had been vindicated," as Canning wrote—nor would anyone have protested, if, in such a case, a hundred horses had been killed, and Townley's great ride of 820 miles in 131 hours was recited in the House of Commons to the pride and wonder of all Englishmen.

THAT TROUBLESOME GAS.

One of the Most Unpleasant Forms of Stomach Trouble and how to Cure it.

The failure of the stomach to properly digest the food manifests itself in many painful and distressing symptoms.

One of the most troublesome and difficult results of undigested food remaining in the stomach is the formation of gas.

This gas distends the walls of the stomach to a painful degree and frequently presses upward interfering with the action of the heart, thus causing palpitation and faintness.

The gas is the result of the decomposition of undigested food, and there is but one way to correct the evil and that is by restoring to the stomach the lost ability to digest all the food perfectly.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are a specific prepared for one purpose only and that is the correction and cure of all Stomach Troubles.

They digest the food, all of it, without the aid of the stomach, thus allowing that organ an opportunity for rest.

Rest is nature's only way to restore the tired organ.

That this theory is a correct one and that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are the remedy best adapted and most successful in carrying out the successful rest cure of the digestive organs has been proven by many of Canada's best people.

Among these may be mentioned Mr. W. H. Harmer, Postmaster at Avonmore, N.B., who for a long time suffered very severely with gas on the stomach. Often the food would rise in his throat and these unpleasant symptoms caused him no end of annoyance and distress, but having heard of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, he decided to try a treatment and in a short time was completely cured of both the difficulties which had troubled him.

He is completely cured. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure all forms of Stomach Troubles.

Bogus Antiques.

The remarkable disclosure that one of the ancient Roman statuettes in the museum at Vienna is found to be rich in tobacco products and to be, in fact, indisputably made from the wornout mouthpieces of pipes and cigar holders will send a shock through all the cabinets (with a small c) in Europe. It is now asserted that the majority of the antique works of art of this description are the work of contemporary Greeks, who appear to have made this unsavory industry theirs. As Lord Macaulay has it in a well known lay:

Such cunning they who live on high
Have given unto the Greek.

We may even adapt another line from the same source by the alteration of one word to form a motto for the collector of such curiosities:

Leave to the Greek his amber nymphs!

A CANNY SCOTCHMAN

THE FINANCIAL MANAGER OF THE COAL MINERS' STRIKE.

Workman Who Receives and Disburses $2,000,000 a Month—Bonded in Small Sum of $25,000. He Gets No More Than $2,000 a Year for His Services—Absolutely Trusted by His Fellows.

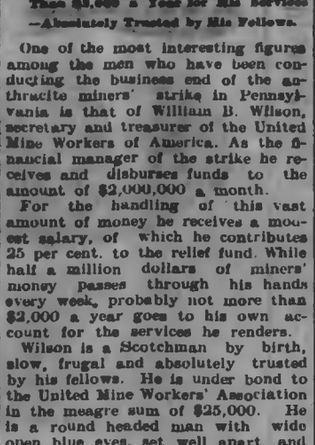
One of the most interesting figures among the men who have been conducting the business end of the anthracite miners' strike in Pennsylvania is that of William B. Wilson, secretary and treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America. As the financial manager of the strike he receives and disburses funds to the amount of $2,000,000 a month.

For the handling of this vast amount of money he receives a modest salary, of which he contributes 25 per cent. to the relief fund. While half a million dollars of miners' money passes through his hands every week, probably not more than $2,000 a year goes to his own account for the services he renders.

Wilson is a Scotchman by birth, slow, frugal and absolutely trusted by his fellows. He is under bond to the United Mine Workers' Association in the meagre sum of $25,000. He is a round headed man with wide open blue eyes, set well apart, and he talks slowly and with great deliberation. He conveys the impression of possessing great caution, application and fixity of purpose, and he handles the vast sums of money that the mails bring to his desk every morning as if it were a commercial product and not the legal tender of the country. He is assisted in his work by about a dozen young women, who handle the money, keep the books and attend to the vast amount of correspondence that is necessary to conduct the business of the association. Wilson designed the system by which the association's funds are handled, and it is simplicity itself.

The headquarters of President Mitchell are in Wilkesbarre, from which place he directs the miners' strike, while Wilson stays in Indianapolis and collects and distributes the sinews of war. Indianapolis is the general headquarters of the association because it is the geographical centre of the coal mining industry of the United States. Mitchell's office is there, and there he can be found in times of peace, directing the fortunes of the association.

The career of the man is as interesting as his present occupation and office. He was born in Blantyre,



MR. WILSON AT HIS DESK.

Scotland, and came to America when he was seven years old. When he was nine years old, he was a mine worker. His father was a miner, but owing to an injury to his back was able to undercut a coal bank, but unable to do his loading into the cars. This the boy did for him.

At the age of eleven years he was a half member of the Miners and Laborers' Benevolent Association. In 1876, when he was fourteen years old, he was local secretary of the union, and he was only nineteen years of age when he was dismissed from employment in the mines because of his active connection with the union. He went to Iowa and dug coal and worked on railroads and returned to Pennsylvania, where he again got occupation in the mines. In 1885 young Wilson was elected a member of the district executive board in Pennsylvania and five years later was a party to the organization of the United Mine Workers' Association.

He became a member of the national executive board of that body in 1891 and was then elected president of District No. 2 of Bituminous, Pa. May 8, 1900, he was appointed to fill the vacancy created in the office of secretary-treasurer and was elected to it in 1901 and re-elected in 1902. He is supreme financial officer of the organization.

Such in brief has been the career of the man in whom the mine workers of the United States place such absolute trust that they send him their contributions without hesitancy. Wilson is now forty years old, but in spite of the fact that he went to work in the mines when only nine years old he has been able through the qualities of persistence and concentration, which he possesses to a marked degree, to educate himself. He has read much and is a competent mining engineer.

The Oldest Vessel in Use.

A curious old boat arrived at Whitehaven, England, the other day. At one time, a hundred years ago, the vessel sailed regularly from Portaferry to Whitehaven and was then called the Portaferry frigate, and afterward the name of the Three Sisters was bestowed upon her. But, most extraordinary of all, it is solemnly alleged that she was used in 1689 at the siege of Londonderry to carry provisions up the famous Lough Foyle in those stirring times. If this be so—and the statement seems to be founded upon fact—the Three Sisters is the oldest vessel in actual use.

Four T's Makes Good Singers.

Many people when singing get husky, and this spoils the voice. Four T's is par excellence a lung and throat tonic, and cures chronic congestion of the bronchial tubes, making the voice clear as a bell. An ordinary cough is cured by a few doses of this marvellous medicine. Sold in 25 cent bottles at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

BRITISH POSTOFFICE.

Some Very Interesting Things Found in the Blue Book Just Issued by the Postmaster-General.

The British postal system is a great piece of mechanism that works like clockwork. With all its faults it carries on its work in a satisfactory manner, and the service is improved as each well-founded growl of the public finds its way into the newspapers, or to the Postmaster-General at St. Martin's Le Grand.

The annual report is a readable compendium of the blue book variety, but entertaining to an extent that is not characteristic of other Government publications. It is a pamphlet of 88 pages, less than a quarter of the number to be found in a Canadian report, but then it does not give so much detail as does the Ottawa issue.

The British postoffice carried in 1901 3,919,000,000 postal packets, including letters, post cards, books, circulars, newspapers and parcels. The letters have increased six per cent., or at a higher rate than for many years, excluding the two years after the Jubilee reduction of postage. The increase in postal cards was due to pictorial cards, and of the whole number of postal cards sixty-five per cent. were private cards.

The express delivery service is phenomenal. In London alone 963,038 articles were delivered by express messengers, and the special messenger service has increased eighteen per cent. 2,500 messengers were called by 'phone to houses of subscribers in London to perform express service, while in 2,150 cases a letter was dictated by 'phone to be sent by special messenger. The express delivery is akin to our special delivery stamp system.

The number of undelivered postal packets, which includes 10,183,866 letters, were 24,421,976. Nine million letters were re-directed and returned to the senders. About 600,000 letters from abroad were returned as undelivered. Book packets to the number of 11,523,272 were undelivered, but many were returned, and now it is common to mark packets prepaid one half-penny for return to the senders if undelivered. The registered letters rose in number sixty per cent., due largely to the use of the post for trade in cheap jewellery.

In dead letters £18,231 in cash and bank notes and £650,298 in bills, cheques, money orders, postal orders and stamps were found. Three thousand seven hundred and eighty-two letters were posted without addresses, but with £179 in cash and £3,-434 in cheques. There were found loose in the post 85,640 articles, including £1,000 in coin, and cheques to the value of £6,000. A half sovereign, which had evidently been used to seal a parcel was found to be still adhering to the wax on the arrival of the parcel in London.

The color of the penny stamp has been changed from purple to red, and the color of the sixpenny stamp from red to purple, and the twopence half-penny stamp is now printed in blue on white paper, instead of in purple on blue paper.

The registered letter envelopes stamp, or medallion, is now in value threepence to cover the registration fee of twopence and the penny postage, instead of the old medallion, which covered the registration only.

An estimate of the weight of letters and post cards and other articles exchanged by the United Kingdom with British Colonies show that to Canada and Newfoundlasd there were 81,000 letters and post cards; 1,000.000 circulars and newspapers were despatched; and that 90,-000 letters and post cards, and 440,000 circulars and newspapers were sent to the United Kingdom. Australia had a very much larger quantity. A statement of the number of foreign and colonial parcels despatched and received during the years ending 31st March, 1901, and 31st March, 1902, shows that there were despatched to Canada 66,-105 in 1900-01, and 75,221 in 1901-2, an increase of 9,116; while there were received in the United Kingdom from Canada in 1900-01 29,282, and in 1901-02 34,860, an increase of 5,578. The totals despatched and received show 95,387 in 1900 and 110,081 in 1901-2, an increase of 14,694. The increase in the total list shows Canada as above at 14,694, Cape Colony 87,676, New South Wales 188, New Zealand 5,-012, South Australia 236, West Australia 69. The increase in Cape Colony was on account of the war, and will now fall far below the Canadian figures.

To show how the postoffice watch mail connections, an abstract of contracts or agreements for the conveyance of mails is very interesting. For instance in the steam service between Holy Head and Kingston, twice a day with four steamers paid £100,000 or $500,000 up to March, 1917, and £80,000 or $400,000 after that date. A deduction is made for overtime of £1 14s. or $8.30 per minute. If on any occasion a vessel is not ready the penalty is £100 and £10 per hour for every hour beyond the stipulated time before the vessel starts. The contract time is three hours and thirty-seven minutes for 60 miles.

The Canadian Pacific Railway receives £60,000 or $240,000 a year for a five-year monthly service between Halifax or Quebec and China and Japan, via Vancouver. The contract commenced on April 7, 1901, and will terminate on April 6, 1906. The penalty for delay is £100 for every twelve hours. The amount received on this contract "by contributions" is "Canada £14,925 and the Admiralty £7,312," a total of £22,237. The amount received by sea postage for mails despatched by colonies and foreign countries was £2,763 and the cost borne in respect of mails despatched from the United Kingdom £34,700.

More Than Clumsy.

"My fingers seem to be all thumbs today," apologetically remarked the clumsy butcher.

"Ah," said the customer significantly, "that accounts for them getting in the weigh."

Discouraging.

It is discouraging, to say the least, to a young man who has been tenderly nursing a few straggling hairs on his upper lip for three months to have his girl say, "Oh, Charley, why don't you let your mustache grow?"

The reason we don't see our own faults is that our eyes are just big enough for other people's.—New York News.

WE SCRIBES.

The builders of cities, of worlds, are we.
The unnamed scribes, and of unknown worth;
For we are the kinsmen of Progress, and he
The one Prince we serve on the whole wide earth.
Nor gold, nor glory, nor name we claim—
We ask but the right, unfettered to fight;
To name a wrong by its shameless name;
To slay the wrong for the love of the Right.

The sentries of cities, of worlds, are we,
Each standing alone in his high watch-tower:
We are looking away to the land, to the sea;
We have only a lamp in the midnight hour.
Then leave us the right to fight or to fall.
As God may will, in the front of the fight,
Unchallenged, unquestioned for the good of all,
For the truth that lives, for the love of the Right.

The givers of glory to nations are we.
The builders of shafts and of monuments
To soldiers and great daring men of the sea;
But we are the homeless, strange dwellers in tents,
With never a tablet or high-built stone.
Yet what care we who go down in the fight,
Though we live unnamed, though we die unknown,
If only we live and die for the Right.

There are brighter things in the world than gold,
There are nobler things in this world than fame—
To silently do with your deeds untold,
To silently die unnoised to fame.
Then forth to the fight, unnamed and alone,
Let us lead the world to its destined height;
Enough to know, if but this be known,
When we live and die in the ranks for the Right!

—Joaquin Miller.

They Father Consumption.

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhosone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing germ-killing vapour. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headaches and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months treatment, $1; trial size, 25 cents. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills are mild.

Kitchener's Autograph Estimate.

That Lord Kitchener's modesty is equaled only by his brusqueness was proved the other day during his stay with Lord Londonderry at Wynyard Park, says a London cable despatch. The hero of South Africa has been pursued by an army of autograph hunters and snap-shotters. Finally to one young man who had served in South Africa Lord Kitchener turned and said impatiently: "Young man, make your own autograph worth something. Mine is worth nothing."

His "Waterloo Breeches."

The first Duke of Wellington once received a letter from C. J. Loudon, a horticulturist, asking permission to see the Waterloo beeches at Strathfieldaye. Mistaking the signature for "C. J. London" and "beeches for breeches," the Duke wrote gravely to the great astonishment of that good man, that his Waterloo breeches had "disappeared long ago."

Not a Quack Doctor.

Merrill's System Tonic does not eminate from quackery, but, is a scientifically prepared and valuable prescription, curing all diseases having origin in Constipation and weak or vitiated blood. It purifies the blood, builds up the system, strengthens the nerves and regulates the bowels. Sold in 50c bottles containing 50 doses, at Ormond & Walsh's.

A Thames Island for Sale.

The famous Eel Pie Island Hotel at Twickenham, with its freehold, is in the market, and will be shortly brought under the hammer, says Lloyds' Weekly Newspaper. It has a main frontage of 580ft. to the river, with an 80ft. depth to the backwater, and is highly popular with boating parties up river. It is a pretty, sequestered spot, set in a silver stream, amid a mass of foliage, and forms part of the picturesque Richmond Hill view. It was hereabouts that Pope wrote and Turner painted some of his masterpieces of river scenery with cloud effects. The "tube" and the electric cars will a short month hence bring the island in direct communication with the Bank and the Mansion House.

Taxed Cats.

In the German town Augustusberg a tax of 25 cents on one cat and of 75 cents on a second cat in the same household was imposed some years ago. It worked so well in reducing the number of stray and valueless animals that the cities are thinking of following the example of the town.

DISTRESSING ITCHING PILES

Dr. Chase's Ointment

If you go to a physician for a cure for piles he will probably tell you that a surgical operation is necessary, or else that there is no cure for piles. Physicians who are not prejudiced will recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment.

We believe that the best testimony to the powers of Dr. Chase's Ointment is that of cured ones and the newspapers of this country are filled with evidence such as the following;

Mr. Thos. H. Hewson, blacksmith, Orangeville, Ont., writes, "I find Dr. Chase's Ointment the best thing I ever used for itching piles for whenever I have been troubled with this disagreeable and distressing ailment it has brought prompt relief and cure. It is also excellent as a treatment for burns and sores, such as a person receives in my trade. I can fully recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment for itching piles and burns and sores."

"FAINT HEART"

By William MacLeod Raine

Copyright, 1901, by W. M. Raine

She noticed that the Cuban sun and fever had taken it out of him a good bit. He walked as erect as ever, but his uniform coat hung loose about him like a sack and his step lacked the buoyant spring that used to distinguish his approach. He took her pink little palm in his tanned yellow hand with a great sigh of relief.

"It's good to get back to God's country again," he told her after the first greetings were past.

"I suppose you did miss a good many things down there. It must have been awful, if the newspaper accounts are true."

He shrugged his thin shoulders.

"It wasn't exactly a picnic; but, then, men don't go to war for fun—at least they are not liable to find it if they do."

"And what did you miss most?"

A flash of his old audacity leaped to his eye. "A little girl in New York. There were other things I wanted—iced drinks, something to eat that was green, a place to sleep in where the water wasn't more than six inches deep—but it was the girl I wanted to see most."

She gave him her most suave smile. "I didn't know you had any sisters."

"I haven't. This was another man's sister."

"Oh!"

There did not seem to be anything further to say along that line, so far as she was concerned. Presently she asked:

"Has the regiment been ordered home?"

Yes; we're all here—what's left of us!" Then he added, "I came home to tell this girl I love her."

"Yes?" she asked with polite interest. "Did you have the regiment ordered home just for that? Isn't it taking a good deal of trouble?"

"Not too much. That's what I'm here for—to take trouble, if I can only gain my end."

She murmured something about hoping she would be able to congratulate him soon.

His big eyes covered her steadily. "Do you really hope so?"

"Of course. But do tell me about the war. I'm just dying to know all about how it feels to be in battle."

"There's nothing much to tell," he answered, somehow feeling baffled without quite knowing why. "It's awfully hot and dusty, and once in a while some poor fellow gets knocked over. There isn't anything much to see. One gets a throat like a limekiln; no trouble at all to raise a thirst. That's about all. But there's something else I'd rather talk about."

"Oh, yes—the charges against the government about the feeding and care of the soldiers," she acquiesced hastily.

"Hang the charges! I'm not worrying about them at all. It's this girl I want to talk about."

"Oh, that girl again!"

"Yes; I'm interested in her."

"Is she nice?"

"I think so."

"And good looking?"

"Well, her looks make a bit with me."

"Doubtless she would be gratified to know it."

"I'm not so sure about that," he answered, looking at her swiftly. "In point of fact, she knows it already, only she pretends not to. I can't seem to find out where I stand with her. When I get ready to tell her, she laughs at me with the gravest face imaginable. One can't grow sentimental when a girl is making game of one, you know."

"No, I suppose not," she assented demurely.

He took a grip on himself and decided that the time had come to storm this fortress, to which the run up San Juan hill appeared a mere bagatelle.

"There was once a young fellow at the Point," he began nervously. "Naturally he thought himself in love, but the curious thing is that he was in love. Fact is he didn't know any more about girls than you do about the native jargon of the Hindoo. He never had been with them. But once—well, the sister of a classmate came visiting at the Point, and after that she was the only woman in the world that counted."

She settled herself more comfortably in the chair and smiled dazzlingly at him. Never a maiden more unconscious of his ulterior meaning.

"How charmingly romantic! Do go on. I hope there will be immense difficulties in the way—another lover, obdurate parent, heartrending separation, mutual vows of undying fealty."

"No; there wasn't any obdurate parent. So far as I could find out her father hadn't any objections to my—to this young fellow—marrying his daughter. There were separations enough. He had to play hide and seek with the Apaches in Arizona for a year or two, but I never discovered that her heart was rent."

"Perhaps it was loaned or even given away," she bubbled.

He paid no attention to this sally, though he appreciated it.

"There was another lover," he continued, eyes full on hers. "He was a man of a good deal of force, had made his own way in the world and was on the road to wealth. He could give her all the things that this lieutenant couldn't give her, the luxuries she had been used to all her life."

"Oh, I see. He could feed her on bonbons." This most innocently.

"He could provide for her as she ought to be provided for."

"Still it is just conceivable that even a girl might weary of eating sweets the livelong year in and year out, isn't it?" she asked, with a touch of asperity.

"I'm not talking about confections exactly, but there are decencies to be observed. A fellow can't ask a young woman of a wealthy family to come and share nothing with him."

"Oh, no. Much better leave her to her digestion of the confections and other toys you mentioned."

"Arizona is not exactly a place where a society girl would care to live."

"Of course he asked her whether she would like to go there. He didn't go away without giving her a chance, I suppose."

The lieutenant flushed. "He simply couldn't ask her. The thing was unthinkable. He would have deserved to be shot if he had taken her out there to die of loneliness away from home."

"So he left her to her bonbons. He can't have thought much of her. She was probably only a fancy of the moment."

"But you are quite wrong. He did. Don't you see that it was because he cared so much for her that he could not ask her to share a lot like that with him? He went away and bore his hurt silently."

"That was very generous of him," she admitted cordially. "But you must be wrong about the officer, Lieutenant Weston. He couldn't have really believed in the girl if he thought these luxuries were more to her than the man she loved. If he had thought her a true woman he would not have hesitated to give her the choice. It would not have been fair to her to go away without a word. He must have thought her a butterfly."

Weston's eyes grew eloquent. "Believe me, he knew her to be all things good, but he had so little to offer that he knew he had not the right to offer it. There are some things a man may not do."

She had nothing more to say. The rest was for him.

"Besides, he did not know whether she loved him or not. At times it seemed to him that she did, and then again he thought she didn't. Perhaps if he had known—been sure"—

He stopped, but she offered him no help. Nor did her eyes meet his fairly. The downcast lids hid the answer that otherwise might have been read there.

"Miss Chisholm—Kate—I have come now to find out. While I lay with the fever heavy on me, face to face with death, things took on new relations to each other. Poverty and wealth and external distinctions of society appeared to me the accidents of life; love stood out a great verity to dwarf these. I made a pledge with myself then that if I lived I would find out whether you loved me or not. Long ago I should have asked you but for my pride. Today it is my pride to brush aside my pride. Will you be my wife, Kate?"

She flashed one radiant look at him, and Weston had his answer before the words trembled from her lips.

PAINFUL STATISTICS.

French Infant Mortality Caused by Bad and Adulterated Milk—M. Gaston Leroux's Article in Explanation.

M. Gaston Leroux publishes in the Matin an article on the infant mortality caused by bad and adulterated milk. He quotes statistics of a most painful nature, which would seem to demonstrate beyond doubt, that an enormous percentage of the children who die annually in France are literally poisoned by bad milk. This article is illustrated by a map of France, on which the greater or less infant mortality from that cause is indicated by small or large black spots. A glance at it shows that France may be divided into two regions, one to the north of the Loire, where more than half the children who die succumb to gastritis, whereas to the south of the Loire not more than one-third die from that disease. At Troyes the percentage of the infants carried off by gastric diseases is 69, at Mans it is 63, at Rennes 64, at Boulonge-sur-Mer 49, at Amiens 62, at Lille 56, at Paris 36. In the south of France the comparatively few deaths of infants from that disease is most striking. At Toulouse it is 31 per cent. of the total infantile mortality, at Beziers 12 per cent., and at Clermont only 6 per cent.

Explaining the phenomenon of the high rate of infant mortality from gastritis to the north of the Loire compared to that in the south of France, M. Gaston Leroux says it is due to the adulteration in the north of the country, where the making of butter is a great industry, whereas very little butter is made in the south. He considers that it is, moreover, now completely established that to feed children even on unadulterated cream is a dangerous and guilty practice. In connection with the dangers attending the consumption of milk, not only by infants, but by adult persons, it is interesting to note the following lines contained in "Les Principes de Laiterie," written by Dr. Duchaux, Director of the Pasteur Institute:

"Numerous experiments have shown that milk of cows suffering from tuberculosis contains bacilli of tuberculoses, not only when the udder is contaminated with tuberculosis, but when it is in reality healthy and the disease elsewhere. It can be affirmed to-day that numerous persons suffering from tuberculosis owe their disease to milk and that to avoid the danger of infection, which is much greater than might be supposed, it is necessary to cease drinking unboiled milk."—London Standard's Paris Correspondent.

YOU CAN'T BEGIN TOO EARLY.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Affords Happy and Marvellous Results to Rheumatic Sufferers.

The autumn season, with its changeful weather, is a time of dread to all rheumatic sufferers. Chilling winds, cold rains, and heavy, impure atmosphere, aggravate every condition of rheumatism, and bring many sufferers desperately near the grave.

Are you a victim of rheumatism in its acute or chronic forms? If so, you can't begin too early to get rid of this baneful disease, to purify the blood and strengthen the system.

The marvellous victories of Paine's Celery Compound wrought in the past, justifies you in giving this wonderful medicine an immediate trial. It has given to agonized, helpless, and crippled men and women a new and happy life — freedom from all pains and sufferings. It has produced amazing cures after the failures of able physicians. At this season Paine's Celery Compound will do the same good work for you, dear reader. Mr. William McWilliams, of Bradford, Ont., writes as follows:

"Unsolicited, I forward this testimonial regarding the value of Paine's Celery Compound. I am well up in years and was sorely afflicted with rheumatism. I purchased and used six bottles of your medicine, and am now perfectly well. I have no rheumatism left."

Got a Better Place.

Daniel O'Connell once told the House of Commons an amusing story of bribery. A farmer in the County of Wexford was promised a position for his son in return for his vote for a member of the Loftus family. The father's ambition for the boy aimed at a sergeantcy in the artillery, but Lord Loftus, on applying for this post for the youth, was informed that it was totally impossible to grant his request, inasmuch as it required a previous service of six years to qualify a candidate for the position. "Does it require six years to qualify a candidate for the position. "Does it require six years to qualify him for a lieutenancy?" demanded Lord Loftus. "Certainly not," was the answer. "Well, can't you make him a lieutenant, then?" rejoined Lord Loftus. "Whereupon," said O'Connell, "the fellow was made a lieutenant for no better reason than just because he was not fit to be a sergeant."

Impromptu Speeches.

James Russell Lowell is recorded as saying that he always liked to prepare his impromptu speeches. At a dinner given to Mr. Longfellow during a visit to London it was agreed that no set speeches should be made.

After the fruit and coffee had been discussed, Admiral Farragut arose and protested that they could not dream of parting without hearing from Mr. Gladstone.

Mr. Gladstone began by assuring the company that he was of the mind of Lord Palmerston, who said, "Better a dinner of herbs where no speaking is than whitebait and oratory therewith."

His "remarks" developed into an eloquent oration. He had read the works of the American poet and quoted passages from several of his poems, and concluded by paying a splendid tribute to Mr. Longfellow's attainments.

Valuable Advice to Mothers.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness off any kind, the first thing get your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles only 25 cents.

MR. SEDDON.

Energetic Premier of New Zealand Well Thought of at Home.

Mr. Seddon, Premier of New Zealand, appears to hold a most enviable place in the hearts of his countrymen. A small New Zealander, asked to write an essay on "The Peace," produced the following:—"The Boers fought against England and Mr. Seddon sent the army to Africa and fought them. Bye-and-bye everyone thought it time to stop but the Boers wouldn't. So Mr. Seddon went to South Africa and told the Boers he would send another army if they would not make peace, and they did, provided he would be their Governor, and he promised he would be."

Possibly the lad's ignorance of what Mr. Seddon actually did while in South Africa last spring may be due to the fact that the very scant reports of his speeches reached his own country. When the energetic New Zealand Premier was in Johannesburg he was entertained by the members of the Stock Exchange and made a speech that in the first instance filled a column and a quarter of The Johannesburg Star. The paper had gone to press, a few hundred copies had been printed when the censor appeared on the scene. He seized all the printed copies and ordered the speech to be taken out until he had time to go through it carefully. As this would have involved too much delay in publication, the editor decided to obliterate the whole of the speech. The copies that have reached New Zealand show a blank column and a quarter, save for a few smudges caused by chiselling. Mr. Seddon's chief offence seems to have been the incorporation of a confidential telegram from Lord Kitchener in his stirring speech.

The Critical Time of Life.

Is between the years of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the progress of decay sets in. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigour is to take Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone keeps up the appetite, and in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, imparts clearness to the tiring brain, force, energy and spirits just when they are needed most. To take Ferrozone regularly means adding from ten to twenty years to life. Large boxes, 50 cents, or six boxes for $2.50. At druggists or Ormond & Walsh's. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are certain.

Britain's Great General.

Viscount Kitchener has done his work well, and he has accomplished even more in the just and honorable peace he has arranged than in the brilliant military skill with which he made it possible. The British have good reason, therefore, to be proud of their general, for he is both able in diplomacy and brilliant in the field.—Le Temps, Paris.

THE WALL STREET MARKET

Opened Weak and Remained so This Morning.

Some Closing Quotations—Bank Statement was Rather Disappointing.

The Wall street market opened down about 1-2 point this morning from last night's close, and in consequence of the poor bank statement, went lower and closed from 1 to 2 points down all round. The following were some closing quotations—R.A., 150 1-2; B.O., 103 1-2; Rdg. 67; N.Y.C., 152 1-2; C.P.R., 132 1-2; Atch. 85 5-8; St. Paul, 83 1-4; L. & N., 136 1-2; Sug., 120; U.P. 102 3-8; M.O.P., 107 1-2; S.P., 69 3-4; Sloss 60.

New York, Oct. 10th.—While on the subject of steel stocks, to which we have devoted our last two letters, we cannot refrain from again calling your attention to the shares of the Pressed Steel Car and Foundry. About six weeks ago when pressed steel was 51 and car and foundry 30, we sent out a letter on each one of them, separately, recommending their purchase for a good advance, also analysing both properties so our clients would be thoroughly familiar with them. If you will consult your file of our letters, you will see how urgent and ultra-bullish both of these letters were. Both stocks duly made each a tremendous advance, and in the face of serious obstacles, a close money market. Had the market for money been normal, we believe each of these issues would to-day be quoted at least five points higher than their yet best recorded prices.

We believed pressed car will shortly sell above 75, and car and foundry about 45. These two companies will undoubtedly be consolidated some time within the next twelve months. And there is every reason that once they are one concern, the Pullman Palace Co. would be likely to be interested in their management. They are the people who would like to be in control of the consolidated corporation. Pressed Steel Car statement shows it to be earning over 12 per cent. upon its common stock. Pressed Steel Car is paying off $500,000 bonds per annum out of net earnings, these bonds being put out originally by the Company at its inception for the purpose of providing working capital. Both stocks are still immensely cheap, and are bound, in the natural order of events, to sell very much higher. Note their tremendous strength in face of tight money and in a market in which prices for many shares crumbled away materially. Both concerns have a very nice surplus, and each at the present time has more orders on hand than they can conveniently care for. Their many patents give them absolute control of the production of their kind, and consequently prohibitive to competition. For an investor to purchase and put away they are a splendid proposition for a speculator to purchase upon margin. They are as absolutely certain to return good profits as any proposition can be in Wall street.

Summary.—Market more dull to-day. The improved advances are better sustained the past three days than heretofore. The past three days has witnessed considerable manipulation in the money market, attempts being plainly apparent to bid it up as high as possible. Yet prices advance. We think exceedingly well of the market at the present writing, and quite strongly urge its purchase, averaging same, if the opportunity should offer. To-morrow's letter, "Bottom Prices Reached, —Time to Buy." Money closed at 4 per cent. Total sales, 635,100.

HAIGHT & FREESE CO.

New York, Oct. 11th, 9.30 a.m.—Aside from the prospect of a comparatively good bank statement, the effect of which will be purely sentimental, there is nothing in general news or any change that we can see in the general situation to alter the aspect of the market or to encourage purchase of stock. The settlement of the strike seemed to be as far off as ever. Any rally in the market should be taken advantage of to secure profits, and at best, nothing better than a narrow traders' market is expected.

London market generally shows improvement, home investments following lead of Consols, last mentioned being bought for French account. Americans, after heavy openings, have hardened. South African shares heavy, coppers flat.

Latest reports on week's movement of currency, according to the Chronicle, shows that the banks gained $4,000,000 in sub-treasury operations, chiefly in gold imports, but lost $2,000,000 on net interior movement. This apparent net gain of $2,000,000 in cash, together with the general idea that the banks have been able to decrease loans during the week, is expected to make the statement show a moderate increase in surplus reserves.

Cable opens wheat unchanged, corn 1-8 lower.

Total sales, 351,600. Money on all loans five per cent.

M. & M.

1.30 p.m.—The situation and outlook of the stock market continues unfavorable to holders of securities generally, and the chances for any material improvement seems as remote as a week ago. The only substantial relief to the money market has come from forced liquidation of stocks carried on margins by the generality of operators and various pools. The relief afforded by the Government has been too slight to appear to any material benefit, and as our credit balance with Europe continues against us, and the west and south is still drawing funds to move crops, there is no immediate probability of any natural relaxation from the present continued stringent conditions. While liquidation has been extensive the past fortnight among commission houses and pools. There are still a number of the latter who are evidently embarrassed and anxious to unload. Meantime the rich men, who have been looked to as likely to support the market, find themselves with too much stock on hand, or else they do not regard the position of the market as yet favourable enough to warrant taking a hold again. As a consequence, we would still discourage purchases, and believe it prudent and safer to continue conservative, and would rather favour liquidation of holdings or rallies. The bank statement was unfavourable, and caused a great deal of selling, causing declines in the last half hour. Besides this, there is the coal situation, with no prospect of settlement in sight, but rather more chances of serious trouble, arising from continued refusal of operators to grant any concessions whatever, and the adoption of a more aggressive policy in opening up the mines.

CAMPBELLFORD BOOMING.

Several New Factories That are Locat in That Town.

Speaking of the result of a recent vote on a bylaw to bonus a shoe factory to locate in Campbellford, the Despatch of that town says;

"As a result of our enterprise, we will in a few weeks have located in our town one of the largest and best boot and shoe establishments in Ontario, as well as an extensive foundry and machine shop.

"Property in Campbellford is worth 20 per cent. more to-day than it was a week ago. There is not a vacant house in town, except a few shacks, and as forty or fifty families are to move here within a couple of months, it is necessary that a number of new buildings be erected at once."

Cornering Welsh Coal.

London, Oct. 11—One dealer quoted Welsh anthracite yesterday at 28 to 30 shillings ($6.92 to $7.20) a ton F. O. B. at Swansea, but the market is so unsettled that dealers say holders can get almost any price they like. Coal is being stored at Swansea until the end of the year.

1,500 Pressmen Strike.

New York, Oct. 11.—Fifteen hundred pressmen are now on strike, and the Franklin Association of Pressmen expects soon to have forty-five printing establishments in this city tied up. The men demand a minimum wage of from $12 to $14 a week.

There will be football match in Toronto on Thanksgiving Day as the Rough Riders have refused to agree to the Argonauts request for the change to that day of the match scheduled for Saturday, October 18.

TENNIS.

The final game in the gentlemen's singles in the fall tournament of the Peterborough Tennis Club was played yesterday afternoon on the club's lawn, and resulted in Mr. F. D. Kerr defeating Mr. Sandford Hall by the following scores; 6—3, 6—3, 6—4. This is the fifth consecutive year that Mr. Kerr has won the championship of the Gentlemen's Singles. The contest was three out of five games.

A GREAT ORIENTALIST.

An Appreciative Sketch of the Life of the Late Dr. Stratton.

The death of Dr. Stratton at Gulmarg, India, brings to an untimely close the career of the foremost philologian that Canada has so far produced. Two years ago, while abroad as a delegate to the Oriental Congress at Rome, he accepted the offer of the position of head of the Oriental College at Lahore, India, and registrar of the University of Punjab. No Englishman was found capable of the place and after consultation with Professor Bloomfield of the Johns Hopkins University it was offered to Dr. Stratton, who had the rare qualifications necessary. He was a graduate of the University of Toronto, with the highest honors in classics, he had been a successful teacher of classics in the Hamilton Collegiate Institute, and had pursued graduate study in the Johns Hopkins University in which for some years he was fellow in Sanskrit, and where he gained the reputation of being the most brilliant student of comparative philology the university had had. At the time of his Indian appointment, he was associate in Sanskrit in the University of Chicago.

Weary of climbing the slow ladder of promotion in Chicago, and desirous of seeing near at hand the life and country associated with his chief studies, Dr. Stratton went to India, conscious of the difficulties and dangers of his new position. He had to administer the affairs of higher education in the Punjab, as well as give professional lectures in Sanskrit and comparative philology in the college. It was typical of his thoroughness that he was no sooner entered on his work than he learned the vernacular and was able to teach the Indian classics to native students through the medium of Urdu. He had rare gifts—not only the literary appreciatian of the languages, but a peculiar genius for languages on their scientific side, and for the great problems of the Indo-European philology. At the time of his death he was prosecuting a monumental work on the Greek stems, part of which was presented as his doctor's thesis in the Johns Hopkins University, and printed by the press of the University of Chicago. In the furtherance of this work he had mastered all the languages of Indo-European scholarship, and made vast collections of material.

Friends of the University of Toronto, had hoped that when the time came to fill the chair of comparative philology in the university there would be opportunity to recall to Canada a brilliant scholar in a most difficult field. The unexpected news of his death has come with a great shock to his many friends and associates in Toronto, Baltimore and Chicago.

Dr. Stratton won as high regard for his personal qualities as for his scholarship. He had the gentleness, modesty and kindliness, as well as the conviction and high aims, that make the nature that is truly great. His loss is irreparable.—Fred. H. Sykes, in Toronto Globe.

PRAIRIE LIFE TOO LONELY

Novel Experiment in C[illegible]

An [illegible]

few intelligent persons I have gathered that many who would otherwise be inclined to go to Canada are deterred by the dreaded isolation and loneliness of farm life on the prairie.

"People desire neighbors, and many, in short, would emigrate if they could join a company of desirable people who would settle closer together and be neighbors.

"This grouping of settlers would have many of the advantages of co-operative agriculture and would mean success from the start.

"Large reduction in the cost of transportation of the people and their effects from the mother country to their new home in Canada and also of farm machinery, animals and building material purchased there would be a necessary result.

"There might further be co-operative ownership and use of the heavier and more expensive kinds of farm implements, such as mowing, reaping and threshing machines. These are only a few of many obvious advantages."

Such a party, he concludes, is being organized, with himself at its head, and he is prepared to receive communications from any one who would like to join it.

Montreal, Oct. 11.—General Manager McNicholl of the Canadian Pacific was yesterday afternoon, waited upon by a deputation representing the Lord's Day Alliance of Canada. In reply to their requests, General Manager McNicholl promised to give them his careful attention and to see what could be done to prevent all unnecessary labor on Sunday.

A Right to Judge.

Persons who have used Dr. Chase's Ointment have the best right to judge of its merits and there is no preparation on the market to-day which is backed by such a mass of testimony. It cures eczema, salt rheum and piles so promptly and thoroughly that people feel it a pleasure to recommend it to others. See testimonials in the newspapers.

BIGGER THAN EVER | BETTER THAN EVER | MORE ROOM | MORE LIGHT

H. LeBRUN & CO.

(ESTABLISHED 1873.)

The Splendid Success of Our Splendid New Store.

We take great pleasure in announcing the Splendid Success attending the Opening of our Splendid New Store. We had a good store before, but nothing like our new one. To-day we have a store with a frontage of 40 feet on Hunter Street and 25 feet on George Street. It is more convenient, better lighted, more commodious, and better ventilated, with every up-to-date facility for displaying and selling Clothing and Furnishings of the highest possible order.

Thirty years of straightforward business building stand behind this evidence of success. For thirty years we have been giving the most satisfying value in both Made-to-Order and Ready-Made Clothing in Peterborough. And it is gratifying to know that we have had a string on our customers that has made them keep coming back for more. To-day we have gained and retained what we have striven for—The Confidence of the Buying Public.

ENORMOUS STOCKS IN OUR NEW STORE.

Never before, in all the years we have been in business, have we laid in such enormous stocks of Superior Ready-to-Wear Clothing, Cloths, Hats, Underwear and Furnishings for Fall and Winter wear, as is now displayed in our New Store. The high character of all our stocks is guaranteed. There is but one way to hold the trade we have and win the trade we will have, and that is by offering at all times GOODS THAT WILL NOT ONLY SELL, BUT SATISFY.

CLOTHS.

Our Fall and Winter selections of Imported and Domestic Suitings and Overcoatings for our Merchant Tailoring Department is the largest between Toronto and Montreal. We offer the best choice that gentlemen can possibly have for their Made-to-Measure orders. Our new cutter, Mr. Williamson, is a practical artist in fashioning garments, and will allow nothing to pass through his hands that does not satisfy the most exacting and exclusive dresser.

HIGH-CLASS READY-MADES.

The standard of our Ready-Made Clothing has, is now, and always will be carefully guarded. What we buy comes from only the most reliable makers; and what we make up ourselves is done by high-priced skilled labour. No defective garment will leave this establishment if we know it.

MEN'S and BOY'S OVERCOATS

Reefers, Ulsters, Raglanettes, Box Coats, Fine Suits, Business Suits, etc., are all so reliable, so up-to-date and so moderately priced that we are sure they will win us staunch friends and customers.

UNDERWEAR.

We have double the stock of Underwear usually carried, and we do not know where you can get so large a stock to choose from or such solid value as we are offering. We can supply you Underwear from 25c to $3.50 a garment. Anything you want in wool and cotton, fleece-lined, cashmere, Scotch wool, natural wool, and fine silk or wool.

FINE UP-TO-DATE HATS.

We are right up-to-date with our Hats, as with everything else we sell. The settled styles are here. Popular Derbys, softs and stiffs. As good hats at $2.00 as you can buy anywhere for $2.50 and $3.00.

SWELL FURNISHINGS.

The top notch of fall and winter styles in Gentlemen's High-class Furnishings. Every new thing in fine Gloves, Shirts, Collars, Cuffs, Ties, Braces, etc.

ALWAYS HAPPY TO SEE YOU, and don't forget that you'll find nothing nobbier, swaller or better in town at any time for any price than at H. LeBRUN & CO'S.

Miners Would Accept Financier as Sole Arbitrator.

LABOR'S APPEAL FOR SUPPORT.

The American Federation of Labor Takes Strong Sides With the United Mine Workers and Urges General Public and Organized Labor to Help—The Plan of Campaign.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The following "Address to the Public and Organized Labor" was issued yesterday by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor:

The strike of the miners is now in its twenty-third week. That the strike occurred was entirely the fault of the presidents of the coal companies; that the strike has continued to this day is entirely due to the contempt which the presidents of the coal companies have for the people of our country and the untold sufferings which all may endure.

No offer to settle the strike could be fairer than that made by the miners' representatives at the conference with President Roosevelt. The operators' haughty arrogance, brutal, dominating spirit, blasphemous assumption of divine wealth-proprietorship, shocked the civilized world, and aroused the honest indignation of all lovers of justice and fair dealing.

What more could the miners do and maintain their self-respect and not forfeit the respect of their fellow men, than their willingness to submit all matters in dispute to a commission appointed by President Roosevelt, and, when that was refused to leave the entire controversy to Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, who is largely interested with the operators.

There has never been a time, either before the strike or since its inauguration, that the miners have not been entirely willing to have the questions involved in the miners' claims investigated and adjusted by any disinterested persons.

These circumstances in connection with the strike are recounted so that the people of our country may place where it properly belongs the responsibility for all the suffering which the people may have to bear by reason of the impending coal famine. The cold blasts of winter confront us, and the chattering teeth of young innocent children, the shivering of the weak, poorly clad and underfed men and women; the stoppage of the wheels of industry and commerce; the health undermined and the thousands driven to untimely graves; the calamity threatening our entire social life and tranquility, with all the dire consequence which may follow, are all upon the heads of the mine operators.

The principles, the cause for which the miners are bearing the greatest sacrifices and burdens, are as dear to the hearts of all as to the miners.

The miners must be sustained in their righteous and holy struggle. The miners must at least have bread for themselves, their wives and their little ones.

In behalf of the miners, in behalf of the cause of freedom, for justice and right, the undersigned, representing the organized wage earners of America, appeal to all people to contribute generously, promptly, and to continue the same until the termination of this contest, and to that end it is suggested that:

First—In each city and town business, professional and public men form relief committees to solicit financial and other contributions.

Second—The hour between 10 and 11 o'clock of each Monday morning during the continuance of the strike is designated as "miners' hour," and the wages earned during that hour by the working people of our country be contributed to the strike.

Third—Ministers of the gospel of all denominations make a special plea to their respective congregations each Sabbath morning in behalf of the miners, their wives and children, and that they constitute themselves into relief committees among their respective parishioners.

Fourth—The daily, weekly and labor press solicit contributions from their readers.

Fifth—Entertainments be arranged, and contributions from unions and other organized bodies be solicited.

Fellow citizens, fellow wage earners: Come to the aid of the miners in their heroic contest, and administer a well-merited rebuke to the mine operators in their arrogant, oppressive and unjustifiable attitude toward the miners—the operators who would trample under foot and crush the hearts and spirit of the men whom they employ with equally callous indifference as they outrage the dignity, the manhood and the interests of every man, woman and child in our land.

Send all contributions to W. B. Wilson, secretary, United Mine Workers of America, Stevenson Building, Indianapolis, Indiana.

Quebec Judge Dies.

Montreal, Oct. 13.—Judge Bourgeois, one of the senior judges of the Supreme Court of the Province of Quebec, passed away at his residence Saturday night after a prolonged illness. Judge Bourgeois, who was in his 66th year, was appointed to the Superior Court Bench in 1876. He tried the Oka Indians for arson at Aylmer in 1879, and was also the trial judge in the famous Hooper murder trial at Three Rivers in 1895.

Two U.S. Jockeys Excluded.

Paris, Oct. 13.—Lesoir announced last night that the Jockey Cub Saturday withdrew the licenses of the United States jockeys, Milton Henry and J. Reiff, excluding them from riding on any French race course. This action is the outcome, says the paper, of very careful investigation made by the Detective Department, which secured proofs that Henry and Reiff, upon several occasions have prevented favorites from winning.

London, Oct. 13. — Rev. Charles Henry Robinson, Honorary Canon of Ripon, has been appointed Dean of Westminster, in succession to the Very Rev. George Granville Bradley.

PRESIDENT'S POLICY

Open and Run Mines Under Federal Military Supervision.

THIS WOULD SUIT ROOSEVELT.

It Is Said This Course May Be Evolved from the Situation—J. P. Morgan a Big Factor in the Settlement When It Comes—Mr. Root Visits Man Miners are Willing to Accept.

Washington, Oct. 13.—Will the coal operators accept J. Pierpont Morgan as the arbitrator to end the coal strike, is the question around which interest was focused last night. Secretary of War Root was in the city Saturday as the emissary of President Roosevelt and conferred with Mr. Morgan.

An official address issued by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, of which President Mitchell is a member, throws this important light on the questions at issue, that the miners had offered to leave the matters in dispute to Mr. Morgan.

What were the influences exerted by the coal operators which opposed Mr. Morgan's mediation?

The inference from the address of the Executive Council is not that he objected, but that he was not acceptable to some operators. President Baer, for instance, may have objected to Mr. Morgan and the principle of arbitration with the miners as a party. Hence the quarrel with Mr. Baer.

The construction placed upon Mr. Root's visit to New York is that its object was to secure the consent of opponents of Mr. Morgan.

The only other construction to be placed on the visit of Mr. Root is that Mr. Morgan himself did not desire to accept the responsibility of the arbitration and that Mr. Root went over to remove, if possible, his objections.

The acceptance of Mr. Morgan as sole arbitrator would end the present situation, and it is possible that the miners would in the meantime go to work under what the diplomats call a modus vivendi.

Mr. Root was the special agent of the President to New York, when he was preparing the way for the conference of Oct. 3. Mr. Root was also the agent of the President at the Arlington Hotel conference at which he pleaded with the operators to reconsider their rejection of the President's propositions.

The policy which would suit the President and which may be evolved out of the situation if arbitration fails, would be to have the mines opened and run under Federal military supervision.

The assumption of control by the military would not be allowed to affect the miners' union disastrously. The President would see that the miners' union was regarded and its regulations were carried out.

There would consequently be no operating of mines by non-union workmen, as is fatuously expected by the operators.

Secretary Root, who returned to Washington Saturday night, refused to discuss the interview with J. Pierpont Morgan Saturday, further than to say that he did not carry a message from the President to Mr. Morgan, and did not telegraph the President from New York as has been stated. The fact that Mr. Root does not now consider his conference with Mr. Morgan of any particular significance, seems to be apparent, as he did not see the President yesterday, and it is supposed that he did not have anything to communicate to the President indicating a speedy termination of the strike.

Secretary Root spent some time at the temporary White House last night in consultation with the President regarding the coal strike. Nothing could be ascertained as to what took place, the Secretary declining to say anything about his visit, and the officials at the White House are equally reticent.

Strikers Asked to Return.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 13.—The Elkes Company last night posted notices at its collieries at Pittston requesting all striking employes to return to work to-day. The company assured all men who returned ample protection. This is believed to be the first move on the part of the coal companies to break the strike under protection of the troops.

Some Coal Moving.

Reading, Pa., Oct. 13.—Four trains of washery and mined coal, consisting of 225 cars, equal to 6,750 tons, passed down the Reading road during Saturday night. The fuel is intended for sale to the company's employes, and for use in the locomotives. This was the heaviest shipment since last May, and is greater than Friday night's run, which was 189 cars.

To Remove Coal Duty.

New York, Oct. 13.—A special from Washington to The Tribune, says: One thing that the President has fully made up his mind to do is to recommend to Congress the total repeal of the duty on coal.

Three Boys Drowned.

Detroit, Oct. 13.—A Free Press special from Traverse City, Mich., says: Three boys of well-known families, Jack Corbett, aged 15; Elliott Ashman, aged 15, and Milans Morgan, aged 14, are supposed to have been drowned in Traverse Bay.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Dominion Government need not be a-freight of becoming unpopular over carrying Nova Scotia coal over the Intercolonial free of freight charges.

Autocracy in France used its powers so that the people starved.

The French Revolution was a suffering nation's radical cure for the disease of hunger.

Democracy in the United States is using its power so that the people may freeze.

Time alone can disclose the remedy which an infuriated populace will prescribe for the chills of a winter without coal.—Telegram.

The paternal action of the Dominion Government in providing for the carrying of coal free of freight on the Government Railway, the Intercolonial, for municipalities, is offensive to the coal dealers in cities, but it pleases the people. Contrary to the idea existing in some quarters a well regulated Government exists for the benefit of the people, and not to promote the success of certain business enterprises at the people's expense. A good Government is the people in concrete form.

Baer, the spokesman of the coal operators in the Pennsylvania coal region, has the contrary effect on the coal market that a bear does on the stock exchange. He kites it upward. He doesn't "bear" the market; he "hogs" it. Perhaps after all he is consistent in being contrary. He is a representative of the greatest hog combination on the continent, and a hog is known to be the most obstinate, contrary and selfish animal ever created.

The Seattle Times, an American journal, remarks:

"Bamfield Creek, British Columbia, has become a place on the map to be remembered. It is the Canadian landing place of the British Pacific telegraph cable, which will be in operation before a lot of people know it is being laid. Some of the commercial slowness charged against John Bull is due to the fact that when he is busy on a big job he holds his tongue about it."

This is quite true. While hustling Yankees are yet talking about their Pacific cable, the Canadians and British will be talking over their Pacific cable. Our American friends are no doubt full of enterprise and would be full of talk if they didn't let it out prematurely. If Jack Canuck and John Bull had merely boasted about what great thinks they were to do in laying a cable they would have made themselves ridiculous if they had confined themselves to talk. They did not talk, they worked and before long the cable will be completed, and we shall be able to exchange Christmas compliments, under two or three thousand leagues of Pacific ocean, with our cornstalk cousins in Australia. "'Brag' is a good dog but 'Holdfast' is a better."

SECRET OF OLD AGE.

When a man lives to be a hundred he has the privilege of telling how he did it. Some day the collected and sifted data of the centenarians may be of use to the world.

Darius Drake of Hebron, Conn., is the latest to give testimony. "I made my dead self my stepping-stone," says he, for one thing.

Broadly interpreted, this means that Mr. Drake has taken care of himself. Learning from experience and example the things likely to do him no good, he has done without them. So he has never drunk liquor and he stopped using tobacco years ago. He has made his life "a ministry of love." That is, he has found it more healthful to do good and to live at peace with men—governing his temper—than to submit to the exhausting effects of selfishness and strife.

This centenarian appears, then as the embodiment of the kindly, commonsensible citizen, more than a little above the average in the application of his common sense. He has neither overeaten nor starved himself for a fad; he has not worn himself out with work nor let himself degenerate through idleness; he has slept well, performed well, lived well, reasoned well and kept well, shunning worry and all phantoms. May the peace of his hundred years continue!—New York World.

WHAT ABOUT PEAT AS FUEL?

Many are the voices raised in the present turmoil of perplexity over our winter's fuel. Voices of doubt, of indignation and despair, but very rarely of hope, not often even of intelligent enquiry as to what is best to be done. It was one of Ik Marvel's dainty fancies, in his Reveries of a Bachelor, that "Smoke signifies doubt; fire signifies cheer, and ashes signifies desolation." And so, discarding the ashes and the smoke, with the feelings that they typify, let us see what cheer can be got out of a calmer survey of the situation. For whatever discomforts may threaten us, we cannot admit that Canadians are to be frozen stiff for for want of Pennsylvania coal.

We have grown in these days accustomed to certain things, and it goes hard to alter our habits. Nay, it is even hard for some persons to grant that life will be tolerable without these things. You tell people that you know of some who have successfully burned soft coal in a furnace, and they will reply that a dwelling so heated is not inhabitable by reason of smoke and smut. You venture to suggest that some people in Toronto whom you know are at this moment using peat in kitchen range and in grate, and your hearer retorts upon you that peat is a very inferior, yea, even a vulgar, not to say indigent, sort of fuel, unworthy the attention of gentlefolks. But "needs must when the devil drives," and these fine distinctions are out of place when real pressure for fuel comes upon us in the severity of a Canadian winter.

Something has been said in these pages already about the possible use of soft coal in case we cannot get hard—and from the attitude of the parties to the Pennsylvania industrial quarrel, it looks as if we should get no more into Canada this winter. It may be well now to concern ourselves with peat, of which Canada possesses great quantities. Quebec is rich in peat. We do not need to cite the 160 square miles of peat said to exist on the Anticosti island, or even the thousands of acres in the seignories of Isle Verte and Riviere Ouelle in Quebec or east of the Rimouski River. There are great quantities of peat near the river Richelieu; and a quarter of a century ago the Grand Trunk Railway locomotives burned thousands of tons per annum produced at St. Hubert or St. John's in the Eastern Townships, and there is plenty of it at Lanoraie and Lavaltrie on the north shore, near Montreal. But Ontario possesses rich beds of peat. Beginning with Gloucester Township, close to Ottawa, where the deposit is known as La Mer Bleue, (the Blue Sea) and coming west to Victoria County we find good peat bogs near Beaverton; plenty around Orangeville and further towards Georgian Bay; deposits near Stratford, and the well known peat bogs of Welland near the Niagara River.

True, the peat industries of 1874, and thereabout, did not prove markedly successful. At least they declined or were abandoned, as coal, both hard and soft, grew more easy to procure. A letter from a correspondent in Montreal throws some light on this. But it is very likely true that the machinery used in those days to prepare peat for market was faulty. And the question just now is one of an alternative or subsidiary fuel, to be available in a time of scarcity or dearness of coal. Much money has been spent trying to produce and sell merchantable peat in Ontario, as well as in Quebec. Still it is possible that the right method had not been reached by previous experimenters. We have heard of a process to be used this winter by a Mr. Spencer of Stratford, which is greatly lauded, but which seems to promise too much. Another peat industry, that of Mr. Dobson, at or near Beaverton, Ont., commends itself more to us. This man has been experimenting for some years and produces briquettes of peat sold for two or three winters at $4 per ton on the track, and burned in various towns, including Beaverton and Toronto at a cost ranging from $4 to $4.75 per ton. His machine, his own invention, is described to us as the best suited for the purpose of any yet tried. We remark in passing, what is greatly to Mr. Dobson's credit, if true, that he has refused a Toronto man's offer of $5 per ton on track, Beaverton, for two hundred tons of his briquettes, preferring to keep it for those Beaverton people who have patroned him.

Those who have used peat briquettes in their houses tell us that they are satisfactory and convenient as fuel for grate or kitchen stove, but not at all comparing with coal for furnace use. Of course the difference in heat units is to be borne in mind, for the heating power of peat is, we are told, to that of coal as 54 to 72. This means that 12 tons of coal will give as much heat as 16 tons of peat. With coal scarce and dear, with wood increasing in price as fuel, there remains gas, which must go up, as coal does, and peat, to be considered as heat makers. If Canada is not to remain a handmaiden to the United States and the coal barons thereof, it behooves her to make sensible and economical use of her own resources in this as in other directions.—Monetary Times.

WESTERN PROGRESS.

As an illustration of the sort of progress which is going on in the West, an Assinboia paper gives some facts about the typical community of Yorkton, in that Territory. The total storage capacity of the warehouses in that district three years ago was 12,000 bushels. At the present time 140,000 bushels can be stored, and before another year accommodation will be furnished for 280,000 bushels. This in addition to greatly increased private accommodation on the part of the farmer himself. Three years ago half a dozen threshing outfits had no trouble in handling the crop. To-day nearly 50 machines of greater capacity, are kept busy. Speaking roughly, the elevator space has increased tenfold, the threshing capacity in about the same ratio, while the total yield has increased nearly twentyfold. In 1899 the assessment of the Yorkton school district was two hundred and eighty thousand dollars. This year the assessment will be over five hundred thousand dollars. Land was worth $2 to $6 an acre three years ago; prices now range from $6 to $25.

NINTH ANNUAL MEETING

Of the W. M. S. of the Bay of Quinte District.

The ninth annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte Branch of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church was opened in the Methodist church at Campbellford on October 7th, at 10 a.m. The President, Mrs. G. D. Platt, spoke of the absence, through illness, of two of the Vice-Presidents, Mrs. A. R. Campbell and Mrs. Massey.

Peterborough reported by Mrs. Kilgour, who succeeds Mrs. Kendry. Auxiliaries 3, membership of District, 93. Funds raised, $338.67.

The Treasurer's report showed the total funds raised were $7016.56, an increase of $151.66 over last year.

The Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Grange, gave her annual report. She said the key-note this year was "Progress."

Ten new auxiliaries have been organized during the year, making now a total of 156 auxiliaries.

COAL STRIKE IN FRANCE.

Only One Man Killed in the Encounter at Terre Noire—"Yellows" Will Offer Resistance to Strikers.

Paris, Oct. 13.—It now appears that only one man was killed during the encounter at the Terre Noire coal field Oct. 10 between strikers and gendarmes, and that the victim was not connected with the strike. The miners' committee has issued a manifesto denouncing the killing of this man as murder, and attacking the Government for utilizing the gendarmes and soldiers against the strikers.

At a meeting of the non-union committee of the so-called "yellows" held in Paris Saturday, it was decided to offer vigorous resistance to attempts at intimidation by the strikers. The committee gave orders for the purchase of 600 revolvers and 45,000 cartridges.

Urging Dock Strike in France.

Marseilles, Oct. 13.—The secretary of the Dockers' Union here, has given notice to the miners' committee that he is sending a circular to all points in France and Algeria urging the dock laborers to refuse to unload any cargo of foreign coal, and calling for a referendum with a view to the cessation of all work upon the docks.

Result of Strikes.

London, Oct. 13.—The critical condition of the French mining strike caused a considerable inrush of coal orders to the Tyneside Saturday for France, but the American demand has much abated. A canvas of the coal brokers discounts the idea of any great excitement in the trade.

2,000 Federal Troops.

Berne, Switzerland, Oct. 13.—It is announced that Parliament has authorized the mobilization of 2,000 federal troops, and the Bundesrath ordered a regiment of federal infantry, a battalion of sharp shooters, a regiment of cavalry and two companies of engineers to be held in readiness for eventualities.

Geneva Strike Fails.

Geneva, Oct. 13.—The strike collapsed, the strikers syndicate having called upon all trades to resume work. The striking employes of the street car line resumed work last evening. There was some disturbances here Saturday night; shots from revolvers were fired, and a few persons were wounded, but yesterday there was complete tranquility in Geneva.

Belgian Miners' Demand.

Charleroi, Belgium, Oct. 13.— The National Committee of miners of four of the great Belgian coal fields met yesterday and passed resolutions in favor of demanding an increase of 15 per cent. in the wages of coal miners, the object of the demand being to create a diversion in favor of the striking coal miners in France.

SETTLED BY MEDIATION.

New Orleans Street Car Men Will Now Go Back to Work.

New Orleans, Oct. 13.—The strike of the dissatisfied employes of the New Orleans Railway Company was settled last night, the car men's union on a secret ballot unanimously accepting the governor's ultimatum.

The basis of settlement is that the men will go back to work this morning at 20 cents. 10 hours to be a day's work, with a minimum of 7½ hours a day, no discrimination to be made against any of the men under charges, and as many to be taken back as are needed for the operation of the company's lines.

There is widespread rejoicing in the city over the settlement of the strike.

Moulders' Strike Settled.

St. Catharines, Oct. 13.—The strike at the McKinnon Dash and Metal Works has been settled. L. E. McKinnon met the moulders, who stated their grievances, when after some discussion an amicable agreement was arrived at by which the men will go to work Monday morning. The result, while not exactly what was asked for, is satisfactory to the men.

Turkey's Deal With Russia.

London, Oct. 13. — It is reported that Turkey has consented to the free passage of Russian warships through the Dardanelles while maintaining a prohibition against other powers. The expected denial from Turkish sources finds less credence than the original report. An announcement of this concession to Russia would be tantamount to the abrogation of the Treaty of Berlin, which Great Britain especially would regard with the greatest concern. It is known that Turkey has permitted two Russian warships to pass the Dardanelles within a few days.

Millionaires Shooting.

Winnipeg, Oct. 13.—Three of Canada's leading financial magnets arrived in the city from Montreal by Saturday's train. The party included Mr. R. B. Angus, a director of the C.P.R.; Mr. James Ross, president of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company, and Senator L. J. Forget, president of the Montreal Street Railway. They have come west for the purpose of doing some shooting.

Said to Be Alive.

Hamilton, Oct. 13.—The report of the commission appointed to take testimony in the suit of Roderick v. Knights of Maccabees, will be opened to-day at the Court House. Mrs. Francis Roderick, sued the order for $2,000 insurance on the life of her husband, who mysteriously disappeared from the city about eight years ago. She claimed she had never heard from him and believed him to be dead. The commission, it is understood, has reported that Roderick is alive in Everett, Washington Territory.

Valuable Advice to Mothers.

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness off any kind, the first thing get your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25 cents.

A REDEEMING FEATURE.

Sir Francis Treves, King's Surgeon, Says a Good Word for the Disease Known Generally as Peritonitis.

London, Oct. 12.—Sir Francis Treves, one of the surgeons to the King during his recent illness, delivered an address on modern surgery at the Liverpool University College yesterday, in which he demonstrated in language which was not technical and in better shape than any of his recent utterances the nature of the revolution of medical and surgical science within this generation.

The old idea, he said, was that every symptom of disease was wholly noxious and needed to be stamped out by violence. If the patient vomited, the vomiting must be stopped. If he coughed, the cough must cease. If he failed to take food, he must be made to eat. Not for a moment could it be considered that there was any benevolent purpose in these phenomena.

Not only was there nothing preternatural in the disease, but it was the custom of natural processes, and there were evidences to show that many of its manifestations and methods were marked by purpose and that purpose a beneficent one. The time will come when many so-called symptom disease expressions would be recognised as the natural effort toward a cure. This might be followed in connection with the symptoms of the disease familiar by the uncouth name of appendicitis, where trouble occurred in the appendix wall of the little tube which became perforated and poison found its way into the sensitive cavity of the abdomen. The perforation was sudden and accidental, and might be preceded by no warning sign. The manifestations which followed are termed symptoms of peritonitis. They are distressing and urgent, but are all benevolent in intent, and the outcome of nature's vigorous effort to minimize a calamity and save the patient's life.

Intense pain and collapse imposed upon the victim absolute rest, and, more than that, enforced rest in the most advantageous posture of recumbency. He is rendered helpless at the moment when any movement might be attended with disaster. His sickness and nausea which attended it secured the emptying of the alimentary canal, and this forbade the introduction of fresh material into the intestine, which was best placed for recovery. When least occupied the skin of the abdomen became acutely sensitive, and so protected the damaged parts from disturbance and pressure. This was most necessary, and was further secured by another symptom—the remarkable rigidity of the abdominal wall and the manifestations of peritonitis which begin to appear.

Peritonitis, the professor says, is commonly spoken of as one of the most deadly and malignant of calamities. Never was a condition more unjustly abused. The phenomena of peritonitis should be hailed with thankfulness. Peritonitis is concerned only in affecting a good many symptoms of disease. Instead of being pounded out of the body as wholly pernicious, it should be regarded as a means of guiding a physician in the treatment which he should adopt.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. Premier Bond Still Negotiating.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 13.—The fact that Sir Robert Bond, Premier of Newfoundland, still remains at Washington, encourages the hope here that he will succeed in effecting a reciprocity arrangement with the United States on the basis of the Bond-Blaine convention. In spite of the reports that Premier Bond has failed in his mission, nothing has yet arisen to warrant such a conclusion.

A Young Montreal Man Killed on Sunday at North Bay.

THREE TROLLEY ACCIDENTS.

Mrs. Cleghorn Killed by Street Car in Toronto—An Uxbridge Man Badly Hurt and an Unknown Who Cannot Recover—Crushed to Death by the Fall of a Smokestack.

Up to date the coal strike has cost $135,970,000.

David Warwick, a Red Deer, Alberto, resident, was dragged to death through being thrown from a broncho.

Out of ten million bushels of wheat received at Port Arthur and Fort William, only 2,432,050 have been shipped out by boat.

Mayor Seitz of Plum Coulee, Man., was caught in his separator, and his hand was torn off. He also received other severe injuries.

Emperor William has bestowed the decoration of the Prussian Royal Order o, the Crown of the First Class upon Capt. Sverdrup, the Arctic explorer.

George Oram, an unmarried man living with his mother in Belleville, attempted suicide by hanging on Friday night. He was cut down in time to prevent strangulation.

Saturday some children who had lighted a brazier in a field near Louvain, Belgium, amused themselves by throwing a boy of four years into it. The child was roasted alive.

A man named Campbell, employed in erecting a sawmill at Fort Frances, was instantly crushed to death by the fall of the smokestack. Deceased's home is at Seaforth.

Chas. McLean, jun., youngest son of Mr. Chas. McLean of McLean, Kennedy Co., shipping agents, Montreal, was accidentally shot and killed while hunting Sunday at North Bay.

In the district of Beauce a regular snow storm on Thursday last covered the ground for three inches on the level, while in some places more exposed, it attained a depth of 8 and 10 inches.

His Royal Highness, the Crown Prince of Siam, accompanied by his suite, reached Washington, by special train Saturday. During their stay there they will be the guests of the nation.

Senator J. C. Aikens is lying seriously ill at his residence, 19 Wellesley street, Toronto. On Thursday last he had a severe attack, from which he has not rallied, and a fatal ending is feared.

Count Eugen Esterhazy has created a sensation at Vienna by retiring from the Order of the Jesuits and beginning legal proceedings to recover his fortune of $175,000, which he gave to the society on joining it in 1885.

Mrs. Jane Cleghorn, 72 years of age, died in the Emergency Hospital, Toronto, at 11 o'clock on Saturday night from injuries received by being run down by a street car. Coroner W. H. B. Aikins will investigate the death.

An express train ran into a wrecked freight train near Barre, near Petersburg, Pa., early Sunday morning. The passenger engineer and baggageman were killed instantly, and the passenger fireman was possibly fatally injured.

Lord Rosebery Saturday afternoon unveiled a statute of Mr. Gladstone in George Square, Glasgow, representing the statesman as attired in the robes of Lord Rector of Glasgow University. Lord Rosebery made an eloquent address.

Mrs. John Weaver of Binbrook, while mentally unbalanced, left her home on Thursday, and was found dead near the Twenty-Mile Creek. She had choked herself to death with her apron. She was 35 years old, and leaves a husband and two children.

Burglars succeeded in breaking into three stores at Brighton, Ont., Saturday, owned by E. Biby, S. G. M. Nesbitt, E. C. Brown, also the residences of T. C. Lockwood, postmaster and W. H. Brooks. The peculiar part of it is that nothing seems to have been taken.

John D. Forsyth, a young man living at Uxbridge, in attempting to board the front platform of a car at Yonge and Richmond streets at 7.-15 on Saturday night fell and sustained a painful wound over the left eye. He narrowly escaped getting beneath the wheels of the car.

To Frederick Thoerfell, who has lived for a year and a half with a broken neck, $35,000 damages against the Union Traction Company, Chicago, was awarded Saturday by a jury in John Kavanaugh's court. He is now obliged to wear a framework to support his head.

An unknown man was brought to the Emergency Hospital, Toronto, Saturday night in an unconscious condition, due to severe concussion of the brain. He had leaned over the street car railing, and a car passed and struck him on the head. The doctors hold out no hopes of his recovery.

C. Webster, employed at Kinleith Paper Mills, St. Catharines, met with a probably fatal accident while at work on Friday night. Something went wrong with a safety valve on top of the boiler, and he mounted a step-ladder to adjust the valve. While doing so the steam blew out in his face and in his hurry to get out of the way he lost his footing and fell to the floor. His head struck the floor and he received a gash about six or eight inches long. He was taken home, but the doctors hold out no hopes of recovery.

A Burden to Self and Others.

"Take care of your health; you have no right to neglect it, and thus become a burden to yourself, and perhaps to others." When the liver gets sluggish, the kidneys inactive and the bowels constipated, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will very promptly set your filtering and excretory system in perfect order, and insure good digestion and perfect health. There is no medicine so generally used and none so successful. One pill a dose.; 25 cents a box.

A GOOD DEAL OF NONSENSE

About "Blood Purifiers" and "Tonics."

Every drop of blood, every bone, nerve and tissue in the body, can be renewed in but one way, and that is, from wholesome food, properly digested. There is no other way, and the idea that a medicine in itself can purify the blood or supply new tissues and strong nerves is ridiculous, and on a par with the fol-de-rol that dyspepsia or indigestion is a germ disease, or that other fallacy that a weak stomach which refuses to digest food can be made to do so by irritating and inflaming the bowels by pills and cathartics.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure indigestion, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive principles which weak stomachs lack, and unless the deficiency of pepsin and diastase is supplied it is useless to attempt to cure stomach troubles by the use of "tonics," "pills," and "cathartics," which have absolutely no digestive power, and their only effect is to give a temporary stimulation.

One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Digestive Tablets will digest 3000 grains of meat, eggs and similar foods, and experiments have shown that they will do this in a glass of water at proper temperature, but of course are much more effective in the stomach.

There is probably no remedy so universally used as Stuart's Tablets because it is not only the sick and ailing but well people that use them at every meal to insure perfect digestion and assimilation of the food.

People who enjoy fair health take Stuart's Tablets as regularly as they take their meals, because they want to keep well; prevention is better than cure, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do both; they prevent indigestion and they remove it where it exists. The regular use of one or two of them after meals will demonstrate their merit and efficiency better than any other argument.

ELECTION APPEALS DROPPED.

Ten More Safe in Their Seats—Dates For Trials Fixed.

Toronto, Oct. 18.—At Osgoode Hall, on Saturday Justices MacLennan and Street fixed the following dates for election trials:

North Grey v. A. G. McKay (Liberal), postponed from Oct. 28 to Nov. 11, at Owen Sound.

Glengarry v. John W. D. McLeod (Conservative), at Cornwall, on Nov. 11. Cross-petition against D. M. McPherson (Liberal).

There were also on the list 10 other cases, but counsel was unable to say whether they were ready to go on, or not.

All were dismissed. They were as follows, the names denoting the respondent:

East Wellington—Hon. J. M. Gibson.

North Ontario—William H. Hoyle.

North Waterloo—Dr. H. G. Lackner.

Sault Ste. Marie—Andrew Miscampbell.

North York and cross—Hon. E. J. Davis.

Centre Bruce and cross—John M. Stewart.

Frontenac and cross—W. J. Shibley.

Kingston and cross — John M. Shaw.

Halton and cross—John R. Barber.

Sultan Writes a Book.

Vienna, Oct. 13.—Die Information yesterday asserted that the Sultan has written an autobiography which will fall on the civilized world like a bombshell. Abdul, the paper says, in his work has exposed the duplicity of Christian monarchs and statesmen who have deceived one another to gain the Sultan's favor. He lays bare the diplomatic secrets of the past twenty-five years, and denounces the hypocrisy of Christian civilization.

The work, according to Die Information, will be published after the Sultan's death as a posthumous revenge on Europe.

Squandered a Fortune.

How often we hear the expression, notwithstanding the fact that those who use it are perhaps spending their money foolishly in medicines which only give relief without removing the cause. Merrill's System Tonic cures heart, stomach, kidney, nerve and liver troubles—because by purifying the blood, regulating the bowels and toning each of these organs the cause of disease is removed. Price 50c. per bottle, at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

Toews Is Dying.

Winnipeg, Oct. 13.—Henry Toews, the Altona murderer, still lies in a precarious condition in the General Hospital. Some semblance of a guard is kept over him, but it is scarcely necessary, for he lies in a semi-unconscious condition. He has taken no nourishment since his arrival, and it is not thought that he can recover.

Later.—Toews will probably recover. He is under treatment at the General Hospital here, and has recovered consciousness, but refuses to talk of the tragedy.

King Edward Plays Golf.

New York, Oct. 13.—The Herald's London correspondent cables: King Edward, who is the guest of Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar in North Berwick, made his appearance upon the golf links early Saturday morning. 7 His participation in several matches is taken as certain proof of his complete return to health. As a golfer the King is no novice.

The Girl and the Pimple.

Newspapers contained last year the account of a girl who committed suicide, because she had a pimple on her face. Merrill's System Tonic from its blood purifying and blood strengthening qualities cures not only Pimples but Blotches of all kinds, also Scrofula, Eczema and Salt Rheum. Three week's treatment 50 cents. Sold by Ormond and Walsh.

FARMER IS NOT SO SLOW.

Man From the Country Heats the Cheap From the Centres of Population.

Don't laugh at the man from the country who comes to town without a patent leather shine. That team of his have got it on their harness.

Don't laugh because he gapes at a horseless carriage. Ten to one you wouldn't know a harrow from a hay-rake, or an Ayrshire from a Holstein.

Don't give him the merry ha-ha because he wears a five-dollar suit. It is paid for, and he hates tailor bills worse than the devil.

Don't swell yourself and call him a pumpkin because he cuts the sweat from his brow with his forefinger instead of a silk wipe. That sweat fertilizes the ground 60 bushels to the acre and feeds the world. Go out in your 10x6 back yard, cut down the weeds, tidy up, raise a blister and complain to your wife what a slave you are.

Go to, ye scoffers, who rail at the man in the country and call him Rube.

Compare.

Do you have that stone-in-your-crop feeling after meals? Take a pill, then look at the farmer and pity yourself. He doesn't even know what the word indigestion means. Give him a dictionary and he would think he was hunting for a Latin quotation.

His boss?

Time checks?

Pay days?

Crowded store workshop?

Strike?

The farmer bossed, putting in a time-check, waiting for pay-day—well hardly;

His own boss, the only cheque he knows about is that paper one from the grain buyer, and the leather one over the neck of the colt he is breaking. Every day is pay-day with him drawing on the soil in summer and the bush in winter. Lucky chap, got two banks, both founded on God.

His workshop the acres, perhaps 300 of them, where, roofed by the sweeping skies, served by the sun seasons, tickling the soil, and watching the earth laugh grain, he is master of the situation and doesn't know it.

True, his boots are headed with the dew of dawn, and his shirt damp with the moisture of the gloaming, but his soul is as sound as the great tree that shelters his stock in the open.

Crowded, yes; sometimes the barn cries enough, and he stacks beside it.

And when the lean year comes and the world is chastened, when homes are wrecked and suicide made by a stroke of the ticker, when panic is in the air and poverty pinches, when the black flag floats to a peaked wind, when the cry for bread goes up from starving, then he kills a hog and is happy, and his wife innocently throws the liberal sweepings from her table to the chickens.

Envy the farmer. Perhaps we are the Rubes.—Ridgetown, Ont., Plaindealer.

YESTERDAY'S FIRE.

Blaze in Dickson Company's Lumber Yard, Ashburnham.

Early yesterday morning fire was discovered in the lumber which the Dickson Company has piled along the McAllister race way. The fire is thought to have been of incendiary origin and was started beneath a pile of partly green lumber, otherwise the fire would have gained much greater headway.

The prompt action of the Peterborough Fire Brigade prevented the fire from spreading, and it was extinguished after burning a small pile.

The loss, which is covered by insurance, was between two and three hundred dollars.

A BRACE OF BYLAWS

That Will be Submitted to the Ratepayers Shortly.

Town Solicitor E. H. D. Hall is busy preparing several bylaws, which will, in the course of time, be submitted to the ratepayers of the town for ratification. Two of the bylaws are relative to the location in Peterborough of two manufacturing institutions, reference to which has been made in the Examiner. One bylaw has reference to the concessions that are being offered to the Colonial Weaving Company, and goes on to say that it shall be legal for the corporation to borrow the sum of $2,500, and to issue the debentures of the Town of Peterborough for the said sum of $2,500, payable within 20 years at the rate of 4 per cent., providing that the said Colonial Weaving Company shall within 90 days commence the erection of a brick building, and shall have completed the same, etc., and employ at least 30 hands by the first day of October, 1903. The bylaw, after reciting conditions of a minor nature, states that the assessment of the said lands and buildings, machinery, etc., shall be fixed at the sum of $2,500, for a period of ten years from Jan. 1, 1903.

The other bylaw referred to is that of the Shelton Manufacturing Company. The terms which the Shelton people asked, where published in the Examiner some time ago, and the bylaw is based on those terms in a somewhat modified form.

STILL ANOTHER.

Mr. Culverwell Says That he has Another Manufacturer in Town.

Mr. J. Alex. Culverwell is in town to-day. Mr. Culverwell announces that he has about completed arrangements with the manager of a large granite firm to visit Peterborough with a view of looking over the advantages the town possesses as a manufacturing centre. Mr. Culverwell has strong reasons to believe that the concern, which will employ at least fifty skilled hands, will locate in Peterborough, provided the town offers them even slight inducements.

A PRESENTATION.

The Employees of the Porcelain Works Remember Miss Hall.

Miss Annie Hall, who for some time has been an employee of the Porcelain Department of the Canadian General Electric Works, and who has severed her connection therewith, was on Friday last presented with an address and a handsome watch by her fellow employees of the porcelain works. The address was read by Miss Gladys Henderson and the presentation was made by Miss Addie Thompson. The address was as follows:

Miss Annie Hall:

Having taken your departure from us, as employees of the C. G. E. Porcelain Works, we take the opportunity of expressing to you our deep and sincere regret.

During the eleven years that you have been with us, your acquaintance and association has been of a most pleasant and agreeable character, and we have also proved that it has been your greatest aim to ever give a helping hand, and one and all of us have been benefitted by it, but trusting our loss will be your gain. We also desire that you should carry away with you the assurance that we earnestly wish you every success in your new position.

We trust that you will accept this watch as a slight token of our appreciattion and esteem and an expression of our good will towards you, and that it will cause your thoughts to wander back to us as your fellow workers with you of the C. G. E. Porcelain Works.

Signed on behalf of your fellow workers of the C. G. E. Porcelain Works,

J. A. BROWN,
W. A. GREENSLADE.
